Co-Operative Dairy Proposed in Hastings

Farmers Meeting This Week At Several Points to Discuss Project.

MARMORA, March 31—There is a proposal that dairy farmers in Hastings and adjoining counties who run their own cheese factories should extend their operations to form a large central co-operative farmers' dairy company for the purpose of taking over and operating co-operatively as many factories as possible. The plan is to operate along the lines that grain growers in Western Canada own and operate their elevators. In order to bring the matter clearly before the people of the district public meetings are being held here and at Springbank, Tweed, Wellman's Corners and other places this week. Among the well-known speakers are John Kennedy of Winnipeg, Vice-President of the United Crain Growers Limited, of Winnipeg and Calgary; Mr. H. B. Cowan, Peterboro; E. V. Hoover, Stirling, County Director of the U. F. O., and other local men.

Kaiser Bill And Little Willie in Court

PARIS, March 31—Former Emperor William and former Crown Prince Frederick William will be among those who will be tried by the High Court which the German national assembly will create, Paris newspapers say. Former Foreign Minister Zimmermann also will be brought before the court.

A Berlin despatch Thursday reported that the German government would create a court of investigation for Germans accused of crimes during the war and who had requested investigation of their cases.

It was said that the court would try General Ludendorff, Admiral Tirpitz, former Chancellor Bethmann, Hollweg, former Foreign Minister von Jagow and others.

Corpse Found : May Be Murder

TORONTO, April 1—What may possibly prove to be a case of murder was revealed yesterday morning, when the body of R. J. Spence, a commercial traveller, evidently employed by the Dustless Brush Company, 29 Colborne Street, was found at the mouth of the culvert on Queen Street half a mile west of Humber Bay. The body was in such a position that the police are of the opinion that the man could not have got there himself. There were no marks of a struggle, and no evidence of violence on the body. On what evidently was the man's own handkerchief a strong odor of drugs was detected.

C. N. R. Chief Engineer Killed By Snowslide In Rockies

ALLEN T. FRASER, CHIEF ENGINEER CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM, MEETS DEATH WHILE INVESTIGATING SNOWSLIDE IN YELLOWHEAD PASS—WAS PASSENGER ON TRAIN STALLED BY SNOW AND WENT AHEAD WITH SECTION GANG—DEAD WHEN DUG OUT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

EDMONTON, Alberta, April 1.—Allen T. Fraser, aged 45, Chief Engineer of the Canadian Northern Railway system, was killed on Sunday by a snowslide near Mount Robson, in the Yellowhead Pass through the Rockies. Mr. Fraser's train was stopped by a slide and he went ahead with a section gang to make investigation. Another slide buried them all. The section men were dug out all practically uninjured, but Mr. Fraser was dead when they reached him.

Threatened Lives Of Anti-Liquor Men

RICHMOND, Va., March 31.—The mob at Winchester, which threatened the lives of prohibiton agents for shooting two liquor runners dispersed without violence.

Officials, watching for whiskey runners, shot and killed R. C. Shackleford and wounded L. D. Hudson, when the autorists resisted search. W. C. Hall member of the prohibition commissioners' staff, claims the autorists fired first and that his men returned their fire in self defense.

Two hundred and thirty-nine quarts of whiskey were found in the car.

Hudson claims the officers tried to search the car without a warrant and Schackelford started to drive on when they were fired on from both sides of the road. Hudson says neither he ner Schackelford used their weapons.

MANICURED HANDS BETRAY AUSTRIAN GRAND DUKE

GENEVA, April 1—Two persons dressed as peasants, who were trying to cross the Hungarian frontier into Germany, were betrayed by their hands, which were out of keeping with the costumes they wore. Their fingernails were manicured and the hands generally clean and showing no signs of hard work.

The Socialist Comandant, Herr. Keszthelg, sent the arrested men to Budapest, where they were identified as the former Archduke Joseph Francis and a former milloeriani estaoion cis and a former millionaire named eign Minister, ordered both men imprisoned.

Dangerous To Operate Trains On Different Time From U. S.

DOMINION RAILWAY BOARD HEARS ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF CHANGE TO DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME ON CANADIAN RAILWAYS TO CONFORM WITH UNITED STATES TIME—CONTINUING TO OPERATE TRAINS ON STANDARD TIME WOULD MEAN LOSS OF OVER TWO MILLION HOURS BY PASSENGERS, SAYS RAILWAY EXPERT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press Limited

OTTAWA, April 1—Dominion Railway Commission to-day heard officials of the Railway War Board and railway companies explain why they adopted daylight saving time, the argument being generally put forth that both the convenience and safety of passengers and freight on Canadian lines made it necessary to fall in line with the United States. Secretary Neal, representing the Railway War Board, emphasized the difficulties in international traffic and figured out that the maintainence of different time from the United States would mean loss of over two million hours by passengers on Canadian lines Experts agreed, also, he said, it would be distinctly dangerous to operate trains with different time in States from Canada.

After hearing officials of the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk Railways, as well as Mr. W. M. Neal, representing the Canadian Railway War Board, Sir Henry Drayton adjourned the hearing at one o'clock (daylight saving time) until half past two this afternoon, when other witnesses will be heard.

The commissioners have received telegrams from about thirty-five municipalities, cities and towns in the country endorsing daylight saving.

License Board To Sell Liquor

Preparations Made for Government to Take Over Business.

TORONTO, April 1.—While the amendments to the O.T.A. giving the Ontario Government control of the sale of liquor in the Province have not been introduced in the Legislature as yet, preparations are quietly going on whereby the License Board will be ready to undertake the work whenever the change comes into effect—likely May 1. Mr. J. F. G. Cornell, one of the two Government liquor vendors in Toronto, whose warehouse has been at 110 Church street, has taken over the large building at 29 Front street. It is understood that this warehouse will be used by the Province as a storehouse when it takes over control of the sale of liquor.

Flew 40 Miles In 21 Minutes

TORONTO, April 1—Hamilton to Toronto in twenty-one minutes in a three-passenger airplane was the remarkable flight made by Pilot Younghusband, accompanied by the owner of the machine, Mr. Proctor of Hamilton, and Mr. F. G. Ericson of this city.

The flight was made on Sunday afternoon from the Scott barracks in Hamilton to Leaside Camp, and the time in "taking off" and landing was included in the record of the flight. The machine when it was once properly under way was flown directly for Toronto at a high altitude, [illegible] nearly 95 miles an hour.

The machine is one of those that was taken over from the R. A. F. by Mr. Ericson, and an additional seat placed in it for another passenger. Some days ago the machine was sold to Mr. Proctor, who intends to use it to fly between Hamilton and Toronto and for pleasure purposes. Mr Proctor will use the aviation fields in the city to land, and is to use a field close to the Toronto-Hamilton highway at a point easily accessible to the city of Hamilton, as his home landing-place. He will erect an airdrome to house the machine.

Helping To Solve Housing Problem

TORONTO, April 1.—Regulations under the Ontario Housing Act, which became law a few days ago, were promulgated by Mr. J. A. Ellis, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs These provide that in a municipality which has building by-laws all houses shall be erected in accordance with the restrictions, provided that the minimum requirements regarding general provisions and housing standards of the Province shall take precedence over the provisions of the building bylaws of municipalities where such provisions fall below the minimum requirements and housing standards of the Province. It is also provided that a house erected under the provisions of the Act shall not be converted into a store or used for any purpose other than a dwelling, except with the approval of the Municipal Housing Commission.

Special regulations had to be made for farmers who desire to avail themselves of the Act, as they may borrow direct from the Government, and not through the Municipal Commissions. Before making application to the Director for a loan a farmer must designate and set aside a piece of good agricultural land, not less than one acre in extent, immediately adjacent to the proposed dwelling house, for the use of the occupant of such dwelling house. Plans, specifications and an estimate of the cost of construction must be submitted to the Director for approval.

A farmer obtaining a loan must give a first mortgage on the whole of his farm to the Commission as security. With the approval of the Director however, such mortgage may be given upon part of the farm. Likewise, with the approval of the Director, a second mortgage may be given upon the whole farm.

The mortgage must contain covenants by the farmer to keep the house in repair and to pay taxes and other rates of insurance.

Reign Of Terror In Budapest Food For Ten Days Only

COMMUNISTS USURP POWER IN BUDAPEST WITH SERIOUS RESULTS — FOOD AND COAL SCARCE — POPULATION HOPES FOR ALLIED INTERVENTION—FOOD STOCKS SUFFICIENT FOR TEN DAYS ONLY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PRAGUE, April 1.—The Communists have set up a reign of terror in Budapest. The stocks of food in the Hungarian capital are sufficient for only ten days and only three hundred head of cattle are coming into the city [illegible] of the normal 3,500. Famine is feared while the coal situation is also a grievance. The population of Budapest hopes for intervention by the Allies.

Chicago Election Bitterly Fought

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Men and women balloted for mayor and other city offices today, after a campaign said to be the most bitter in the history of the municipality. With six candidates in the field for mayor, partisan, religious and racial hatred flamed high during the campaign, [illegible] last night with riotous scenes in the central district, which extra police details had difficulty in controlling at times. The candidates for mayor are William Hale Thompson, [illegible] incumbent; [illegible] M. Sweitzer, Democrat; Maclay Hoyne, Independent Democrat; John Fitzpatrick, Labor, president [illegible] of Labor; [illegible] M. Collins, Socialist; Adolph S. Carm, Labor. Each of the four leading candidates claims his election today, although political forecasters say they are [illegible] to make anything like a [illegible] among the propositions appearing on the ballot. Accompanying the mayoralty ballot is the proposition: "Shall Chicago become anti-saloon territory?" This proposition was not allowed on the ballot at the last election.

Is Sure Shield Of The Empire

British Navy Has Been and is Protector Against all Foes.

LIVERPOOL, April 1.—England's navy must be prepared for the future, said [illegible] Admiral Sir David Beatty, Commander of the Grand Fleet, here on the services of the navy during the war.

"The navy learned many lessons during the four and a half years just past," he said. "We made many mistakes, and it is our business to see that those lessons are taken to heart, and that we shall not again be found in such a state that we have to face the greatest crisis with improvised methods, working hand to mouth."

Admiral Beatty paid a tribute to the efforts of Liverpool in fitting out the famous tenth cruiser squadron, which during the war maintained the rigorous blockade of Germany.

"That blockade," he added, "was one of the most important factors in bringing about the defeat of the enemy. [illegible] demanded seamanship of a high order, with vigilant, untiring devotion to duty. Stretched across the waste of waters from west of the Hebrides to the Arctic ice fields, these ships kept their watch [illegible] in weather that had to be [illegible] to be understood. Every ship sighted had to be boarded and examined. The [illegible] had also to contend with an enemy [illegible] ed in many guises. [illegible] aded as peaceful merchantmen, blockade runners exercise every stratagem to evade detection, and the submarine [illegible] a constant menace."

"We of the navy know well our own defects, and it is our business to [illegible] them to avoid the repetition of mistakes [illegible] which we suffered in the past. The work of reconstruction has to be taken [illegible] knowledge of our requirements, learned by bitter experience in the past four and a half years. It must be our endeavor to profit by that experience.

"The navy is today, what it has been for the past 200 years, the sure shield of Great Britain and the British Empire. That sure shield must be kept sure by clear thinking and concerted effort on scientific lines. With the necessary struggle for retrenchment, such economies as certainly will be required must be applied with wisdom and a proper understanding of the problems before in the light of knowlege, gained during the war. Only so shall we be able to avoid impairing the essential efficiency of the navy.

Not Rattling Sabre."

"The navy is a shield, and not a rattling sabre. The navy and the mercantile marine have learned to know and respect each other as never before. It must be their care to foster and strengthen that feeling so that in future and for all time the Royal navy and mercantil marine together will provide a sure shield which will enable the Empire to continue to prosper."

IT HAPPENED IN BELLEVILLE

ALL FOOLS' DAY.

All Fools' Day" uncovered the usual army of merry jokers, not quite so pronounced or original, perhaps, as in the "good old days when we were young," but sufficient to revive more or less pleasant memories of the past when our youthful toes were shocked by violent contact with a brick under a hat temptingly placed for the unwary on the old board walk leading to the old school house.

Why is it that there is an irresistible temptation to kick a vagrant hat? Guess we must all be natural born kickers.

Coat-tail placards were not numerous today but an occasional pedestrian was noticed unconsciously bearing the announcement "MARKED DOWN TO $3.98," or "APRIL FOOL," or "KICK ME," or some such nonsense.

Some young ladies sent out fake invitations to young men for mythical social events and engagements were made for meetings tonight which the fair sex have no intention of keeping.

One young man was called up on the telephone this morning and a sweet young voice inquired if he was going across the river at noon. He said "Yes; WHY?" "Fall in, you simp. April Fool!" came the mocking reply.

In the factories and stores April fooling created many laughs and no one objected to being fooled, but tried in turn to fool his or her neighbor.

Tomorrow if anyone tries to repeat on today's April fool license please remember that

April Fool is past, and You're the Biggest Fool at last!

Students' Night At Bridge St. Church

Annual Reception to Students, of City Educational Institutions—Happy Occasion.

Students Night at Bridge Street Church, a time honored annual custom, which has not been observed for the past two years, was revived last evening with excellent results. The event takes the form of a reception to all the students of the various local educational institutions and is a get-acquainted occasion of great helpfulness. The Social and Literary Department of the Young People's Society of Bridge Street Methodist Church, who had charge of the arrangements, deserves great credit for the success of the evening.

Over five hundred students were present from Albert College, Ontario Business College and High School, and all had a very enjoyable evening. The Sunday School parlors, prettily decorated for the occasion, were utilized.

The comfort and entertainment of the guests of the evening, the students of the city, was the first thought of the church young people and the guests entered through the church auditorium, descending to the Sunday-School room, where they were received by Rev. Dr. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Wotten, and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Deacon.

A program at once unique and satisfying was presented, and any attitude of reserve manifested at first was speedily dissolved in a genial flow of happy friendship, general jollity and get-acquaintedness. The promenades were highly enjoyed and are a very helpful means to encourage the get-together spirit.

Mr. F. R. Wotten acted as chairman, and put pep into this staid, old position, much appreciated. A kindly welcome was extended by Rev. Dr. Scott, pastor of the church in his usual genial manner and everybody at once began to feel at home. A reading by Miss Stewart and violin solo by Miss Joy Higgs, were charmingly given and Messrs. Staples and Anglin entertained as only they can with vocal solos. Every program number was encored, and the entertainers were very generous. Four promenades were held before the program and four afterwards; after the program dainty refreshments of coffee and cake were served.

The officers of the Young People's Society who had charge of the event are:

President—Mr. F. R. Wotten.
Secretary—Miss Irene Moore.
Treasurer—Fred Deacon, Jr.
Sunday School Superintendent—Mr. F. S. Deacon.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

She was sudednly brought to a stop by a crowd of people that filled up the sidewalk in front of the large window. There was a picture on exhibition there, and Faith, after running into one or two people, seeing what was the object of attraction, stopped herself, and gradually was pushed up to the window as the crowd went and came.

It was an oil painting, with life-size figures, representing the deck of an ocean steamer. A man was holding a baby in his arms, and the baby was looking up into the man's face and smiling. The title of the picture in gilt leters on the frame was simply "Motherless."

It was one of those pictures that appeal to a common humanity, and the crowd on the sidewalk was irresistibly drawn to it. But the effect on Faith was electrical. As soons as she had seen the face of the man on the canvas, she exclaimed aloud, "Why that's father!"

Those nearest her looked at her in surprise. She checked herself and was silent. But there before her was the likeness of Malcolm Kirk as she had seen him in the sketch her mother had often shown her. And the story of the baby whose mother had died in mid-ocean was familiar to all the children at home.

See looked at the corner of the canvas and saw the artist's name, Francis Raleigh. A card in the window announced the fact that the picture was sold, and that the artist's studio was in one of the new blocks on Randolph street.

Faith pushed out of the crowd and went on her way. But the picture affected her deeply. The sight of the dear father protecting that motherless baby made her cry. And it also strengthened her purpose not to appeal for financial help from home. She could not have told why that feeling accompanied her sight of the picture. But it did, and she determined she would make every effort to support herself without help from her home.

The end of the following week found her without a place, and as she came away from the studio that Saturday evening she realized, as never before in her life, what it meant to a girl without any friends or a home to face a great city without work or means. She knew that she could go home at any time, or get help from that source if she asked for it. But how about the great army of unemployed that had not even that resort? She shivered as she turned down towards the great artery of the city's human traffic ,and was swept along with it.

She went up by the window where the picture was still on exhibition, and there was the usual crowd in front of it.

She stopped again and looked hungrily at it. It was like getting a glimpse into the dear home circle in the parsonage at Conrad.

It was, perhaps, a little strange that she had not entertained the idea of calling at Raleigh's studio and telling him that she was the daughter of his subject in the picture. But Faith was very shy in some ways and she simply never thought of trying to meet the artist.

As she stood there this Saturday night, two men in the crowd were talking about the picture. They stood so near her that she could not help hearing what they said.

"We can leave it there another week."

"When do you start west?"

"The last of next month."

"Better leave it till then."

"I think so, too. But what a force it has, Malcolm."

The man who spoke was a middle-aged, gray-bearded gentlemen, and the man whom he called "Malcolm" was, perhaps, twenty-five years old, a stalwart, fine-looking fellow with something in his face that made Faith puzzle over something foreign there. For an instant their eyes met. Then she blushed and moved back out of the crowd and went on. She did not look back, but she seemed to feel that the two gentlmen were looking after her.

"They are the persons who have bought the picture and will take it away," she said as she walked along. She was sad at the thought, for she had come to cherish the look at the father's face, which she had enjoyed every day since she first saw it there.

During the next few weeks, Faith had an experience that tried her as she had never been tried.

She visited scores of photographers' studios to get piece work. In some of them she would find waiting a dozen girls all on the same errand. She proved the value of her work on several occasions, for she had learned to do the retouching in a superior manner, and still, work as hard as she would, the orders she could get did not equal her expenses, which she had reduced to the lowest possible figures.

She came back to her room one day after an unsuccessful application for orders in twenty places, thoronghly tired, for she had walked a good many miles, and the streets were running over with mud and snow.

She counted over her money, and, for the first time, realized that she had reached the end. She was determined not to run in debt, although her landlady in the flat had been very kind.

She went down to a little news stand on the corner and bought an evening paper and looked over the wilderness of "wants" and wondered how, in a city like that, any one ever found anything to do. She envied the butcher's boy, who was just coming out of a market near by and thought of asking him how he managed to get this position, while so many boys were probably without any.

She took the paper to her room and finally settled on one advertisement as offering a possible chance for her.

She had made up her mind for several weeks that she could not make a living by retouching.

"I'll do it," she said with a faint flush of color in her face. I wonder what mother would say!"

The advertisement was as follows:

"If I can get four dollars a week with my board, I can save nearly evey cent of it," said Faith, resolutely. "And mother taught me how to cook. I am sure it is an honorable way to earn a living as working in a store."

There was a bit of adventure in it also that attracted her. The thought of Dorothy's Gilbert's daughter working out as a "hired" girl Faith something of a surprise at herself, but it was a part of her love of experiments that made possible the strange experience she was now about to know.

She went to the studio early Monday morning and secured good references for the rest she said she would frankly ask the people to try her for a week, at least, and then employ her for what she could do.

She took a Cottage Avenue car, and went directly to the number on Elllis Avenue. It was a large house with a verandah on three sides. She went around to the side entrance, and, mounting the steps, rang the bell, her heart trembling a little as she did so.

CHAPTER XV

When the door opened, there stood, facing Faith, a good-looking, well-dressed woman, who was, evidently the mistress of the house.

"I have come in answer to your advertisement, ma'am," said Faith, slowly. She was unexpectedly embarrassed by the woman's silent look.

"Will you come in?"

The woman pointed to a chair and Faith sat down. It was the dining room, a fine large room, evidently well kept.

My name is Faith Kirk. I have been at work as a re-toucher in Keffen's studio, and here are some references from that place."

Faith handed them out and the woman took them and carefully read them. While she was reading, Faith looked about, shyly but observantly. She liked the apearance of the house.

"Have you ever worked out in the city" asked the woman suddenly, as she finished the references.

"No, ma'am. I came here to work in the studio and lost my position there owing to a reduction of hands."

"Can you cook?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied Faith, modestly.

"And do the housework for a family of four?" There are my husband and my son and daughter."

"I think I can do it. I am sure I can. I am strong and well." Faith spoke with some pride, for whether she had her mother's beauty or not, she had inherited her parent's splendid physique.

The woman of the house looked at her in some hesitation.

"I don't know you at all," she finally said.

"No, ma'am. I don't know you either, "Faith said without the least appearance of being impertinent, and after the fashion of Malcolm Kirk she looked straight in the other's eyes as she spoke.

The woman colored at first and then smiled a little.

"It does seem to be about an even thing, doesn't it? Well, the references are good as far as they go. Would you come for a week on trial? I have generally hired my help in that way."

"Yes ma'am."

"I am willing to pay three and a half a week if you can do the cooking. Or even four dollars, if you can do all the work satisfactorily."

"I will come on trial, and if I dont please you you can dismiss me," said Faith a little eagerly. There was something about the woman's manner that seemed to her cold and unnecessarily business-like, but, on the whole its eemed like a desirable place to work.

"My name is Fulton. Your is?"

"Kirk, Faith Kirk."

"Ah, yes. Well Faith, I'll show you your room. Have you a trunk?"

"Yes, ma'am. At my room." Faith gave her the number.

"I'll send an express man after i." She went to a telephone in the next room and gave the necessary order. Faith had packed up her trunk so as to have it in readiness.

Mrs. Fulton led Faith upstairs to her room which was a comfortable place and as they stood there she talked about the work expected of the "help."

"I suppose you will want your Thursday afternoon and Sunday, after dinner?"

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

"Bringing Up Father at Home" is said to be the best of the cartoon-play series. The fun is patterned on new lines, running the gamut of ideas original, diverting and thoroughly modern.

Twenty-five beautiful women, talented, versatile, resourceful and vivacious comprise a chorus said to be able to compete with any similar aggregation in the realm of stagecraft. Ensembles, song hits, specialties, sweet and catchy melodies, innovations, surprises, unique lighting effects and other features place this entertainment above the conventional "Father" will be entrusted to the skill of his creator, John Cain; "Mother," will be impersonated by Lida Kane, who first introduced the character on the occasion of the firse performance.

A Strong Letter of Commendation

From a Prominent Toronto Manufacturer Who Has Depended on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to Enable Him to Attend to His Daily Duties as Manager of a Large Glove Factory.

MR. HERBERT STREET COWAN, President and General Manager of the Craig-Cowan Co., Ltd., Glove Manufacturers, 154 Pearl St., Toronto, writes:

"About ten years ago, at the age of 37, I had a stroke, as a result of which I have been partially paralyzed ever since.

"For two years I lay in the house in a helpless condition in spite of all that six doctors could do to restore me. I also resorted to massage and electrical treatments, but without very much apparent benefit.

"About seven years ago I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and have used it at intervals ever since. It is only by using this restorative treatment that I have been able to attend to my large and growing business, and for this reason I feel that the least I can do is to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to others who suffer from nervous derangements.

"In fact, it has afforded me a great deal of pleasure to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to my friends, and to observe the way in which they have been benefited by its use. As a result of the large number of cases I have observed, as well as my own remarkable experience, I feel that I can speak with some authority."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is known and used in the best homes in the land, and is recognized by physicians and laymen alike as a most excellent means of enriching the blood and building up the nervous system. You can make no mistake in giving it a trial when occasion demands. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. GET ACQUAINTED WITH THE SOLDIERS.

Now that the soldier boys are coming home in considerable numbers Belleville could very well take pattern from Toronto and other cities and inaugurate a series of "get-together banquets" in honor of the returned soldiers. If we are going to retain a helpful admiration and appreciation of the sacrifices of the soldiers the first step would seem to be to get acquainted with them and their families. A banquet once a month for a time would not be an impossible undertaking, and these events should be made bright and snappy with plenty of music and speeches few and brief. The Armouries could be utilized, citizens would gladly supply the eatables and all kinds of entertaining talent would be freely contributed for the occasions, so the question of finance would be easy.

THE SUMMER-TIME DEBATE.

The debate on the daylight saving resolution was not illuminating, says the Toronto World. More than one member like R. L. Richardson said he favored daylight saving personally, but voted against it to reflect the views of his constituents. Others denounced it in almost frenzied manner. More than one honorable member representing a rural constituency, evidently spoke in the debate, not for the purpose of adding anything to the argument against daylight saving, but for the sole and single purpose of pleasing his constituents. Even the genial acting-Prime Minister, when he spoke against daylight saving, was addressing the farmers of Leeds county, Ontario, rather than the people of Canada. Perhaps Hon. N. W. Rowell had Durham Co. in his mind's eye when he got up to speak. Indeed, as one minister after another climbed into the bandwagon, it appeared more and more evident that the House was leading the Government instead of the Government leading the House.

CONSOLIDATION OF ATHLETIC EFFORT.

Belleville has plenty of athletic talent which if consolidated would achieve better results. In hockey, baseball and other sports Belleville athletes are wont to shine spasmodically, in the larger firmament of national sports, but with more general support and consolidation of effort would take a leading place in the national sporting arena. A move in this direction might also result in a revival of acquatic sports, the cleanest, most healthful and beneficial of all sports. The formation of an athletic club for the whole city, with a club house centre and summer headquarters on the waterfront would seem to point the way to a helpful consolidation of effort for the development of health and athletic vigor among the boys and young men of the city. The Y. M. C. A. affords a well-equipped athletic plant and club-house facilities which could be utilized by a city athletic club and an acquatic department could easily be arranged.

THE "HIDDEN HAND" HELPS RED TERROR.

A cable despatch to the Montreal Gazette from London, England, says that the Daily Chronicle urges the gravity of the situation in which Rumania, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia are placed by the Bolshevik revolution in Hungary.

It characterizes the three nations as pillars without which a free Central Europe nor a world society based on the League of Nations can be sustained, and says that if their development can be secured as free, orderly states, the German dream of a Germanized Central Europe dominating the world is doomed to disappear.

"All these three peoples," it says, are being assiduously attacked by Bolshevik propaganda and all three are also menaced by the advancing Bolshevik armies. There has been ample evidence that there is collusion between Germany and the Bolshevik aggression. Indeed, it would be astonishing if there were not, that the success of the three new states would be a deep blow to German ambition, while their destruction would instantly revive its hopes. The adhesion of the Magyars to Lenine gives him a greatly improved approach for attacking the three, whether by propaganda or by military invasion. The absolute military value of the Bolshevik troops is probably low, but in conjunction with their propaganda, they can effect a good deal, as evidenced by the recent French evacuation of Odessa and the Russian Black Sea littoral."

The Chronicle then condemns the short-sightedness of the associated powers in permitting the people in Rumania to starve, their interminable delay in revictualling Prague and returning the Czech troops to Czecho-Slovakia, their refusal to sanction Foch's plan for sending the Polish army in France back to Poland and the putting off of the question of securing Dantzig and a safe corridor for Poland.

.·. CRISP COMMENT .·.

It is noticeable that the soldiers who have passed through the hardest fighting of the war come back to Canada without any "crows to pick" with governments or officers. They were so busy fighting the Hun that they had no time to accumulate grievances.

Anyone who has occasion to seek to rent a house in Belleville soon becomes convinced that the Government Housing Act is the real thing in legislation and should be grabbed as a life-saver by every wide-awake municipality.

As the leader of the Government and the leader of the Opposition both voted against Daylight Saving no political capital was made out of the debate, which was a non-partizan free-for-all, thirty-five wordy M.P.'s talking against time.

We begin to realize that we haven't been sleeping by the clock at all but by the sun and that extra hour in bed in the morning has a great attraction. However, we will soon get regulated and keep as good time as the advanced clocks

As might have been expected, the Statesman, the weekly organ of the Liberal party in Ontario, comes out in favor of the right of the Irish people to secede from the empire. We say this might have been expected, for the Statesman takes no pains to conceal its hostility to the empire—and to Britain. But since when did the disruption of the empire become Liberal policy in this country.—Hamilton Herald (Independent).

OTHER VIEWS

Col. Pratt's Tirade.

London Free Press.

Mistakes were made, even by Col. Pratt, if he had responsibilities, as is probable. Whatever his mistakes overseas, Colonel Pratt could hardly have exceeded the mistake he made in coming home with only harsh words and bitter comment for men who were quite as faithful, quite as eager to win the war, quite as self-sacrificing, and quite the equal in intelligence and courage of himself. The charge that there were men at Argyle House who were anxious that the war should go on lest they lose their positions is, we believe, a brutal calumny. Col. Pratt refers to the Canadian editors who went overseas at the invitation of the British Government, and he is concerned for their "joy rides." If the colonel were less inflamed mentally he would not have sought also to misrepresent the newspaper men who at considerable personal sacrifice and risk made the trip to which he refers. The colonel's difficulty is that these newspaper men had the opportunity to see at first hand the conditions at Argyle House and the strenuous efforts that were put forward in every department there to give the utmost in service and at the least cost. His difficulty, further, is that these newspaper men found in charge of Argyle House Lieut.-General Sir Richard Turner, who won the Victoria Cross in South Africa and the Distinguished Service Order on the field in France, and whose King had knighted him; Gen. Macdonald, a young Winnipeg officer, who at the age of 32 holds the rank of a major-general and who has given an arm in the defence of his country, and other men of the same calibre, nearly every one, if not every one, of whom have seen fighting in the front lines. These are the men whom the Free Press found at the Argyle House.

The misfortune is that the press of Canada was not more fully represented in the British Government's party of last summer, but happily there were a score of the publishers and editors of newspapers of this country, representative of all shades of political life, who were enabled to see the working of the British and Canadian war machine at first hand. There were also representative Canadian clergymen of all denominations who were the guests of the British Government in a similar way. One such was Bishop Fallon of this city, who already has declared that he deliberately spent days looking for graft in the management of the Canadian military services in England and that though the figures of every department were placed at his disposal and though he was given all the assistance that he required he found graft no larger than the size of a pea. Col. Pratt owes an apology to the valiant and splendid men of Argyle House. As for his attack upon the Canadian newspaper men, it is a matter of indifference. The editors were under no compliment to the officers of the Argyle House, nor to any one connected with the Canadian service nor to the Canadian government. Their mission to Great Britain and France was wholly under the direction of the British and French governments, and at the invitations of the war administrations at London and Paris.

The Humorous Twist.

Kingston Standard.

The Standard heartily welcomes the Toronto Times, the successor of The Toronto News, and sincerely wishes it great and lasting prosperity. It has a good foundation to build upon as The News had established an excellent reputation everywhere as a high class, dependable, and up-to-date newspaper.

The Toronto Times says that it commences its career with a modest profession of its faith; and it is a faith which Canadians will approve of: Faith in Toronto, in Ontario, in Canada, in the British Empire, and in the power, capacity and ability of the people of all these to progress in those paths which recently were "the main factor in guarding civilization, and in delivering mankind from militaristic tyrannies." By acting up to that great faith, as it intends to do with all its strength, it will become a power for good.

We notice with very much pleasure—we almost wrote, it tickles us to see, and after all that is the right expression—that The Times says that "it conceives for itself a serious mission, but does not propose to be too grave in its methods." Thank Goodness! At last there is a paper which at the very start of its career makes a stand against the awful, wearisome, monotonous, depressing seriousness of Canadian life as treated not only in the press, but to a great extent everywhere else. Fun, the merry bright quip, the humorous twist to a sentence or a question, the joyousness of life seem to be looked upon as altogether too frivolous and not suitable at any time. The editorials must be the next thing to sermons, or be concerned with business or other depressing matters. True, the papers do provide their entertaining and comic supplements; but it is to the treatment of, and the writing upon the various public questions which we would particularly refer.

And after all is there not room for people not "to be too grave in their methods?" Are there not too many signs that Canadians are to be made good by Act of Parliament? That our innocent pleasures are to be restricted in obedience to the seriousness of life? It is noticeable that only this week The Hamilton Spectator and The Mail and Empire both had editorials upon this very subject. Therefore we greet the intention of The Toronto Times with sincere gratification, and we hope it will start the crusade by bringing the treatment of life as far as possible out of the grey shadows into the sunshine of joyousness, kindliness, humor and charity.

The Poet's Corner

FOOTSTEPS.

(Henry Chappell)

Dead son of mine, when first two tiny feet
With step uneven traced a league-long yard,
Then in my heart your throne was set complete,
And love about you mounted royal guard,
For you I tireless wrought, adventured, planned,
Nor dreamed that I was building on the sand.

Then eager steps a hundred times a day
Raced up the stair and down and in and out,
Luring me on to join the boyish play;
Making me one in prank and merry bout,
Day was a garden lit by sunny beams,
And night another day of happy dreams.

With ev'ry passing year my burdens fell,
For you, my son and friend, took up the load.
Love came to you, and all the world went well,
And life stretched out before, a shining road,
I saw the promise fair of youth unfold
And all my harvest ripening to gold.

Then came the call, the parting and the pain,
When hands alone had voice to say good-bye,
Now death has trampled down the golden grain
And all my palaces in ruins lie.
O costly bays that sacrifice has won!
The throne is empty; I have lost my son.

England's the glory is, and mine the loss.
You were my own; to England one son more
Of legions who for her have borne the cross
And lain it down on weary hearts and sore.
I take my cross, and if my head be bowed,
The parent mourns, the patriot is proud.

Dead son of mine, it may be that you know,
Grief for my grief, and sorrow for my tears,
So, for your sake the tide shall inly flow;
I lift my head and face the empty years,
Day with its memories of bitter-sweet,
Night with its echoes of a soldier's feet.

A Laugh or Two

It matters little if you are ignorant, for you will meet people daily who know it all.

Took No Chances.

Applicant—You advertised for a careful chauffeur?

Motorist—I did. Are you one?

Applicant—You bet. I should require my pay in advance.

A Paradox

Man could never get along without woman.

And he can't get along with her, so what's he going to do?

Acquired Hauteur.

How's that, Henri?"

"I can point to half a dozen wives of war millionaires who had never been inside of a place like this until a year or two ago, but now they are as lofty and as hard to please as if they had been dining here all their lives."

Looking Backward.

"Please don't interrupt me now," said the poet. "I'm writing a sonnet entitled 'My Yesterdays'."

"I've kept account of 'em," said his landlady, grimly. "You owe me two months' rent."

Killing Two Birds.

Mr. Jones rang the bell at the new doctor's house. Usually he went to his old family doctor, but this new man happened to live nearer, and it was an urgent call.

The doctor's wife answered the ring.

"You wish to see the doctor?" she said. "Couldn't you come to-morrow morning?"

"Why?" said Jones. "Isn't the doctor in?"

"Oh, yes, he's in," said the lady wistfully; "but you're his first patient, and I'd like you to come as a surprise for him tomorrow. You see, it's his birthday."

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

Made in Canada

PEACE RIVER LANDS.

Future Development in the "New Northwest."

At a time when two of the greatest needs of the world are raw material and an increased grain supply, there is something peculiarly satisfactory in the news that the great bridge which will carry the railway across the Peace River, in Northern Alberta, is completed. Millions of acres of hard wheat country are thus made available for immediate colonization. The task of constructing the bridge and the railway connecting this far-northern point with Edmonton, and so with the rest of Canada, has not been an easy one. Many difficulties have had to be overcome, but they have all been overcome, and now the old Peace River crossing is spanned by a bridge opening the way for the Canadian railways to push on into the vast fertile stretches north of that river.

That the Peace River lands have a great future cannot be doubted. The territory, which extends approximately from latitude 54 to 59 degrees north, and from longitude 112 to 125 degrees east, is peculiarly well adapted for settlement. It is a country with a climate in every way excellent, and remarkably moderate, considering the latitude. The winters are at times tempered by the Chinook winds from the Pacific; the seeding time is much the same as it is farther south, and practically the entire district of some [illegible] suitable for raising grains, grasses, and vegetables. It is, moreover, in places, thickly wooded with valuable timber, whilst both metallic and non-metallic mineral deposits are known to exist in great quantities. In addition to all this there is every evidence of a high grade coal supply, whilst springs of natural gas and tar rising to the surface indicate the presence of a considerable supply of these valuable commodities in the river valley.

All these resources are only awaiting development, and that the work will be carried on with the utmost energy is practically assured by the action of the federal authorities, who have indicated that all vacant agricultural lands in the Peace River district, within fifteen miles of existing or projected railways, must be held for soldier settlement. Liberal loans are to be provided, and every help and encouragement is to be afforded by the authorities to the returning soldiers settling there.

The new colonists will find an outlet for their energies in many directions, for, according to the agricultural experts, the Peace River section must not only devote itself to the growing of hard wheat on a large scale, but, in order to secure the best possible returns from the land, the settlers must resort to mixed farming. Thus the territory promises to become, not only a great grain district, but also a great cattle district. Altogether the outlook is encouraging, and represents a welcome development, not only from a Canadian but from a world point of view. During the long period of the war, each year, as it passed, was more remarkable than its predecessor for the whole-heartedness with which the people of the allied nations threw themselves into the work of achieving the great task which had been laid upon them. To this end each nation contributed what it could best contribute, each its special products and ability, and to the utmost it was able. There is no reason why there should be any break in this great effort. The war is won, but the stupendous task of reconstruction lies before the nations, and every nation must once again bear its share. Canada, with her vast natural resources and almost limitless lands, has a special duty to herself and to humanity, and those who know Canada and are mindful of what she has done in the past, have no doubt that she will rise to the occasion, once again, and do her duty and more than her duty in the days of peace, as she did in the days of war.—Christian Science Monitor.

A Ready Wit.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had a ready wit. He was lean of figure and on more than one occasion turned his physical slimness to account in political combat. One day a portly Conservative opponent arose in Parliament and accused Sir Wilfrid of "fattening on the toil and sweat of the people." Laurier smiled and said sweetly: "I leave this house to judge which of us two is the more exposed to that charge."

"His Master's Voice" Records Out to-day

JOHN STEEL

With a voice like John McCormack.

Here is a record by a new singer, LIEUT. JOHN STEEL. He first sang in a boy's choir when ten years old and commenced to study under the best teachers in New York, and before the age of sixteen he had developed a wonderful tenor voice. Later studying in Paris with Jean de Reszké, under whom he made wonderful progress. Returning to America only last September, he immediately scored a triumph in light opera, creating a sensation wherever he appeared.

Mr. Walter Rogers, the eminent conductor, who has directed the recordings of all the world's greatest artists, in the Victor Laboratory said: "I think John Steel's voice is one of the most beautiful I ever heard."

Many critics who have heard John Steel have remarked how much his voice resembles that of John McCormack; so closely in fact, that he bids fair to become a formidable rival of that celebrated artist.

The Picture Hat

By CECILLE LANGDON

"Isaac," spoke old Jacob Zelder, "I am going to send you on the road."

"Oh, father!" exclaimed the son of the old job-lots dealer in a transport of delight, "the ambition of my life at last! It almost made me weep when I saw Abe Kosern start out on his trip—fine sample cases, new suit, diamond pin, best hotels, Pullman sleeper, automobile to visit his customers. Oh! Ah! it is the business!"

"Yes, Isaac," replied the shrewd-faced father, "but you don't start out that way, but cheap and modest until you have demonstrated your ability to sell goods. Now this will be a special trip. I have managed to buy cheap one hundred fine picture hats. They are last year's stock delayed in shipment, but you must find customers who don't know the difference. See?" And skeezicksy Isaac winked knowingly. "You are to sell them for twelve dollars apiece, but not to the trade, for they will know they are last year's goods."

"Leave it to me, father," blinked and chuckled the ambitious son.

"If they don't go fast at the big price," continued old Jacob, "try poorer customers at cheaper rates—we must be kind to the poor, my son!" and in high feather, with a sample hat in a neat inoffensive looking case, Isaac started forth on his first commercial adventure forthwith.

Isaac was clever, specious, tricky. He picked out the somewhat way-back town of Lydston as a fair point of assault. Now, in Lydston, pretty as a picture, half in love with a soldier boy, and likely to become wholly so, was Ina Durand. In the parlor of the little home Isaac appeared one forenoon.

He had a lively story to tell—a few special latest design Paris hats had come the way of the great business house he represented. It was his purpose to sell only one at each town. He had understood that Miss Durand was at the head of the elite of Lydston and ah! behold! and he produced the hat. It really was very handsome, and he induced Ina to try it on, and it became her as any old hat would, this jewel of beauty and grace! Ina coveted that hat, but her eye fell upon a letter she had written and she sighed, but submissively, and said:

"I am just using the last of my pin money for a special purpose," and after a vast amount of persuasion Isaac let go of this prospective victim, but proceeded to visit other homes with the same plausible story. In fact, by nightfall the industrious envy of Job-Lots Zelder had sold 11 hats, all the same, to as many of the feminine bon-ton of Lydston, each one feeling that she would bloom grandly, in the envy of her less fortunate sisters the following Sunday. Then Isaac went among the families living at the industrial edge of Lydston and slaughtered off a baker's dozen of the hats at a lower price.

Viola Marsh, the closest friend of Ina, calling upon her next day, found her trimming up her old hat. Ina was intensely human and had sighed many times at a thought of the beauteous Parisian creation she had been compelled to pass by. She brightened up, however, as she said to the sister of Victor Marsh, in camp 20 miles distant:

"I have ordered the birthday surprise for Victor. There's a fountain pen, and oh! such an exquisite outfit—soap, cartridges, automatic shaving brush, and all that. It took all of my poor little twelve dollars, but I am so glad to help for the comfort of Uncle Sam's soldier boy."

"For one of them in particular, eh, Ina," rallied Viola, and Ina blushed the color of a peony and fluttered like a timid bird.

Isaac Zelder, chuckling, grinning, exultant, returned to the city home to be greeted with open arms and a warm welcome by his proud and grateful father.

"All the hats shipped, father?" asked the buoyant-spirited son.

"C. O. D., and the money all in, Isaac, you are a success and I shall start you out on your next trip in grand style."

Lydston had a sensation the following Sunday morning. Eleven ladies of fashion, double that number of more humble representatives from the poorer quarter, appeared on the streets with the famous Parisian picture hat sold to "only one customer in a town." The local milliner retired the imported creation by showing a picture of the same in catalogues a year old.

And Ina, in her tastefully trimmed-over hat was a gorgeous contrast, looking lovelier than ever and oh! so happy when Victor Marsh expressed his delight over the comfort kit to which she had devoted her little savings. She glanced up from under her home-made headgear in response to the thanks of her knight errant, so lovely and enticing, that the impulsive fellow forgot himself and kissed her audaciously.

"It was your hat!" he floundered—"don't scold me, you looked so sweet in it and—I couldn't help it!"

And as Ina did not particularly wish him to help it, that was the beginning of their mutual ardent hopes.

MRS. FLORENCE H. YEOMANS

From the residence of Mrs. (Dr.) McCullough of this city the funeral of the late Mrs. Florence H. Yeomans took place yesterday afternoon and was attended by many relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. Scott, Pastor of Bridge Street Church conducted services assisted by Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal of Albert College and Rev. E. C. Seymour. The former referred to the efficiency in which deceased had filled positions in church, missionary W.C.A. and hospital work. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. Relatives from Picton and Toronto attended the obsequies. The bearers were Messrs A. Ray, B. Tannahill, C. Bogart, F. S. Deacon, Don Bleecker and Prof. Hunt.

$50—NO BENEFIT

This money might have been saved by Mr. Z. D'Muro of 722 Papineau Ave., Montreal, had he only known of Zam-Buk sooner. Writing to the proprietors of Zam-Buk, a short time ago, he said:

"For over a year I suffered with eczema which nothing seemed able to cure. I had treatment from three doctors, which cost me $50, but none of them were able to cure me. I suffered intensely from the irritation and pain, and I thought I should never get relief, until one day a friend told me about Zam-Buk and I started using it right away. From the very first application I felt better. Zam-Buk relieved the irritation and seemed to cool and soothe the sores. Gradually the sores began to heal and, with perseverance, Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease.

"I would like to be able to tell all sufferers from eczema to stop experimenting with useless remedies and use Zam-Buk. By using this balm in the first place they would save themselves needless suffering and expense."

Zam-Buk should be in every home, not only for skin troubles, boils, rashes, pimples, abscesses and ulcers, but also for cuts, burns, and scalds, for which it is indispensable. Get a box to-day. It will keep indefinitely and still retain its strength and purity. All dealers, 50c. box.

THEN Zam-Buk CURED HIM.

The New Home Treatment For Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Boudoir Secrets)

Here is a simple, yet very effective method for removing hair and fuzz from the face, neck and arms: Cover the objectionable hairs with a paste made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. Leave this on for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. No pain or inconvenience attends this treatment, but results will be certain if you are sure to get real delatone.

WESTERN TOWN FAVORS DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN

SASKATOON, March 31.—A vote of the merchants of Saskatoon, taken yesterday, was practically unanimous in favor of the adoption of daylight saving here. The mayor and city commissioner are out of the city, but it is expected that the city council will pass a bylaw adopting the plan in Saskatoon.

Tragic Death Of Cobourg Boy

Swept Out in Lake in Small Boat in Terrific Storm—Never Seen Again.

Raymond Franklin, the 8 year old son of Mr. Franklin, Superintendent of the Felt Works in Cobourg, met a tragic death on Saturday. About noon he and another boy were playing about the beach when Franklin jumped into an old scow and shoved it out from the shore. The heavy gale soon swept the boat out in the lake and when the alarm was given no trace of the boat could be seen. The ferry arrived in port a couple of hours later and the crew reported the gale one of the worst in years. The waves were mountains high and the wheel house of the big boat was covered in ice. They had seen no trace of the scow and were satisfied that the boat would be swamped a few minutes after leaving shore.

For Feeble Old People

John Devitt Recomends Vinol to Create Strength and Vitality

Marlton, N. J.—"I am 69 years of age and after a severe sickness, was in a weak, run-down condition. Vinol has built me up and made me strong, so now I feel real well again, and I can recommend it to others for such conditions."—John M. Devitt.

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mr. Devitt's case, is because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run-down system, make rich, red blood and create strength. It is perfectly wonderful what it does for old people.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMS AT GRIFFIN'S AND THE PALACE

Faversham, in "The Silver King," Famous Old English Melodrama, Feature at Griffin's; Tom Moore in "Thirty a Week," Feature at Palace.

After holding the stage in England and this country for more than thirty years, "The Silver King," the famous melodrama of English life, written by Henry Arthur Jones has been picturized with the celebrated English actor William Faversham in the stellar role and was screened before a large audience at Griffin's last night and proved to be one of the photoplay delights of the year. "The Silver King" deals with the adventures of Wilfred Denver, an English country squire who is ruined by a supposed friend in revenge for cutting him out in the affection of a beautiful girl, whom Denver marries. Years later, Ware induces Denver to bet all he owned upon a Derby race, the result being that he is impoverished. When Denver hears Ware gloating over the success of his scheme, he goes to the latter's house at night with the intention to kill him but Ware instead is slain by a band of robbers. Denver is suspected of the crime, but evades arrest by fleeing to this country and he amases a fortune in a western mining camp. His wife and friends, as well as the police, believe him to have been killed in a railway accident and when he re-appears in England under an assumed name, exciting events ensue. Mr. Faversham is finely supported, his leading woman being Barbara Castleton, a talented actress well know on the stage and screen.

Sweet, winsome Lila Lee scored a triumph in "The Secret Garden" which was the added feature offering on the same program. There is nothing common-place about "The Secret Garden." It is a beautiful story told with distinction, directed by an artist and played by an excellent company, with little Lila easily carrying off the acting honors. Two excellent comedies complete the bill; a new Mack Sennett comedy "Whose Little Wife Are You?" introducing the famous Sennett beauties and a Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon. The entire programme will be repeated again for the last time tomorow night.

AT THE PALACE

"Thirty A Week" Tom Moore's latest starring vehicle which was screened to large audiences at the Palace yesterday is undoubtedly the greatest production in which the young star has ever been seen, it will indeed prove a surprise production for his many local admirers. "Thirty A Week" brings out as no other Moore screen play has, the many angles of the handsome, rollicking Irishman's talents. It tells the story of love finding the way to bridge the gulf that separates the strata of a girl of wealth and society and that of the stout-hearted American youth. Dan Murray (Tom Moore) is a chauffeur for a millionaire Wall Street operator, whose daughter, Barbara Wright, is deeply in love with Dan, despite his lowly station. Her parents have arranged for her marriage with Freddy Ruyter, a man about town, but Barbara frowns upon their scheme, knowing Dan loves her, but fears to take the initiative. Barbara smooths the way for him and they later elope. The events that follow will be found both surprising and amusing.

Pathe News showing important news events in animation, an interesting travelogue, which afford some splendid views of beautiful Yellowstone Park, and "Follow the Crowd," a new and very funny Luke comedy complete a splendid varied program all of which will be repeated again tonight and twice Wednesday matinee and night.

JAKE KILRAIN, SHIPBUILDER

A snowy-haired man in a mechanic's black cap and the disreputably greasy overalls of the man who makes things of steel and iron leaned back in his chair at a midnight boxing entertainment at the Squantum destroyer plant near Boston one night recently and opined that the lad who was getting the beating would do well to study the use of the left jab.

"You know something about this game?" indifferently inquired a sporting editor.

"Beg pardon," interposed Le Barron, night superintendent. "Meet Mr. Kilrain. You've heard of Jake, haven't you?"

KILRAIN AND SULLIVAN

It was Jake Kilrain, bare-knuckle battler, who fought John L. Sullivan 75 rounds at Richburg, who held old Jem Smith of England to a draw in their four-hour battle in the driving rain at Isle des Sourrains, France when they fought for the world's title, contemporary of Charlie Mitchell, one-time fighter, now builder of the fighting ships.

For over a year Kilrain has been a ship-fitter. Turned down by Uncle Sam because of his age when he tried to enlist, he went through the employment office like any other applicant for work, even accepting "kidding" on the "similarity" of his name to that famous fighter as he hired out.

IDENTITY NOT KNOWN

It was several months before the executive of the plant learned that the ship fitter's helper with the big straight shoulders and the ruddy face was the great Kilrain. Past sixty, he learned a new trade and is now rated on his merits as one of the best workmen in the plant.

Kilrain is heavier than he was in his fighting days, but is remarkable active, and seems to have preserved all the great strength that made him respected in the 80's.

JACK JOHNSON DEPORTED

Word comes from Havana that Jack Johnson was ordered to leave Cuban soil by the police authorities, after he had announced that his battle with Willard was not on the level. Johnson was compelled to make a hurried getaway for Mexico the other day or go to jail for "defrauding" the Cuban sporting public. The discredited ex-champion evidently made a bad break in Cuba, engaged a manager, who is blamed for the negro's wild statements concerning the Willard fight. But when the Havana police got busy Johnson's manager deserted him.

GREAT RACEHORSE DESTROYED

Inferno, probably the greatest race horse ever foaled in Canada, but who had developed a very vicious temper, recently was humanely destroyed at the Ontario Veterinary College while sections of hai skeleton will be preserved and put in the museum at the college. Inferno, who was by Havoc Bon Ino, was foaled in 1902 at the Seagram Farm, Waterloo, and annexed the King's Plate for the Waterloo owners in 1905. In 1906 he won the Queen's Hotel Cup and the same year the King Edward Hotel Gold Cup. He was returned the winner of the latter three years in succession, while in 1907 he picked up 126 pounds and won the Toronto Cup after running the mile and one-eighth in 1.52 2-5. He also won the Stanley Produce Stakes, Dominion Autumn Handicap, and the Durham Cup twice in addition to many other stakes of less importance. At the recent Seagram sale he was sent eto the Repository, but he never left that place until he was sent to the O.V.C. It is understood that the former owners bought him back and had him destroyed.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON STILL AFTER THE CUP

NEW YORK, April 1.—Sir Thomas Lipton, challenger for the America's Cup, who recently accepted the conditions of the New York Yacht Club for a race in 1920, arrived here on the steamship Aquitania from Liverpool. He was accompanied only by his secretary, and said the object of his visit here was to meet old friends, many of whom he had not seen since his last visit to the United States in 1913.

The veteran yachtsman appeared as hale and hearty as ever, and many of the thousands of American soldiers on board said he was the life of the ship. He announced that he would inspect his yacht, the Shamrock IV., which has been stored here since 1914, and said also that he was contemplating replacing as soon as possible his yacht Erin, which was sunk by the Germans during the war.

Sir Thomas said he would bring to the United States as soon as possible the yacht known as the twenty-three meter Shamrock, the one which raced the former German Emperor's yacht before the war. He added, however, that he did not contemplate now any racing before the cup event. He said he believed the Resolute would be the America's Cup defender.

He was asked regarding his former racing companion, Duncan F. Neil, and he said, with an evident feeling of pride, that he was now Colonel Neil, D.S.O., in charge of river transportation on the Rhine.

"DYED-IN-THE-WOOL GRITS CONTROL UNITED FARMERS"

TORONTO, April 1—attacking what he termed the "so called United Farmers," and declaring they were only "camouflaged dyed-in-the-wool Grits" Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture, delivered an address on what the Department of Agriculture had done, and was going to do, at the annual meeting of the West York Conservative Association at Weston. The Minister of Agriculture declared that the U. F. O., as some wag had said, really meant "United for Office" and that every office-holder in it was a prominent "Grit."

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian Northern Railway System

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday March 30th, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railways will at 2.00 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from this important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave railway stations on present schedules, such schedules will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore, in municipalities where local time is not changed to correspond with the new railway time, passengers must reach railway stations ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time table posters.

Where the municipal time is changed to correspond with the new railway time passengers will not experience any difficulty growing out of the change.

SPIT FOR LOSS OF COWS

An interesting trial to come off this week at Kingston is an action by J. G. Greenwood, Wolfe Island, against Thomas Frend, storekeeper, for $153 as damages for loss of two cows by poison of defendants' alleged negligence in supplying plaintiff's daughter with sodium nitrate in place of sodium sulphate. Mr. Frend declares he gave what was asked for.

Wallace; Second Vice-President, Herbert Daly; Directors, F. H. Henderson, W. H. Boyle, J. J. Johnston, G. B. Curran, J. M. Joyce, Dr. Ming, C. H. Williams, G. W. Giboard, J. L. Boyes.

MCLAREN'S MALT

Last week the final shipment of malt whiskey, the product of the John A. McLaren distillery at Perth took place. The consignment numbered 3,700 cases and the value was $125,000. The goods went mostly to Montreal and Quebec, but the oldest was sent to New York. The shipment filled four cars and the transfer took up over two days.

ENDORSES DAYLIGHT SAVING

Sir Henry Clayton, Chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, having called upon the railways to show cause why they have adopted Daylight Saving without consulting the Board, will have quite an array of delegates and telegrams from municipalities favorable to Daylight Saving before him when he opens the court of enquiry this morning at Ottawa. The sentiments of the Belleville Board of Trade were embodied in the following telegram:

Belleville, March 31, 1919
Sir Henry Drayton,
Chairman Board R'y. Com. of Can.
Ottawa.

Belleville Board of Trade protests against agitation seeking to prevent railways linking up with continental system—commerce dies of isolation—retrograde and selfish sectionalists should not be allowed to retard progress of Canada at this critical period—time is a national asset and uniform circulation of trade arteries is vital.

PAY OF M. H. O. IN DISPUTE

Port Hope's municipal tangle is to be aired before the County Judge at Cobourg. The towns medical Health Officer appears to believe $1,000 per year is a fair valuation for his services and the council think at $300 he is overpaid.

ANNUAL SALE OF HOLSTEINS.

Yesterday and today a fine type of Holstein cattle were brought into the city by consignors for the annual sale which takes place tomorrow under the auspices of the Belleville Holstein Breeders' Club. Upwards of one hundred animals are to be disposed of. The sale will take place in a large tent erected in the rear of the Albion Hotel.

CLAIMS TITLE.

The case of Cooper vs. Reid came on for trial yesterday before Col. S. S. Lazier, Local Master. The evidence showed the plaintiff claimed title to the E. ½ of lot 4, concession B. Huntingdon by having occupied it for 25 years. A number of witnesses were examined and the trial was adjourned until the 9th of April. Wm. Carnew for plaintiff; W. C. Mikel, K.C., and D. E. K. Stewart for defendant.

BELLEVILLE SOLDIERS RETURNING.

SMITH'S FALLS—PERTH ROAD

A start has been made on the road between Smith's Falls and Perth. The Suburban Area Commission, of which Mr. J. E. Burns is the local commissioner, has let the contract for the furnishing of stone and the quarrying crushing and delivering of it to Mr. W. H. Code, of Smith's Falls. Mr. Code has begun work and is at present quarrying. The work will be rushed to completion this year. When finished it will be three miles in length, commencing at the corporation limits. The road will be standard 18 feet in width. Of the total cost the Government pays 40 per cent the county 30 per cent, and the town 30 per cent.

RED ROSE TEA is good tea

There are five simple ways to tell good tea.

Second, by the exquisite aroma.

Third, by the delightful, refreshing flavor.

Fourth, by the satisfying richness.

Fifth, by the economical strength.

Make a brewing and you will find all these qualities combined in Red Rose.

Pres. Wilson Explains Peace Treaty Delay

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, April 1.—President Wilson today explained that he was willing to accept his share of responsibility for the peace conference delays. He was careful to point out that the slowness of the negotiations was not due to any single country or its representatives.

Notwithstanding the delay in reaching an agreement on the preliminary peace treaty, Premier Lloyd George does not intend to return to England before the questions are adjusted in spite of his desire to attend closing meeting of the British labor conference.

UNITED FARMERS' HEAD THREATENS BOYCOTT

WHITBY, April 1.—The Town Council at a special meeting last night adopted daylight saving, effective tonight at eleven o'clock. The Military Hospital adopted it this morning. Also the Department of Public Works in its construction work here.

The President of the local United Farmers' Club which was organized recently at Brooklin, Fred Rowe, has said that if Whitby and Oshawa adopted daylight saving he will organize the farmers of this district to boycott the two towns.

In this connection it is odd to note that it was the only actual farmer of the Town Council of Whitby, W. A. Broughton, who moved the adoption of daylight saving.

Crowded Out By The Movies

Recollections of Belleville Amateur Theatrical Performances in the Olden Time.

The very creditable presentation of "The Private Secretary" by the Albert College Dramatic Club last Friday night suggests the advisability of equipping the City Hall stage with scenery and properties so that there may be a place available in the city at a reasonable price for amateur performances. Since the moving picture people have monopolized the Opera House it is almost impossible to put on an amateur entertainment owing to the very high charge for the Opera House. The funds to do this might be raised by the city increasing the license fee of the moving picture shows. Public amateur performances are a useful means of education which should not be diregarded in any community. Nearly all professional actors and actresses received their start in the amateur performance. Belleville was always celebrated for its amateur performances till the movies crowded them out.

I have before me a record of members of the Belleville Dramatic Club of over seventy-five years ago. Among the members are the names of such men as Hon. Edmund Murney, Hon. John Ross, Henry Corby, (father of late Senator Corby); F. McAnnany, (County Clerk); Benjamin Dougall, (Judge); W. Fitzgibbon, (Clerk of the Peace); B. F. Davy, (Ex-Mayor); Col. J. S. Turnbull, Dr. Wm. Hope, (Sheriff); Dr. J. Lister, Samuel Bull, (Merchant); S. Bartlett, (First Police Magistrate of Belleville); Geo. E. Henderson, (merchant); Royal Munro, (leading hotel keeper where the Robertson Block E. Front St., now stands); Chas. Harper (kept hotel in the building now standing at the S. W. Corner of Bridge and Front Sts.); Alex. Mennies, (one time post master); R. C. A. McLean, (Second Registrar of the County); John Donoghue, (afterwards publisher of an Insurance Journal in U. S.) Wm. Dafoe, John Phippen, Jas. McDonald, (Clerk Division Court and Hotel keeper); Wm. Thompson, (Brewery); D. B. Read, (afterwards a leading lawyer in Toronto.)

Both before and since that date many creditable amateur performances have been put on here. The present Opera House was opened by amateurs under the management of Col. Lazier, who has always taken a very keen interest in amateurs. It is doubtful if R. King Courlett's drama "The Three Students" put on by amateurs has never been excelled by any professional troupe in Belleville. The Shakespearean characters taken by W. R. Carmichael and Ex-Mayor McFee have never been equalled by any professional players in Belleville. The Belleville Ministrels have always been celebrated and the 15th B'n. more recently put on an entertainment "The White Hussars' composed of ladies followed by a one act play, which made one of the most popular of Belleville's amateur performances. The list of the thirty ladies who formed "The White Hussars" is now in my possession and forms an interesting list of Belleville's talented ladies.

POPULAR BELIEF WRONG.

Judge Lavell conducted Division Court at Sunbury and heard a suit over the possession of a "horse fork," between Campbell vs. McWaters. The suit was for only $12, but the decision is most important, as similar cases are constantly coming up. The judge decided that, contrary to popular belief, a horse fork, including even the ropes, is a farm fixture and goes with the farm on the deed. There was a long line of witnesses ready to testify as to the popular belief on this question.

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $250 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

SENATOR TAYLOR LAID AT REST

GANANOQUE, April 1.—The event closing the last chapter in the earthly career of Gananoque's foremost, honored and beloved citizen Hon. Senator George Taylor, took place when his remains were conveyed to their last resting place at Gananoque cemetery, accompanied by many sorrowing friends. The funeral cortege left the family residence on Sydenham street shortly after three p.m. on Saturday and proceeded to Grace Church where an impressive funeral service was conducted. A blinding snow storm and wind storm did not prevent hundreds of people from attending, a large number of whom were unable to gain admittance to the edifice so great was the crowd. Pine street school, public building and the Sabbath school hall of the church were used to shelter the overflow of people while the service was being conducted at the church.

Holstein Breeders Fraternize

Annual Banquet At Quinte

LARGE ATTENDANCE, SNAPPY SPEECHES AND MUSIC FEATURES ANNUAL BANQUET OF BELLEVILLE HOLSTEIN BREEDERS' CLUB AT HOTEL QUINTE.

Under the auspices of the Belleville Holstein Breeders' Club a banquet was held last evening at Hotel Quinte and it was in every respect a decided success. Previous to the war a banquet was held the evening previous to the Club's consignment sale in the city but this function was dispensed with during hostilities, to be revived again. A large number of the members of the Club and others were present and the occasion was graced by the presence of many of the wives of members. Mr. F. R. Mallory, Secretary of the organization, presided, and filled that position in a most becoming and acceptable manner. The proceedings were enlivened by a number of selections capably rendered by the Madoc male quartette.

The spread provided by mine host, Mr. J. V. Jenkins, was all that could have been desired, and it was served by the waitresses in a faultless manner.

At the conclusion of the supper a number of addresses were given by gentlemen who are well qualified to speak upon the subject of agriculture in its various branches.

The toast to "The King." was fittingly honored by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. Mallory in speaking, briefly referred to the fact that this was the first banquet held under the auspices of the Club for some time, owing to the war, which was now over. It was an informal affair and he hoped all present would enjoy themselves.

PURE BREEDING

Prof. Barton of McDonald College, Quebec, was the first speaker and spoke in an appropriate manner relative to agriculture and especially the Holstein cow. An agriculturalist that has a herd of Holstein is an enthusiast, because he has something to be enthusiastic about. In McDonald Agricultural College there were a number of female pupils and they were capable in their studies. The speaker urged upon his hearers the necessity there was for good breeding. This breeding needs much intelligence and one that breeds should be a close student. If you desire to get a good animal it is necessary to breed from a good animal. Start at something good and the result will be encouraging. We must learn that from a 20 pound cow we cannot breed a 30 pound cow. All breeders should have a stand and guide and live up to that guide. Breeders must be alive to the judge of pedigree. He admired a fine Holstein cow but the breeder should have focused on his mind the individuality of the animal he is taking care of. The breeder should even study the character of his cow. We have not got the character in our Holstein cattle that we should have. Breeders should also get the sympathy of the cow. Get a cow that will magnify with the eye. First breed to the standard of excellence. There is not a barn in the country that does produce always the best, and there will be also poor ones.

MUSICAL SELECTIONS

The Madoc male quartette, composed of Messrs. W. E. Tummon, C Ross, G. P. Lynd and A. Kincald, rendered a southern melody in a manner that captivated all present, and were compelled to respond to a well merited encore.

MORE CARE IN BREEDING

Mr. E. S. Archibald of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, in his opening remarks said he had travelled quite extensively over this district and had purchased a number of Holstein cattle. The record of the Belleville Holsteins Breeders' Club is well known, and it is an organization which has done much good. The reputation of this district did not start with May Echo, but for some time previous to her advent in this district. Many in this district are the main breeders in the Holstein branch of cattle. In the Belleville district there are some small breeders who have benefitted by private and public sales but have not done as much as could be done, by securing even better animals. Recently he had visited some 50 breeders in this immediate district and had endeavored to stimulate the younger idea rather than the pioneer idea. A number of boys in the Grenville district are taking a decided interest in raising a pure bred animal. This will be an experience which will be an inspiration to all who are interested in pure Holstein breeders. Two-year-old heifers were selected for the boys. Many animals were not in a sale shape. The barn yard must be the sale ring and the animals should be in such a thrifty growing nature as to command the respect of the proposed buyer. Many animals showed lack of size, and this means a setback. This is a short-sighted policy and it gives a visitor anything but the best opinion of the herd. The speaker referred to the fact that he had made a casual inspection of the cattle to be offered for sale by the Belleville Holstein Breeders' Club and there were some animals not up to that high standard that they might be if instead of 94 head of cattle being offered for sale if 50 of the best breeds that could be secured in the district were offered for sale the finances would be as much as the larger number. If the farmers would keep fewer animals than some at present keep, and bring these animals up to a proper efficiency, it would prove more profitable. He had the interest of this district at heart and for this reason he had spoken as he had.

"Smiles was sung by the Madoc quartette and they responded to an encore.

WELCOME TO FARMERS

Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank in this city, referred to the pleasure it was to have the ladies present at the banquet. They have, during the past four years, done so much for the boys overseas and done their work in a manner that was most gratifying and with much self-sacrifice. The previous speakers had spoke to the point and no doubt their remarks would prove profitable. Mr. Elliott referred to the fact that he was brought up on a farm and when he arrived in Canada he had with him a portion of the money secured in the selling of calves. He said there was no desire for the residents of cities to be antagonistic to the farmers or vice versa. We cannot get along without each other He would invite the farmers to become members of the Board of Trade. The Belleville Board of Trade was the first board to have farmers as members. Hamilton, Kingston and other city Boards of Trade are following in the footsteps of our Board. We desire to have the farmers join our Board and we will welcome all. If you take the farming away from Canada and what have we left? If we are to be worthy citizens of this grand Empire we must do our part of that magnificent Empire. Some 400,000 of our boys went overseas, but that number will not come back, as a number lie in Flander's fields and other places. The spirit of our Canadian boys was one that all could emulate. The members of the Belleville Holstein Breeders Club are ever welcome in this city.

PLANT BREEDING

Mr. L. H. Newman of Ottawa, spoke of plant breeding and stated in plant breeding, as well as in cattle breeding, the success depended upon intelligence, standards and others qualities. Our best farmers and other qualities ize that in improving the products of their efforts. Corn, wheat and other grains have been improved in the same manner as the breeding of cattle has been improved. There has been a great demand for improved seed grain and especially in the west. Some forty million bushels of grain are needed for the sowing of the land in this country. In some cases the department has not been able to procure enough of registered seed. There is a great demand for it and it is produced as cheaply as other grain, all that is required is a little more care and cleaned. There is an opportunity right here in this district for raising of registered grain. In referring to the raising of cattle the speaker said that he was pleased that the boys of Grenville were going into the business of cattle raising which effort should be encouraged.

LADIES WORK APPRECIATED

The chairman stated that he had endeavored to procure a speaker for the ladies present, but been unable to do so.

The toast to the ladies was proposed and heartily received.

Mr. S. J. Foster, of Bloomfield, responding to the toast said it was a pleasure to see so many ladies present. They were deserving of much credit for what they had done.

Mr. M. E. Maybee also spoke to the toast and eulogized the work done by them in various ways upon the farm. He was pleased to be a member of the Belleville District Holstein Club and the women had done much for the club. During the past four years the ladies of our country had been doing a grand work. All had been conserving our means to prosecute the war. The ladies and even the men must not cease in patriotic work. Memorials are being secured for the fallen heroes and in this respect the ladies could do good work.

Mr. A. E. Phillips also spoke to the toast in an appropriate manner.

RECIPROCAL GREETINGS

Mr. W. E. Tummon, of Crookston, thanked the members of the Belleville District Holstein Club for the kind words of the chairman. The best wishes of the Ayrshire Club go out to the Belleville Holstein Breeders. The interest of the two clubs are identical in the great respect, namely in good breeding of cattle. He hoped the sale would be a success in every respect. The past four years the sales had been held under a great shadow. The calling of agriculture had prospered under the war and it should prosper under the reconstruction period of Canada. If there were people who should be optimistic it is the farmers. We should not be pessimistic in the future. On behalf of the male quartette he thanked all present for the heartiness of their appreciation of their singing.

Mrs. Dempsey, of Ameliasburg, on behalf of the ladies moved a vote of thanks to the speakers, which was seconded by Mrs. Milton E. Maybee of Trenton. Both ladies spoke briefly but appropriately.

After a selection by the male quartette the pleasing and profitable event was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

CYCLOPS NOT SUNK BY GERMAN U-BOATS

BERLIN, April 2.—The German admiralty says it is unable to give any assitance in solving the mystery of the disappearance early in March of last year of the United States with a crew of 15 officers and 221 men, 57 passengers and a cargo of manganese.

Admiralty officials say they received no report of the sinking of the Cyclops. They add that no German submarines were operating at the time in West Indian waters.

State Of Seige In Stuttgart

Three Killed In Street Riot

WALKOUT OF WORKMEN IN STUTTGART FOLLOWED BY GENERAL STRIKE OF ALL CITIZENS IN PROTEST—EVERYONE CEASES WORK, EVEN DOCTORS—ALL TRAFFIC FORBIDDEN AFTER NINE O'CLOCK AT NIGHT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BERLIN, via Copenhagen, April 2.—In a collision between strikers and Government troops at Stuttgart, on Tuesday, three persons were killed and many others wounded. The demonstrators were eventually dispersed and order restored. Labor leaders in Stuttgart have declared a general strike there.

STUTTGART, via Copenhagen, April 2.—The Government has proclaimed a state of siege in the city of Stuttgart and its environs. All shops, theatres and public places must close from eight o'clock in the evening until nine o'clock in the morning, and all street traffic is forbidden after nine o'clock at night. The counter strike which was called as a protest against the general walkout of workmen has been joined by tradesmen, merchants, manufacturers, state and municipal officers, doctors and chemists. No local papers are issued and postal and tramcar services have been suspended.

PRESENT TIME STANDARD TIME

GREENWICH TIME GOVERNS

GREENWICH TIME ADVANCED SUNDAY

ONTARIO AND OTHER PROVINCES OF CANADA ARE GOVERNED BY GREENWICH TIME AS PROVIDED BY STATUTE, AND GREENWICH TIME WAS ADVANCED ONE HOUR LAST SUNDAY — CANADIAN TIME AUTOMATICALLY ADVANCES WITH GREENWICH TIME — PRESENT TIME IS STANDARD TIME UNLESS CHANGED BY STATUTE.

APPARENTLY—

There has been a lot of wasted time, energy and lung-power over the Daylight Saving controversy. As far as Canada is concerned there is no daylight saving question at all.

Ontario and other provinces of Canada are governed by "standard time," which is Greenwich time, and as Greenwich time was advanced one hour last Sunday, "standard time" in Canada is the present or Greenwich time, so provided by statute, (Chap. 132, Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1914, sec. 2 and sub-sections) as follows:

> 2—(i) Where an expression of time occurs in any Act or in any Rule of Court, by-law, deed or other instrument, heretofore or hereafter enacted or executed, or where any hour or other period of time is stated either orally or in writing, or any question as to a period of time arises, the time referred to or intended shall, unless it is otherwise specifically stated, be held to be "standard time."—10 Edw. VII. Cap. 62, s. 2 (i).
> (ii) As regards that part of Ontario which lies east of the meridian of ninety degrees west longitude, standard time shall be reckoned as five hours behind Greenwich time.—2 Geo. V., Chap. 17, s. 28.
> (iii) As regards that part of Ontario which lies west of that meridian, standard time shall be reckoned as six hours behind Greenwich time.—10 Edw. VII., Chap. 62, s. 2 (iii).

From this it would appear that all the fuss and feathers in the debate in Parliament and vote on daylight saving was a sheer waste of effort, as well as all the wounded feelings of the farmers who were apparently robbed of their victory in the very hour of triumph by the refusal of the railway trains to run an hour later than their United States pals; also the overtime work of the municipalities passing by-laws to bring "standard time" into effect: also Sir Henry Drayton, Master of Transportation, grim and great, bringing the railroad bosses in chains to his feet to explain why they conformed with Greenwich time. Some comedy, what?

Ontario by statute made and provided must conform to Greenwich time which is "standard time," and Greenwich time was advanced one hour last Sunday. That surely is easy to understand.

All British Empire traffic and transportation, the sailing of ships, naval and merchant, the running of trains, the definition of time as applied to all legal documents, courts, newspapers and everything else in the British Empire is governed by "standard time" as announced from Greenwich observatory in England, and endorsed and approved by local statute.

Hitherto the Dominion Government has not paid any attention apparently to time regulations and this time it looks as if the government was considerably behind time.

THE PRESENT TIME IS STANDARD TIME UNTIL CHANGED BY STATUTE and it looks as if the best thing everybody could do would be to cheerfully abide by it. If any mistake has occurred it goes back to the Mother Country and was given expression at Greenwich last Sunday.

His Honor Judge Wills was down at Picton on court business and owing to the misunderstanding over the time was obliged to miss his train and had to stay all night there. This started the worthy Judge thinking about the time controversy and upon looking it up found that the present time is not daylight saving time or Borden's time or any other time but the real simon-pure, all wool and a yard wide, legal STANDARD TIME according to Greenwich and the law of Ontario.

So there you are,

German Conference Over Danzig Question

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

ZURICH, Switzerland, April 2—In view of fresh negotiations over the Danzig question the German cabinet has decided to gather the chiefs of all parties of the national assembly at Berlin tomorrow to reach an agreement as to the policy that is to be followed.

Prohibition Not Popular In Chicago

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CHICAGO, April 2—Complete returns today from yesterday municipal elections showed that William Hale Thompson, Republican, was re-elected Mayor for a term of four years by a plurality of 17,000 over Robert M. Sweitzer, Democrat, his nearest competitor and that the city voted wet by a majority of 217,228 in protest against the nation going dry.

Brutal Murder Near Port Hope

Insane Man Kills His Mother

HERBERT COPELAND, WHO HAD BEEN ACTING STRANGELY FOR SEVERAL DAYS, ATTACKS AND KILLS HIS MOTHER IN MOST BRUTAL MANNER, CUTTING OFF HER LIMBS AND SETTING FIRE TO REMAINS—MURDERER ARRESTED.

PORT HOPE, April 2.—One of the most revolting crimes ever perpetrated was committed a few miles west of Newtonville between nine and ten o'clock yesterday morning, when Mrs. Hanna Copeland was brutally murdered by her son, Herbert. The young man had been, it is stated, religiously insane, and had been acting strangely since Saturday. A doctor was called and found the man in a very nervous state, and left some medicine for him. Copeland, however, refused to take the medicine, and he rapidly grew worse, at times becoming violent. Yesterday morning, fearing that something serious might occur, Mrs. Copeland called for the assistance of neighbors. Before the neighbors arrived, Copeland, armed with a large butcher knife, attacked his mother and both arms and legs were severed, after which the crazed man disembowelled his victim and then started a fire in her abdominal cavity. When the neighbors arrived Copeland acted as if in a stupor and remarked: "I have killed her."

Coroner Tucker, of Orono, was called and an inquest will be held. The murderer was placed under arrest by Chief Jarvis, and is now in the Bowmanville jail.

German Bolshevists Demand

Abolition Of Parliament

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

LONDON, April 2.—Describing the outlook in Germany the Berlin correspondent of the Mail says the crisis which is rapidly approaching seems certain to be graver than either the January or March outbreaks. Thousands of people, including many women, attend mass meetings, at which unadulterated Bolshevism is advocated and demands are made for the abolition of parliament.

Mr. Mark Workman, President of the Dominion Steel Corporation, who has just returned from Europe, in an interview predicted a splendid future for Canadian trade.

The Allies have completed their arrangements for the transport of General Haller's army by way of Danzig and there is not likely to be any change in these arrangements.

The League of Nations, as now finally amended in committee, will be discussed at a full meeting of the League Committee next Thursday.

The Germans are said to have an army of 150,000 under General Hindenburg ready to attack the Poles whose force is even larger. An actual clash is not considered likely at present.

The situation is quieter in Hungary, although still critical.

The Bolshevisits made the heaviest artillery attack in many weeks against the allied troops in the northern area yesterday but made no advance.

Shortage Of Food Shops Plundered

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

FRANKFORT, April 2—Three hundred persons accused of plundering shops in this city have been arrested. Disorders due to the shortage of food stuffs have been recently intensified by a reduction of the potato ration from five to three pounds.

Finds His Hearing And Speech In Ugly Attack of "Flu" Fever

TILSONBURG, April 2.—Remarkable indeed are the marvels, and a phenomenal occurrence that is exciting much interest among doctors and citizens in Richmond and Thompsonburg is the strange effect that an attack of influenza has had upon Mr. Lloyd Smuck of Richmond. The young man has been deaf and dumb since he suffered from typhoid fever in his childhood, but recently while ill with influenza fever—a very severe attack—he found his hearing recovered, and he is learning to talk, though, of course, his progress is very slow. "Dummy" Smack as he was nicknamed, is a well-known hockey player, and has captained the Richmond team for the past nine years in the Southern Counties League series held here every winter, and this season piloted the home team through to the finals, when they were defeated for the silverware.

A DOG-GONE SHAME

A dog convention was apparently held last night near the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle streets and of all the howling and growling and scrapping this canine session was worse than a Bolshevist talkfest. Guests at the Hotel Quinte vainly endeavored to sleep through the chorus which was in full swing at two a.m. and later, and many complaints were registered at the desk this morning in consequence. Mr. Jenkins, proprietor of the Quinte, complained to the police and unless there are a few less dogs roaming about the streets there will be a few less dogs to roam anywhere except in the happy hunting grounds for dogs, if such there be

In all seriousness this dog question is getting to be a farce—what with the high cost of living and the need for conservation what excuse have a lot of these mangy curs got for living anyway. They can be seen in packs of from three to ten ranging freely the highways and byways and pieways of Belleville and license tags are as scarce among them as fleas are plentiful. Surely we can do without a bunch of these useless canines; in any event we can do without their presence on the streets at night. Let their owners tie them up and support them if they are that fond of them, the neighbors are getting tired of having to hang up everything beyond their reach.

Dogs habitually roaming the streets at night alone should be impounded and destroyed if the owners do not care to pay the redemption price which should be high.

Claims That Priest Had Influenced Him

Youth Accused of Evading Draft Therefore Had Ignored Call.

QUEBEC, April 1.—Laurent Ouellette of Malvina, Compton county, was tried before a court-martial at Quebec on the charge of evading the draft.

Questioned by his attorney, Mr. Edouard Belleau the accused was induced to state that he was perfectly willing to report for military service, but that he was persuaded from doing so by a Redemptorist Father who was at the time preaching a mission in the parish. Ouellette said that the priest told him that the young man's initial duty was to stay at home, and that although he had received his regular draft call he ignored it.

The attorney for the accused, in his plea, told the court that in this case the guilty party was not the draft-evader, but the responsible person who had caused him to shrink from the army, and he asked for the tribunal's clemency.

LEGISLATURE WORKS ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

TORONTO, April 2.—The Ontario Legislature will adopt the Daylight Saving plan, Sir William Hearst made this announcement at the opening of the session and asked the concurrence of the House. Mr. Wellington Hay, North Perth, wanted the Government to pass a provincial measure bringing the plan into force forthwith. He had talked with many farmers who had told him that they would have to fall in with the scheme because the railways had adopted the new schedule.

Mr. Proudfoot, while personally in favor of Daylight Saving, suggested that action be deferred until final action was taken by the Railway Board.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

Father's bringing up must have been very bad judging from the characteristics he displays in Gus Hill's conception of George McManus newspaper cartoon creations of Jiggs Mahoney, who has wealth wished on him and a wife Maggie, who desires to break into society. Father must have been brought up on beer and bananas judging from the latest version of the cartoon series.

As usual John E. Cain as Jiggs, is the whole show, giving a very clever and entertaining presentation of a peculiar character. He was assisted by a bunch of lively, shapely limbs attached to a well-costumed chorus, attractive dances and catchy songs.

The popular craze for this class of entertainment was shown by the large attendance, the rush line beginning to gather shortly after six When the curtain went up at 8.30 every seat up stairs, down stairs and in the boxes was occupied and many stood through the performance Those fearful nuisances, late-comers, were worse than usual last night, and tramped in and over everybody until after nine o'clock with great glee and abandon, the first act for the most part being entirely inaudible and invisible to many in the audience on account of the barrage of the late-comers. It is high time the management put a stop to this unnecessary annoyance to patrons who care enough about the entertainment, and the feelings of others to come early.

BRILLIANT MUSICAL OFFERING

A veritable deluge of fun and femininity is promised in John Cort's brilliant musical comedy success "Flo Flo" which comes to Griffin's Opera House next Tuesday night following its all-year run at the Cort Theatre New York, with the special "Flo Flo" symphony orchestra. "Flo Flo" has all the graces of the musical comedy of the past and any number of new ones which are essentially her own, including a chorus of beauty and grace, a special musical score which will prove a delight, a scenic background which has never been equalled in loveliness, and a typical John Cort cast of musical comedy favorites. The chorus incidentally numbers nothing but "Perfect 36" models and has that rare medium, a sense of humor, exhibited at each performance in a series of eccentric dances.

WEEK-END FEATURES AT THE MOVIES

Constance Talmadge at the Palace

"Up the Road With Sallie," adapted by Julia Crawford Ivers from the novel of the same name by Frances Sterret is Constance Talmadge's latest production, and will be the attraction at the Palace tomorrow to Saturday. This photoplay offers the captivating comedienne a role in which she can be capricious, as vivacious and as lovable as may be expected from the delightful characterizations she has shown on the screen in the past. Miss Talmadge is Sallies Waters, a thoroughly light-hearted young girl who, at the death of her uncle, Joshua Cabot, has the opportunity to take her automobile, her five thousand dollar share of his estate and start off in search of adventure after having kidnapped her dignified old Aunt Martha Off to a lonely house they go, and there they meet two youths whom they suspect of being criminals in hiding. Now each of these groups tries to lead the other out of a "Life in Crime" provides an excruciatingly humorous story. It is Constance Talmadge at her best; "Nuff Sed!"

Elsie Ferguson and Wallace Reid

Elsie Ferguson, the beautiful screen star, has a superb photoplay in "His Parisian Wife" her latest starring vehicle which will be screened at Griffin's tomorrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. Miss Ferguson plays the part of a girl reported of Paris and the role is said to afford her ample opportunities for the display of her rich dramatic talents.

What is a Dub? In the parlence of the submerged tenth it is a man who succeeds in muddling everything with which he comes in contact and who is unable to do anything right. It also suggests one who does his work carelessly or indifferently—you hear of people "dubbing along" at some given task. Probably the best synonym for dub is what is commonly known as 'A poor Fish'. Anyway if you want to find what a dub is really like, see "The Dub" in which Wallie Reid appears on the same programme with Elsie Ferguson. Oddly enough in the end, star proves that he isn't a dub after all and the story rounds out into a decidedly interesting series of complications with a surprising finish.

A screaming farce indeed, is "His Wife's Friend," the latest two-act Sennett comedy with Charles Murray, Gonda Durand as the chief comedians which comprises the comedy portion of the program. From start to finish, this excellent comedy is filled with mirth provoking action and it is a highly enjoyable treat. The Allied Review will also be screened.

"THE SILVER KING" CLOSES TONIGHT

Tonight will see the last presentation of that fine old English melodrama, "The Silver King," at Griffin's with William Faversham in the title role. It is a most interesting production. Upon the same program is a charming little story entitled "The Secret Garden," which is a feature in itself. The programe is well diversified by a Mutt and Jeff cartoon and a strenuous Sennett comedy. Altogether it is one of the most satisfactory programme seen in Belleville for many a day.

Tom Moore in "Thirty a Week" closes tonight at the Palace. With plenty of pep, thrills and superb photography "Thirty a Week" made a big hit. Comedy, travelogue and Pathe News complete a good program which will be shown for the last time tonight.

Letters to the Editor

SELLING CHEESE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir.—Since cheese factories closed for last season there has been a good deal of discussion with reference to the selling of factory cheese, and some speakers have been advocating what they called nationalizing the sales wherein instead of each factory output being sold separately a number would be sold together. Mr. F. E. Ellis tries to make it appear that it would be beneficial and saving to factorymen to adopt this way of selling, but I think he is entirely mistaken. He says cheese boards have been failures and are too expensive both for factorymen and buyers to attend. The cheese boards have been a great help to factorymen and cost no more than needful. Mr. Ellis refers to a cheese board meeting he attended some years ago at Peterboro, which I think does not have much to do with cheese boards today. But this I know from experience that Peterboro has been one of the most successful cheese boards in Ontario and did well for its patrons. Mr. Ellis says it is too expensive for buyers driving around the country to inspect cheese. This is a very necessary business and need not be very expensive. What is wanted now the war is over is for the Ontario Cheese to have an open market for selling to exporters and for exporters to have open markets in England. Each factory board should board their cheese regularly so as to have the competition of all the buyers and cheese sold subject to factory inspection and settled for when shipped, so that factorymen will know what they are receiving for their cheese when leaving the factories. I have letters from some of the largest firms in England ready to do business as soon as direct business can be done by cable.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XV—Continued

"I suppose so," said Faith, a little vaguely.

Mrs. Fulton looked at her sharply.

"I have always been in the habit of giving my girls that amount of time. Of course, you don't have to take it if you don't want to."

"I should like my Sunday. I want to be able to go to church," said Faith boldly.

"Of course. We have late dinner, say two or half-past. After that, you are at liberty for the rest of the day."

Faith did not say anything, and Mrs. Fulton took her down to the kitchen, which was furnished in a complete manner that pleased Faith the moment she stepped into it.

"Are you ready to begin work to-day?" asked Mrs. Fulton, after explaining the range, and showing Faith where the articles were.

"Yes, ma'am."

"Very well. We have lunch at one. Dinner at half-past six. Mr. Fulton does not come out from the city until night. I expect my son and daughter from school always. Can you go ahead and get lunch without any help?"

"Yes, ma'-m." Faith answered simply. She had determined to let her work speak for itself. She had her father's self-possession in such matters. Besides, she found herself laboring under a pleasant excitement that stimulated her. She knew she would be able to do her best.

Mrs. Fulton looked at her new help again with some sharpness.

"Where did you say you were from? I mean, before you came to the city?"

"My home is in Kansas."

"No farther than Chicago is from Kansas," said Faith, again after her fashion, looking straight at Mrs. Fulton.

The woman of the house seemed amused this time. She seemed also to be on the point of asking more questions. But finally went out of the kitchen leaving Faith in possession there.

As Mrs. Fulton sat down in the parlor, she sighed, but it was evidently a sigh of relief.

"I never did such a thing before, to hire a girl on such slender knowledge. But she looked clean and intelligent," she said to herself. "And I am so tired of the help I have been having. I expect, of course, to be disappointed in her. I always am. But I'll let her try it for a week and see."

Mrs. Fulton sighed again and went upstairs to look after some of the work there, for no matter how many girls she might have had, or how capable they may have been, she was a born housekeeper and never was satisfied unless she was doing something herself.

Meanwhile, Faith down in the kitchen, planned and prepared a lunch that was a delightful surprise to the family when it sat down at half-past twelve. She had rightly supposed that Mrs. Fulton was a generous provider, and she found an excellent supply of everything in the larder. Dorothy had taught Faith cooking, and had even gone beyond the simple, plain cooking ordinarily common in the life at the parsonage. It was not a difficult thing, therefore, with the supply before her, for Faith to produce a dainty and appetizing lunch.

When she rang the bell a few minutes before the time, the boy, who had been in the library, came in and sat down at once. Mrs. Fulton, who had not been able to keep out of the kitchen altogether, in spite of her determination to let the new girl manage alone, sat down with a feeling of surprise as she viewed the table. The girl, who was about Faith's age, came in from the parlor, where she had been playing exercises on the piano, and the lunch proceeded with many favorably comments, especially from the boy, who had brought home with him a school boy's appetite.

"Say, this salad is all right," said the young gentleman, as he passed his plate for the third time. "Hope you'll keep this new girl for life."

"She certainly has done very well for the first time. I expect it will wear off soon. We never had a girl yet that kept it up very long," said Mrs. Fulton. She rang the bell for something, and Faith came in. It was the first time the boy and girl had seen her.

She was somewhat embarrassed, but she served something on the table quietly and gracefully. Something in her manner seemed to attract the girl who, after a moment of awkward silence said.

"Mother, you have forgotten to introduce Roy and me."

"Oh!" said Mrs. Fulton, with a shade of annoyance. "Yes, this is my daughter, Alice, and my son, Roy—Faith—what did you say your name was?"

"Kirk, Faith Kirk."

"Yes, Kirk. You can bring in the desert now, Faith, if you have any. Have you?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied Faith. She could not help looking at the other girl with interest. She was pale, and did not seem to be very well. She was the extreme opposite to her mother, evidently. There was a pleasant smile on her face as she nodded to Faith, and Faith would have been a very stupid girl if she had not noticed the look and been warmed at the heart by it.

"Wish you would leave that salad here," said Roy, as Faith was about to take it off the table.

"Roy," said his mother, sharply. "You have had all the salad that is good for you to-day. Faith, take it out."

Faith removed the dish and Roy made a face, and said, "What have you got for dessert? Applie pie?"

Mrs. Fulton rebuked him again, and Faith went out with the dishes. She cleared the cloth deftly, and then brought in the dessert, which to Master Roy's great satisfaction happened to be a delicious apple pie, made from one of Dorothy's own recipes.

"This is what I call a pie," said Roy, as he attacked a segment which represented about a quarter of a circle.

"It won't be a pie very long at the rate you are eating now," said his sister.

"There's another, I hope, isn't there?" he asked Faith, anxiously. "I like it cold for dinner."

Faith nodded, and Mrs. Fulton looked sternly at her boy. But she was pleased with the new girl so far. When the lunch was over, and Faith was clearing everything away, Mrs. Fulton and the children were talking about her in the parlor.

"Mother, I'm sure she's not just an ordinary hired girl. She seemed to me like a lady," said Alice.

"You needn't try to spoil her," Mrs Fulton said with a near approach at irritation. "She is apparently a capable girl as far as cooking goes. She may be a failure in other ways."

"The cooking is the main thing," said Master Roy, as he strapped his books together and started off to school. "That last girl we had didn't know how to boil eggs. I vote for the new girl every time."

That afternoon Faith continued with her work, sonscious that so far she had pleased the family. When Mr. Fulton came home and sat down to the dinner, he was agreeably surprised and joined with the rest in praises of the new girl.

"I think you have found a treasure," said Mr. Fulton. "And if so, we ought to pay her four dollars a week. She is a superior cook."

"By all means, my dear," said Mrs. Fulton. "We can afford to give that to keep her."

When Faith came in to serve that evening, she was startled as she recognized in Mr. Fulton the gray-haired man who stood in front of the picture with the young gentleman he had called "Malcolm." Evidently, Mr. Fulton did not recognize her or remember that he had seen her before. He seemed like a man who was completely engrossed in his business. He was generous, and wanted the best of everything, especially for his table. Like the other in his family, he welcomed, with a feeling of relief, the domestic service, which meant comfort and pleasure in the affairs of the kitchen and the table.

At the close of the week Mrs. Fulton felt so well satisfied that she told Faith she would give her four dollars a week to remain. Faith accepted the offer, and in her room that Saturday night, she took account of her surroundings with considerable satisfaction.

"I am really making more money than I was in the studio," she said to herself. "Nearly all I make now is clear gain. I get my board, room and washing, and that saves a large bill of expense. If I went into a store at five or six dollars a week, and had to pay my board, I couldn't save anything."

She was right about that, for she had come away from home well provid- with clothes, and her expenses, outside of board, and room, and car fare had been almost nothing.

There was one thing that troubled her now, however.

She had not written home of her present place of work. She said to herself that she ought to tell her mother frankly how it all came about, and that resolve seemed to give her peace of mind. She would write home tomorrow, Sunday afternoon.

But when Sunday came several things happened through the day to disturb her.

AMENDMENTS TO O.T.A. READY THIS WEEK

TORONTO, April 2—During this week it is expected that the Ontario Government will reveal to the Legislature most of the remaining important legislation which it intends bringing down this session. The Government marked time for the first month, while the debate proceeded on the Speech from the Throne and the Budget, but on Wednesday last nine or ten of its important bills were introduced.

The Government hopes to wind up its business by Easter—that has been the custom for a number of years—and to do so all the business must be transacted within the next three weeks. This is a gigantic task and means much hard work on the part of the law-makers. It is expected that this week, likely after the Conservative caucus, the amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act, whereby the Government will take over control of the liquor business, will be introduced.

MAKING THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME.

"Say, when it comes right down to it, Mawruss, and if you don't want to show the feller no mercy at all, y'understand," Abe said, "what's the matter with making him see some of them war plays they was putting on in New York last winter?"

"Why only war plays?" Morris asked. "I sat through a couple of musical shows last winter without the option of a fine, y'understand, and it would be a good thing if the Kaiser could see performances like that—just to make him realize that in losing his throne, y'understand, he has no longer got the power to order the actors shot, together with the composer and the man that wrote the jokes."

So moralizes Montague Glass in his Potash & Perlmutter entertaining series, in discussing a fitting punishment of William Hohenzollern for his crimes. Mawruss has evidently suffered like the rest of us.

HER DAY'S WORK.

Amelia E. Barr, whose death was recently recorded, wrote many books which were read and appreciated by many readers. It might be said that she became an author by accident for her home life was shadowed for years by one financial misfortune after another and the first small check she received for her prentice literary effort came in extremely handy to keep the family pot boiling and was an inspiration to follow the career in which she afterwards made such a conspicuous success. Gifted with a happy, courageous spirit and unflagging industry, she refused to accept defeat in life's conflict and although forty years of age when her first novel was completed she lived to write many more, and up to the time of her death recently at the age of eighty-eight, retained remarkable mental and physical vitality. on the eve of her eighty-second birthday she said:

> "My day's work is as long as it was twenty years ago, and I have quite as much pleasure in it now as I had then. I have rarely a headache now. I was rarely without one then. I have made my living for forty-two years in a stooping posture, but I am perfectly erect, and I ascend the stairs as rapidly as I ever did. Life is still sweet and busy, and my children talk of what I am going to do in the future as if I was immortal. And I hope and pray when the Master comes He will find me at my desk writing such words as will please Him to see. For to literature, humanly speaking, I am indebted not only for my l'ving, but also for every blessing I enjoy—health of body, activity of mind, cheerfulness, contentment and continual employment, therefore continual happiness."

WHAT A CANADIAN WRITES IS HIS OWN.

A complete change in the basis of copyright is in the new bill now before the Senate special committee. Formerly in Canada there had to be registration before copyright. Now the right "subsists in every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work." It becomes an automatic right, subject only to conditions of citizenship, etc. There is to be an optional registration as a simple method of proof, but such registration is not necessary.

How does the new bill affect newspapers? In the first place, whatever is copyrightable in the paper becomes protected automatically. If registration is desired, the whole paper, and not merely individual articles can be registered. Moreover, one registration will serve to copyright all subsequent issues.

Provision is made for the rights of staff contributors to newspapers as well as for the owner of the paper. If the writer of a story or article is in the employment of another and the work is done in the course of his employment, the employer, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, shall be the first owner of the copyright, but, again, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, there shall be reserved to the writer himself the power to restrain other publication. Book rights, for example, will be reserved to the original writer.

There is to be no infringement of copyright if a newspaper publishes a report of a political address at a public meeting. Lectures, however, can be copyrighted by notice, and made immune from report, but a newspaper can give a summary of the lecture. All these provisions follow the lead of the British Act.

.·. CRISP COMMENT .·.

One out of every nine marriages in the United States ends in divorce. It is a sorry reflection upon society and morals. The scriptural injunction, "Until death do them part," is lightly regarded, if regarded at all. One may be excused for wondering whither we are drifting.—Kingston Whig.

The Deceased Wife's Sister's Act, which was passed by the British Parliament several years ago, makes it lawful for a man to marry the sister of his former wife, but not for a woman to marry her deceased husband's brother. A recent decision of the British Divorce Court annulled such a marriage on the petition of the man.—Mail and Empire.

Some of the hopelessly incurable Grit newspapers, of which there are a few left among those bad guessers who actively or silently "safety-first" opposed Union Government in-the-making, are trying laboriously to manufacture political capital against the Government of Canada over the Daylight Saving vote. The attempt is somewhat laborious in view of the fact that the leader of the Opposition voted against Daylight Saving and his followers voted for or against it as pleased their fancy or their constituents.

At the dinner tendered to Major Fitzgerald, M.C., at Toronto, by the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association, J. R. Robinson, Editor of The Telegram, of which Major Fitzgerald was the Sporting Editor when he enlisted, said that promotion was more rapid in the Fitzgerald family than in that of Robinson. He referred to the fact that his grandfather was a bombardier in 1815, fighting over the same ground as his son, Corporal Robinson, recently battled across with the Canadian artillery. "Thus it has taken my family one hundred and four years to get two stripes," said the Editor of The "Tely."

The Housing Scheme.

Renfrew Journal.

The Housing Bill has been adopted by the Ontario Legislature this week, the purpose of which is to provide Government funds for the erection of houses costing not more than $3,500 each, including the land. The conditions under which advances will be made to municipalities are easy and favorable. The type of houses to be constructed is most desirable. It will meet the requirements of many in Renfrew who desire to end their own homes, but who are prevented by financial reasons from doing so. There is a demand in Renfrew for just this type of house. The Journal had recently had many inquiries to rent such houses. The Town Council has not yet given the matter any attention, but it is time that it did. The amount of money for distribution is limited. Why should not Renfrew get in on a good thing while the getting is good?

Sunlight Smash at Free Trade.

Toronto Telegram.

Old Country Free Trade is wounded in a recent speech delivered by that eminent Free Trader, Lord Leverhulme of Port Sunlight.

Free Traders have to explain to Lord Leverhulme's satisfaction why the Cobdenite conditions only increased the wages of Old Country labor one penny per hour in the thirty years previous to 1914.

Free Traders also have to tell Lord Leverhulme why the protective conditions of war increased the wages of Old Country labor 100 per cent. in the four years 1914-18.

Old Country Cobdenism is condemned out of the mouth of Lord Leverhulme in the terms of a calculation that condemns the whole Cobdenite system. The Leverhulme figures credit industries of Free Trade Britain with an output per employee only one-third the volume and value of the product per employee engaged in the protected industries of the United States.

Jay Walkers.

Kingston Standard.

The Hamilton Spectator draws attention to a habit that is as dangerous as it is foolish—the erratic peregrinations of "jay walkers" wherever the street traffic happens to be the thickest. It points out that in that city at the corner of King and James streets, crossing has been marked out with conspicuously white lines for the guidance of foot passengers; but these are far too frequently ignored, to the discomfiture of the traffic officer and the misery of the drivers. The constable on duty has no power to deal with the offenders, the matter being left to the good sense of the pedestrians themselves, but that is proving a weak reed to lean upon. It is about time that general regulations were introduced for pedestrians. Automobiles have altered the conditions of the streets and greatly increased their dangers. Kingstonians appreciate that thoroughly. There should be defined rules as to the crossings of streets, which have become as requisite to study as railway crossing, perhaps more so. In some large cities in the States there are penalties imposed on pedestrians who do not use the proper crossings indicated. There are laws for automobiles which their owners very generally try to obey: and the time has come when bith in their interests, in fairness to them, and for the benefit of the public, regulations should be made for pedestrians.

Ever notice what a lot of friends your enemies have?

Danger of Explosion.

"Was Maud's make-up as obvious as usual at the party last night?"

"Was it? Mercy! Whenever her face lit up I was afraid it would set off the powder."

Worse Men Than He.

"I may be an Anarchist," he said, "but——"

"But what?" cried a man in the audience.

"I'm not a Bolshevist anyhow."

The Scholarly Cut.

"You did not speak to him?"

"No," replied the scholarly girl. "When I passed him I gave him the geological survey."

"The geological survey?"

"Yes. What is commonly known as the stony stare."

Departed Glories.

"There goes Mrs. 'Emmingway—I am sorry for the pore dear!"

"Why—wot's 'er trouble?"

Kitchen in Mourning.

"Here, waiter! This steak is positively burnt black."

May Be Mistaken.

Weary and worn and sad, the young man, who was prematurely grey, crawled to the registrar's office.

"Are you quite sure," he asked "that that was a marriage license you gave me three months ago?"

"Quite—quite—of course!" said the registrar. "Why do you ask?"

"Because I've led a dog's life ever since."

BEFORE OR AFTER INFLUENZA

By Dr. M. Cook

The cool fighter always wins and so there is no need to become panic-stricken. Avoid fear and crowds. Exercise in the fresh air and practise the three C's: a Clean Mouth, a Clean Skin and Clean Bowels. To carry off the poisons that accumulate within the body and to ward off an attack of the influenza bacillus, take a good liver regulator to move the bowels, such as Castor Oil or a pill made up of May-apple, leaves of aloe and root of jalap, to be had at any drug store, and called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The system should be built up by the use of a good iron tonic, such as "Irontic" tablets, to be obtained at some drug stores, or that well known blood-maker and herbal tonic made from roots and barks of forest trees—sold everywhere as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

For a tonic that will freshen up the blood, clean the digestive tract and put new force and vim into you, I know of nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and it contains no alcohol or narcotic so is perfectly safe to take.

Windsor, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his 'Pleasant Pellets' are wonderful medicines for home use. I used to suffer with weak lungs, smothering spells and sick-headaches, but since I have taken the above mentioned medicines these conditions have left me.

"Such medicines as Dr. Pierce's are worthy of praise and I am very glad to add my testimonial to the thousands of others."—Mrs. Ellen Harding, 11 Erie Street, West.

WOMAN SAVED MUCH SUFFERING
By taking Friend's Advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
West Plains, Mo.—"I was all run down in health, had indigestion and terrible cramps every month so I was unable to do anything. I had tried every doctor in West Plains, also every remedy I could think of, without relief. One day when I was suffering greatly a friend was at my house and said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I did, and through it, I found relief from my suffering and I really believe it saved my life. It does not seem as though I can say enough in praise of this wonderful medicine for the health it has brought me."—Miss Cora Lee Hall, West Plains, Mo.
Perhaps it may seem an extravagant statement to say that this great remedy saved a life; but women like Mrs. Hall, to whom it has brought health, appreciate the danger and suffering they have escaped too well to doubt it! All who suffer should try it. Why risk life and health without it?

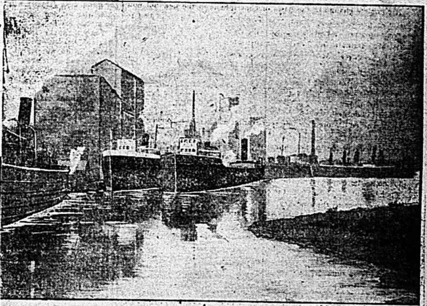
Shipping the Golden Grain



Grain steamers in Goderich Harbor.

EVEN more than California looked to her gold camps, more than Washington turns to Alaska, all Canada anxiously watches, day by day, the progress of her annual prosperity as registered by the barometer of her prairie crops. The grain crop is like a huge river of gold, which rises through the spring and summer and then bursts its bounds, running in torrents to the sea, and, flowing with this stream of golden grain, comes an era of prosperity which finds expression in development of all kinds.

Canada has, for years, pursued an active legislative and constructive policy in keeping abreast with the ever widening development of its agricultural resources in the west. Each year has seen an immense additional acreage under the plow and each fall has shown vast additions to the bulk of the crop. This has been particularly true of the grain in Western Canada. Rails have been laid in all directions, so that one of the biggest items in the Canadian Pacific's annual budget has been the extension and construction of branch lines tapping newly developed country. In this respect, it may be noted that for years the Canadian Pacific has been the premier grain carrier of the Land of the Maple Leaf and from all indications of the present it will probably remain so until the end of Canadian history.

Elevators form a chain across the plains until soon they will stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. They have been built by the Canadian Pacific, by the Dominion Government, by private corporations, by individuals and by co-operative organizations.

Canada's method of grading grain is considered as good as, if not better than, any other method in the world. Every whim of nature, as indicated in the grain crops, which vary year by year in an amazing variety of ways, has been provided for in the classes into which the grain is separated by the laws enacted by parliament and by the sub-divisions created by the Standard Board. Therefore, western spring wheat often has as many as 31 different grades, and winter wheat the same. This also applies to the other grains.

One of the Canadian ports on the Great Lakes which has recently made considerable progress in the handling of grain is Goderich, on Lake Huron. Nine grain vessels wintered in Goderich harbor, and seven of them are as fine grain carriers as will be found in any port on the lakes. Three of the vessels, the Central West, the C. G. Breitung and the Megaunee, are of United States registration, and the captains are loud in their praises of the Goderich harbor.

It would probably be an eye-opener to many to be told that there is at the present time over ten million dollars' worth of property at the dock in connection with the grain trade through this port, yet that figure is probably a conservative one. First of all, taking the nine vessels at an average of $500,000 the vessel property in port would amount to $4,500,000. Then there are three million bushels of grain in store or afloat, representing another $2,750,000 at least. Add to this the elevator and mill property and we have another $1,750,000, allowing $750,000 as a valuation for the mill and putting each of the elevators down at $500,000.

The vessels constituting the Goderich winter fleet are the Bickerdyke, Capt. Johnston; the Central West, Capt. Ronnel; the C. G. Breitung, Capt. Buchannan; the Megaunee, Capt. Morrison; the Home Smith, Capt. A. McIntyre; the Agawa, Capt. Montgomery; the Midland King, Capt. McLennan; the Martiau, Capt. R. McIntyre, and the Ionic, Capt. Wing. And the outfitting of these vessels this spring will involve many thousands of dollars spent in Goderich. The repairs to be made on the Martiau are estimated at $4,000, and the repairs on the fleet of nine vessels will run to at least $10,000.

The Goderich elevator the past year has handled a very large business, the grain receipts being 10,310,000 bushels, and this record was only slightly exceeded in the best year the elevator ever had, the year 1916. The Western Canada Flour Mills Co., Ltd., also has handled a large amount of grain, over 2,500,000 bushels.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

The evangelistic services conducted for the past month at Bethany Methodist church, Canifton circuit, by the pastor, the Rev. J. S. McMullen, ably assisted by Mrs. McMullen and the devoted Christian people of this splendid congregation, came to a close Friday evening, March the 21st, when the following address was read by Mrs. John Ritz and presentation made by Mrs. Chas. Liddell.

Though genuinely surprised Mr. and Mrs. McMullen fittingly replied to the effect that they had labored with this people only for the salvation of souls and the upbuilding of Christ's kingdom, and the best services they were capable of rendering were none too good for the glory of God and the spiritual blessing of the kind-hearted, thoughtful and generous people of Bethany.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. McMullen:—For several weeks past you have labored among us for the salvation of precious souls.

Many times you have left your cosy parsonage home when the weather was unfavorable, and yourselves physically unfit to drive so far, hoping for no other reward than the joy of leading souls to Christ.

Your labors have not been in vain as many will date the time of their conversion from the revival held at Bethany, March 1919.

Also among those who have been long in the Christian way are many who have been led into a fuller knowledge of Christ and have in these meetings reached heights never before attained.

We, on behalf of the congregation ask you to accept this purse of money not that we can in any way repay you for the service done our church, but that you may know we appreciate to the full your work among us.

(Signed).
Mrs. J. Ritz.
Mrs. G. Hamilton.
Mrs. C. Liddell.
Mrs. W. J. Yateman.

REAL HELP FOR TIRED FEET

A busy day and on your feet most of the time—a long, tiresome trip or a hike in the country—new shoes to break in—all these mean tired feet. Soothe and rest them by applying a few drops of Absorbine, Jr. Or, if you are very tired and your feet burn, ache or swell, soak them in a solution of Absorbine Jr., and water. Relief will be prompt and lasting.

You will like the "feel" of this clean, fragrant and antiseptic liniment. It penetrates quickly, leaves no greasy residue, and is intensely refreshing. Only a few drops needed to do the work as Absorbine, Jr., is highly concentrated.

You will find dozens of uses for Absorbine, Jr., as a dependable first-aid remedy and regular toilet adjunct; to reduce inflammatory conditions—sprains, wrenches, painful, swollen veins. To allay pain anywhere. To spray the throat if sore or infected. To heal cuts, bruises, lacerations and sores.

CANADA MAY STOP EXPORT OF GOLD

Ottawa, April 2.—Sir Thomas White has given notice of a resolution providing that the Governor in Council may by proclamation from time to to time declare that the export of gold coin, gold bullion and fine gold bars from the Dominion is prohibited, except in such cases as may be deemed desirable by the Minister of Finance under licenses issued by him. The bill to be based upon this resolution, when passed by Parliament, will give the Minister of Finance more complete control of the export of gold. It is provided that this change in the existing law will be in operation only for two years after the termination of the war.

WORKMAN'S FORTUNE OF $1,400 RECOVERED

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 2.—The small fortune of $1,400 lost by Frank Simon, a foreign workman on the Hydro Power Canal, when his effects were removed from his boarding house when it was on fire, was recovered by Provincial Officer John Pay. Pay found a little girl who saw a young lad pick up some money. The officer went to the lad's place. The mother denied having the money, so the officer took the youngster outside and questioned him and he admitted having given the money to his mother. Even then the woman would not give up the fortune till the bills were identified by Simon. Simon gave the youngster a dollar reward.

"Just What I Needed" Says J. A. McKeith

Has Improved Wonderfully Ever Since He Began Taking Tanlac

"Tanlac proved to be just what I had been needing for the past five years," said Jas. A. McKeith, of 1889 Davenport Road, Weston, near Toronto, Ont.

"Everything I would eat," he continued, "seemed to lodge right in the pit of my stomach and I suffered terribly with indigestion and I felt bloated with gas for three or four hours after every meal. I would just drag myself off to work without eating a bite of breakfast and tried all sorts of medicine without getting any better.

"I have been improving ever since I began taking Tanlac. The indigestion has about left me, and I can eat with more satisfaction than I could before in a long time. Indigestion and gas on my stomach don't bother me now at all and from the way Tanlac has fixed me up I am glad to recommend it."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

Canada To Adopt New Coat Of Arms

Committee of Officials Has Been Appointed by the Government.

OTTAWA, April 2.—Consideration is being given by the Government to the question of adopting a coat-of-arms for the Dominion of Canada which will be representative of all the provinces comprised in the Confederation. A committee of officials has been appointed to take up the subject and consider designs submitted to it. The committee consists of Thomas Mulvey, K.C., Under Secretary of State; Sir Joseph Pope, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs; Major-General Gwatkin, Chief of the General Staff and Dr. A. G. Doughty, Dominion Archivist. The present coat-of-arms is representative of the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which originally composed the Canadian Confederation. That coat-of-arms was adopted in 1885. Since then Prince Edward Island and British Columbia have entered the Federation. Manitoba has been constituted, and finally Saskatchewan and Alberta have been carved out of what was the North West Territories. When a design emblematic of the nine provinces of Canada has been selected by the committee just appointed, and approved by the Government, it will be submitted to the Royal College of Heralds in England and registered. A Royal warrant declaring it to be the official arms of Canada will then be issued.

There has been some agitation of late in favor of the adoption of a new coat-of-arms. Quite recently the subject was discussed by a number of correspondents in The Mail and Empire.

LONDON WOMEN PLAN TO REDUCE BUTTER PRICE

LONDON, April 2.—Mrs. A. E. Tutt, president of the Union of Mothers' Clubs of London, has summoned a special general meeting to consider a proposal to boycott the use of butter until the dealers reduce prices. Butter is now dearer than it has been in many months and a jump to 62 cents a pound for creamery prints on the London market Saturday prompted action by the Mothers' Clubs. Two weeks ago butter was available here for 50 to 54 cents. The Mothers' Clubs will also organize a campaign to oppose any proposal to again prohibit the importation and sale of oleomargarine.

TABLET TO ORANGEMEN

A tablet was unveiled in Western District Orange Hall, College and Euclid streets, Toronto, in memory of 250 soldiers, Orangemen from that district, who fell in the great war.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable —never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian Northern Railway System

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday March 30th, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railways will at 2.00 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from this important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave railway stations on present schedules, such schedules will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore, in municipalities where local time is not changed to correspond with the new railway time, passengers must reach railway stations ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time table posters.

Where the municipal time is changed to correspond with the new railway time passengers will not experience any difficulty growing out of the change.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT TO CHILD

On Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock a painful accident occurred to a 10 year old daughter of Mr. Fisher residing on McDonald Avenue. The child was climbing upon a waggon when she slipped and fell in such a manner that her right leg was caught in the wheel and she suffered a severe fracture between the hip and knee. The little girl was conveyed to her parent's home where the fracture was reduced and she is doing as well as can be expected.

WOOLLEN MILLS TO SHARE ORDERS

Messrs. Arthur McNaughton and Charles Logan of Renfrew attended the meeting of woollen manufacturers in Toronto held for the allotment of orders in connection with the $3,180,000 order for woollens given by the Roumanian Government. The Roumanians want men's socks, women's stockings, men's and boy's underwear, women's and girl's cotton and wool underwear woollen cloth and blankets. These will be used to supply war sufferers in Roumania. About four months will be allowed for filling the entire order, and the Renfrew mills will get a full share provided Roumania can maintain a stable form of government.

Mining Institute Meets At Madoc

At Madoc, Ontario, March 27th, 1919, a meeting of the Hastings District Branch of the Canadian Mining Institute was held, a representative gathering being present from Kingston, Belleville, Madoc and Deloro, Mr. W. Cros, Madoc, occupying the chair. Important discussion took place relative to the Flourspar Industry of Hastings County, the utilization of power for the development of this mining district and the development of the Iron Ore resources of this locality. A motion was passed that the Federal Government be petitioned to grant a bonus of $1.00 per ton on all Iron Ores in the Hastings District for the following reasons viz:—

1 Making possible the development of a national iron and steel industry using Canadian raw materials, it being noted that 94 per cent of iron ore melted in Canadian furnaces in 1918 was imported, whereas our own large resources of iron ore are available but of such a character as to make competition with imported ores impossible.

2 To make immediately available a profitable field of labor for returning soldiers.

3 To provide additional tonnage and traffic for our Canadian National Railways along which these deposits of ore occur to a great extent.

4 To encourage the development and use of electrical power in smelting our domestic ores, in place of imported fuel.

It was also decided to hold the April meeting in Madoc. Subject "Flourspar," Technical discussion in charge of A. W. Grierson, asisted by R. C. Bryden and H. L. Donaldson.

May meeting, Subject, "Power," to be held in Belleville, Technical discussion in charge of J. W. Evans.

June meeting to be held at Deloro, Subject "Smelting and Refining Cobalt Ores and the Production of the By-Products from these Ores," Technical discussion in charge of S. B. Wright and R. A. Elliott.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Canadian Press, Limited.

Paris, April 2.—The proposal that the French indemnity from Germany be merely outlined instead of calculated in the preliminary peace treaty is attacked by several newspapers. Some of them declare that this method would raise endless difficulties between financiers and between France and Germany. The Journal even fears that such a settlement would pave the way to a new war rather than to peace.

Germany Gives In.

Paris, April 2.—Germany will not persist in her opposition to the use of Dantzig by Polish troops on the way from France to Poland, according to advices reaching Paris newspapers. Marshal Foch, who had planned to leave last night, will leave Paris today for Spa to meet the German representatives to discuss the Dantzig question. The Marshal had a long conference on Tuesday with Premier Clemenceau.

Revolt Against Bolsheviki.

London, April 2.—Reports that a revolution against the Soviet Government has broken out in Petrograd are supported by an official wireless despatch received here which says there is a serious strike of railway men in the Petrograd region. The strike, it is said, was prompted by the Mensheviki and the serial revolutionaries.

Neville B. Colcock Has Passed Away

Late Agent-General For Ontario—Newspaperman, Customs Official, Etc.

BROCKVILLE, April 2.—Word was received here yesterday of the death in London, England, last week, of Neville B. Colcock, formerly Agent-General for Ontario. He had been in ill-health for some time. He was seventy-six years of age. He was educated in Yorkshire. After spending some time on the London press he came to Canada. He established The Welland (Ontario) Telegraph and later The Canadian Farmer. In 1883 he came to Brockville to take control of The Brockville Times. He conducted that newspaper until 1895, when he was appointed by the Federal Government Assistant Inspector of Customs at Niagara Falls. He returned a few years later to become broker in the same city. While there he was Vice-Consul for the United States. In 1903 Mr. Colcock was appointed Immigration Inspector for Ontario, with office in London. In 1910 he was promoted to the office of Agent-General for Ontario at London.

Several years ago he was married to Miss Susan Etwell of Uxbridge, Ont. She survives, with three daughters and one son: Mr. J. C. Stagg, Calgary; Mrs. L. R. Cossitt, St. David's, Ont.; Mrs. Jones, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Harry Colcock, Niagara Falls. Mr. Colcock was an Anglican and a prominent Mason.

Old Folks Concert Recalls Long Ago

What was styled an "Old Folks Concert" was last evening put on in the Sunday School room of Holloway St. Church under the auspices of the choir of that church, assisted by the Belleville Male Quartette. The room was filled to capacity and the program was highly appreciated by all present. Many costumes were worn which were the fashions of many years ago and brought back sweet remembrances to the elderly members of the audience. Rev. Mr. Clarry, in a few opening remarks, told the audience how pleased he was to welcome them. Mrs. (Rev.) J. N. Clarry presided at the piano.

The following was the program:

Overture—Mrs. Clarry.

Chairman's Address—Mr. Geo. Dulmage.

Chorus — Old Oaken Bucket — The Choir.

Ladies' Quartette — "Po' Little Lamb"—Misses Woodley, Pearce, Walton and Lloyd.

Duet—Reuben and Rachel" — Miss Pearce and Mr. Russell Woodley.

Reading—"Caleb's Courtship"—Miss Ray Farrell.

Solo—"Dream Faces"—Miss Strethel Walton.

Tenor solo—Mr. E. Mouck.

Tenor solo—"Up From Somerset"—Mr. W. H. Wrightmeyer.

World's Hockey Series Cannot Be Finished

Montreal Players Stricken With Influenza at Seattle and are Unable to Play.

SEATTLE, April 2— Last night's hockey game has been called off owing to five Canadien players being down with influenza. "Newsy" Lalonde, Canadien's captain, Joe Hall, Bert Courture, Berlinguette and Macdonald are all ill at their rooms at the Georgian hotel. George Kennedy is also down with the disease.

"It will be two or three weeks before the visiting boys will be back on their feet again able to play, consequently the world's series has been called off with two games to the credit of each team; last night's game would have decided the title," the Arena management said.

Rural Members Oppose Time Change

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

OTTAWA, Ont., April 2.—Rural members appeared unexpectedly before the railway commissioners this morning in opposition to adopting of daylight saving by railway companies. Sir Henry Drayton said that although the case was closed yesterday, the Commission was ready to hear applications to hear new evidence.

W. A. Boyes, Simcoe South, and Dr. Clark of Red Deer, were the principal speakers against daylight saving. They pointed out that the rural population was greater than the urban and their views should be consulted in such measure. They eriterated the arguments given in Parliament against the measure, but Sir Harry Drayton pointed out that he railway commissions' business was not to decide whether the country should adopt daylight saving but whether the railway should adopt it, and of this, it appeared the commission had pretty well made up its mind.

PROTECTION FOR RUMANIA IS AT HAND — BUCHAREST REPORTS DISEMBARKATION AT CONSTANZA IN RUMANIA—ADVANCE TOWARDS DISAFFECTED COUNTRY FROM SOUTHEAST.

LONDON, April 2—It is reported that Entente troops are being landed at Constanza, on the Black Sea coast, on their way to Hungary, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Central News yesterday.

Proceeding through the Dardanelles past Constantinople, presumably from Saloniki, the Allied forces have reached a base in a friendly and menaced country, whence they can take action against either the Russian or Hungarian communists, with the view of preventing a junction of enemy military and political forces.

Constanza, in the much debated Dobrudja region, is near Bucharest and the mouth of the Danube, so that river as well as rail transport is available.

Previous despatches anounced that French troops on the Roumanian front had been taken by the Hungarians.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

Effect Of Daylight Savings On Telephone Service

In the atter of long distance telephone service, the confused situation re daylight savings offers opportunity for no end of trouble and inconvenience.

In the matter of long distance teledistance conversations unless the parties are clear as to what time—standard or daylight savings—prevails in both towns, confusion is inevitable.

The peak load of long distance telephone traffic occurs between the hours of 9 and 12 in the morning and 2 and 5 in the afternoon, the great majority of business calls being during these periods. Suppose Brown in a Standard Time community calls Jones in a Daylight Savings city at, say 11 o'clock. He finds Jones has gone to lunch. On returning to his office, Jones learns of the call and at once tries to get Brown, but finds that it is now his lunch hour, and that he must wait for him. Before they can have their talk, two full hours have elapsed. In other words the long-distance-telephone-day, already short, is reduced two full hours and congestion is probable.

The Federal Authorities, having decided against the adoption of Daylight Savings, night rates for Long Distance Service must be based on Standard Time. 1td

ONE THOUSAND AND SIXTY DOLLARS PAID FOR SIR ECHO ALCATRA, HIGHEST PRICED ANIMAL AT SALE — LARGE ATTENDANCE—TOTAL RECEIPTS, $19,000.

Under favorable conditions the ninth annual sale of cattle consigned by members of the Belleville District Holstein-Friesian Breeder Club took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Buyers were present from various parts of Ontario and the prices realized were good. Ninety-four head were catalogued and these were all sold also a few calves not catalogued. The sale realized $18,835, making an average of $200 for each animal offered for sale. The highest price realized for an individual animal was $1060 for Sir Echo Alcatra, consigned by Mr. E. B. Purtelle of Bloomfield. Mr. W. W. Draycup of Harold, Rawdon Township, was the purchaser. The highest price for a cow was $925 for Sylvia Alcartra Posch, consigned by Mr. Purtelle of Bloomfield and sold to Mr. G. H. Wilmott of Kingston. Government Said He Was Dead: Must Pay Insurance Companies

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 3.—James McGleisch arrived home Tuesday night. "This is my second time on earth," he was mirthfully telling his friends, as he shook hands. Among his trophies from the war are memorial cards with his own name on them and divers clippings from newspapers telling how he was killed at Vimy Ridge. The memorial cards were sent to him by relatives when he came out of Germany after the armistice was signed, it developing he had been taken prisoner instead of being killed and another man's body taken for his. The Government officially reported him dead. As a result several insurance companies and societies paid his mother insurance. The Government will now have to make this good to the insurance companies it is said, because of its official report of his death. He went with the 98th Battalion.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

PARIS, April 3.—The Council of Four has virtually decided, according to information from French sources, that the left bank of the Rhine will be neutralized until Germany has paid the indemnity fixed by the peace conference. It is understood that French and Belgian troops will hold this territory, the United States claiming it to be impossible to leave American troops in Europe after the signature of the peace treaty and Great Britain having insufficient effective troops to maintain garrisons along the Rhine.

Three Young Women Were Burned To Death

TRAPPED BY FLAMES ON TOP FLAT, THREE WOMEN ARE SUFFOCATED BY SMOKE — THREE STORES BURNED—LOSS $35,000.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

OTTAWA, April 3.—Three lives were lost and property damage estimated at between $35,000 and $40,000 was caused by an early morning fire at Hull, which gutted what is known as the Dorion Block on the corner of Main and Leduc streets, consisting of a social club and three stores in the heart of the business section of the city.

The dead are. Misses Marie Dorion, aged 40; Gracia, aged 32 and Blanche, aged 10. The two former are the daughters and the latter the granddaughter of Mrs. L. N. Dorion, part owner of the burned block.

The girls lived in the top flat of the building and it is surmised they were overcome by the dense smoke which suffocated them, as the bodies, when recovered were not touched by the flames.

Although the firemen knew the girls were in the building and made valiant attempts to rescue them they were unable to enter the apartment where they were known to be owing to the intensity of the fire.

Canadian Soldiers Were Rightly Sent To Siberia

SENDING OF CANADIAN EXPEDITION TO SIBERIA DEFENDED IN PARLIAMENT BY HON. N. W. ROWELL—BRITAIN WAS USING SCHOOLBOY SOLDIERS AT TIME AND CANADA WAS REQUESTED TO SEND SOLDIERS TO SIBERIA.

OTTAWA, April 3.—The sending of a Canadian Expedition to Siberia was warmly defended in Parliament by Hon. N. W. Rowell in the course of a lengthy review of the proceedings of the Imperial War Council and subsequent events. He contended that Canada would have failed in her duty to the Empire if she had not sent troops to Russia. The situation at the time was exceedingly critical, and Britain herself had put every man she could spare into the line of the Western front, which was seriously threatened by the Teutons. So grave was the shortage of men in the Old Country that no fewer than three hundred thousand schoolboys were thrown into the battleline in a desperate effort to stem the German rush for Paris and the Channel ports.

Causes a Scene

Members of the Opposition sharply criticized the Government's action in despatching Canadians to Siberia, and there was a scene when Mr Thomas Vien of Lotbiniere said the United States had not done her share to the extent Canada had done.

"There are people at home who did not do very much," exclaimed Capt. Peter McGibbon, M.C., of Muskoka.

Mr. Vien protested against this reference to Quebec, and Mr. Morphy for North Perth shouted, "What did your country do?"

Canada did more than her share and should not have sent troops to Siberia," he added.

'I join issue with the hon. gentleman fairly and squarely on that point," said Mr. Rowell, amid applause from the Government benches.

Men Sent For "Valid Reason."

Canada's decison to send an expedition to Siberia was reached in the latter part of July or early in August, said Mr. Rowell. Canada sent men for a valid reason; it was agreed that all the allies should supply the principal part of the troops. Everyone recognized that as an epedient necessity of the situation. The other allies were to send contingents according to their ability. The question arose as to how the contingent that would represent the British Empire would be made up.

Britain Sent School boys

Great Britain herself had thrown every man she could spare into the line on the Western front There were no fewer than three hundred thousand schoolboys of eighteen years of age and under sent over to France in the early part of the year, in April and June.

He saw those regiments drilling, and they were mere schoolboys.

There were no others available in Britain, and as the situation was so critical these lads had to be called out.

Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Britain had each in proportion to population, put more men into the field than Canada, and when it came to a question of how the British Commonwealth contingent should be made up, the Canadian Government felt that it was nothing else than right that Canada, as she could not comply with the request of the War Office to send a fifth division to France, should at least be prepared to send a brigade to Siberia. That position was taken because of the critical situation existing at the time, and he had nothing whatever to regret in the action that had been taken. Canada would have failed in her duty at the time if she had not undertaken to do what little she could.

Interest in the Pacific

He believed also that Canada had a deep and vital interest in the Pacific and that a considerable part of the great events of the future will be transacted around the basin of the Pacific, because two-third of the world's population live either in the countries on the Pacific Ocean or immediately adjacent thereto. Canada shared with the United States the dominating position on the eastern side of the Pacific, and in all events that happened on the Pacific Canada had a deep and abiding interest, and as the years went by would have a still greater interest.

CORP. J. B. McHUGH OF BELLEVILLE WON D. C. M. BY GREAT GALLANTRY

Among the arrivals in Belleville yesterday was Corp. J. B. McHugh, who went overseas with the 155th Battalion and has been serving with the 2nd Battalion. Although awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal he would not speak of it until pressed to do so, and exhibited the following explanation which accompanied the decoration:

"No. 636902, Corp. J. B. McHugh, D.C.M., 2nd Canadian Inf. Battalion. During the attack on Upton Wood on August 30th, 1918, when the officer and N.C.O.'s became casualties, he took command of the platoon, which was then fifteen in number and led them with great gallantry and dash against the enemy, who were counter-attacking strongly. He routed an overwhelming number of the enemy, capturing a machine gun and several prisoners. He displayed admirable qualities of leadership, inspiring his men with the greatest confidence."

Corp. McHugh previous to going overseas lived with his parents on Olive Street, but since leaving Canada he has lost his mother, father and a sister by death and is now staying with his aunt, Mrs. Bind, of 13 Albion Street.

"Just Like Bill," Says Dad Of Heroic Son's Fine "Bit"

NEW YORK, April 2—When Bill Dowdall returns to Long Island City from the base hospital at Mineola his fellow-citizens are going to make a fuss over him. Bill is he doughboy who "got" the German soldier who had disposed of 22 soldiers of the Allies—and Long Island City has the evidence to prove it.

A members of Company G, of the 106th Infantry, Private Dowdall was one of the party sent sent out to get snipers who had been mowing down our men from the tree tops.

Dowdall, Jun., "got" his man and sent to Dowdall, Sen., at 107 14th street, Long Island City, the belt he took from the body. The buckle is inscribed "Gott mit uns," and stamped in the leather is "851 R., 1898." Attached to the belt are 22 different kinds of insignia that Bill Dowdall's German had taken from the bodies of allied soldiers. These insignia had been collected as far east as Egypt and from troops originating as far west as Ireland.

Long Island City believes there isn't a town in the United States that can show anything bigger. "Just like Bill," his father said. "I haven't heard him tell it all yet, but I know just as well as if I were there that Bill said to himself that morning: 'Well, I'm going to get one of the Kaiser's men to-day, and, by golly, while I'm about it I'm going to get a big one."

Hot Debate In Ontario House About "Spotters"

TORONTO, April 3.—Private Detectives and spotters were under fire at the opening session of the public accounts committee of the Legislature, on the accounts of the License department yesterday morning. Mr. Hartley Dewart, whose charges brought about the inquiry, questioned J. D. Flavelle, as to the extent to which "spotters" were employed by the department, and the supervision which was exercised over their expense accounts. Another question he asked drew from Mr. Flavelle the estimate that over half a million prescriptions for liquor had been issued by physicians under the O.T.A.

Mr Flavelle stated that "spotters" were not employed by the license department to a much greater extent under the O. T. A. than under the former license act.

Mr. Dewart inquired whether vouchers were required for spotters' expenditues for railway and steamboat fares.

Mr. Flavelle replied in the negative Mr. Dewart asked why the department had paid private detectives, employed through Mr. Morrison, $5 a day, when its own agents were only receiving $2.50 or $3.

"I was not particularly desirous of doing that, but Mr. Morrison told me that they could do the work more effectively. We paid the money, because that was what they charged."

BROCKVILLE METHODIST CONGREGATIONS UNITED

BROCKVILLE, April 3.—By large majorities the congregations of Wall Street and George Street Methodist Churches have voted to unite under the name of the Brockville Methodist Church subject to the meeting of the District and the Montreal Conference. The Wall Street edifice will be utilized for worship, while it is proposed to dispose of the other church, preferably for Y.M.C.A. purposes. The services of the two pastors, Rev. Dr. Richardson and Rev. W. A. Hamilton will be retained It is expected that the move will result in a big financial saving to the cause of Methodism in Brockville.

DETECTIVE ACCUSED OF THEFTS HIMSELF

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 3.—Grand Trunk Special Officer Freemont Evans, who was employed in the G. T. R. yards here to watch for car pilferers, was arrested Tuesday, charged with looting cars himself. Evans' arrest followed the discovery by Grand Trunk Constable John Anderson of a cache of stolen goods under the floor of the cattle pens. The goods found were valued at about $1.500, among them being six cases of women's fine shoes. Evans was sent to jail on a week's remand. He has been employed in the yards here for two years, except six months he spent at the U. S. training camp, being called in a draft. His home is at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Very Effective Method For Banishing Hairs

(Modes of Today)

At very little cost any woman can rid her face of hairy growths if she will use the delatone treatment. This is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This paste is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to buy real delatone.

Sporting News

BASEBALL PROSPECTS

Last evening the G.T.R.A.A.A. held another successful business meeting. Each department was, as at the previous meetings, well represented by numbers. Mr. H. M. Gain, the president, occupied the chair and much business was quickly transacted. New uniforms are being purchased for the basketball team, in the club's colors, which will hereafter be garnet and grey. Many other details in connection with the dance to be held on April 30th, the baseball and football teams, etc., are being handled by committees who reported fine progress. Five teams are entered in the Inter-department league for the President's Cup and the schedule is being arranged, twilight ball to be played. Although the Midland league froze Belleville out of their family circle, suggesting at their meeting yesterday in Port Hope that a Bay of Quinte Circuit be formed as Belleville was too long a jump for some of the teams, the G.T.R. are in no way downhearted in regards to ball prospects in the city. They promise, if not located in another league to bring outside teams of first class standing here. Feelers are being put out to have teh G.T.R. Athletic Association of Toronto, Stratford and Palmerston meet Belleville in competition. The football team is now waiting for word of the proposed City League, which is to be handled by the Y.M.C.A., to start. They are ready with a strong team to take the field.

Called By Death

JOHN CUNNINGHAM

Mr. John Cunningham, a well-known resident of Ameliasburg Township, Prince Edward County, died yesterday. Mr. Cunningham was in his 80th year and was born in Ameliasburg, where he had resided all his life. He was a successful farmer and was a bachelor. Deceased was a son of the late Mr. George Cunningham. He was a member of the Anglican Church. One brother Henry, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Tweed, of Port Hope, survive.

PETER R. GAMBLE

A widely known and respected resident of Hastings County, Mr. Peter Brown Gamble, passed away Monday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Norton, with whom he has been living since last fall. The late Mr. Gamble was born in the County of Hastings sixty-seven years ago and had spent the most of his life there. He was a devoted husband and a loving father and his loss will be mourned very much by the many friends and acquaintances whom he has left in Hastings and made since coming to the city. He was a member of the Orange Order and his funeral which was held on Wednesday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, 368 Barrie Street, was under the auspices of the Orange Order, the service being conducted by Ensign Smith, of the Salvation Army. He is survived by his sorrowing widow and four daughters, Mrs. Frank Norton, and Mrs. R. J. Spicer, of this city; Mrs. Paul Wilson and Mrs. John Wilson, of Simcoe and one brother, Robert Gamble, of Simcoe, Ontario—Kingston Standard.

Star Sleuth a Booze Grafter

LANSING, Mich, April 3—William B. Chase, star sleuth for the Michigan Food and Drug Department in the capture of the famous rum-making Billingsley on the Ohio border, is under arrest at Milwaukee charged with serious violations of the Federal internal revenue laws.

Thanks to the co-operation of Commissioner Fred L. Woodworth and his aides, Chase, who was a special investigator of the Food and Drug Commission, was stopped from carrying out what they maintain was the most gigantic and ingenious plan to run whiskey into Michigan that has yet come light. Shipments were to have been made, according to the State authorities, in carload lots and Mr. Chase, himself, with an alibi, was to have been with each car. Presumably he thought there was no chance to catch him.

One month ago Chase went to Milwaukee under orders from Commissioner Woodworth to watch for shipments of liquor into Michigan. Within a week of his arrival in Milwaukee some of Mr. Woodworth's agents reported that Chase, giving an assumed name, had leased a warehouse, and had made arrangements to fill it with liquor. In fact, still using the assumed name, he secured $5,000 worth of whiskey and had it stored there.

Chase had already purchased $10,000 worth of whiskey. Had he been able to get the car to Grand Rapids his profit would have been $20,000.

Belleville Soldiers Arrive Home

The following additional soldiers have returned from overseas:

Flight-Lieut. R. Pearsall, 25 Queen Street, who went over as a private with the 42nd Battalion and served with the Canadian Engineers, subsequently being transferred to the Royal Air Force and promoted to the rank of Lieutenant.

Signaller W. S. Davis, 290 Albert Street, went with the 74th Battery and served with the 27th Battery. He went over in October, 1916.

Driver J. E. Wright, 132 Front St., went over with the 155th Battalion and served with the 4th Canadian Engineers.

Private J. J. Roe, 66 Dundas Street east, went over with the 254th Battalion and served with the 2nd Battalion

Sapper A. Jackson, 149 Lingham St. went with the 21st Battalion and served three and a half years in France.

Pte. Harry Ransom, 292 Charles St., signed up with the 33rd Battery, was transferred to the 155th Battalion and served with the 21st Battalion. He was gassed in Aug. 1918 and wounded in October, 1918.

Sapper Arthur Barlow, Ross' Corners, went over with the 257th Battalion in February, 1917, and served with the C. R. T.

Private J. H. Smith, 48 Mill Street, went over with the 8th C. M. R. and has been serving with the Machine Gun Section.

Mr. C. St. Charles, Mr. Chris. Lewis, Mr. W. J. Carter, Sergt. A. Harman, and Mr. Beaudry loaned their cars to take these men home, while John Colden and J. V. Ross assisted the Welcome Committee at the depots.

Detective Agency Had a "Stand In"

Ex-Inspector Morrison Was Shareholder in Concern That Got Business.

TORONTO, April 3— That former Provincial License Inspector George E. Morrison, who resigned following the charges levelled in the House by Hartley Dewart, K.C., was a shareholder in the Employers' Detective Agency and that he has been responsible for turning a large amount of work over to the agency was revealed yesterday when the investigation into the accounts of the License Department was opened in the Public Accounts Committee. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board, was on the stand for two and a half hours under examination by Lieut.-Col. Machin of Kenora, and Hartley Dewart, K.C., and his evidence showed how absolutely the board and Government had been trusting to the honesty of the officials. Morrison, an officer, who had been in the department since before the coming of the Whitney Government into power, was given such freedom of action that when he insisted upon employing a private agency to assist him in law enforcement he was given his own way, and his accounts, running in one year to over $12,000 were paid without question and without an audit.

DON'T believe everything you hear—without the proof. Do not permit mere sales talk to influence you in purchasing a phonograph.

When you are planning the purchase of the greatest of all musical instruments let your EARS, EYES and BRAIN compose the jury that will return the verdict as to which is the best phonograph for you. Compare the Pathephone with any other phonograph and in your comparison note particularly the following :—

"JACOBEAN" PATHÉ
Price $215.00
in Jacobean Oak, Mahogany and Walnut

TONE	Rich, full, musical and natural—a true reproduction of the original.
CONVENIENCE AND ECONOMY OF OPERATION	Reproduction being by means of a sapphire ball, there are no needles to change and no wear on the record.
PERFORMANCE	It will play any record. Do not knowingly limit yourself to only one kind of record.
CABINET DESIGN	Beautiful reproduction of classical furniture instead of ugly boxes.
CONSTRUCTION AND FINISH	Note with what care and expert workmanship the Pathephone is built and the extra fine finish not only on the front but all over,—the quality goes right through.
PRICE	Although the Pathephone is better built, better finished, better designed and better value than any other phonograph it costs no more money than the ordinary phonograph.

The Pathe dealer will show you how easy it is to own a Pathephone, how a small cash payment—probably less than you expected to pay—will bring to your home the greatest entertainer ever invented.

79,000 Belgians Repatriated

100,000 To Remain In Britain

TWO LARGE SHIPS LEAVE LONDON EVERY WEEK CROWDED WITH RETURNING REFUGEES.

LONDON, April 3.—More than 79,000 Belgium men, women and children have been repatriated, and it is expected that this number will have increased 100,000 by the end of April. Two large ships leave London every week crowded with returning refugees.

It is estimated that at least 100,000 Belgians at present in the British Isles have expressed an intention not to go back to Belgium, and they will probably remain at work here.

The chief difficulty in repatriating the Belgians lies in assembling them in sufficently large numbers to fill the steamers by a given day. These refugees are scattered all over the country, and special railway arrangements have to be made to convey them with their innumerable articles of baggage to the docks before the hour of sailing.

Blockade Raised In The Balkans

Applies to German Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria.

PARIS, April 3.—It has been decided to rase the blockade of Poland, Ecthona, German-Austria, Turkey, Bulgaria, Czecho-Slovaka and the territories occupied by Roumania and Serbia. With respect to German-Austria prohibition is maintained against trade in a few articles, chiefly of a military nature.

The international trade commission sitting at Vienna will exercise supervision, to prevent re-exportation to Germany.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

The belief that the adoption of "summer-time" in England affected Greenwich Time is combatted by legal talent in Toronto, who having looked up the English statute dealing with the matter, assert that Greenwich Time is as the laws of the Medes and Persians which alter not. In yesterday's issue of The Intelligencer attention was drawn to the fact that if the adoption of "summer-time" in England changed Greenwich Time then Canada Time, which is governed by Greenwich Time, automatically advanced one hour in keeping with the change of time in England.

If Greenwich time is unchangeable, as reference to the English statute would seem to indicate, in the opinion of Toronto legal authorities, then Daylight Saving must perforce stand upon its own legs, or rather hands, in the phraseology of timepieces.

BUT WAIT A MINUTE—the Toronto legal lights who have been digging into the English statutes for light on Greenwich time, are no doubt concerning themselves with Greenwich SOLAR Time, with which the law is not concerned at all and only recognizes, specifically and unmistakably, Greenwich MEAN Time. Mean Time is common time, or the time commonly used. English time is called Greenwich Mean Time and English time was advanced one hour last Sunday. Canada time is based by statute, made and provided upon English time, known legally as Greenwich Mean Time.

If that is a fact, what is called Daylight Saving Time is the real legal Standard Time as far as Canada is concerned.

Stroud's Judicial Dictionary and Wharton's Law Lexicon define Greenwich Mean Time as distinguished from Greenwich Solar Time.

WHAT THE NAVY MEANS TO CANADA.

The Navy League of Canada, which was founded in Montreal in June, 1917, has just issued a series of leaflets containing articles on the subject of the Navy by leading Canadians. As the League has a membership of over 50,000, scattered all over Canada, there can be no doubt that in spreading broadcast information in regard to the Empire's first line of defence, it has a large and sympathetic audience. It is now commonly accepted that in war time the fighting ships and the merchant marine must work hand in hand. Each forms an absolutely necessary portion of a naval force. There has been an overwhelming demonstration of this during the war.

Naturally enough, therefore, considerable attention is paid to the merchant marine by the Navy League. Sir Robert Falconer, in a leaflet dealing with the work of the merchant marine in the war, reminds us that the merchantmen transported millions of troops to France, to the Mediterranean, and to the further East. From Canada nearly 420,000 were taken overseas and not a transport was lost. Of those who went from the United States, over sixty per cent. were carried in British merchantmen, and of those two million soldiers only a few hundred perished from the submarine attacks. What a tribute is this to the skill and heroism of our combined naval and merchant fleets!

It may be added in more detail that there were 300,000 merchant sailors serving the Empire in the World War of 1914-18; that they carried from Canada to the front $1,800,000,000 worth of munitions, or a sum more than enough to pay the national debt of Canada; that they carried billions of dollars worth of meat, wheat and other commodities of Canada; that through their tireless, courageous, unflinching, unending efforts the people and armies of Britain, France, Italy and our other Allies were fed, reinforced, armed and sustained; that more than 15,000 of these sailors were killed by submarine and floating mine and more than 40,000 of their dependants left to struggle along as best they might.

The League is doing good work in disseminating information of this kind, and in letting our people know that sea power, as expressed by merchant tonnage or naval fleets, is of direct interest to every Canadian engaged in earning a livelihood, conducting a factory, exporting or importing goods, raising grain or engaged in mixed farming. It is difficult to make the grain-growers of the Western Provinces, or the mixed farmers of Quebec and Ontario realize the fact that without a Merchant Service their products could not be exported. But the League will help to make the knowledge general.—Montreal Herald.

∴ CRISP COMMENT ∴

Daylight saving on the local option plan is now in force in Canada to the great delight of the politics-first brigade which seeks to divide Canada into classes and hostile camps.

Just what kind of a stunt Sir Henry Drayton is trying to pull off in butting into the Daylight Saving controversy without being invited is hard to fathom. Trouble generally comes quickly enough to most people without hunting for it.

All that moderate and sensible people want to know about Maharg is how he pronounce his name. By the way, if you take the trouble to spell it backwards you will find that Maharg is simply Graham turned inside out. The ancestor who first owned the name probably had the same instinct of backing and kicking, and in the process some time got his patronymic turned wrong end foremost.—Orillia Packet.

An American orator once made a speech in which he used words to the effect that if the agricultural interests were destroyed grass would grow on the city streets and prosperity would degenerate into speedy stagnation and worse. He also said that the cities might be destroyed but they would spring up again as by magic under the influence of the agricultural interests. "Thou shalt not press down this crown of thorns upon the brow of labor," said this orator, and the speech gained him the presidential nomination, but that was as far as he got, and he never emerged from the candidate class. The great sober sense of any nation of intelligent people as manifested at the polls recognises the spirit of inter-dependence which alone can achieve real national greatness.

Man's faithful friend—the dog—is slandered by the thoughtlessness that classifies the head Hohenzollerns and other all-highest Huns as degenerates of the canine species. The human contents of a German palace belong to a lower order of creation than the mongrels that lack the shelter of a kennel. To call the former Kaiser of Germany "a miserable hound" is to slander even the dogs of Constantinople.—Toronto Telegram.

The Poet's Corner

DARIUS BROWN.

By Lou J. Beauchamp.

Darius Brown was the derndest cuss,
Never was known to make any fuss;
Always took things just as they come—
"Whatever happens," says he "I'm to hum;"
Ef it rained all summer D'ri would yell:
"W'd pray fur this ef we was in—" well,
Nothing could feeze him, no sirree,
"It's the Lord's own doin' an' jist suits me."

Had a drought one summer and crops all died,
"Saved us lots o' work," Darius cried;
"Ef it hadn't been fur the heat an' sich
We'd had sich crops we'd all been rich;
An' money's the root of evil, sure,
I guess it's best we're all still poor;
No use frettin' at all," says he,

For forty years she had had her way;
Had bossed Darius from morn till night,
But the old man said she was always right.
"A man needs a woman to keep him straight,"
Was all he said when she went her gait;
But she died one Sunday and left him free;
"It's the Lord's own doin' and jist suits me."

For a dozen years he moped alone.
He helped his neighbors and fed the poor,
No hungry tramp ever passd his door.
His house burned down one winter's day,
Nothing but his chickens and hay.
"It warmed them hens up, sure," said he.
"It's the Lord's own doin' an' jist suits me."

His horse ran off one summer's day.
And Darius came to his end that way.
All bruised and bleeding they picked him up,
And gave him a draught from the cooling cup;
But he never whimpered, nor said a word,
So far as any o' the neighbors heard.
Except just before his soul passed free:

Oh, brother and sister far away.
Hark to the truth I teach today:
Don't worry and fret and vex your soul,
God's over all as the seasons roll;
If wet or dry, or toil or rest,
He planneth, and He knows what's best;
Whatever comes, say full and free,

G. T. R. Demands Rental Or Loan

OTTAWA, April 2—In the Commons yesterday Sir Thomas White tabled additional correspondence relating to the negotiations for the purchase of the Grand Trunk and G.T.P. Railways. The correspondence showed that the company [illegible] arbitration. Another suggestion was that the Government should guarantee an issue of three million pounds of Grand Trunk notes to assist in meeting obligations falling due in October, 1918.

Sir Robert Borden, while promising consideration, said he could not hold out the slightest hope that either of the two alternative proposals would be accepted. After returning to Canada Sir Robert advised the company that the Government could not guarantee the proposed note issue without the authority of Parliament, adding that the Government did not think it practicable to ask Parliament for this authority.

RENTAL TOO LARGE

He stated that there were strong objections in the Cabinet Council to any increase in the offer made by the Government for the two roads, and that it would be unwise, without the report of a commission or a vote of Parliament, to pay a rental which would represent a capitalization of from eighty to one hundred million dollars.

RUM FOUND CACHED TEN FEET UNDER BARN

SYDNEY, N.S., April 3—What is believed to have been one of the main bases of the liquor trade in Cape Breton was unearthed at North Sydney when the Chief of Police discovered ninety gallons of white rum or alcohol, and 45 gallons of ordinary commercial rum, cached at the depth of ten feet under a barn on the Gannon road. A second raid an hour later discovered about one hundred bottles of the manufactured product. The white rum, which was contained in a large drum, is believed to be part of the cargo of the steamer Afghan Prince, which went ashore last summer on Forchu Shoal with two million dollars' worth of alcohol on board. A large part of this cargo was afterwards salvaged and shipped to its destination, but so much was washed ashore and stolen that it is believed there is enough stored secretly in the island to furnish the making of illicit drink for years to come. Great pains had been taken to conceal the liquor, which was buried under ten feet of earth and rock. James Anthony, proprietor of the premises on which the liquor was found, was arrested, but later released on $500 bail.

A Modern Luxury for Modern Homes

IMAGINE what strides we have made since Grandmother's time! Really our housekeeping is now only a matter of remembering names—we step to the telephone, and command as we will! And think how vastly better the article—how clean, wholesome, uniform it is, from the maker to your table! Take, for example;

Swift's Premium Oleomargarine

—that dainty, appetizing, nutritious product that is recommended by domestic science authorities everywhere for table and kitchen use, as a delicious spread for bread, for the making of cake, cookies, sauces and general cooking. Compare it with old-fashioned standards! My goodness!! In Swift's Premium Oleomargarine you have an article that's always sweet, pure, clean (it's Government inspected, and never touched by hands)—always the same in flavour, texture, quality—reaches you fresh—and with all this, saves you about fifteen cents per pound!

Merely remember the name—telephone your grocer or butcher today for a pound carton—and a luxury undreamed of in Grandmother's home will be a necessity in yours!

Do You Remember The Old Corn Doctor?

The same ingredients, harsh and inefficient, are sold in countless forms today.

But they did not end corns, and they do not now. Nor does padding, nor does paring—methods older still.

The One Right Way

Modern scientists in the Bauer & Black laboratories have evolved a perfect method and embodied it in Blue-jay.

In 48 hours, while the corn is forgotten, Blue-jay completely ends it, and forever. Hardly one corn in ten needs a second application.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

KINGSTON DAIRIES CUT MILK PRICES TO 11 CENTS

KINGSTON, April 3.—Welcome news for householders came Sunday morning when the leading dairies announced a reduction in the price of milk. One dairy lowered its price from 13 cents to 11 cents a quart, or 18 pint tickets for a dollar, others reducing to 12 cents a quart or 17 pint tickets for a dollar.

In the first place Mrs. Fulton informed her that they were to have company for half-past two dinner, and Faith knew that meant a hard forenoon's work.

"It doesn't seem right for people to have company dinner on Sunday," she said to herself, as she cleared the breakfast dishes away and proceeded to wash them while the family went into the parlor for Sunday morning prayers.

The kitchen door had been left a little ajar, and presently Faith could hear the piano. Mr. Fulton never had family worship during the week. He was too busy to stop for it in the morning. But Sunday he held to the custom which his own father had strictly observed back in New England, not only in the morning of every day, but at night as well.

Alice was playing. The family had read a passage from the Bible in turn and now, before the prayer, they were signing.

"Welcome, Sweet Day of Rest," floated out through the dining-room into the kitchen, and Faith paused as she wiped a dish, and, to tell the truth, a very hot tear dropped into the dish water. She had not been asked to unite with these Christian people in worship, and for a moment an angry, hard, rebellious spirit stirred in the girl as she listened to the familiar hymns. It was one the family at home often sang at prayers on Sunday.

Mr. Fulton kneeled to pray. He was a trustee in a large and fashionable church, had a class in the Sunday School, and was considered to be a strictly honorable, exemplary Christian man. It never crossed his mind that the servant in the kitchen could possibly need or want a little worship with other Christian people. As for Mrs. Fulton, she had never invited her help into the parlor for such services. It was her theory and prac- that it was best not to encourage familiarity with the "domestic." Alice was troubled over the matter, and had, in fact, once or twice timidly said something, but Mrs. Fulton silenced her objections always by saying "The girls never want to come into prayers. So what is the use of asking them?"

In the kitchen of the Fulton mansion that Sunday morning, while the family was all away to church, a struggle was going on that would possibly have startled the complacent doctor at Mr. Fulton's church as he preached beautifully from the text, "There is no respecter of persons with God."

CHAPTER XVI

Faith Kirk was having one of her great battles as she worked over that Sunday dinner. And she had not fought it out when the family returned, bringing with them four friends of Mr. Fulton, business acquaintances whose good will it was necessary to keep.

The dinner was served promptly, and Faith had no reason to feel afraid of her success. Mrs. Fulton even came out into the kitchen when it was over and complimented her on the dinner.

The guests lighted cigars and retired to the library with Mr. Fulton. It was now nearly four o'clock. By the time everything was cleared away in the kitchen, it was half-past four, and in the short winter day dark already.

Faith went up to her room tired and rebellious. She sat down, and at first said she would not go to church. Then she thought of the dear home circle and for almost the first time since she came away she grew dreadfully homesick.

When it was over she felt somewhat ashamed, and lay still awhile thinking. Then she rose and suddenly turned on her electric light.

"Faith Kirk, you are ashamed of yourself. Is this Malcolm Kirk's daughter?" She asked the question as she put on her cloak and hat and resolutely determined to go to church and be a good Christian in spite of her troubles.

"To him that overcometh," the verse happened to be the subject of the endeavor meeting that very night, and as she took up her Bible and went out of the house she was feeling better as she started down the avenue and then turned towards one of the church of the same denomination as the one at home. For she was homesick enough to feel that she would enjoy the worship better in such a church.

Faith's Sundays in Chicago since she had been there were not at all like the Sundays at home. She had at first tried to attend a church near her boarding place. But at the end of her studio experience she had found some Sunday work to do in connection with one of the Social Settlements. That work was now too far away, and she was compelled to give it up.

To-night she said she would go to the Endeavor meeting in the large church only a few blocks from Mrs. Fulton's. She had seen the notice on the outside of the building, giving o'clock as the hour of service.

The young people held their meeting in the chapel or prayer meeting room adjoining the main room. It was beautifully lighted and furnished and as Faith went in she was greeted at the door, who gave her a topic card and a hymn book and then showed her to a seat.

The meeting began promptly and Faith could not help wondering a little as she looked around at the very well dressed young men and women, how much any of them knew about the struggle of overcoming. The next moment she rebuked herself for judging others.

"They all have had their trial, no doubt," she said. "It won't do to judge from appearances. Rich folks are not the happiest ones."

She enjoyed the singing and some of the most familiar Endeavor songs brought tears to her eyes.

When the hour was about half gone, Faith had an impulse to give her testimony. She kept saying to herself that what she had been through that day was something that might help others. In her father's church at home the young people had always been encouraged to help one another by relating their experiences and Faith had no other thought in mind when she rose during a pause and told very frankly something of her struggle that very day.

The young people all turned and looked at her in surprise. Faith knew how to express herself very well. Her father had helped her very much. She did not mean to exaggerate her difficulties, but she spoke more frankly than she might if she had not been overflowing from the day's experience. Besides, her heart warmed to find herself in the society once more, and she longed for the Christian fellowship.

Wedding Bells

LAWRENSON—LAZIER

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lazier, 2nd Concession of Tyendinaga, on March 26, at high noon, the Rev. W. N. Jones officiating, a very pretty wedding was solemnised between Florence, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lazier, and Ralph Lawrenson. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Floyd Morden, sister of the groom, the bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father and looked very pretty in a dress of beaded white crepe-de-chine and carried white carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Mary Thompson, wearing pink voile and carrying pink carnations, while little Miss Frances Jones acted as flower girl. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. Lorne Lazier, brother of the bride. After congratulations and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Marshall sang "Love's Roses," after which the guests, to the number of about seventy, were conducted to the dining room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, where a sumptuous dinner was served. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for the west, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit with French hat and brown wolf furs, the gift of the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a cameo ring, to the best man a signet ring and a beautiful pin to the pianist. On their return a large reception was given them at the home of the groom's parents. The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the numerous and costly presents which she received.

Music & Drama

(What the Press Agents Say)

ELSIE FERGUSON AND WALLACE REID

Exerting a powerful appeal to all married folk and especially young brides just entering upon their marital careers, Elsie Ferguson's latest photoplay, "His Parisian Wife" will be the attraction at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday, matinee daily. The story is one of exceptional dramatic interest and the various situations are most thrilling. Wallace Reid's new picture "The Dub" which is the added feature offering on the same program is the story of a man who made good. One man sees him flinch in a trivial test of his nerves and decides he is a coward. The narrative shows in swiftly dramatic incidents how he proved he was no weakling. There are several excellent comedians in "His Wife's Friend," a new 2-act Mack Sennett comedy to be exhibited on the week end program, all of whom are famous in screen comedy. They are Charles Murray, Weyland Trask, Harry McCoy, Gonda Durand and Phyllis Haver. All have congenial parts in this comedy, the result being a riot of fun for the spectators. The Allies Review is also announced for exhibition.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AT THE PALACE

Constance Talmadge, the noted screen comedienne will appear at the Palace tonight to Saturday, matinee daily in a film version of Frances Sterret's popular novel, "Up the Road with Sally." In this, her latest production, she reveals to even fuller extent her marvelous talents in the admixture of a humorous portrayal with moments of real dramatic suspense. Sallie Waters (Constance Talmadge) has inherited five thousand dollars as her share of her uncle's estate; she kidnaps her staid old aunt, "steps on" the accelerator of her automobile, and off they go, on adventure bound. A storm rises and they seek shelter in a deserted house, only to find there a pair of young men. Each group suspects the other of being criminals in hiding, and they proceed to lead each other out of the "Paths of wrongdoings." Further complications ensue when the county authorities tack a smallpox sign on the house, quarantining the inmates who believe that the guards are there to prevent the flight of the others from justice. Finally the owner of the house arrives on the scene and untangles the web of mistaken identities with surprising [illegible] to all concerned. It's a [illegible] comedy and very much worth while. The 7th chapter of the thrilling adventure serial "The Bull's Eye" and a new amusing Lake comedy will also be screened.

YOUTHFUL POWER CENTURIES OLD

FOR thousands of years the waterfalls of Ontario have wasted energy that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario now has yoked to productive dynamos.

What was formerly mostly sound and spray is being transformed into electrical energy — a willing, obedient, tireless servant. It lights homes, stores and offices; operates street cars and factories; makes work easier and life more enjoyable.

It is the object of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to render the best possible service at a reasonable rate. To attain that end the most modern electrical equipment is installed in power houses and distributing stations.

It is just as essential for you to use electrical appliances equally as modern and reliable in your home.

HYDRO Quality Lamps are the standard lamps of the Commission for home lighting. They are tested in the laboratories of the Commission for brilliancy of light, minimum current consumption and length of life.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian Northern Railway System

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday March 30th, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railways will at 2.00 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from this important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave railway stations on present schedules, such schedules will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore, in municipalities where local time is not changed to correspond with the new railway time, passengers must reach railway stations ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time table posters.

Where the municipal time is changed to correspond with the new railway time passengers will not experience any difficulty growing out of the change.

For further information apply to nearest C. N. R. Agent, or R. L. FAIRBAIRN, General Passenger Agent, Toronto.

CITY AND COUNTRY

COMMITTEE MEETING

A regular meeting of the various civic committees will be held this evening, when matters appertaining to the city's welfare will be considered and passed on to the Council.

DROVE CAR RECKLESSLY

Before Magistrate Masson yesterday afternoon a farmer pleaded guilty to an infraction of the Motor Vehicle Act by driving a car in a reckless manner. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

CORP. SNELL HOME

Corporal H. E. Snell, son of Mr. John Snell, College Hill, arrived in the city Monday evening after an absence of six years. Corporal Snell went overseas in August, 1915, with the Winnipeg 90th Rifles. Harry is looking fine and glad to be back in the old home town again.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TIME

The Holstein sale was conducted according to old time and it was noticeable that the timepieces of most of the visitors from the country had not been advanced to the Daylight Saving Schedule. The remark was frequently heard "Our time", referring to the time in the country.

GRASS FIRE CAUSES ALARM

At 10.45 last night the fire brigade was called to North Front street. A grass fire was the cause of alarm as it was feared it would ignite buildings in close proximity to the blaze. Fortunately no damage resulted.

COMING HOME SOON

Word was received in the city yesterday by friends of Driver James McDonald, that he had arrived in Bramshott, Eng., on March 14th, and that in the course of a week or so expected to sail for Canada. Driver McDonald, who before enlisting was employed by the Hydro Electric Company of this city left Belleville with the 34th Battery in August, 1914. On his return he will be warmly welcomed by his many friends in Belleville.

NO MORE KIDNEY TROUBLE

Since He Commenced to Take "Fruit-a-tives"

78 Lees Avenue, Ottawa, Ont.

"Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising.

I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I have not known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain".

WALTER J. MARRIOTT.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WALLACE REID, who is appearing on the all-feature bill at Griffin's tonight to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday; also Elsie Ferguson in her newest photoplay, "His Parisian Wife."

ENROUTE HOMEWARD

Pte. W. H. Cousins, P.P.C.L.I., who enlisted at Regina in 1916, is visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cousins and Miss Laura Cousins, 37 George Street. He received his discharge in Ottawa and is on his way home to the West.

COL. MARSH WRITES

Col. L. W. Marsh writes The Intelligencer from France under date of March 18, stating that the great Lyons Industrial Fair having come to an end they were on their way to Nice for a few days. Southern France is becoming very beautiful, says Col. Marsh who has been overseas for some time inquiring into trade possibilities for Canadian manufactured goods.

HARNESS MELTED INTO CANDY

Corp. T. G. Wells who resides on Murney St., of this city, returned home on Saturday March 29, after three years on active service in France. Corp. Wells found the Cummins' Harness Shop, where he used to work, converted into a candy store. His pre-war job has therefore disappeared, but he was able to secure a vacant shop on Campbell street where he will in about a month's time endeavor to furnish harness and other leather goods.

PAINFULLY INJURED

Mr. John Boyd, baker at the School for the Deaf, yesterday afternoon met with painful accident. He was walking about the grounds when he slipped and fell in such a manner as to severely injure his left shoulder. The victim after being temporarily attended to at the hospital in connection with the school was taken to his home in the city. He will be incapacitated from work for some time.

S. A. CONFERENCE

The following officers are in the city today: Capt. Alderman of Cobourg, Capt. Graves of Port Hope, Capt. Rix of Picton, Capt. Uden, of Campbellford, Capt. Harrison of Trenton. These officers are here to meet Colonel Moreben of Montreal, for a short conference this afternoon. Tonight these officers will take part in a public meeting in the Citadel, Pinnacle Street, commencing at 8 p.m. Everyone cordially invited to attend.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT IVANHOE

On Sunday March 30th at 2 o'clock P.M., in Beulah Methodist Church, Ivanhoe a large number attended the service that was held in loving memory of Stella B. Mitz, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Mitz, who died of pneumonia following an attack of influenza on March 4th, 1919. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Frederick, assisted by Rev. J. T. Hall of Stirling. After a short, appropriate address by Mr. Hall a letter of sympathy from Rev. John R. Bick, a former pastor, was read by Mr. Frederick, who also preached an impressive sermon, taking for his text, Rev. 22.3. The hymns that were sung were "Jesus I am Resting, Resting in the joy of what Thou art," (a favorite of the deceased) and "Asleep in Jesus."

Stella's early death has cast a gloom over the entire community and the memories that will linger are those of one who was sweet and gentle in all her ways; alike kind to old and young, considerate of all and never too busy to lend a helping hand. She leaves a sweet and abiding memory.

The church loses in her one of its most active workers; she was third Vice-President of the Epworth League, teacher in the Sunday School, a member of the choir and assistant organist. The sympathy of their many friends is extended to the bereaved parents, and one sister, Lillie, and brothers, Roy and Clifford. The beautiful spirit and Christian character and the triumphant faith of their loved one is their best consolation in their sad loss. Her death was:

"Passing out of the shadow,
Into a purer light;
Stepping behind the curtain,
Getting a clearer sight.
Passing out of the shadow,
Into eternal day
Why should we call it dying,
This sweet going away."

It is estimated that 150,000 workmen are on strike in the Rhur district, Germany.

Your Other Brain

Down in the abdominal cavity lies a great "plexus" or network of nerve centres, that has been called the "abdominal-brain." It cannot think. Its functions are to superintend and keep in operation various mechanical processes, such as the proper secretion of moisture by intestinal glands and adequate action of intestinal muscles in the walls of the bowels.

It receives messages from nerves in various regions of the body, but being unable to reason, it often acts blindly, imperfectly, or improperly. It may stop secretion, lessen muscular action—and the result is constipation.

Castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., do not reason with the abdominal brain, they force it to temporary action, to unnatural effort, until the bowels move. But this is followed by a sulky attitude or even a "strike" by your other brain, and the constipation is increased not cured.

Nujol acts mechanically to coax the bowels to move easily and thoroughly at regular intervals.

Nujol supplies necessary moisture to bowel contents, makes it easier for tired intestinal muscles to act, absorbs poisonous matter, overcomes stagnation and by so doing persuades the abdominal brain to act rationally and efficiently. Nujol has no deleterious after effects, forms good habits instead of bad ones, overcomes constipation at any age, under any conditions.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and send coupon for free booklet—"Thirty Feet of Danger."

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

Better News From Budapest But Despatches Are Censored

BUDAPEST, April 3—Communist Budapest is orderly and the Government is putting forth every effort to stabilize conditions. There are pessimists, however, who declare the new Government will endure less than a month, it being pointed out that its success will be partly dependent upon the success of the Russian Bolsheviki army effort to establish of corridor from Kiev to Budapest by way of Bessarabia and Bukowina.

The Hungarian Foreign Minister receives hundreds of telegrams of an official nature every day among them being messages from Lenine, the Russian Bolsheviki Premier. He receives newspaper men freely, but has ordered that their despatches be censored for the purpose of cutting down the material to be sent over the already crowded wires as well as to eliminate objectionable features. The Foreign Minister, who was formerly a secretary of Lenine, is most anxious to deny reports relative to the communization of women in Hungary which he declares to be preposterous. He also denies rumors of assassination and disorders. Of the twenty-four members of the Government nineteen are Jews.

RETAIL MIRCHANTS MEETING

Mr. H. Wilters of Ottawa, President of the Retail Merchants of Canada was in the city yesterday accompanied by Mr. J. C. Campbell, District Secretary of the Association. The gentlemen last evening in the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. building met a number of the members of the Retails Merchants Association of the city and gave interesting and practical talks which were much appreciated by all present.

Dr. McCuloch will be at his office, 47 Campbell Street, every Saturday for consultation on diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

"Oh, You Do Look So Strong and Well"

"AND why shouldn't I?"

"You always wrote about how well you were, but we never thought you would be so hearty-looking as you are after all the hardships of camp and trench life."

"Oh, we had our share of hardships, all right, but except on rare occasions we hed plenty of good, wholesome food and lots of fresh air and exercise. That's what makes a person strong and well. But I don't think I have it much over you. What have you been doing to look so hearty?"

"Didn't I tell you I was using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"You don't mean to say that has made such a difference. You were so thin and pale when I went away."

"Yes, it certainly has, and after you went away I had a regular break-down, and was in a bad state for some months. I had nervous headaches, could not sleep, and grew down-hearted and discouraged. Mother got after me to try the Nerve Food, and I am so glad I did, for I did want to be well to welcome you home."

"It is a joy to me to find you so well. And now that we have such a good start surely we can keep well and enjoy life. My experience overseas has caused me to place a greater value on life and health than I ever did before, and your experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food convinces me that you women folks need not be pale and weak and nervous if you will but use it when you feel tired out and run down."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Every box of the genuine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

COBLENZ, April 3—German troops opposite the Coblenz Bridge Head, began moving early Thursday toward Frankfort where a Spartacan revolt has been causing disorder.

REVOLT IN ABYSSINA

ADIA ABADAB, Abyssinia, April 3—The grandson of King Johannes II, who died in 1889 has revolted and declared himself King under the name of Theodore. The Government has sent out a punitive expedition to put down the rebellion. Governor Tejon, of Dediazmach, also has revolted against the Government. The Government announces that it will send a mission to Paris to apply for the admission of Abyssinia to the League of Nations. There has been more or less disorder in Abyssinia since the death of the famous Emperor Menelk in 1913. He was succeeded by Lidj Jeassu, who was overthrown in 1916 by Zauditu, a daughter of Metelik, who has claimed herself empress. Lidk Jeassu, who was a nephew of Zauditu, started a revolt in August 1917, but his effort was put down.

56,000 STRIKERS

BASLE, April 2.—Two delegates representing strikers in the Ruhr industrial region were at Weimar yesterday to discuss the situation with Herr Bauer, the German Minister of Labor. After the conference, the delegations went to Berlin to see other members of the German cabinet. Despatches received here place the number of strikers in the Dortmund district at 56,000.

What Germany Will Pay

PARIS, April 3.—Several members of the French peace delegation assure the Matin that French ideas on the peace treaty and other matters are gaining ground and that an understanding has been almost, if not altogether reached. Regarding the subject of the financial demands to be imposed on Germany, the Echo de Paris says that the Council of Four believes that Germany will be able to pay immediately 51 billion francs in money of various kinds. Deliveries of raw materials and manufactured goods from Germany, it says, will reach an undetermined sum which some optimists intimate will amount to thirty million francs.

Col. L. W. Marsh Honored At Great French Exposition

PRESIDENT OF BELLEVILLE BOARD OF TRADE APPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF CANADIAN COMITTEE AND REPRESENTATIVE ON EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF BRITISH FEDERATION OF INDUSTRIES AT LYONS FAIR.

A letter has been received from France giving the welcome information that the Belleville goods and machinery exhibited there have been sold at a very good price and that important business connections have been made for future transactions through those represented at the great Lyons Fair, which completely eclipsed that formerly held in Germany.

Lieut.-Col. Marsh, president of the Belleville Board of Trade, had the unique distinction of being appointed chairman of the Canadian Committee and is one of the two Canadian members on the Executive Committee of the British Federation of Industries in connection with the Lyons Fair, embracing representatives of Great Britain, Ireland, Canada and Australia.

Probably a Canadian Chamber of Commerce will be established at Paris or London.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce entertained and was entertained by the Mayor of Lyons, at which functions Colonel Marsh was present. The President of the Belleville Board of Trade, Col. Gas Officials Exonerated By City Council Committee

REPORT OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC EXPERT ON BELLEVILLE GAS PLANT DISSECTED AND FOUND FAULT WITH—SOME OF HIS RECOMMENDATIONS NOT CONCURRED IN BY GAS COMMITTEE OF CITY COUNCIL.

Mr. E. C. H. Dowson, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, some time ago, inspected the gas works here and presented a report. In the report was a paragraph which reflected upon the capabilities of Mr. Wm. Cook, engineer and foreman at the plant, and this matter was last night ventilated at a meeting of the Gas Committee in connection with the regular meeting of the Committee. The paragraph in question read as follows:

"With regard to operation of the plant, from conversation with your manager at the works and from information frequently given by Mr Barnet it would appear that there is much to be desired, charges drawn partly burned-off, purifier fillings badly mixed, inattention to retort house pressures and maintenance of equipment indicating present practice, such matters being under immediate control of the works foreman. It is quite impossible for your manager to be constantly at the works, and efficient operation demands a foreman who should live in the proximity of the plant and give his constant attention to the operation of the benches, maintenance of proper heats, charges and pressures, reporting to the manager regularly as to operation, repairs required, etc., and who should therefore be a competent man and take interest in the work.

Ald. Simmons, chairman of the Gas Committee presided and Mr. Cook was present also Mr. Gardner, Manager of the Gas Department.

Upon being called upon Mr. Cook said the paragraph referred to in the report reflected upon him and he desired to clear himself of any blame. He claimed that he had been unjustly condemned. The paragraph intimated that it was based upon a conversation which Mr. Dowson had with Mr. Burnet, who also visited the works, and the Manager, Mr. Gardner. He (the speaker) asked the members of the Council to consider the matter.

Ald. Simmons was asked why Mr. Burnet came here and by what authority Mr. Dowson had been asked to look over the plant, but not Mr. Burnet. Ald. Simmons replied he had no knowledge of Mr. Burnet visiting the plant until after he did so.

Mr. Gardner said he did not say anything to Mr. Dowson or Mr. Burnet which reflected upon Mr. Cook.

Mr. Cook—The paragraph says so. If he (the speaker) had not done his duty he should be discharged as he was an expense to the city.

Mr. Gardner—Mr. Burnet is an expert from Toronto, but I did not know he was coming to the plant. He came on a business trip relative to the city procuring a second condenser.

Mayor Platt—Is Mr. Dowson capable of inspecting a gas plant.

Mr. Gardner—I cannot say that he is.

Mayor Platt—It looks as if Mr. Cook is being made the scapegoat in this matter to a certain extent.

Ald. Treverton asked Mr. Cook if he worked under the direction of Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Cook—I do and try to keep the place as clean as I can. I have no control over the stoker.

Ald. Simmons—Mr. Cook seems to have a misconception of some things.

Ald. Treverton—If we have good gas today why cannot we have good gas tomorrow.

Mr. Cook—We have a bench that does not work right and sometimes the coal is dirty and these things are against the making of the best gas.

Mr. Gardner—I get the very best coal that I can and it has been very good this winter.

Mr. Cook stated that he had no control over one of the stokers as he was under contract for a year with Mr. Gardner.

Ald. White—Why should a junior man be hired on a yearly contract?

Mr. Gardner—Last January we run three shifts and a change was made and some of the men were let go. What he (the speaker) did was for the benefit of the city to retain the men he wanted.

A question was asked of Mr. Cook if he reported matters appertaining to the running of the plant to Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Cook—I have reported some things. I told Mr. Gardner that the boiler was not fit to make water gas. The boiler blows off at 67 pounds of steam, hence we do not get results. If I go back to work it will be under a different arrangement.

Ald. Ostrom—The trouble seems that the city is trying to be too economical. The speaker asked Mr. Cook what he desired in the matter.

Mr. Cook—I desire to have that report amended.

Mayor Platt—Mr. Cook should be exonerated or discharged.

Mr. Gardner—This is Mr. Dowson's report. I did not dictate the report.

Mr. Gardner—I cannot say that he is.

Mr. Cook asked that he either be condemned or exonerated and also have the paragraph in the report retracted.

Mr. Gardner—Regarding the boiler it is not up to the mark, but we can make water gas with it. There are times when I think that Mr. Cook is careless. There are some things in the report that might be left out.

Mr. Gardner—I think at some times Mr. Cook is careless.

Mr. Cook—I have had to go outside and do work even working on the roof of the building. Even when my wife was lying dead two years ago I had to go to the works one day as Mr. Gardner was away on his holidays.

Mr. Gardner—At all gas works men do other work about the plant.

Ald. White—There are 33 gas plants and Belleville stands third from the bottom of the list.

Mr. Gardner—You must remember that we have an old plant.

Ald. Ostrom—Cannot Mr. Gardner and Mr. Cook get together in this matter.

Mr. Cook—The bench we have at present is responsible for poor gas conditions.

Ald. Simmons—I believe that both Mr. Gardner and Mr. Cook are good men and they should get together and work harmoniously for the city's interest in the making of gas.

After some further informal discussion the following recommendation was adopted which ended the discussion.

EXONERATE OFFICIALS

"After hearing explanations from Mr. Gardner and Mr. Cook and in consideration of the present equipment of the gas plant that this Council exonerate both gentlemen from any blame as regards the making of poor gas at certain times.

Is Allied Army In Peril? Reds Ravage North Russia

STARTLING NEWS OF OMINOUS BOLSHEVIK MOVEMENT IN MURMANSK REGION STIRS LONDON — SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON SOUNDS WARNING.

LONDON, April 3.—The curtain was raised for the British public on the position of the allied armies in North Russia for the first time this afternoon. The serious situation in the Murman region and the attempt by the Bolsheviki to drive the allied troops on the Archangel front into the sea are the cause of much anxiety. The London afternoon papers circulated posters through the streets with startling phrases, of which "the British army imperilled" was typical.

The public bought the papers eagerly, having no idea which army was referred to. Some of the papers declared that another Kut surrender or Khartum tragedy threatened.

Sir Ernest Shackleton, Director of Equipment and Transport of the Northern Russian Expeditionary Forces, has just returned from Murman and Archangel. He declares in an interview that both fronts are in danger, and that the Bolshevist peril is a very real one, because the Entente forces are outnumbered by disciplined and well-armed and well-equipped troops in close touch with the allies' extended but by no means strong front.

"We must avoid the possibility of another Khartum," says Sir Ernest. He urges the need of sending reinforcements immediately. These, he asserts, can reach Murman from England in less than a week.

Boy Found Frozen To Death In Open Boat On Lake Ontario

LITTLE COBOURG BOY PLAYING IN OLD PUNT WHICH WAS BLOWN OUT ON THE LAKE IN HEAVY GALE — BOAT WASHED UP ON AMERICAN SHORE WITH BODY.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 3.—A small boat containing the body of Stanley Frank, nine years old, of Cobourg, Ont., who drifted out into Lake Ontario Saturday morning was found well up on the lake shore near Hilton today. The boy died of exposure. His body was frozen stiff, telling the story of the suffering he underwent before finally sinking into unconsciousness. His body was removed to the Rochester morgue by order of Caroner Chapman. His father will reach the city today.

The boat was a flat-bottom rowboat, and was half full of stones, sand and gravel. When discovered the boy was seated in the stern, his head thrown back and his body was covered with frozen spray and snow. The boat was discovered by a man empolyed on the farm of Myron Roberts He was planting grass seed about half a mile east of Willow Beach when his eye caught the boat well up on the shore. Nothing could be found on either the boy's clothing or on the boat that would prove definitely that he was the Frank boy of Cobourg, but the description tallies almost exactly.

He was just about nine years old, with auburn hair. He wore corduroy trousers, a sweater, a blue reefer, no hat and no shirt. The only articles on his person were a scrap cut from a newspaper, a pencil, and a handkerchief.

For nearly a week Lake Ontario has been whipped by one of the fiercest gales of the winter. The car ferry for several days did not leave the harbor, and the waves at Charlotte piled over the west pier and dashed fiercely against the masonry on the Summerville side.

That a small boat coud drift all the way across the lake in such a gale as this without capsizing is believed almost increditable by lakemen. Capt. W. O. Fobes, of the Summerville coast guard, said when he received the telegram on Saturday that the storm was the worst of the season, and that the small craft would have practically no chance of weathering the gale more than ten miles from shore.

How To Make Your Hair Beautiful

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple, old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and ½ drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your heads as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its results.

Individuality in styling is not their only attraction. Every bit as important are the rich velours and gabardines from which they are made. You will say so, too, when you try on one of these high grade models.—$15.00 to $55.00.

Silk "Undies"

Fastidious women will turn eagerly to this display of exquisite underthings. Because they are so delicately fashioned from the daintiest of fabrics we know that these Camisoles, Bloomers and Nightgowns will meet with hearty approval. The oddest designs have been used in their trimming and the colors are most delicate.

Camisoles	$1.75 to $3.50
Bloomers	$3.00 to $3.50
Nightgowns	$3.50 to $12.00

Spring Suits Are Youthfully Styled

Jackets vary in style. Some follow box-coat lines, while others introduce a blouse silhouette. Many have chic vestees of contrasting color. Velours, Tricotines, Gabardines and Serges in the leading Spring tones are shown.—$27.50 to $85.00.

Ginghams and Prints for Wash Frocks

The most delightful color combinations are to be found in these new Ginghams and prints. Dainty morning frocks and play clothes for the youngest member of the family may easily be accomplished with the aid of a Pictorial Review Pattern.

Ginghams are 50c. and 60c. a yard.

Prints are 25c. and 35c. a yard.

Corsets Come First on the Apparel List

Comfort, utility and modishness are all secured when you select one of these scientifically constructed corsets. They are perfectly boned where boning is needed most, and the strong coutil and broche from which they are fashioned will guarantee long wear and resistance to strain. For every type of figure in front and back-lacing corsets.

Overcoming the World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

She had reached the door, when the face of her father came up before her, the patient, loving, long-suffering father at home, who had, to Faith's own knowledge endured for years numberless privations and slights without losing his Christian manhood or courage. With the face of her father also came another, the Master's as Faith remembered it from one of the pictures she had at home of Christ at Gethsemane.

"This is not overcoming," she said to herself, and at the door of the chapel she stopped, walked back to the church entrance and went into the main room.

An usher showed her to a good seat and she sat there with her head bowed for fifteen minutes before the service began. When she raised her head, her eyes were wet with tears and the people near her looked surprised. But Faith had overcome. She had fought another battle on that eventful Lord's Day and won the victory.

When the service began she enjoyed it. The signing was by a quartette, and to Faith in her present condition the music came with refreshing. The sermon helped her too. It was on the subject of Christ's sufferings, and she felt ashamed as she listened and compared her own trouble with those of the great Sufferer for the sins of a whole world.

At the close of the service she hesitated, but finally was up to the front of the church and introduced herself

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongues, bad breath, sour burning stomach frequent vomiting, rumbling stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach." writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

First Nights At The Movies

Wallace Reid and Elise Ferguson In Delightful Plays at Griffin's—Constance Talmadge in "Up The Road With Sallie" At The Palace

Wallace Reid has never done better acting than in the role of "The Dub" and the large audience which witnessed its premier showing at Griffin's last night were kept constantly on the alert by the admirable way in which the story interest developed and held throughout the five reels. He acts the part with straightforward realism, making the most of each situation. His quiet intensity and the masterful way in which he dominates the scenes show that his great popularity is based on excellent acting ability as well as good looks. Mina Byron is charming as Enid Drayton, the girl who is held prisoner. This young actress is beautiful and individual in her methods and should be popular with local film fans. Charles Ogle is splendid as the roaring, blustering Markham, and Winter Hall enacts the part of Burley Hayden with easy skill. Elsie Ferguson also appears on the same program in a superb photoplay entitled "His Parisian Wife." Miss Ferguson plays the part of a girl reporter of Paris and the role affords her ample opportunities for the display of her rich dramatic talents. As Fauvette, Miss Ferguson weds a Boston lawyer whose parents refuse to recognize her as their daughter-in-law, and their hostility towards her, based upon a complete misunderstanding of her nature, leads to a separation from her husband. The eternal triangle enters into the story later with happy results. The story is one of unusual interest and deep heart appeal and its development to a logical denouncement is accomplished without a jarring note. Miss Ferguson is ably supported by David Powell, an actor of strong personal magetism and brilliant attainments, others in the cast include such well known screen players as Courtney Foote, Frank Losee and Cora Williams. A very funny two act Sennett comedy entitled "His Wife's Friend" and the British Animated News completes a splendid program which may be seen more than once with profit and delight.

A SPRIGHTLY COMEDY

"Up the Road with Sallie," adapted from the novel of the same name by Frances Sterret, was screened before a large and delighted audience at the Palace last night. As Sallie Waters, this captivating comedienne has a role in which her delightful vivacity and charm are given free rein. She inherits five thousand dollars along with other legacees unknown to her; the one who makes best use of his position of the ingeritance is to receive the balance of the estate. Sallie kidnaps her aged and dignified aunt in her automobile, but when a storm comes up, they take refuge in a deing as having belonged to her late uncle and suspects they are burglars who have broken into this house for refuge. When Sallies flourishes her roll of bills, the young men also suspect her of having come to this out-of-the-way-place for a similar purpose. When the sherriff arrives and quarantines them, each group believes its suspicions confirmed. Finally, the owner of the house arrives on the scene and untangles the web of mistaken identities with surprising disclosures to all concerned. The 7th and best chapter of the thrilling adventure serial "The Bull's Eye" and "Sic-'Em-Towser" a new and amusserted house. There, however, they discover two young men; Sallie recognizes the ring one of them is wearing comedy completes a really worth while program, all of which is being repeated tonight and twice Saturday matinee and night.

"WE REMEMBER"

In the C. P. R. Station at Montreal there is a unique electric design that welcomes all returning men. That design reads:

WE REMEMBER

St. Julien	Passchendaele
Ypres	Hill 70
Festubert	Vimy
Courcelette	Cambrai
Somme	Mons

It is in the spirit of these proud remembrances that every place should welcome home Canada's heroes.

PERIL OF HIGH PRICES.

Now that the high price of milk has been slammed it is time for an assault all along the line. From twelve cents a quart asked by all the local dealers, the Citizens' Dairy smashes the combination this week with a drop to twenty-two pint tickets for one dollar, and a similar drop is announced from Kingston. The other Belleville dealers followed suit.

As cash-and-carry milk has been selling for eight cents a quart for some time in Belleville the delivery price has apparently been out of all proportion.

In meats and other exportable-foodstuffs the decision to feed Germany apparently results in the rations of Canadians being cut down by high prices, showing how beautifully the combination works. How would it be to prohibit all food exports and severely punish all curtailment of production until fair, living prices are established in Canada—then go ahead and feed the Hun and the Turk and the Bulgar and the "Bullsheviki," assessing the outlaw nations the extra profit as a penalty of war instead of making Canadians pay the whole shot; but the science of government seemingly has evoluted into a talk-factory from which little else emanates but words. Isn't it about time something real was being produced in government for the people, of the people and by the people.

Life now is just one giddy round of butcher's, baker's, grocer's and coal bills, which with increased rent presents a formidable mountain over which it is almost impossible to scramble to the fields where new clothes and other "luxuries" grow. As a matter of fact, rent, food and fuel eat up the whole revenue of the average wage-earner, without leaving anything for clothes ,insurance or necessary nest-egg for the rainy day.

If governments cannot cope with situations of this kind then that kind of government is a heavy liability to carry and should be superseded by something more practical.

The stupid blindness of the governing class in Russia resulted in a blinder Bolshevism, but North America, blessed with intelligence and ability of a high order surely can bring the reign of the profiteer to a close without causing any great social upheaval.

TARIFF COMMISSION WOULD PROTECT CONSUMER.

The following is a suggestion made by W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, when attending a meeting of the Council of the Ontario Bar Association recently in Toronto:

"The western farmer is only indirectly concerned with the tariff. His primary desire is to buy his requirements at a reasonable price. His desire in this respect could be accomplished without reducing the tariff; that is, by the creation of a Tariff Commission authorized to examine the price charged for any article made by Canadian manufacture where the price is in excess of that for which similar articles could be bought in other countries. If on this examination the Canadian manufacturer could not show good grounds for the higher price, the duty could be lowered on that article or his selling price fixed. Under this arrangement the tariff might be sufficiently increased to afford ample protection to every industry, without imposing undue burdens on the consumer or permitting any manufacturer to acquire inordinate wealth by means of excessive profits resulting from the tariff. For instance, suppose a Canadian manufacturer is charging $100 for a machine similar to one sold in the United States for $50, there being a large Canadian protective duty. The Commission could call upon the manufacturer to show cause why he should continue to charge $100, or why the tariff should be lowered.

Even Courts are Blamed.

"It might be argued that this system would not remove all imperfections, nor would any system. It would, however, remove most of the difficulty and satisfy the vast majority of the reasonable partiotic citizens of Canada who desire the welfare of this country as a whole as well as their own advancement. The Board of Railway Commissioners, the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, the Hydro-Electric Commission, and even the courts of the law, do not satisfy every citizen, but this is no argument against them. These bodies fix rates and prices, assess damages, settle values, and have the most extreme powers of regulation and adjustment. A Commission on which the farmer, the laborer, the manufacturer and the professional classes were represented would inspire the confidence of the whole country in its decisions. We would then have not only protection to our industries but also protection to the consumer."

Mr. Mikel is an ex-president of the Ontario Bar Association, ex-president of the Ontario Municipal Association and president of the Canadian Fraternal Association, representing some 400,000 members in Canada. He has also acted as prosecutor for the Crown at Toronto and other places in the province and he has, therefore, had unusual opportunity of coming in contact with public opinion and believes that the Tariff Commission proposed will meet with the approbation of the people if put in practice.

Create Home Markets.

Mr. Mikel contends that diversified industry, that is, not only farming and shipping, but also mining, manufacturing, etc., will best develop the various resources of Canada and also afford its citizens an opportunity of selecting a means of livelihood according to their respective desires and capabilities within the country, instead of having to go abroad to do so. He points out that if one hundred million dollars worth of articles are being made for Canada by workmen in another country, and by a system of protection we can cause these workmen to come to Canada and make that hundred million dollars' worth of articles here, the farmer will be able to sell his produce to them here instead of shipping it to them in the other country. The farmer would then have a bigger and better home market, and by the tariff commission suggested will be protected against any manufacturer who tries to take undue advantage of the tariff.

Mrs. Newhall On Verge Of Despair

Oshawa Woman Says She Is Feeling Fine After Taking Tanlac

"Tanlac was the only thing that gave me any relief, and I am convinced that it is the right medicine for people in the condition I was in," said Mrs. Elizabeth Newhall of Oshawa, Ont., recently.

"I had been in a general rundown condition for over a year," she continued, "was extremely nervous, had no strength nor energy and the least little exertion would so exhaust me that I would feel real faint. I ached all over and felt half dead all the time. I had no appetite and would skip meal after meal. Nervous blinding headaches would almost drive me distracted; my nerves were shattered so that the least little thing would upset me and I'd get up in the morning feeling so miserable I could hardly keep on my feet.

"After taking Tanlac a few days I began to feel better. My appetite is now splendid and nothing I eat hurts me at all. Those terrible headaches are all gone, I have more life and energy and my work is a real pleasure to me."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling, by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

JUDGES' RANKS TO BE REDUCED

TORONTO, April 4—Attorney-General, Hon. I. B. Lucas, introduced in the Legislature, a bill affecting county judges. These judges, said Mr. Lucas were appointed by the Dominion Government, but the number was fixed by the provincial legislation. The obect of the bill was not to do away with any judges, but that in future no junior judges would be appointed except in York, Toronto and Hamilton. In all other counties there would only be one judge and in time there would be twenty-five or thirty fewer judges in Ontario.

Reports from the province indicated that the necessity for junior judges no longer existed and that the work could be done by one of the judges. By the provisions of the Act, junior judges would be asked to accept transfer to vacancies. In time a great annual saving would result to the province. A flat allowance to every judge would be made of $1,000 and judicial salaries could, if necessary, owing to the place of residence, be increased by the Dominion authorities.

According to Mr. Lucas, all fees would be discontinued to county judges to act as arbitrators and counties would be grouped so that more appointments than necessary would not exist.

QUEBEC HAS RIOT SEQUEL

QUEBEC, April 4—A total of $220,000 damages was claimed from the City of Quebec yesterday as a sequel to the Quebec riots of last year. Avila Blouin claims $210,000 because he claims he got a rifle bullet in the leg, and suffered ampuation, and E. Blouin, a relative of his, claims $10,000 because he claimed he was shoved with a bayonet in his back by a soldier. The city disowns any responsibility, saying at the time, the city was under the guard of the militia.

Both Blouins claim they were going home peacefully when they were caught in the onrush of the mob.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phelgm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

DEATH OF WM. DUNLOP

The death occurerd at St. Lambert, Que., of ex-Ald. Wm. Dunlop of Kingston. He was born at Gibraltar seventy-seven years ago, but had lived in Kingston for many years. He was a Fenian Raid veteran. One son, Capt. H. Dunlop, M.C, with the Canadian Medicals, was killed in action on November 2 last, and a daughter is serving with the American Expeditionary Force as a nurse, being now in Germany. His eldest son is Rev. Dr. J. G. Dunlop one of the leading Canadian missionaries in Japan.

Have you tried these Old Style-Home Made
Candies Yet?

Betty Brown Candies with the real old-fashioned taste make favorites quickly. Their deliciousness is due entirely to the careful home-like way in which they are made. Only fresh, creamery butter, rich cream and pure sugar, along with carefully selected fruits and luscious nut-meats are used. The result is a most delicious assortment of long-time, homemade favorites—these are now available with all their original freshness in our new Belleville shop.

BASKET BALL

There will be two games of Basket Ball at the Y.M.C.A. tonight: G.T.R. vs. O.S.D.; St. Mikes vs. Wanderers. The game between the O.S.D. and the G.T.R. should prove very interesting as both teams are about evenly matched. The Wanderers are a new team and tonight they will be seen in action for the first time. St. Mikes men have been playing together all winter and are in very good shape and from what we are hearing they have a surprise coming to them tonight.

MOVIES

There will be moving pictures in the Boys' Department on Saturday night.

Boils and Carbuncles Are Very Distressing

Boils and Carbuncles are terrible, but say, try "MECCA" Ointment. Listen to this:—

"I was advised to use "MECCA" Ointment for a carbuncle on my right arm, and I found it drew it out clean, leaving my arm perfectly well. I write this to let you know the value of "MECCA."

STRUCK BY STONE

Yesterday afternoon the police answered a call to Station Street where a boy had thrown a stone striking another boy in the face, but not seriously injuring him. The police ascertained the name of the boy, who had thrown the strone and a police court case may result.

ENGINEER IS PROMOTED

C. S. Ogilvie, assistant engineer on the Belleville division, G.T.R., has been transferred to Ottawa as assistant engineer on the Otawa division. Mr. Ogilvie went overseas with the 1th Battalion in 1914 and was a prisoner of war in Germany for three years.

PENNY BANKS

The average deposit of Public School pupils in Belleville in the Penny Bank during January and February was thirty-nine cents for Queen Mary School, forty-six cents for Queen Alexandra School and fifty-seven for Queen Victoria School. January deposits in the three schools were $570.01. February $570.35, as against $415.95 in January, 1918 and $387.47 in February, 1918.

TEMPLARS MEET

The Royal Templars of Belleville Council, N. 297, entertained a number of their friends from Trenton and Bayside Councils last evening. A short programme was put on by the Trenton Council. Four new candidates were initiated into the order the work being put on by the degree team from Trenton which was very impressive. Short addresses were given by the following brethren: J. O. Herity, Capt. Ruston, S. Pine, Bayside; Geo. Heniey, Select Councillor, Trenton; and two of the newly elected candidates, E. Prindle and W. Davis.

CAPT. WILKINS HOME

Capt. Harold Oswald Wilkins arrived home recently from overseas. Capt. Wilkins is a graduate of the R.M.C., Kingston, and has been on active service since the outbreak of the war. After being severely wounded he paid a brief visit to his home and then returned and joined the R.A.F. He was later taken a prisoner and was in Germany for seventeen months. He is now on a four-months' leave. Capt Wilkins is looking well and appears to be in the best of health.

MORE ARRIVALS FROM OVERSEAS

Nursing Sister Morrice, who is a sister of Mr Alex Morrice on the staff of the O.S.D. She left Montreal on June 2, 1915, with the first hundred nurses sent from Canada and served in some of the largest hospitals in France and England. Latterly she had been serving in the Duchess of Connaught Hospital. Previous to going overseas Miss Morrice was superintendent of a hospital in Millville, Sask.

Cadet H. J. MacDonnell, who was acting as Postmaster Sergt. in the 155th Batt., and was sent to the trenches without any military training, serving with the 2nd Battalion, and after serving for some months was transferred to the R.A.F.

Private Archie Cook, North Front street, who went over with Belleville drafts from the first contingent. He was taken prisoner at the Battle of Langemarck and served four years in a German prison and had to put up with all the privations imposed on prisoners by the Germans.

Letters to the Editor

A GOOD ATTRACTION

To The Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—Knowing that the theatregoers of Belleville do not like to miss a good show, I would suggest that they see "Flo Flo." On Tuesday night April 8th. I saw it in Toronto and those who liked the "Bride Shop" will, I think, find "Flo Flo" a better production.

S. R. BURROWS.

ARMY OF 4,800,000 WHEN WAR ENDED

PARIS, April 4.—French troops, to the number of 2,700,000, will have been demobilized by April 5, according to L'Heure. This leaves 2,100,000 still under arms in the French army.

Buy Your Home
NOW

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

When Energy and Vitality are Lowest, then—Influenza!

(By S. C. BOWER, M. D.)

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin and feel the exhileration of real good health tingling thru their bodies. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against ills of all kinds. You are apt to suffer from an attack of Influenza if your health is run down.

Purify the blood and you can defy influenza. This is the time to clean house and freshen up a bit.

Drink hot water a half hour before meals, and for a vegetable tonic there's nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the old-fashioned herbal remedy, which has had such a fine reputation for fifty years. It contains no alcohol or narcotics and is made into tablets and liquid. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for trial package.

STRATFORD, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with neuralgia. It would affect my head, extending down into my neck and shoulders. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and was completely cured. I have also taken 'Pleasant Pellets' and found them an excellent remedy for constipation, bilious attacks, also stomach and liver troubles. They seem to regulate one's whole system. Ever since I can remember Dr. Pierce's medicines have been used in my family. I am always ready to recommend them."—W. J. TAKE, 272 Railway Avenue.

DOMINION CRYSTAL

The Only Sugar that is Canadian from the ground up

A LARGE part of the output of our three refineries is obtained from raw cane sugar—but our pride is in that increasing proportion of our output which is made from Canadian Sugar beets.

Thousands of Canadian women have used this sugar, but many of them without realizing it.

The war did much to bring about a realization of the superiority of this truly Canadian product. When supplies of raw cane sugar were at a low ebb in Canada the Canadian housewife still had sugar for her table and for her kitchen. On inquiry she learned that this sugar which "saved the day" was sugar refined from Canadian beets—Dominion Crystal Sugar. It was found to be all that sugar should be, and, accordingly, Canadian women who used it in war-time promptly adopted an attitude of extreme friendliness toward it and pride in its use. It is indeed a matter of pride that we have the ability to produce our own strictly Canadian sugar from our own Canadian-grown beets.

Most grocers have Dominion Crystal Sugar in 20-pound bags as well as in barrels. They take pride in selling this superior Canadian product. Ask your grocer for it.

For a copy of our interesting booklet, "Sugar—From Beet to Bowl," write us direct. The book is free to anyone who asks for it.

Cheapest of all Foods

"Oh dear! Everything good to eat costs so much these days!"

"Not everything. Have you tried Davies Pork and Beans yet?"

CHEAPEST of all nutritious, completely balanced, ready-prepared foods are pork and beans.

Everybody will tell you that the chief body-building and energy-producing elements that nature requires to keep men, women and children active and strong are combined in palatable, easily-digested, inexpensive form in

Davies Pork and Beans

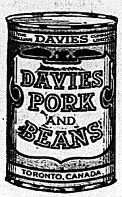
Hand picked and perfectly cooked until each white bean becomes soft, mealy and easily digestible.

In each can is placed a piece of selected pork which completes the perfect food balance and adds that delicious flavor which goes with real old-time pork and beans.

Tomato sauce to add another zest—if you want it.

Try Davies Pork and Beans tomorrow, and ask the folks at home what they think about them. You'll enjoy them yourself—and they are so easy to get ready.

Many housewives keep their pantry well stocked with Davies Pork and Beans, ready as a luncheon or dinner dish at a moment's notice any time. Nothing cheaper, nothing quicker, nothing nicer. Sold in 11 oz., 16 oz. and 20 oz. tins. Plain or with tomato sauce.



15 cents for 16 oz. tin

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

SPRING CLEANING DANGERS

Every housekeeper knows how often little injuries are met with during "spring cleaning" time and how easily the sore place becomes infected with dust and germs. The danger of this lies in the fact that injuries—slight at first, if not attended to, may become inflamed, fester, cause great suffering and inconvenience, and frequently lead to blood-poisoning.

To safeguard yourself, apply Zam-Buk at once to all cuts, scratches, abrasions, burns and scalds. This antiseptic balm immediately destroys all germs and prevents any danger of festering or blood-poisoning. Zam-Buk also ends pain and stops bleeding so quickly that no time need be lost by those who apply it as soon as an injury is sustained. Then the healing essences in Zam-Buk actually grow new skin, so that in a comparatively short time the wound is completely healed.

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, boils, pimples, rashes, ulcers and piles. All dealers, 50c. box.

In addition to the above, $50.00 was donated to the Salvation Army Huts Fund: 217 Pneumonia Jackets were made during the epidemic and given out; and through a collection from the members, Mrs. D. Thompson was made a Life Member of the Canadian Red Cross Society, as a small token of appreciation for her untiring work for the soldiers.

Owing to the amount of business to be done the election of officers for the ensuing year was postponed until April 3rd.

Socks and sweaters much required for sailors. Work room open every Thursday.

3 Wellington Rd., Charlton.
London, Eng.

Mrs. J. H. Diamond,
210 George Street,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear friend:—Just a line to acknowledge parcel received on Xmas Day at 11 a.m., just as my pass came in for 14 days in England. You see I am with my father and mother and sisters now. I came over from Cologne, in Germany, 4 days travelling. Thank you ever so much for thinking of me and wishing you a Happy New Year.

Yours respectfully,
N. T. Page, No. 636895.

Belgium, Dec. 29, 1918

Mrs. Duff,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear friend:—I now take the pleasure of writing you a few lines in acknowledgement of your parcel, which I enjoyed immensely. I am wearing the socks at the present time, and they are very comfortable indeed, unlike most of the socks we receive they are a good fit. The boys who shared the parcel with me send their warmest thanks along with mine. I think it was very good of you to send it. I must close now dear friend as I have to go on parade so thanking you again and trusting you are in the best of health, I remain

Yours ever sincerely,
Pte. L. H. PRICE, No. 342,252
4th Can. Machine Gun Batt., H. Batt., No. 1 Co'y. B.E.F. Belgium.

H.M.S. Stadacona, Halifax.

Dear Mrs. McCarthy:—

Please accept my sincere thanks for the parcels of Xmas gifts with socks which arrived to-day. I need not tell you how everything was appreciated by the boys at the unexpected gifts which came aboard today. We have just arrived from sea. With every good wish. Believe me.

Yours sincerely,
E. R. DRAPER, C.V.P.O.

H.M.S. Stadacona, Halifax.

Dear Madam:—Being one of the lucky ones, I received your Xmas parcel to-day. It was indeed very kind of you and the other ladies to think of us like you have done. The people of Ontario throughout have done more to cheer the boys in blue than any other inland province. A record which you must admit is one to be proud of. You certainly have done well. Hoping the New Year will be a prosperous one for you, I remain.

Yours sincerely,
ROBT. E. ELSWORTH

Miss Falkiner:—

Dear friends—Just a line to thank you for the parcel I received, per C.W.C.A. I think I have the best sweater in the navy. All the sweaters the lads get are too big, but mine fits like paper on the wall. We should have had it by Christmas but some of us were at sea and only got our parcels lately. Some are still getting them; "better late than never." Now you must excuse poor writing and bad spelling for the teacher and I had a fall out shortly after I started to school and I never went back and I am a born farmer; a fisherman by trade and now a stoker in the navy. Put this together and what am I? Well, as I don't know you, my letter is short, yet I would like to have the pleasure of meeting you some day, but I suppose I never will, as I am from the "Sunny West," and am going back as soon as I get my ticket. Well I will say good bye, hoping this finds you in good health, as it leaves me.

Dear Mrs. Farley:—In a parcel handed to me this evening I find a card with your name and address on it. I hasten to thank you very much for my share of it, as I might say the parcel was shared with another man, who in turn is writing to Miss ——— (he won't tell me her name,) so will you please convey my thanks if you are acquainted with the lady.

I speak with all sincerity when I say that the "women folk" of Canada have done their part in the war and we all know it and appreciate it. You may not receive personal thanks for any act of kindness, but it thought carries, then you must have felt that your efforts were not in vain. It did not appear to matter were we in France, Belgium, or even in Germany, where some of us had the satisfaction of going— there was always a little present popping up as it were, from someone, somewhere in Canada for somebody, somewhere overseas.

Soon I hope to be returning to Vancouver where my wife and daughters await me. I shall not forget to tell them how we have been looked after. Again thanking you very much, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Pte. GEO. T. BOLINGBROKE.

France, Feb. 25, 1919.

Miss Evelyn Thompson,—

Dear Miss Thompson—To-day I received a parcel from you through the distribution of Canadian Comforts. Many thanks for your kindness. The ladies of Canada have done their part in the war, every bit as much as the men; and you do not know how much your thoughtfulness has been instrumental in buoying up the spirits of us fellows in tight corners—rain, mud, and snow. Away back in 1915, when our lot was anything but comfortable, trenches were full of water. Fritz was "kinda" top dog in everything but grit. It was the women back home who kept us optimistic, game, and ready for any congregation of "Kultur" who cared to come across "No Man's Land." We have won the war and you have helped us. I have lived through four years of it and except for a scratch that put me out of the running for a little while, I've weathered the period fairly well. Good pals have gone under. There are a few of the originals left. We've won decorations, however, and we thank you for everything. We've made a name for Canada. A fellow just can't help feeling proud of the name we have made everywhere, but we know in our hearts who really was the cause of putting Canada on top.

Yours very truly,
C. H. PURDEN

CLOUD CUP SQUAD POLICE SKY LANES

Plans of the New York police department for "cloud cop" section has materialized and twenty-six British, French and American aviators were sworn in in the office of the Deputy Police Commissioner Rodman Wanamaker as members of the police reserves.

Colonel Jefferson De Mount Thompson, who will command the police viation squadron, announced that uniforms for the aerial patrol men had been ordered, and that planes would be ordered in May at a meeting of airplane manufacturers in Atlantic City. The squadron probably will take the air by June, he said.

According to Colonel Thompson, the squadron when completed will comprise 150 hen, including flyers, mechanicians, supply officers, medical officers, a captain and cooks.

Landing places will be at Governor's Island, Vancortlandt Park and Sheepshead Bay. Later, he said landing places will be constructed on the tops of high buildings. Both land and sea planes will be used, he said.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian Northern Railway System

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday March 30th, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railways will at 2.00 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from this important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave railway stations on present schedules, such schedules will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore, in municipalities where local time is not changed to correspond with the new railway time, passengers must reach railway stations ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time table posters.

Where the municipal time is changed to correspond with the new railway time passengers will not experience any difficulty growing out of the change.

INCREASE POTATO CROP

How to Check Serious Diseases in Ontario.

Leaf Roll and Mosaic Are Firmly Established and Reduce Yields One-third — How to Detect Diseases and Only Way to Control Them.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE two most serious seed-borne potato diseases in Ontario are Leaf Roll and Mosaic. Other seed-borne potato diseases common in the Province are Black Leg, Rhizoctonia, Blight, Wilt and Scab. Leaf Roll and Mosaic cause a very marked reduction in the yield, and the fact that these two diseases are so prevalent in Southern Ontario accounts for the poor crop of potatoes that has been obtained in many parts of the Province for the past four years.

Leaf Roll.—The cause of this disease is unknown. Data gathered by the pathologists of the United States and Canada shows that Leaf Roll may reduce the yield to about one-third of the normal crop.

Symptoms.—Symptoms of Leaf Roll are very variable. Affected plants are always more or less dwarfed and in some varieties the leaves assume a characteristic upright, almost staring habit, instead of drooping over in the normal way. Rolling of the lower leaves is always associated with the disease. The rolled leaves on plants affected with this disease begin to die early. The harsh, leathery texture of such leaves is a constant symptom. The tubers of affected plants are small and are borne generally on very short tuber-branches (stolons) or even attached in a cluster to the stem. Tubers from affected plants invariably produce diseased plants. There is also evidence to show that the disease may spread from plant to plant in the field.

Prevention.—The only sure way of avoiding loss from Leaf Roll is to secure fresh seed from districts free from this disease. Fortunately, this is possible, as Northern Ontario and certain sections of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are comparatively free from this trouble. In experiments carried on in Old Ontario by the Agricultural Representatives with seed potatoes from South Ontario, New Brunswick and Northern Ontario, it was found that the average amount of Leaf Roll in the plants from the seed from the three different sources was as follows:—

Old Ontario	45.5%
New Brunswick	5.1
Northern Ontario	1.4

These figures strongly emphasize the desirability of obtaining northern-grown potato seed.

Mosaic.—The cause of this disease is also unknown. It has been observed in many fields in Ontario. When severe there is a very noticeable reduction in the crop. Data gathered by the pathologists of the United States and Canada shows that this disease may reduce the yield by one-half.

Symptoms.—The foliage of plants affected with Mosaic is somewhat wrinkled or corrugated and mottled with faint, light green or yellowish spots. The stalks of the diseased plants are often more bare near the ground than those of healthy ones, partly because the affected foliage does not spread out and drop down normally, and partly because the lower leaves sometimes fall off in the last stages of severe attacks. The tubers of affected plants are normal-looking and sound and their keeping or eating qualities are not impaired.

Prevention.—If Mosaic is abundant in a field the surest and quickest way of eliminating it is by obtaining fresh seed from a non-infected district. Such seed can be obtained at the present time from Northern Ontario.

General Suggestions For the Prevention of Seed-borne Potato Diseases.

In order to avoid loss from Leaf Roll and Mosaic, the source of seed is of the utmost importance. Seed potatoes free from these diseases can be obtained from Northern Ontario. Only certified seed, however, can be relied upon. For information concerning certified northern-grown potato seed write Mr. Justus Miller, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Canada.

Even certified northern-grown seed is not a panacea for all diseases. In order to avoid loss from such seed-borne potato diseases as Black Leg, Rhizoctonia, Wilt, Blight and Scab, the following precautions should be taken:

1. Select for seed smooth, sound tubers, as free as possible from scab, black, hard lumps on the surface, and abnormal discolorations of the skin or flesh.
2. Disinfect all seed before cutting with formalin or corrosive sublimate. The latter substance is the more reliable for the prevention of Rhizoctonia.
3. When cutting potatoes have at hand two or three knives and a jar containing a 20 per cent. solution of formalin. After cutting into a tuber which shows signs of rot drop the knife into the formalin, discard the diseased potato and take a fresh knife from the formalin solution for the next cutting.
4. Spray every year with Bordeaux mixture for the prevention of Late Blight and Rot. Such spraying is an insurance which it is not safe to neglect.
5. Rogue the growing crop once or twice during the summer, or at least that portion of it from which the seed is to be saved. This operation consists in the removal and destruction of any plants showing signs of such diseases as Leaf Roll, Mosaic, Black Leg, Rhizoctonia and Wilt.
6. Practice a rotation of crops and if possible plant potatoes after clover sod.—Prof. J. E. Howett, O. A. College, Guelph.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, April 1.—With receipts of about 3,200 cattle on the Union Stock Yards Exchange yesterday there was a good steady trade for the medium and choice butcher cattle, but the demand for the heavy weight cattle was weak, selling off from 25c to 50c lower. There was a good strong demand for butcher cows, while the bull trade held steady.

There was a fair inquiry for stockers and feeders and thin young cows are wanted for grassing.

In the small stuff there was a light run of sheep and lambs with good to choice lambs offering and these would have commanded better prices. Lambs sold from 17c to 19½c, good calves 15c to 17c, medium calves 14c to 15½c, and good sheep 13c to 14c.

The hog market, with fair heavy deliveries, continues very strong, selling at from 19¼c to 19½c, f.o.b., 20c to 20¼c fed and watered and relatively higher for the weighed off hogs.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

East Buffalo, March 31.—Cattle—Receipts, 5100; heavy slow; others steady. Prime steers, $17.50 to $18.50; shipping steers, $16.50 to $17; butchers and yearlings, $10 to $16.50; heifers, $10 to $13.75; cows, $6 to $12; bulls, $7.50 to $12; stockers and feeders, $9.50 to $12; fresh cows and springers scarce and strong, $65 to $150.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

Winnipeg, March 31.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards today were 625 cattle, three calves and 1400 hogs. Butcher steers, $10 to $15.50; heifers, $7 to $13; cows, $4.50 to $12; bulls, $6 to $9.50; oxen, $6.50 to $10.50; stockers and feeders, $6.75 to $13; veal calves, $6 to $13; sheep and lambs, $10 to $16.

Hogs—Selects, $19.25; sows and heavies, $13.50 to $15.60; stags, $11 to $13; lights, $15 to $16.25.

Manicured Hands Betrayed Him.

GENEVA, April 1.— Two persons dressed as peasants, who were trying to cross the Hungarian frontier into Germany, were betrayed by their hands, which were out of keeping with the costumes they wore. Their finger nails were manicured and the hands generally clean and showing no signs of hard work.

The Socialist commandant, Herr Keszthoig, sent the arrested men to Budapest, where they were identified as the former Archduke Joseph Francis and a former millionaire named Julius Ommeich, Bela Kuhn, the Foreign Minister, ordered both men imprisoned.

Bulgars Mobilize on Serbia's Border.

PARIS, April 1. — The Serbian delegates to the Peace Conference have received information that the Bulgars are mobilizing on the Serbian frontier. Gen. Pechitch, Assistant Chief of Staff, has been recalled, and is leaving Paris to-day for Belgrade.

Big "Get-Together" Idea Grips Dominion Minister Of Labor

SENATOR ROBERTSON TELLS WHAT HE HOPES TO ACCOMPLISH BY JOINT CONTROL OF CANADA'S INDUSTRY—MANUFACTURERS WILLING—WAITS LABOR'S VERDICT.

OTTAWA, April 4.—In proposing that a small Commission of five or seven members should visit all large centres in Canada in order to ascertain by direct inquiry from employers and employees their ideas as to the best plan for promoting industrial efficiency, harmony and good understanding, Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, is actuated by the belief that to get industrial peace the main thing is to restore the "contact" between workers and employers, largely lost in the devlopment of modern industrial enterprises of the part twenty years and which must be regained if there is to be mutual understanding, concord and co-operation toward a common end.

Two Plans Considered

In this inquiry the views of both empolyers and workers would be sought as to whether the plans work out that the Whitley plan recognizes land, and the Rochefeller plan in the United States, seem to them applicable in Canada, and to ascertain the possibilities generally of joint representation in the control and operation of at least certain industries.

Asked as to the chief difference betwee the Whitley plan in England and the Rockefeller plan in the United States, Senator Robertson pointed ou that th Whitley plan recognizes organized Labor as representing the workers, while the Rockefeller plan provides for representation of the unoganized workers on the Advisory Councils. The problem in Canada will be to find out what industries the Whitley plan could be applied to in consequence of a thorough organization existing already of the the worker, and to consider what should be done with industries in which the workers are either unorganized or only partially organized.

The Standard Oil Company has always frowned on the oragnization of its employees, but has always kept them contented and active by paying as much or even more than the union rate. But this may possibly arouse the antagonism of organized Labor to the Rockefeller plan in the fear that the taking of representation for the Advisory might reduce the strength and influence of organized Labor.

Looking to Labor

Senator Robertson is personally of the opinion that the greater hope of success for such a plan is to secure the co-operation of organized Labor. He points out that there are many industries where the personnel of employees may change entirely within a year or two. If there was no international union to back up agreements the arrangements and agreements made by one body of workers might prove to the liking of others taking their place later, and, without any intention of being faithless to an agreement perviously made on the ground that it was not made by themselves. When organized as a union the employees would all be bound for the period agreed upon by the arrangement made.

Chicago Vote May Be Start Of "Wet" Drive

CHICAGO, April 5—The pronounced wet vote in the election here Tuesday was said by "personal liberty" leaders to mark the actual beginning of a campaign to repudiate national prohibition The wet vote was 391,260, the dry 144,032 Four out of every five men voted wet, and three out of every five women did the same The trades union liberty league issued the following statement: "Through the overwhelming defeat of the drys, Chicago has spoken defeat of the drys, Chicago has spoken in tones that will rings in the ears of these subservient law makers who have so cravely surrendered the liberty of American citizens at the dictation of a cline of protected prohibition lobbyists There will now be no let up in the protest against prohibition tyranny until the freedom of the people has been fully restored to them This is the message Chicago sends to Congress:

On the other hand E. J. Davis Chicago superintendent of the anti-saloon league said: "I am not surprised at the result. We made no fight and asked no one to vote for a dry Chicago. To have done so would have been a dishonor to the act of Congress. The efforts of Chicago wets to use Chicago results in an effort to terrorize Congress and the Supreme Court is little short of seditious."

The wet and dry election was planned for two years ago but court proceedings delayed it until now. Meanwhile the presidential proclamation and the constitution deprived local option which was the issue of the ballot of its importance, except as allowing an expression of sentiment. Had the amendment carried, Chicago saloons would have been compelled to close May 1 next.

MANY GO WET

Socialists in Milwaukee county were defeated in the judicial courts yesterday by majorities ranging from 2,402 to 13,100. In the state a number of cities voted from "dry" to "wet" including Madison, Beloit, Superior and Stoughton.

Situation Critical On Murman Front

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, April 5—Important developments on the Murmansk front in Northern Russia may be expected in a few days owing to a threatened defection of Finnish troops, according to The Mail. It is said that it was to meet this danger that American detachments were sent on two cruisers which will reach Murmansk early next week.

500,000 Booze Prescriptions Since O. T. A. Came Into Force

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE OPEN HEARING OF CHARGES AGAINST DEPARTMENT — VENDORS FELL DOWN—COMMISSIONER FLAVELLE ADMITTED THERE WAS NO CHECK ON SEIZED LIQUOR.

TORONTO, April 5—The opening session of the public accounts committee marked the preliminary canter in the much talked of Dewart-Ayearst charges relative to the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act. Ostensibly public accounts were to be under investigation but in the preliminary stages little or nothing was said relative to accounts.

Col. H. A. C. Machin, Kenora, began with the examination of J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the License Board. His interrogation while of a searching character was frequently punctuated with humorous sallies and was designed to show that there had been lax administration in regard to the employment of "spotters' 'and other provincial detective officers. It elicted the fact that the license commissioner had appointed no license vendors in Northern Ontario because it was thought that with a country so sparsley populated there would be a temptation for vendor and doctor to act in collusion for the purpose of making it pay.

The examination disclosed the fact that the department had taken special precautions during the flu epidemic even to the extent of permitting technical breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act in order that the public should not be permitted to suffer.

It was admitted by Mr. Flavelle that the licensed vendors had fallen down badly in Toronto until the matter of supplying liquor when it was most urgently needed.

DOCTORS WERE BUSY

The startling fact that probably over half a million prescriptions had been issued by the doctors since the Ontario Temperance Act came into force was disclosed by Mr. Flavelle and it was admitted that until three weeks ago there was no real check on the liquor, which was seized by the department.

T. Magladery, Temiskaming, took exception to the line the examination was taking but was told there was to be the fullest investigation and the chairman ruled that Col. Machin was in order.

Following close on the commission Sir William Meredith yesterday for the investigation of the Dewart charges, official announcement was made by the Chief Justice to-day that the inquiry will open at eleven o'clock on Friday morning of this week in Osgoode Hall.

J. A. Ayearst, the suspended chief license inspector of the department maintained his customary silence on the subject. In company with other officials of the license board he was in attendance at the meeting of the public accounts committee.

Shortage Of Food May Compel Allies To Evacuate Odessa

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

LONDON, April 5.—The situation in Northern Russia has recently been distinctly worse from an allied viewpoint, mainly owing to a shortage of food, according to despatches.

It is not feared that military reasons will compel the Allies to evacuate Odessa, but there is a possibility, it is said, that the city will become so short of food that it will be unable to support an occupying force.

Fugitive Mexican Rejoins War Forces

Expects to Remain in Mexico Until Diaz Wins or Loses.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Notice of the safe arrival in Mexico of Gen. Blanquet, War Minister under the Huerta regime and now avowedly second in command in the Felix Diaz revolutionary movement, was received at the State Department. Officials said not attention would be given the matter, since it was one to be dealt with by the Government of Mexico recognized by the United States.

Felix Diaz, nephew of the late President Porfirio Diaz, has been heading revolutions intermittently ever since the overthrow of his uncle. Whether the undertaking now joined by Gen. Blanquet with a formidable staff of old Mexican Federal army officers will make greater headway than those that have gone before, no one here ventures to guess.

Gen. Diaz, according to Gayon, has 40,000 troops scattered throughout 15 of the 27 states of Mexico. Of these, he said, 7,500 were in Vera Cruz, including 1,800 men at the headquarters in Tepatlaxco. Several officers in the old Federal army are reported to have crossed over to the Diaz forces.

Gen. Blanquet, Gayon explained, intends to remain in Mexico until the revolution is successful or the Diaz forces are overcome.

Miraculous Escape Of Kingston Birdman

Engine Falls out of Biplane, But He With Passenger Lands Safely.

KINGSTON, April 4.—Word has just reached this city of the miraculous escape of 2nd Lieut. L. Ennis, of this city, while testing a biplane in England. When he and a pasesnger were 4,000 feet in the air their engine dropped completely out of the machine. For a fraction of a second it seemed as if the machine must catch fire, but luckily the engine fell clear.

Before the remains of the machine had fallen far, Lieut. Ennis gained control, and with remarkable presence of mind kept the plane moving spirally as the machine dropped to the earth, landing on one wing in the middle of a hedge. He and his companion climbed out of the machine without even a scratch. The engine had crashed to the ground in another field about five hundred yards away, falling with such force that it was almost buried beneath the surface of the ground.

Campaigning Against 'Lure Of Bolshevism'

"It's Working Day and Night to Plunge World into Chaos and Ruin.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The American Defence Society launched a campaign against Bolshevism in the United States. A warning was issued, written by Dr. W. T. Hornaday, a trustee of the society, wherein he said:

"At this very moment the lying lure of Bolshevism is working day and night to plunge the whole civilized world into chaos and ruin. Russia, Germany, England and America already are heavily involved. Spain, Sweden, Egypt, and Chile are in the preliminary stages.

"In America highbrow Socialism, I. W. W.ism, non-partisan leaguism and Bolshevikism are in spirit and in purpose one and the same thing."

This statement concluded by saying:

The man who thinks that Bolshevism is not a menace to America, is himself a source of danger to the State."

Aunt Susan's Visit Proves a Success

Aunt Susan's visit to the lecture room of the Tabernacle church last evening drew an immense crowd, including many from outside the city, and when the performance was commenced even standing room was scarce. The play was put on under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Tabernacle Church.

Mrs. F. Nicholson as Aunt Susan could not have been better and in speaking her mind about the many society friends of her nephews who she came in contact with shocked her prim nieces. Mrs. C. W. Moat and Miss Henrietta Fenn, the two nieces, played their parts well, and Mr. H. Moorman as Mr. Guy DeMarchmont Coggs, was "a scream." Mrs. Allen Singer was very good as Mary Alice Tibbs, who by her likeness of Aunt Susan won the heart of the Honorable Samuel Smith, a part played by Mr. T. S. Brenton, who in his boyhood days was an acquaintance of Aunt Susan's at her old home at "Peppers Corners." All the other members of the cast played their parts to perfection.

Many of the costumes were in keeping with the play and brought to many present thoughts of their youth when these costumes were the very latest style. The performance was firstclass and well staged. The theme of the play "Society does not always count," was well brought out. As a farewell entertainment in honor of Aunt Susan a short programme was put on consisting of vocal solos and readings.

The enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." The cast was as follows:

Aunt Susan—Mrs. F. Nicholson.
John Thomas Tibbs (nephew)—Mr. W. D. Reid.
Mrs. John Thomas Tibbs—Mrs. C. W. Moat.
Rebecca Jane Tibbs (Reba)—Miss Henrietta Fenn.
Mary Alice Tibbs—Mrs. Allen Singer.
The Honorable Samuel Smith—Mr. T. S. Brenton.
Mr. Guy DeMarchmont Coggs—Mr. H. Moorman.
Mrs. John Highborn—Mrs. C. McCurdy.
Miss Linda Tuggs—Mrs. C. Frost.
Madam Pauline Wiser—Mrs. H. Buck.
Mrs. Jenkins—Mrs. T. Clare.
Mrs. Weakly—Mrs. E. Fenn.
Miss Redlip—Miss Eva Davis.
Mrs. Sadden—Mrs. G. S. Sharp.
The Servant—Miss Muriel Greenleaf.

The following took part in the closing program.

Vocal duet—Mrs. Duff and Mrs. Grant.
Vocal Solo—Mr. H. Moorman.
Reading—Miss M. Gulliver.
Solo—Mrs. Duff.

G.T.P. FAILED TO MEET LOAN NOTE

OTTAWA, April 4—The Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government is advised, has not met the principal or interest maturing Tuesday of a ten-year loan for $10,000,000 made in 1909. The loan was to the G. T. P. in connection with the completion of its line and was guaranteed by the Grand Trunk.

Russian Fleet Ordered To Sea By Bolshevik War Minister

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

LONDON, April 5.—Leon Trotzky, Bolshevik Minister of War and Marine, has ordered the Russian Baltic fleet to put to sea and attack the Allies, threatening to have all the crews shot if they disobey the order, says the London Mail.

Will Reorganize Territorial Army

Winston Churchill Tells How Britain Will Reconstitute Home Forces.

LONDON, April 4.—It is proposed to reconstitute and reorganize Great Britain's territorial forces into fourteen divisions and fourteen mounted brigades from army troops, garrisons and old line of communication units, said Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of State for War, speaking at a conference held here yesterday. Territorial troops detained in the armies of occupation overseas, he said, would be absorbed on their return home into the divisions to which they properly belonged, thus making the divisions complete. This plan, he said, was brought forward so that it could be discussed and, if necessary, modified. General officers who were in command of bodies of men during the war, he said, would be the logical recipient of appointments to the higher commands in the territorial forces and men whose worth had been tried in actual warfare would have the preference when minor officers were chosen. He stated that the war records of such men would be considered at 80 per cent. of their qualifications.

Mr. Churchill declared, in discussing the liability of territorial forces for service overseas, that they should not be called upon for such service until the situation becomes so serious that the general Military Service Act, calling for troops for the duration of the war, has been assented to by Parliament.

Senate Bill For Daylight Saving

OTTAWA; April 5.—In the Senate a Bill introduced by Senator Beaubien entitled 'an Act to provide for the time in Canada being in advance of the accepted standard time during the summer months'"—in other words a measure of daylight saving—got a second reading.

Senator Beaubien, speaking in support of his bill, said that daylight saving was in the interest and for the benefit of all the population, that it was a great economy in public health, that it saved hundreds of millions of tons of coal, and that the farmers should not be permitted to withhold such a boon from the people.

Senator Murphy who followed, said that in the Maritime Provinces ninety-nine per cent. of the people favored daylight saving.

Seized Launch As Well As "Booze"

Three Amherstburg Men Are Charged With Smuggling.

AMHURSTBURG, Ont., April 5.—Roy Kett, Wm. Kett, his cousin, and Frank Bernard, all well known young men of this town, were arrested by a squad of Provincial and local police early this morning as they stepped from a small launch here. On board the craft was a cask of wine and a keg of whiskey, believed to have been smuggled across the lake from Toledo. The men were arraigned before Justices of Peace Parke and Alex. Parke and remanded for eight days at the request of Crown Attorney Rodd, of Windsor, who attended the hearing.

The boat was ordered seized by the Customs Department.

IT HAPPENED IN BELLEVILLE

THE CALL OF THE WILD.

Canine night prowlers have something coming to them if City Councillors carry out their present intention of making Belleville safe for democracy and silent for those who need a little sleep at night.

The DOG question was discussed informally in committee by the Aldermen Thursday evening and the unanimous opinion was that there were too many vagrant dogs for comfort or safety.

Also it was reported that only TEN dogs in Belleville were legally alive through their owners having paid the license fees necessary to maintain a dog's life with the guarantee of liberty in the pursuit of happiness and an occasional bone.

That there are more than ten lusty-lunged dogs in Belleville is quite possible—in fact, J. V. Jenkins of the Hotel Quinte, after listening to the several midnight canine choruses this week avers that judging from volume of sound there might well have been a million.

Personally I think Mr. Jenkins' estimate may be a bit large—there can not be a million—but I am ready to take my oath there are more than ten dogs at large in Belleville.

However, according to information from the best sources, there were really ten dogs legally entitled to existence in Belleville yesterday—consequently there are a whole raft of dogs with no legal excuse for living and raising a howl.

Turn on the Gas.

Citizens claim the city gas is bad—how would it be to try the gas on the vagrant dogs and see how bad it really is—for the dogs?

Some Reflections.

And the night shall be full of music,
And the cares which infest the day
Will fold their tents like the Arabs
And as silently steal away.

PERHAPS—and then again—PERHAPS NOT!

Listen to the wail of a traveller who went to bed in Belleville OLD TIME and got up NEW TIME, and had one H—L of a TIME trying to sleep:

CUBIST BLANKETY-BLANK VERSE

Calm was the night and peaceful—all nature and other early-to-beds slept.

Slept? Ah yes, for a time, and then—shattered was the calm and peacefulness of the night by the chorus from Yammertung By the Moira.

Black was the night and hideous with the howls of the hungriest, homeliest pack of unpedigreed canines ever turned loose upon a weary, sleepy world.

Collies to right of 'em,
Poodles to left of 'em,
Cooties all over 'em,
Mongrels, every one of 'em,
Yammered and lungered.
Howled for the departed day,
Howled for the coming day—
Howled for what they had,
Howled for what they hadn't.
Not a cur afraid
Of all the noise they made.

AND NOT ONE SOUL SLUMBERED.

Thought their days were numbered,
Knew their sleep was shortened
By the discord discourteous,
Of the canine outlaws,
Roaming thro' the gloaming,
Filling the night with moaning.

And behold it was the third watch in the second night of Canine Grand Opera—unappreciated, unhonored and unhumbled.

It is rumored that the Russian wolfhounds have turned Bolsheviki and the nocturnal disturbances are Trotsky propaganda.

BUT BEWARE, also be wary, ye canine sleep destroyers—it is only a short step from Bolsheviki to Bologna.

FALSE NOTIONS ON CONVERSION

BY REV. W. H. WALLACE

Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven—Matthew 18: 3.

There are different types of Christians and each differ in their spiritual experience. There is no difficulty with the Bible and the accounts we have of certain conversions are easily understood. But when we go outside the Bible and fix on the Bunyan type, or any other type, and expect others to be converted just in the same way we find trouble right here. We put wrong notions into the minds of many children and young people and lead them to expect things the Bible does not teach. The noted Henry Clay once said: "I am not a Christian, I wish I were some times, I hope I shall be." He was evidently waiting for something special to happen in his spiritual experiences and all things were ready.

WHAT IS THE NEW TESTAMENT?

1 Take the words of Jesus: "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." The word convert means to turn around, to change the purpose we use in common life. Here is a dry goods box it is changed into a dog-house or a chicken coop. It has been converted. During the war, especially on the battle front we know many things were changed from purposes of peace to that of war, according to necessity.

2 Consider some well known cases Jesus dealt with: John 2: 3. Jesus said "Except a man be born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God." We have here a man who was a ruler of the Jews he came to see Jesus by night because not satisfied with himself or the Old Testament way of Salvation. The law could not perfect him; in fact it condemned him; so he came to Jesus for help—as he needed to be born again of the Truth and of the Spirit.

3 The woman at the well had different treatment. She wondered at Jesus, the Jew, asking water to drink from a sinful woman and a Samaritan Jesus had to create spiritual thirst in that woman's soul, so he said: "If Thou knowest the gift of God and who it is that saith unto thee give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked, and he would have given thee living water." But before that woman can be converted Jesus had to bring home to her conscience that fact of sinful life and make her long for the change. "He whom thou now hast is not thy husband." That was the turning point she went and told others, "Come and see a man that told me all things that ever I did. Is not this the Christ. She turned to Jesus and led many others to turn also.

4 Zacchaeus was a different type. We recall the man, little of stature, who climbed the tree to see Jesus. We can see the Saviour halt and look up and hear him say, "Zacchaeus, make haste and come down for to-day I must abide at thy house. With what joy that man received Jesus to his heart and his home. The crowd said to Jesus, "He has gone to be a guest of a man that is a sinner." The man said: "Behold Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have cheated any man I restore him four fold. That is splendid evidence of conversion. Jesus said: "This day is salvation come to this house."

5 Now, what about children brought up in a christian home! They certainly cannot have the experience of those who have gone into the far country. God forbid they should. Many cannot tell when they were converted; they simply grew up in a favorable atmosphere to know the love of Jesus, because He loved me and gave Himself for me." If such desire to follow Jesus in baptism who shall hinder them? Surely not the Christian parents. But we might expect those who are not in fellowship with Jesus to be indifferent and even criticise. See that ye offend not one of those little ones. Except ye be converted and become as little children ye cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

Soothe and rest them by applying a few drops of Absorbine, Jr. Or, if you are very tired and your feet burn, ache or swell, soak them in a solution of Absorbine Jr., and water. Relief will be prompt and lasting.

You will like the "feel" of this clean, fragrant and antiseptic liniment. It penetrates quickly, leaves no greasy residue, and is intensely refreshing. Only a few drops needed to do the work as Absorbine, Jr., is highly concentrated.

You will find dozens of uses for Absorbine, Jr., as a dependable first-aid remedy and regular toilet adjunct; to reduce inflammatory conditions—sprains, wrenches, painful, swollen veins. To allay pain anywhere. To spray the throat if sore or infected. To heal cuts, bruises, lacerations and sores.

On Parole

By Matilda Frances Pfeifer

"You won't do it, Bertha?"

"I must, Aunt Martha. I promised my father before he died to do all he had planned out and I shall keep my pledge. This circumstance of the paroled convict he forgot to mention to me, but I must complete the matter."

"But to think of harboring a criminal! Why, he may get up in the night and cut our throats and rob us!"

"I am sure you are needlessly alarmed."

"Very well, Bertha, I will not interfere with your duty, but I shall be in mortal dread all the time this James Lapham is here."

Mr. Wordell had been a good hearted man. His interest in securing the parole of Lapham at the state penitentiary was along his usual line of benevolence. A mission worker had told Mr. Wordell that the fellow deserved a chance to reform, and Bertha's father had agreed to give him work and look after him for a year. Just after her father had died Mr. Wordell's lawyer wrote to Bertha concerning the matter. She had at once authorized the attorney to sign the necessary papers in her name and send the man to her home.

One afternoon Bertha and Aunt Martha were seated on the porch when a man came up the graveled walk and lifted his hat politely. Both ladies arose to their feet, for there was something about the visitor which attracted attention and respect.

"I have a card for a Miss Wordell," he said, and extended the same. Bertha looked astonished. The card was signed by the warden of the penitentiary and certified to the parole of James Lapham, convict. The bearer's head was slightly inclined as though under the sense of humiliation. A strange wave of emotion swept over the soul of Bertha.

In an unaffected businesslike way Bertha accompanied her visitor about the little farm. She pointed out what was to be done and named the compensation they were able to pay. When they again neared the house she regarded her companion earnestly.

"Mr. Lapham," she said, "I am inclined to feel entire confidence in you. No one outside of my aunt and myself shall know of the circumstances under which you become our guest. There is my father's room in the house. He would have trusted you implicitly. I shall do the same. I will prepare it for you."

James Lapham put up a dissenting hand. "I thank you," he said, "but I shall get along comfortably in the barn room, where I can watch over things."

It was settled. James Lapham took hold of his duties with earnestness and interest. He won upon Bertha daily and Aunt Martha got to chatting with him at the table and the occasional half hour he passed evenings on the veranda.

One afternoon both the ladies went away and returned earlier than planned. From the front parlor echoed forth from the piano a mellow operatic selection in perfect tune and harmony. They could make out Lapham at the instrument. "Why, Mr. Lapham!" exclaimed Aunt Martha appearing at the window. "We never knew you could play."

"Oh, picked up a few odd tunes," explained Lapham in an embarrassed way. Music, it seemed, was not his only accomplishment. Bertha had spoken of retouching a faded oil portrait of her father. Lapham got the pigments necessary and the restored picture showed the master hand of a born artist.

Six months passed. One day Bertha glanced over the city paper and she started and re-read an item, telling how James Lapham, an ex-convict, had received a parole under false pretenses, had been arrested with a band of burglars and returned to the penitentiary. A vivid impulse sent her into the garden.

"Mr. Lapham," she said, in quite a flutter, "will you tell me what that means?"

He read the item and then flushed. He was silent for a few moments. Then he spoke clearly.

"It means that I am not James Lapham. I hope this discovery will make no difference in my position, for I have been contented and happy. I was half musician, half artist, disappointed in my ambitions and not earning much. I did a trifling favor for a stranger—the real James Lapham. He told me his story and said he was going to South America. I took his card. I assumed his place. That's the simple story, Miss Wordell, and I deplore my deception if I should thereby lose your esteem."

He had not lost it, for Bertha's heart was fluttering wildly at the thought of his going away. He did not go, and the discovery was a mutual secret until one day he said under the fair blossoming apple trees:

"Miss Wordell, dare I venture to say as Hector Valle, what I could never say as James Lapham—that I love you?"

"You must not go away," she answered almost in a whisper. "We would miss you now. Wait until I know Hector Valle a little longer, and then—and then—"

He read in her lovely eyes a promise, and patiently awaited its fulfillment.

Music & Drama

(What the Press Agents Say)

JOHN BARRYMORE AT GRIFFINS

In John Barrymore's newest picture "Here Comes the Bride," which will be shown at Griffin's this Monday and Wednesday, he plays the role of a struggling young lawyer, who is in pursuit of the girl and wherewithal to suport her. Comes a chance to make some money; he is to marry a widow who is to be his wife in name only and who is to divorce him with a year. For this he is to receive $100,000. He agrees and goes through with the ceremony, which is kept secret. Then his sweetheart comes to him and says she has withdrawn her money from the bank and will marry him at once. He is afraid to tell her the truth. He can't commit bigamy. He mustn't lose his sweetheart. Oh, Lady, Lady, wait till you see what happens. Jewel Carmen is appearing in the added feature offering in a gripping drama of the hour entitled "Confession." Several of the best known fun-makers in screen comedy are seen in the new Mack Sennett comedy "The Village Chestnut" which is being shown on the same program. They are Louise Fazenda, Chester Conklin and Myrtle Lind. The action of the comedy takes place in a district school and all who know the Sennett comedians know that there is something doing every minute. A Mutt and Jeff cartoon will also be shown.

"LAUGHING BILL HYDE"

In Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde" the author has triumphed in the humaneness of the story of the Alaskan gold fields it tells. As its featured player "Laughing Bill Hyde" has Will Rogers, the celebrated wit and lariat thrower of Zeigfield's 'Follies.' Though new to the screen, Rogers gives a brilliant performance in the name role. His splendid work and the all-round excellence of "Laughing Bill Hyde," will delight and thrill lovers of all that is best in screen drama when it comes to the Palace this Monday to Wednesday, matinee daily, along with Pathe News. A new Luke comedy and a beautiful Travelouge.

ELSIE FERGUSON AND WALLACE REID AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

Billy Elmer, who plays Bill the Burglar in "The Dub" Wallace Reid's latest picture which is being screened at Griffin's tonight, is a matter of make-up and they are always casting him to play "Tough Guys." Elmer bears the distinction of being one of the two or three actors who appeared in the first Lasky production and who are still with the firm. Several superb settings have been provided for "His Parisian Wife,' Elsie Ferguson's latest starring vehicle which is being offered on the same program. The story is a delightful one and affords Miss Ferguson one of the strongest roles of her screen career. "His Wife's Friend," a very funny Sennet comedy and the British Animated News are also being exhibited.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AT THE PALACE TONIGHT

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WITH "FLO FLO"

Paris boulevards or New York's Fifth Avenue never saw a more spectacular array of beauty and fashion than that which adorns John Cort's phenomenally successful musical comedy, "Flo-Flo" which comes to Griffin's Opera House next Tuesday night. "Flo Flo" had an entire seasons run at the Cort Theatre in New York where it proved a veritable magnet for theatregoers fond of good music and clever comedy.

A notable cast, a comedy chorus—every member of which is a "perfect 36," effective scenery, striking costumes and two comedy teams either one of which would have been a show in itself, are only a few of the more obvious reasons why the Cort was sold out every night during the "Flo-Flo" engagement.

Included in "Flo-Flo's" all-star cast are: Louise Kelley, one of America's most famous prima donnas, who will be seen as "Flo-Flo;" Jere Delaney, vaudeville headliner; Carl George, Jewish comedian; Burns and Lyon, noted European eccentric dancers; Mildred Beverly of the "Ham Tree" and other successes; Augustus Buell, Dorothy Curtis and other favorites and the "Perfect 36" chorus. A special orchestra is said to add greatly to the general excellence of this offering.

Rhodes Scholars.

The annual report in connection with the Rhodes scholarships states that only nine were in residence during 1918, of whom four had previously been on active service and two were medically rejected. There were also in residence overseas scholarships granted by the Rhodes Trust and certain other bodies. Twenty Rhodes scholars and ex-scholars were killed during 1918, including six South African, two Australian and one Canadian. Military honors were awarded to 38, including seven South Africans, nine Australians and nine Canadians. Of 50 scholars elected for 1917, 46 took up military service, two were medically rejected and accepted Government work instead, and two were otherwise employed.

The election of scholars will be resumed next October, when it is hoped that demobilization will enable intending candidates in the army to compete.

A Gigantic Flagstaff.

What is pronounced to be the biggest stick of squared timber in the world will be utilized by the British Columbia Government for the purpose of a flagstaff to be erected in front of the court house at Victoria. The timber for this king of flagpoles, which will carry the Union Jack at a height where it may be seen from any part of the city, is two hundred and four feet long, and its diameter about two feet ten inches at the base, tapering to about one foot at the top. If it is imbedded in the ground at least sixteen feet of the base will have to be buried.

Proper Pirate.

"You seem to be rather proud of being a pirate," remarked the trusty lieutenant.

"I am," replied Captain Kidd. "I'm a regular pirate, I am. When I want to sink a ship I superintend the job in person. I don't sit at home and send a lot of scared sailors out to take chances all by themselves in U-boats."

Half-Way House

By OTTILIA FRANCIS PFEIFFER

Outside the romantic looking log cabin in the woodland Walter Muir sat at his easel. It was his first week of outing, scarcely a hermit existence, for north two miles was the town of Alden and down the road double that distance was the popular summer resort, Lakeside.

He had visited neither. The great fashionable hotel had no attraction for him, and a cart drove up every morning and took his order for all household necessities. As he laid aside his palette he caught sight of a flying figure in the road. It was that of a young girl driving a bicycle. Then there was a jangle, a slight scream, and he ran out to find the rider striving to arise to her feet from the wayside dust and the machine lying ten feet down a slanting ditch.

"Are you hurt? Let me assist you," and Muir hastened to the side of the unfortunate bicyclist and aided her to her feet.

"I am only a little shaken up," she said, but hazily.

"My cottage is just yonder. You must rest," and she did not demur as he supported her to a great old-fashioned rocker under a tree. Then he brought out a pitcher of cool, fresh, well water. She smiled bravely as the shock of her fall diminished. "I will go and see what has happened to the bicycle," said Muir, and her grateful glance followed him.

He found the mechanism of the bicycle considerably disarranged. Scattered over quite a space were the contents of an upturned basket. He gathered up the packages, which seemed to contain groceries, and, running the bicycle with one hand, drove it up to his guest.

"I have gathered up those scattered parcels," he said. "It will take about an hour to repair the damage to the machine. I have a tool kit in the house," and he returned with it and a late magazine. The young lady, however, was far more interested watching him at his repairing task than reading.

She seemed to feel it due to him to be companionable, and informed him that she was a guest at Lakeside. She had been headed for a family living near Alden when the accident had occurred—some poor people named Woods, to whom she had been requested to show little kindnesses during her stay in the vicinity. When the bicycle had been repaired she thanked Muir with grateful ardor, expressing the hope that her future daily missions would not end in disaster.

"I shall be on sentry duty hereafter to see that you make that ugly road curve in safety," he told her laughingly, and she seemed pleased at his chivalrous consideration.

She passed the next morning, but he simply lifted his cap and she bade him a pleasant greeting. Upon her return trip, however, she came into view wheeling the bicycle by hand. It was a very warm day and the lack of oil had made pedalling laborious. He invited her to rest, brought out a bowl of delicious lemonade and adjusted the machine, and after that each day they chatted at least for a few moments.

One morning the delivery man from town did not arrive with supplies as usual. A lank lad appeared in his stead, explaining that he was helping him for a few days. He chanced to mention his name, Dan Woods.

"Is it your family that a young lady from Lakeside visits daily?" inquired Muir.

"You mean Miss Ridgely?" asked the lad. Yes, indeed. You know she belongs to the big banker's family in the city. Her father is Guthrie Ridgely, and ma says she's got five millions in her own right. You see, ma's sister was nurse to Mr. Ridgely when he was a child, and he always sent her money and presents, and when his daughter came down here he asked her to see Aunt Maria, but she died last year. All the same, Miss Ridgely does for us. She's got the kindest heart in the world, ma says."

Walter Muir sat like one stunned after the lad had departed. Miss Althea Ridgely, the daughter of Guthrie Ridgely—yes, he had heard of her, and his heart sank like lead, for how could he, a poor artist, ever hope to aspire to the heiress to millions? When his bicycle guest arrived two hours later she found him packing up his effects.

"I am leaving here in the morning," he told her, and his face was colorless and despondent. "I shall never forget these two weeks of my life in your company—Miss Ridgely."

For the first time he spoke the name. "Why do you call me that?" she asked.

"Is it not your name?" he returned. "One of the Woods family said so."

"Oh, they think that, and I have not cared to correct them. No, Mr. Muir, I am Nina Blake, a music teacher, and a close friend of Althea Ridgely, who brought me to Lakeside with her. She was called home almost immediately, and I undertook to execute a mission her father entrusted to her in behalf of the Woods family."

"I shall remain another week," spoke Muir, his face brightening, his eyes fixed upon her own.

She flushed and trembled, for that glance assured her that before the week passed he would tell her what her heart longed to hear—that he loved her. [illegible]

Dr. McCulloch will be at his office, 47 Campbell Street, every Saturday for consultation on diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

"TEX" RICKARD

"Tex" Rickards is what is termed in slang parlance "a game guy" and one willing to take a chance. And a strange parcel of human contradictions is this same George L. Rickards, whose experiences in various quarters of the globe would furnish material for half a hundred movie scenarios of the "thriller" variety.

His sobriquet is "Tex" though he is not a Texan. He is nearing his half-century milestone, but looks and acts a dozen years younger. Kansas City was his birthplace, but his early youth was spent in the Panhandle country of Texas, which probably accounts for his sobriquet. When still in knickerbockers he joined the boys in the cattle round-up. At the age of ten he made his first cattle drive into Kansas.

ELECTED MARSHAL

Rickard continued his career as a cow-boy until he had passed his twentieth year. Soon after he reached his majority he was elected marshal of Henrietta, Texas, which was his home town. And Henrietta was "some" town in those days and about as wild as they made them. Naturally the young Marshal had his full share of exciting experiences with two-handed gun fighters, cowboys filled with "red likker" and an occasional bad Indian.

In 1895 tales of the big finds in the Alaskan gold fields reached the ears of the young Texan and he straightway pulled up stakes at Henrietta and started for the far North. He was one of the first to cross the Chilcoot Pass in the rush for the Klondike when news came of the first big strike there. From Circle City it took Rickard and his party two months to reach Dawson, since the journey was made in the worst period of the winter and each man was obliged to pull a sled laden with six months' provisions.

MAKES GOOD IN DAWSON

It was in Dawson that "Tex" met with his first streak of big luck. He had a half interest in two claims on Bonanza Creek and sold out for close to $50,000. With this capital he opened a saloon and gambling house at Dawson. Within a few months he was flat broke and on his way to try his luck in the new camp at Nome. By "grub staking" he succeeded in opening up an establishment in Nome similar to the one in Dawson, but this time met with better luck. For four straight years he is said to have cleaned up $100,000 annually.

With a comfortable fortune Rickard returned to the States to continue his adventurous career of ups and downs. Seattle and 'Frisco knew him for a while and then he found his way to the Nevada gold fields, where he is said to have increased his pile by half a dozen figures through mining and other ventures.

Between fights he has kept busy looking after his mining interests in the west or his cattle interests in South America, where he had upwards of 300,000 acres in Paraguay.

Jack Britton, the veteran of the ring, is welterweight champion again through virtue of a nine-round knockout of Ted 'Kid' Lewis of England. Britton's victory is one of the most remarkable in the anals of the ring. It terminated the bitterest rivalry that sport has ever known. Britton has been boxing for seventeen years, and it was in the eighteenth meeting of the two men. Although they have fought often there has never been the slightest suggestion of an "act." They have hated each other bitterly, and each battle has been harder than the preceding one. They have fought about 200 rounds, Lewis winning decisions in two twelve-round bouts and in twenty rounds. Britton received the verdict in a twenty-round and a twelve-round knockout and scored a nine-round knockout. One twelve round cones was a draw, and eleven of their battles were no decision affairs. Britton's victory seems to come as a reward for fighting for the sailors and soldiers. The new welterweight champion has given his services for charity and for the wounded more times than any other U. S. fighter or athlete. He boxed on an average of four times a week for the wounded in the hospitals in and around New York, appearing about 175 times. He never accepted a cent for his services.

A boxer who shouts "fake" after he loses and bares his soul of a confession as to how he laid down or was double crossed or about where there was an understanding, might just as well crawl into the garbage and pull the lid on—they're gone to the dump so far as the public is concerned. The fans hate a squawker. Jack Johnson "cleared his conscience" four years after the Willard fight and where is he?—a high-class tramp in Mexico—Ferocious Ferdinand Fulton went to the Penitents' bench over the Jack Dempsey bout six months after and now the fight fans don't know whether Fred Fulton is the name of a good plasterer or a new brand of snake bite cure. No promoter would give either man a match now that they have confessed that they "flopped" or engaged in "frame ups." Dempsey says that if his bout with Fulton was framed that they didn't let him in on it and that he just went right along and plastered on on Fulton's jaw at hte first possible opportunity. In the Johnson-Willard affair, Johnson wore himself out trying to beat the giant Kansas, was battered into helplessness and then laid down to escape a K.O.—Toronto Star.

Major Howard MacNamara, the ex-Shamrock, Ontario, Toronto and 228th Bn. pro hockey club player is back after two years overseas and his brother, Major Geo. MacNamara, is expected back next week. They went away with the 228th Battalion the spring of 1916, and both served in France with the Sixth Battalion, Canadian Railway Troops. Both brothers now weigh close to the 22 mark Their hockey days are over. In pro hockey they were known as 'The Dynamite Twins.'—Toronto Star.

CHERRY, OF KINGSTON, IS WANTED BY "SHAG"

KINGSTON, April 5.—"Dell" Cherry, the star pitcher of the R.C.H.A. baseball team at Petawawa last summer, has been offered a contract with Manager Frank Shaughnessy of the Michigan-Ontario League at Hamilton. Cherry is only a youngster, but two years ago hung up an enviable strike-out record pitching for C. I. C. in the City League, and last year he averaged ten and twelve strike-outs a game at Petawawa, being considered the best twirler at the artillery camp. On two occasions he made the 59th Battery of Toronto look easy, and had the champions eating out of his hand. Cherry will likely accept the contract and should easily make good.

A REAL PIONEER.

Archbishop Matheson Remembers the Old West.

That picturesque figure of the Canadian West, that old-timer of old-times in Winnipeg, the Most Rev. Samuel Pritchard Matheson, D.D., Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Anglican Primate of all Canada, may yet become a resident of Toronto; that is if a suggestion to move him here and to create a small archepiscopal diocese in the capital of Ontario, with St. Paul's Church as the arch-episcopal cathedral, should ever be realized.

Born in Fort Garry (Winnipeg) in 1852, Archbishop Matheson was the son of one of the original Selkirk settlers who left their Scottish homes to journey via Hudson Bay to the wilderness of the then Red River country.

The venerable prelate's reminiscences of the old frontier buffalo-hunting days would fill an interesting volume. He recalls how, in his school days at old Fort Garry, the children took pemmican, the pounded-up meat and fat of the buffalo mixed with Saskatoon berries to eat at their lunches. He was a ten-year-old boy when Red Cloud and his Sioux Indians fled to Hudson Bay territories for protection after they had committed the terrible Minnesota Massacre of 1862, when hundreds of men and women settlers at New Ulm and other frontier towns were murdered by the redmen. The savage Sioux camped just outside the gates of Fort Garry.

Their faces were hideous with war paint, and the braves flaunted pieces of the silk dresses, the jewelry and the scalps of long, silky hair taken from the women they had killed. The Sioux danced and feasted and looked very fierce, but made no attempt to molest the residents of Fort Garry. The children of the fort, including a little girl, who was afterwards the wife of the late Col. James Farquharson Macleod, Chief Commissioner of the Northwest Mounted Police, and who now resides in Calgary, and the little lad who is now archbishop, looked on with horror at the revels of the Indians, but observed their parents' caution to show no sign of fear, as that might provoke the savages to attack them.

And yet, fifty years afterwards, in supposedly civilized Europe, the Germans outdid these wild Indians in ferocity!

Knowledge Unto Himself.

A group of business men met on a street corner in a certain city and were discussing the progress that has been made by the allied forces on the western front. During the conversation a fellow-citizen, who is fond of expressing his opinion, but whose field of information is so limited that he doesn't appreciate how small it is, joined the crowd and listened to the various expressions.

Unable to hold his silence, he declared:

"There ain't no doubt but that our boys has thrown new life into the alleys, but in my opinion the Huns can't fight like the Germans did."

And then before anyone could get in a word he added:

"And then we've done lots better work since our merchant marines has got into the front line action."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER.

Upon a certain New York newspaper there is an assignment in which a reporter goes out on the street and asks five persons, picked out at random, a question, the answers being duly recorded. An example of the result is as follows:

Today's Question.

What will you do with the extra hour of daylight?

Where Asked.

The Answers.

1. William J. Hearn, contractor, 850 Eighth Ave.: "Devote it to study and recreation."
2. E. Grossmon, cinema operator, 1482 Broadway: "Go to the park and play baseball."
3. Frank O'Malley, waiter, Coney Island: "Get a longer sniff of the ozone."
4. Louis Masso, chauffeur, 28 King Street: "Get more night sleep."
5. Sam Galvin, Mills Hotel: "When the war was on I earned big money in a munitions plant. But I didn't save any. I'll put in that extra hour hunting jobs."

HOW AUTHORS SUFFER.

Charles Dickens was the first Englishman to assert in the United States his right as an author to the protection of International Copyright. In 1842 piracy was the rule rather than the exception. The novels of the English writers were freely reprinted on this side of the Atlantic without one cent of reward to the authors. Naturally opposition arose after Dickens in a speech at Hartford, Conn., called the practice a monstrous injustice.

One American critic said that the novelist was no gentleman but a mere mercenary scoundrel. We have advanced beyond this stage of civilization in most respects. Generally the right of an author to the profit in his own work is freely recognized in all countries. But by reason of our copyright laws it is not possible for a Canadian composer to collect one cent on the mechanical recording of his song for the phonograph, or for a scenario writer to demand royalties on moving picture films. A newspaper writer cannot prevent the "lifting" of a special "story" by his competitors. A playwright must copyright his play as a book—and get no protection.

It is time for a change. A sane and modern copyright bill is now before Parliament. It should pass without a dissenting voice. The pen-laborer is worthy of his hire.

MORE "PEP" AT HOME.

Belleville Board of Trade delegates certainly put "pep" into the annual gathering of the Associated Boards of Trade recently held at Toronto. Their resolutions were timely, progressive and national in character, well presented and admirably spoken to. Belleville delegates livened up the proceedings of the Associated Boards of Trade and were regarded as "live wires" from a wide-awake burg, the city of Belleville profiting accordingly in the estimation of business men from all over Ontario in attendance at the Toronto session. Col. W. N. Ponton, Past-President of the Association, was again honored by being re-elected Honorary President, while Mr. John Elliott was started on the path to the presidency from the post of Second Vice-President, to which he was elected.

The Belleville Board of Trade contains members of great progressiveness and ability which should have more effective expression. For some reason the meetings of the local board are not as attractive as they should be and there appears to be room for a change of methods which will result in Board of Trade meetings being so bright, interesting and effective that even the "tired business man" will be glad to attend.

HARTLEY'S "GLAD-RAGS" RESOLUTION,

Hartley Dewart, K.C., member of the Legislature for Southwest Toronto, is a man of many moods, apparently, and among his vagaries he voiced objection to the full-dress parade fo society women at the opening ceremonies of the Legislature. Hartley embodied his objections in a resolution and here's what happened as viewed from the Press Gallery:

Wrecked in a Gale of Laughter.

Legislators, like other overworked public benefactors, need a little light entertainment occasionally. For two hours the members had labored over a bill that at least half a dozen lawyers in the House understood fairly well, and when Hartley Dewart, K.C., rose to move his resolution to abolish the "glad-rags" feature of the opening of the Legislature he was welcomed like the first Mayflower of spring.

Mr. Dewart did not allow levity to creep into his remarks. His resolution was too good a joke in itself to be spoiled by lack of dignified exploitation. He spoke reveently of democracy and of the necessity of preserving the democratic spirit by not allowing such ceremonies as the opening of the Legislature to become a fashion show. Women with an eye upon the principle of national thrift should set a practical example by spending less money on dress.

Then Hon. T. McGarry took the floor. He was, if anything, more serious than Mr. Dewart, and the eloquence of his appeal on behalf of society who for four years have consecrated themselves to war work, and now want a little relaxation, was soul-stirring. But the Provincial Treasurer did not rest the case for the women on sympathetic ground alone. He saw in their glad and colorful display an earnest desire to pay due respect to the Lieutenant-Governor, the Government, and even the members of the House, not forgetting, of course, the constitution. Should they not be encouraged in this attitude? Mr. McGarry wound up by moving an amendment referring feelingly to the war services of women, and declaring that they were entitled to full rights with men.

Mr. Dewart looked mystified. He couldn't figure out what the amendment had to do with his resolution, and said so, but the Speaker moved the amendment in order.

Mark Irish came next with a few polite remarks that paved the way for an amendment to the amendment, congratulating women for their splendid work in munition plants.

Then the argument started. The Opposition naturally did not feel like voting against two perfectly good declarations of sentiment; they agreed with them both. Mr. Dewart declared that he would rather withdraw his motion than vote against the amendments.

The Government side was now enjoying itself, and Mr. McGarry added to the fun by pointing out that Mr. Dewart could not withdraw. The point was argued at some length, but finally all hands decided to let the vote be taken.

And then Mr. Irish's amendment was submitted, and carried unanimously, followed immediately by Hon. Mr. McGarry's amendment, which, as amended by the Irish amendment, was carried unanimously.

And then the members called it a day and went home.

WHAT IS LEGAL STANDARD TIME?

Many legal questions have arisen by reason of the change in time, and the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail and Empire cites a typical case, as follows:

> One member of the Commons, E. Guss Porter, K.C., of West Hastings, in his capacity as a barrister, has been called upon to consider a legal puzzle arising out of the dual time system. The question put to him, in the course of his practice is, "Does a mortgage registered in a registry office at a certain hour standard time take precedence over an order of execution placed in the hands of the sheriff at the same hour, Summer time?"
> Now, in Ontario, where the case arose, there is in force a statute entitled "The Definition of Time Act." That statute provides that "wherever an expression of time occurs in any act or any rule of court, by-law, deed or any instrument heretofore or hereafter enacted or executed either orally or in writing, or any question as to a period of time arises, the time referred to or intended shall, unless it is otherwise specifically stated, be held to be standard time." The Act proceeds to enact that in Ontario east of 90 degrees west longitude Standard time shall be reckoned as five hours behind Greenwich time, and in Ontario west of the same meridian Standard time shall be reckoned as six hours behind Greenwich time. Some persons are inclined to view the provisions of this measure as an argument in favor of the adoption of Summer time inasmuch as the clocks in Great Britain have been advanced one hour..
> Others, however, contend that, while clocks in England have been put forward, Greenwich time is solar time and remains unchanged. Hence, they say, for legal purposes the time in Ontario should still be Standard time, five hours behind Greenwich time, not Summer time, as in force for ordinary purposes in England.

Inasmuch as English time, or Greenwich time, as it is called, upon which Ontario Standard time is legally based, is defined in legal dictionaries as Greenwich Mean Time and not Greenwich Solar Time, according to the above argument the new time must be the legal standard time.

A Laugh or Two

We all have our opportunities, but most of us manage to dodge them.

You Never Can Tell.

One evening recently a citizen was crossing Washington street, near the city park, when an automobile whipped by, the side of the car rubbing against him and throwing him off to one side.

"Look out there'" cried the driver of the machine.

"What!" responded the assaulted one, "you're not coming back again?"

A Hint.

The garden catalogues are here,
  With blossoms very fine and big,
Announcing that the time is near
  For us to hustle out and dig.

An Absurd Question.

"You sign this deed of your own free will, do you, madam?" asked the lawyer.

"What do you mean by that" demanded the large, florid-faced woman, looking threateningly upon the lawyer.

"I mean there has been no compulsion on the part of your husband. Has there?"

"Him!" she ejaculated, turning to look at the little, meek, man sitting behind her. "Frederick? I'd like to see him compulse me."

A Jarless Collision.

"Has Tom had any accidents since he got his automobile?"

"No; the only thing he has run into is debt."

A Paradox.

"I have no superstitions whatever."

"What's the reason?"

"I have observed that superstitious people are nearly always unlucky."

Limit of Aridity.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst, of Arizona relates that an Eastern tourist was travelling the Southwest and stopped in a particularly dry section of Arizona, says an exchange.

"This place is the limit," he remarked, addressing a native. "I don't think there is another locality on the face of the earth that is quite so dry." Doesn't it ever rain in this section?"

"Rain!" exclaimed the native. "Say stranger, we've got bullfrogs around here over eight years old that hain't learned to swim yet."

The Poet's Corner

APRIL.

Speeding west at sunset
  A truant 'beam espies
A little Lady Doleful
  Spoiling pretty eyes.

Her hair all tossed and wavy,
  Twined with violets, too;
Her lips just curved with laughter,
Poets' Corner
  Her eyes a misty blue.

Together far they wandered
  And where'er my Lady tread,
A soft green velvet carpet
  All o'er the way was spread.

Beneath some leaves the violet
  Peeped out bewitching shy,
Whilst in the glare gay dandelion
  Hailed every passer-by.

Disdainfully my Lady
  Scanned trees so much undressed;
Behold a sheaf of blossoms
  Some lovely thought expressed!

Bold robin piped in ecstacy
  His magic song of spring;
In all this world I know of naught
  So hope-inspiring!

Just then, alas! the sunbeam
  Bethought himself of home,
He tossed a kiss to April,
  Left her in tears—alone!

The truant paused irresolute—
  A spell my Lady weaves!
With rain all fraught with fragrance
  And sunlight on the leaves!

SUMMER TIME ORDERED FOR THE MILITARY

QUEBEC, April 5—Orders were received from Ottawa to the effect that starting to-day the military are to follow the new time until further orders as to the present inconveniences which have arisen from the system of keeping two different schedules. This announcement was received with pleasure by the various units, and by both officers and men as the standard system had caused much misunderstanding in several cases.

POPPIES ARE DANGEROUS.

Question of War Memorials Discussed by Hon. G. S. Henry.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture, in his address before the Horticultural Convention in Toronto recently, dealt with the question of war memorials.

"There have been many suggestions as to suitable memorials which might be adopted to commemorate the noble lives and heroic sacrifices of Canadian boys who have fallen at the front," said the Minister, "and I would like to refer to one or two of these suggestions.

"Some time ago someone conceived the idea of bringing over seeds of the Flanders poppies, which have been made so well known through the imperishable poem of Col. John McCrae. Efforts have been made to bring these seeds to Ontario and grow these poppies here. On sentimental grounds this is something which naturally appeals to us all, but there is another side to the matter.

"When the subject first came to my attention I desired to have the best information available, and I asked the professor of botany at the Ontario Agricultural College for a report on the matter. It may be of interest to you to have his view, which was stated as follows:

"'Varieties of the European poppy have been many times introduced into Canada and grown in gardens. So far as I am aware there are no records of poppies having escaped from cultivation and become troublesome as weeds in cultivated fields in Ontario. This fact, however, does not make it safe for us to assume that the poppy might not become a weed in Ontario if it were introduced wholesale by various patriotic committees throughout the province.

"'In England and Europe the poppy is one of the common weeds of grain fields. Prof. Percival, professor of botany of the Southeastern Agricultural College, Wye, England, writes as follows concerning the poppy: "The seeds of the poppy are small and many of them lie dormant in the soil for several years, springing up whenever the season is favorable. On this account poppies are difficult to abolish completely when once allowed to seed."

"'In view of the fact that the poppy is such a common weed in grain fields in Europe, and that the seeds have considerable vitality and will remain formant in the ground for several years, it seems to me there would be considerable risk that the poppy might become a troublesome weed in Ontario if it were introduced wholesale for patriotic purposes.'

"Under these circumstances I think the very greatest care should be exercised in the use of these seeds in this province. We do not desire to do anything which might later prove a menace rather than an advantage, and we all know that there are now in Ontario plants which are known as weeds which are very attractive in themselves if they could be kept under control.

"There is another suggestion which has been made, however, which I think is worthy of consideration, and that is the planting of trees in memory of the men who have fallen. This has been taken up across the line, and municipalities, schools and other organizations have adopted it. One state, I believe, is planning to plant trees along each side of 400 miles of highway. I think there are many sections of Ontario where this could be adopted with advantage. It serves as a perpetual form of memory to those in whose honor the trees might be planted, and it serves to further beautify the province. In all our plans for memorials I think we should ever keep in mind the idea of making this country a more attractive place in which to live, and thus perpetuate the ideal for which they laid down their lives."

Aliens Want to Go Back Home.

Although many hundreds of foreign residents in Montreal are eagerly awaiting the first opportunity to return to countries abroad, few have thus far obtained accommodation. Italian, Greek and Scandinavian colonists are especially desirous of returning to their own countries, but the difficulty of securing transportation from British ports, to which Montreal lines are running directly, to Mediterranean and Scandinavian ports, has proved a stumbling block to many a prospective emigrant. Scandinavians have applied for passage in substantial numbers, and Serbians are also eager to cross. English-speaking and French-Canadian business men, thus far, have formed the majority of travelers to European ports. Tourist traffic cannot exist at present, for the difficulty of securing return transportation is great enough to discourage the most optimistic pilgrims. Many travelers from this section have taken passage by way of New York and other ports, where direct connection with Mediterranean or Scandinavian ports is afforded. The traveler who lands at a British port must take his chances of pursuing his journey farther to his destination. The direct route for the foreign emigrant, therefore, is most satisfactory, and the majority of Montreal Greeks and Italians who were impatient to be off took advantage of that opportunity.

Famous Soldier Poet of Italy.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italy's famous poet, whose flying feats are the admiration of his countrymen, has not the slightest fear of death, and he has a presentiment that he will die in action. To a friend who interviewed him he remarked: "My worldly life is ended. What can I do after the war? I shall write no more. Every time I go off on an expedition I hope it will be my last. That is the reason for my fearlessness. The finest end I wish for is to die for my country."

Pudgy's Bravery.

"Pudgy" is a Y. M. C. A. man, well known to many American soldiers in France. He recently spent a night in a front-line dugout. While he was there a deafening barrage rained around the dugout for a full half an hour.

MONTREAL SEWER RATS WILL DRINK "HARD STUFF"

Montreal's sewer rats will most likely, about the first day of May, be swirling around in a semi-conscious state, for there is every likelihood that Montreal's surplus "Hard Stuff" will be poured down the sewers on or near that date.

The hotels, however, report their stocks of whiskey and other drinks very low, and by the first of May they will almost be sold out. Unlike New York, Montreal does not plan the "wildest night on record' to celebrate the passing of the "wet" period for the "dry."

It all depends, say hotel men, how the vote goes on April 10. If the province votes dry then there will be a celebration, while if Quebec votes for light wines and beers there may be a celebration. It all depends.

In any case, the liquors familiarly known as "hard stuff" have got to go and unless it is sold the sewer rats have the finest chance in the world to get drunk about May 1.

QUEBEC "ANTIS" SPLIT ON WINE QUESTION

MONTREAL, April 5—A division of opinion has arisen in the ranks of the Anti-Alcoholic League over the wine and beer license system upon which a referendum is being submitted on April 10, in Quebec. The president of the league, Judge Lafontaine, says, that such license would encourage drinking and would not permit of law enforcement.

Victor Morin, the secretary of the league, says that a system which permits of the moderate use of light beers and wines will serve the best interests of true temperance.

Baby's Health In The Spring

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds; constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MORE DEMAND FOR LABOR

OTTAWA, April 4—In connection with his announcement of the decision of the Government to appoint a commission to study the question of joint control of industries by capital and labor yesterday, Hon. Gideon Robertson said that in all the provinces with the exception of British Columbia the unemployment situation was improving, and he felt confident that within six months Canada would be faced with an actual shortage of labor.

The Government had established sixty-five employment offices throughout the Dominion, and they were rendering excellent service. In the week ending March 22, alone, these offices had had 4,289 applications for employment, and had placed 1,788 men into positions.

The situation was improving every day, and everything considered, future prospects were not such as to cause worry or alarm.

EGYPT WAS AFLAME

LONDON, April 5—A delayed Reuter despatch from Cairo, under date of March 24, reviewing the uprising, says that within a short time Egypt was aflame from Alexandria to Assouan. The depredations and excesses recorded must have struck horror into the heart of every civilized being. Owing to the prompt military measures, however, the disturbances in Cairo and Alexandria were not so serious as elsewhere.

The situation was rendered very difficult by the cutting of railways and telegraph lines. 'Within a few hours,' says the correspondent, "we saw the Egypt of 1882 again before us. But, whereas at that time the rioters were unorganized, there certainly seems to be organization behind the present movement. We have seen the telegraphs cut at most vital points, and railways destroyed by men evidently knowing their work. The Tram Railway employes, native lawyers and others simultaneously ceased working. All efforts were employed to paralyze everything."

The Mystic Screed

By VIRGINIA LEE

"And you want to tell this fair Brazilian flower of beauty your love?" questioned Wade Hampton.

"In twenty-three different languages over and over again, if I dared!" replied Vance Driscoll.

"Which you are able to do, as I know. Unfortunately, however, looking at Miss Alma Beltrand as a business client, your ignorance of the twenty-fourth language means so much to her that I fear if you do not master it your aspirations will prove hopeless."

Vance Driscoll sighed and looked serious. He was a translator by profession, versed in all current tongues and others entirely outside of the college curriculum. For once a poser faced him. Mystery, romance, the unusual enveloped his latest "case" like an impenetrable mask. There had come to him one day a lady of wealth and philanthropy with a strange story.

"I have been sent to you as an expert translator, she said. "I come in behalf of Miss Alma Beltrand, a beautiful orphan girl, whom I have given a home until the mystery surrounding her is solved. That is her picture, and here the screed upon which I hope you may exert your powers successfully."

Driscoll gazed upon the most beautiful face he had ever seen. For a moment he scanned it entranced. Then his eyes betrayed perplexity as he looked at a mass of hieroglyphics, traced evidently with a species of stylus with cochineal on a parchmentlike sheet made of the thin, flexible skin of some animal.

"Tribal," he said, shielding himself behind a technical subterfuge, for the signs employed were in no sense basic. "I will have to take time for thorough elucidation."

"Oh, surely," acceded his lady visitor promptly. "Miss Beltrand has lived nearly all her life in northern Brazil, where her father operated a coffee plantation among nomadic tribes, but employed educators and servitors for his daughter and surrounded her with all the refinements of life. Her mother died when she was very young. Just before her father went away to settle some property dispute with a native chief, he told Alma that after his return he would take her back to her native country. He died, however, in a native uprising, and his faithful servant, Columba, just managed to flee with Alma to avoid the general massacre. It appears that Mr. Beltrand, dying, had given Columba explicit directions as to where he was to take Alma in this country, which Columba transcribed not in the tribal tongue, but in some obscure dialect familiar to him. Columba did not translate the screed to Alma, but died suddenly, and all that was found on him was the screed and a small sum of money."

For a week Driscoll pored over the rude hieroglyphic scrawl. He made little progress. Here and there he discovered some characters allied to Aztecan and Peruvian symbols, but as a whole, the document was undecipherable.

Then Alma came to see him with her kindly friend. That visit opened a new chapter in his life. Love drove him to renewed exertions to solve the mystery which surrounded the orphan.

So eager was Driscoll to transcribe the screed, that his friend Hampton became as interested as himself in striving to find some Brazilian alien who could throw light upon the same. He burst in upon Driscoll one day, breathless and perspiring, a flat oval-shaped package under his arm.

"A clue," he cried excitedly. "It cost me twenty dollars, but you will say it is a famous investment. Saw it in the window of a curio shop. It's a war shield. Look there," and Hampton removed the covering to reveal a battered copper object covered with hieroglyphics. One glance at them, and Driscoll was aroused to the depths of his being.

"Hampton," he spoke tumultuously, "the hieroglyphics are the same! Where did you get the shield?" and Hampton named the curio dealer.

"And where did he get it?"

"Bought it from somebody, of course. Perhaps he can tell us of whom."

"What luck!" spoke Hampton, a few hours later. "The original owner of the shield had been located. To him hieroglyphics of shield and screed were simple and clear. With the translation of the latter in his possession, Driscoll called upon Alma.

The scrawl showed that Columba was to go to a certain banker in New York, to whom for years Mr. Beltrand had been sending money in trust for Alma. She was an heiress—wealth, position, luxury were at her command. Driscoll bade her good-by in a constrained way and departed, feeling that wealth had set up an insuperable barrier between them. To his surprise her lady friend called upon him next day.

"Mr. Driscoll," she said, "I wish you to come to the house and see Alma. She has cried her heart out since you went away so coldly."

"Why, does she wish to see me? "What can I say to her," stammered Driscoll.

"In that beautiful Peruvian dialect I have heard you use, soft-toned and mellow as the cooing of a dove, tell her what she is longing to hear—that you love her!"

BUTTER FAT CONTENT MUST BE IN CREAM

TORONTO, April 4—Legislation providing for the purchase of cream on the basis of butter fat content was introduced in the House by Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture. measure is one that has been under consideration for several years and its introduction has been preceded by a good deal of educational work.

Briefly it provided that where cream is purchased for shipment or manufacture it shall be paid for according to the butter fat contents, which must be tested according to conditions laid down by the Department of Agriculture, power being taken in the bill to allow regulations to be made upon the matter.

All samples of cream must be tested in an officially stamped bottle. Where a question is raised as to the fairness of a test the person making the test must keep the sample for two weeks at least to permit of retesting. Penalties for non-compliance with the act will range from $10 to $50.

Terrible Agony From Rheumatism

A Sufferer Shows How Complete Relief Was Obtained

Rheumatism is a trouble extremely difficult to get rid of. If a tendency to rheumatism is established in the system it makes itself manifest by a return of the acute pains with every spell of bad weather. This is why so many people think the trouble is due to cold or damp. The fact is known, however, to medical men, that with the appearance of rheumatism there is a rapid thinning of the blood, and that the rheumatic poisons are only expelled from the system when the blood is restored to its normal condition. This means that to drive rheumatism from the system it must be treated through the blood, and for this purpose no other medicine has been so successful as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills renew and enrich the blood, thus driving out the rheumatic poison, easing the aching, painful, swollen joints, and restoring the victim to general good health. Among the rheumatic sufferers who have been cured by the use of this medicine is Mrs. Wm. Johnston, Chatham, Ont., who says: "Some years ago while living in Mount Forest, I was stricken with inflammatory rheumatism, from which I suffered terrible agony. Neither the doctor who attended me, nor the remedies I tried gave more than a little relief for a time, and as a consequence, I grew very weak and was on the verge of nervous prostration. At this stage an uncle advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had cured him of a severe attack of rheumatism. I took his advice and faithfully used the pills for several months, when I found myself fully restored to health with every vestige of the rheumatism, and every symptom of the nerve trouble gone. I have had no return of either trouble since, and feel very grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained through an medicine dealer, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Loving Heart

By MARION WORTH DALLAS

It was accounted a lucky day in his life, that upon which Levi Grove adopted Meta Rolfe. Her father, an artist, and her mother, an invalid, had come to Rushton to eke out a wretched existence, and died within a week of one another, owing Mr. Grove, who operated a general store, several hundred dollars.

It was the day after the last funeral that Meta, poor little mournful mite of ten, appeared at the store with a note.

"Mamma told me to give it to you, and please, Mr. Grove, I'm to work for you," she said.

The old storekeeper was generally designated as a hardfisted, whimsical old bachelor, but his heart was touched at the forlornness of the little refugee. He was lonely, he had but one relative in the world, and that was a nephew, Herbert Grove, who had run away from him and had not been heard from since. Mr. Grove held a consultation with the lawyer and a clergyman and practically adopted the child.

"She is a marvel," he told a neighbor, when Meta was fifteen.

And three years later. "She has learned figures, and typewriting and bookkeeping. The business has grown to need those things, and think of what that little treasure saves me! Every year I have put in bank three hundred dollars in trust for her. The little fund is up to over three thousand dollars already."

Only on one point did Meta and her guardian differ. The town was practically supported by its laboring population. At its edge were the woolen mills, and around them there had settled over a hundred families. All their trade came to the Grove store. The majority of the workers settled up their accounts on every monthly pay day, but there were some idle, dissolute and dishonest workers who got behind in their payments and moved away to other places.

This caused old Levi to make a strict rule of thirty days' credit and three days' grace. After that, any person violating this rule was shut off from all future credit. Many a time Meta pleaded with him, where sickness or lack of work were causes of poverty, to modify his system, but he was invulnerable. Out of her pin money, however, Meta cared for the needs of many a sufferer for the necessities of life.

Meta was just eighteen when Levi Grove went West to look after a land investment. He was undecided whether he should sell the land or improve it.

"I may be gone two months," he told his little able helper.

"Dont' worry about the business, father," said Meta, "and take a good rest."

"Worry!" repeated Levi, expressively. "Why! I couldn't hire a manager to equal you."

The day after he left the great mill building burned down and all hands were thrown out of work. There was intense current of dismay, for the owner of the business had failed to carry insurance. The workers had no source for supplies except the Grove store. Meta, like the business adept that she was, thought out the situation and decided to act upon her own responsibility.

First she consulted with the mayor of the town, who assured her that some new people had bought the factory site, and within sixty days would have a new plant in operation. He impressed upon her the fact that many of the workmen were meditating removing to other points to secure work.

Then Meta sent for the leaders among the workers. She asked them to curtail purchases as much as possible until better times came. In the meantime she would give them credit.

A bronzed, handsome young man came to the town one day, became known as Mr. Devereaux, and was said to be interested as an investor in the new mill company. He became acquainted with Meta and passed many a pleasant hour at the store when business was dull. While he was reticent, almost mysterious about his antecedents, there was something in his clear open face that won Meta's confidence.

One day Mr. Grove came home. When he learned of what Meta had done he was furious. For the first time in his life he bitterly reproached her.

"I could not let the poor people starve," submitted Meta.

"No, but my system. What if I lose all that money?"

"No need. Father, you say I have several thousand dollars held in trust. Let that reimburse you, if you sustain any loss."

"No need," spoke a voice that startled them, and the young man, Devereaux, appeared at the rear of the store where they were conversing. "Mr. Grove, I will see that you lose nothing."

"And who are you?" demanded Mr. Grove.

"Your runaway nephew, Herbert Grove."

Old Levi was ashamed of his narrowmindedness when the workers started in at the new plant and paid him up to a man. And the day that Herbert and Meta became man wife, he felt that life's fullness was complete.

You May Be a Rich Man Some Day

OPPORTUNITIES for making money are many, but it takes time for capital to accumulate, even under the most favorable conditions. Every man of ability expects in the course of years to have sufficient to ensure to his family, the comforts to which they have been accustomed.

Unless an unexpected reverse of fortune occurs, there is little doubt but that you will make money. But "many things may happen" while the money is being made. This is where Life Insurance comes in. It makes available the means that would have been yours if health and life had been spared.

You may be rich "some day," if you live, but the Insurance policy will anticipate for your family the accumulations of future years and render sufficient means available, even should you not survive to realize your ambition.

Is your prospective income insured? There is a Mutual policy to meet your special requirements and means. Write for particulars of Mutual policies.

Don't Be Misled

Not all Teas "Look" alike to the consumer but there is a vast difference in looks, and tastes, and this is fully understood and recognized by Tea Experts, who base their market values alone upon the drawing qualities.

"SALADA"

Teas are full of rich drawing deliciousness and therefore very economical in use, as while not only pleasing to the tastes of all, they go farther in infusion.

This is being demonstrated in millions of Tea-Pots daily.

CONTRIBUTED

The question is often asked do the W.C.T.U. and "Y" still want the Surprise Soap Coupons and what is done with them?

Yes, we want the oval coupon from as many wrappers as possible. These are sent to "Willard Hall," Toronto District headquarters of the W.C.T.U. The company gives half a cent for each coupon and the proceeds goes to carry on the important work of the "Travellers' Aid" at the several railway stations.

Many a tired and perplexed mother and little ones have been helped, evil minded designing persons discovered and thwarted and numberless innocent girls saved from ruin and misery.

Mrs. Ward, President Toronto District, says: "I hope that arrangements can be so made that there will not be a mother in our province who, facing the problem of seeing her daughter go away to work or study in Toronto, will not know (as a good many already do) that our door stands open to help and protect, and that our representatives, faithful and vigilant, are constantly at the railway stations ready to welcome them."

This is some of our "preventive work," but our main object is as Lady Hearst reminded her hearers that permanent prohibition in Ontario and the Dominion would be largely the work of the women and would take all their time and energy to compass.

FLEW 100 MILES WITHOUT PILOT

nder automatic control an airplane capable of carrying a heavy load and operated without a human guide, has made a trip of 100 miles and landed close to the point it set out to reach, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, disclosed in an address.

The device which made such a flight possible, and which has been kept secret, Mr. Baker said, is an automatic guide for airplanes, and was invented in America. It is designed as an instrument of war, and the Secretary referred to it in describing to his audience the possible horrors of future war if there is to be no League of Nations.

Secretary Baker did not explain the exact nature of the invention, but he made it clear that the War Department considers it one of the most wonderful pieces of mechanism for war's destructive purposes.

COCK FIGHTERS FINED

NIAGARA FALLS, April 5—At an early hour in the morning N. Y. State troops surrounded a barn near La Salle just over the line, and caught a hundred or so sports from Niagara Falls, Thorold, St. Catharines and other places on this side, who were conducting a cock fight. Not a man escaped. A magistrate was procured right in the barn, and fined fiscated. Every man paid without a each man $10. The birds were con- murmur.

THE APPRENTICE

By DOUGALL MacQUARRIE

"There, Bartley—now you are an accomplished cook!"

Nellie Borden untied the apron her husband wore, rolled back his sleeves and placed in the kitchen sink a basin of warm water.

"They do look really fine," spoke Bartley, as his eye rested upon a great yellow crock piled to the brim with glossy, well browned doughnuts. "How they will taste is another question."

"And I have spoiled my supper devouring samples," observed Nellie. "I can vouch for the appetizing flavor and perfect cookery. And now I send you out on your adventure a proficient chef de cuisine."

There was a practical end to what looked like domestic byplay to a casual observer. Bartley Borden had been set on fire with stories of a marvelous gold find across the Canadian border. He and Nellie had been married just a year and were lovers still. Nellie shared with Bartley a vivid imagination. The hope of enrichment made her ambitious. "You can't lose anything but time, Bartley," she said.

Hence, for a half a dozen evenings Bartley became his wife's apprentice. He was very proud of his first batch of biscuits, immoderately buoyant when he perfected a mouth-watering omelette, but when he conquered the doughnut feature of the program, he felt that he had, indeed, acquired an absolute accomplishment. The crock of goodies was still exuding a fresh, delicious flavor when his five fellow adventurers entered the kitchen en masse.

"We start at midnight—horses, stores, everything all ready," announced Greg Dorsett, the leader of the party. "Hello—what you got there, Bart; some of Mrs. Borden's prime doughnuts?"

"No, some of Mr. Borden's especial triumph in cookery," corrected Nellie— "mixing, kneading, cooking. Bartley did it all.. Try one."

All hands accepted the invitation. They tried two, and three, and five, and as Greg groped disappointedly in the empty crock he apologized for the ravenous raid.

"Oh, that's all right," declared Bartley, brightly. "They were only samples."

"I'd like to be fed on them three times a day," said Greg with enthusiasm. "Be sure we take a full stock of the materials to provide for regular doughnut cooking, Bart."

Four weeks later the party of six had reached the neighborhood of the reservation. They made camp where a shallow stream admitted of easy sand washing. They ran across occasional flakes and nuggets, but had decided to go further on and try to strike richer domains, when one morning the workers were visited by over twenty Indians who roughly and menacingly ordered them to move on. They allowed the invaders brief time to pick up their traps. Bartley had gone ten miles over the hills to a camp to get some spices for cinnamon rolls, and his comrades counted on meeting him on their way. They missed him and, all ignorant of what had happened, Bartley returned to the camp to view an astonishing spectacle.

The Indians had discovered a crock of doughnuts, freshly cooked. They were seated in a circle passing them around. Their leader confronted Bartley.

"You do these?" he demanded, pointing to the crock.

"Yes, I'm the cook," assented Bartley.

"You no go with the others. You come with us."

"Oh, I couldn't do that."

"See," continued the chief, "you come cook for me till snow flies. I give you much of this," and he exhibited a pouch filled with gold dust. "And I give you time to find um heap of gold."

Bartley considered. Except for his culinary advantages the boys need not miss him much. The sight of the gold, the promise of more of it allured him, for Nellie's sake.

For a month at the Indian settlement he was treated like a prince. The chief required that Bartley teach his daughter, Una, how to make the prized doughnuts, so she could fill his place when the term of his apprenticeship expired. But Una could not learn. Then one day the chief announced to Bartley that he must make Una his wife and become an adopted squawman of the tribe.

Bartley was in a quandry. He meditated flight, escape, but he had no horse and his gold was heavy now, representing over sixty pounds in weight.

Una stole into his cabin one night. "You want no squaw, I know. I read in your eyes," she said, "and Una—she has her lover over the divide. You help get Una there and you and your gold away if Una get two horses?"

Gladly Bartley seized the opportunity offered. At midnight they left the camp with several hours' start of possible pursuit. The next morning the success of their plans was assured. Bartley got back home with enough money to go into business and build a new home.

At the first house warming his old comrades were present in full force. Nothing would do but Bartley must cook up a crock full of crisp doughnuts, and while all hands enjoyed the feast he recited the story of his semicaptivity and Una, and the gold dust.

PERMANENT REPRESENTATION BY CANADA AT WASHINGTON

OTTAWA, April 5.—Hon. N. W. Rowell stated in the Commons in reply to a question by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, that the Government intended to carry into effect a permanent Canadian representation at Washington. The exact form, he said, was now a matter of consideration between the Canadian Ministers and the Imperial Government, but in the meantime it was proposed to continue the Canadian War Mission in existence at Washington until arrangements were made for a permanent representation there. He said it was not considered expedient that there should be an interregnum.

SOLDIERS TURN SMUGGLERS AND RAID SWISS FRONTIER

BERNE, April 5.—Bands of German smugglers, 100 to 150 strong, made up of former soldiers, who are armed with rifles and even machine guns, are operating on a wholesale scale on the northern Swiss frontier.

Poaching has increased alarmingly in Bavaria since the revolution. More than seventy foresters and gamekeepers have been killed and game has been reduced to a tenth of its former amount.

TAFT HAD TO WALK TILL HE GOT CHECK CASHED

DETROIT, Mich., April 5.—William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, arrived in Detroit broke. In fact, Judge Taft was in such bad financial straits that he walked all the way to the office of Mayor Cousens from the Michigan Central Depot to get a cheque for $50 cashed.

The Mayor was standing by his desk when the door of his office opened and a strangely familiar face entered. Cousens recognized the former President immediately, and when his visitor made known his request gladly complied with it. Mr. Taft was on his way to Kalamazoo.

"I don't think I can go, Jessie, for I just feel wretched"

"OH, I'm so sorry, for I did so want you to be there."

"I hate to disappoint you, dear, but you know how miserable I have been lately."

"Yes, but I thought you were better."

"So I am some days, and then I just seem to be as bad as ever again. I get so weak that I do not feel able to stir."

"What is the trouble?"

"The doctor says I am anaemic. He says the blood is thin and watery, and I do not get the good of the food I eat. Goodness knows I do not eat much, either, for I have no appetite."

"Why not try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Would that help me, do you think?"

"I do not see why it should not. You remember how pale and weak I used to be. Well, it was nothing else than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that cured me. And I am not looking as though I needed any medicine now, am I?"

"If I could only be strong and healthy like you are, Jessie, I would give anything."

"You never will be unless you try, and I do not think you would be disappointed with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is not only my case, but there are so many other girls we know who have been benefitted by it."

"Will you get me a box at the drug store, Jessie, and I will start right in to-day? If this will only give me an appetite and make the blood rich and red, so that I can get some strength and color, I will be a happy girl."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so gentle in action, and yet so potent as a restorative, that it is a great favorite with women of all ages. It seems to be admirably suited to the needs of their delicate nervous systems, and on this account it has come to be universally used as a means of restoring vigor and energy to a rundown, nervous system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

A HOT SPOT Chalmers wrings the power from gas

AS any one knows there is just so much power in a gallon of gas; and the great trick in a gas engine is to get all the power out and convert it into mileage.

Yet do you know how little power actually is taken out of gas by the average car? And how much power goes out the exhaust?

Ask any motor car engineer.

A Chalmers engine simply wrings power out of gas. Its famous Hot Spot "cracks up" the gas, just as constant chewing of food prepares it for good digestion before swallowing.

To get power out of gas the gas has got to be "cracked up." Then it has got to be placed into the cylinders in a "dry" condition. This the great Ram's-horn does to a work of engineering art.

You can tell how true this is the minute your foot touches the accelerator button of a present day Chalmers and you get the feel of that throbless, frictionless power that means so much to your peace of mind, your tires, your bank balance and your self satisfaction.

The Market

Some of our country friends were this morning an hour late upon coming on the market owing to the fact that their clocks have not been advanced an hour. There was a fair market, but by no means a large one. Good prices were obtained for all products offered for sale and especiallyl for dressed chickens, which sold as high as $3 a pair. The ruling price was from $2 to $2.50. Fresh dairy butter sold at 58c to 60c per pound, and fresh laid eggs at 38c by the basket lots and from 40c to 43c in dozen lots. Potatoes sold at $1.40 to $1.50 per bag. Considerable quantity of maple syrup was offered for sale at 65c per quart. Our quotations are as follows:

Eggs	.38 to 43c
Butter	58c. to 60c.
Apples	.50 to 60c
Potatoes	$1.40 bag
Chickens	$1. to $1.50 each

THE BARRIER

By Augusta Goodrich Sherwin

He had known sorrow and disappointment, false friendship and poverty. Wealth had finally come to him, but the aching void in his heart had not been filled until in a quiet, seashore village he had met Regina Ashleigh. Eyes like the sea were hers, a face classic as a molded Roman medal.

Arden Morse came to the home Regina made with humble worthy people one day, and suggested a walk along the beach. He knew the spots of beauty and solitude, and the shade of a wooded cliff were grateful to her as he constructed an impromptu settee.

"I have something I must say to you," he began seriously. "I was impelled a week ago to tell you how I loved you. You spoke of a barrier, and I know you never use a word or a phrase superficially. It is well—you know your mind. There shall be no further annoyance—"

"Oh, no! she said, looking into his eyes, her hand resting upon his own.

"Disobedience, then," he substituted, forcing a smile. "I ask you to forget my words. I am content to be with you, near you, to drink in your presence and live glorified because you are my true friend. If thus unified, though parted by some degree I don't seek to fathom, we pass through life together, I will bless its fullness."

The glow in her eyes, roused from their forced calmness, seemed to absorb him. Her words, tremulous with emotion, repaid him for his great sacrifice. "I thank you," she said, "for to have lost you utterly would have been blight and darkness. You bless my life—so weary, oh, so hapless and troubled!"

"And call me to your side, command all I am and possess when my loyalty can save you one pang of sorrow. And so I am content and we have found peace."

That was all, friends; yet each knew that absolute love was theirs. The very wholesomeness and purity of their ideals was perfect, sustaining—life immaculate, kiss or caress banished, but present a higher, a nobler instinct of utter harmony that fed the soul with the manna of mutual sacrifice glorified.

He never sought to read her closed book of life. Every month for a week she was gone; he never asked her why or whither. Her face was a shade more serious when she returned.

One day when he called at her home he was told that she was ill. His anxiety grew to grief and deep concern when the physician apprised him that she was prostrated with a wasting fever.

"My patient is in delirium a great portion of the time," he told Morse, "and what is aggravating her condition is some secret mental trouble. I caught a name constantly from her lips. Baynham—something connected with this person is constantly torturing her. She raves of him. She speaks of the month passing and of money she must take to this Baynham. She names, too, Desert island. That is one of those desolate, isolated rocky areas off the Maine coast. Yesterday her landlady had to use actual force to prevent her from leaving her bed to get to this Baynham, at Desert island."

Morse reflected seriously over all this. He formed a sudden resolve. Some mystery connected with man and island certainly haunted the mind of Regina and would not let her rest.

Morse traveled down the coast to find that Desert island was one of the numerous barren areas peopled mainly by sea fishermen.

He managed to induce one to row him to the island. It had only a few houses, and when he mentioned the name Banyham, the curious-eyed old sailor he questioned immediately recognized the name.

"Baynham? Oh, you mean the wild man. His wife brought him here about a year ago, and comes once a month to see that he is cared for right. Until lately, a housekeeper and a man nurse were constantly with him. Baynham was a regular demon, half-paralyzed, full of drink all the time, cursing, abusing his servants and sure out of his mind."

His wife? Regina married! This, then, was her secret—tied to a mere wreck of a man whose care was her first thought, but for some reason unwilling to live with him.

"He slipped those guarding him yesterday," proceeded the old sailor, "got among the cliffs and slipped over them, or threw himself into the sea. They recovered his body this morning."

Morse visited the house where this hermit fugitive, or whatever he was, had lived. From his nurse Morse gleaned some startling facts. Gerald Baynham was a man wanted in two continents for a great swindling scheme, stricken down before he could reap results of his infamy, isolated by the wife whom he had abused—the "barrier" to which Regina had alluded.

Morse saw to it that the man was decently buried. When he sought at the first lucid interval to impart to Regina what he had learned and done, from that hour she recovered her strength. The great burden of her life had been lifted, and the first day she was wheeled into the open air there was that of relief and hope in her eyes that told Arden Morse that no barrier now stood between them and perfect happiness [illegible]

CITY AND COUNTRY

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Joseph Moran of Marmora, was on Wednesday arrested on a charge of theft arising out of a horse trade with Robert McFaul. He was given a hearing before Mr. B. C. Hubbell, J.P., with the result he was committed for trial and brought to the jail here.

CHARGED WITH STEALING ALCOHOL

Before Police Magistrate O'Rourke of Trenton, yesterday afternoon Jas. Coughlin, M. Chase, Roy Simmons and R. Bovey were charged with interfering with a tank on the C. N. R. line and taking therefrom a quantity of alcohol to the value of $150. The first three pleaded guilty, but Bovey not guilty. All of the accused were remanded to the county jail here until Friday next, 11th inst. Mr. Carnew, County Attorney, represented the Crown. It is alleged that the accused used milk cans to take the alcohol away.

PROMOTING PUBLICITY

The Publicity Committee of the County of Hastings Development Association consisting of Thos. J. Naylor, Deseronto; J. A. Kerr, Belleville; Chas. N. Rollins, Coe Hill; Wm. H. Nugent, County Clerk and W. C. Mikel, K. C., met Thursday night. Judson Gunter, Warden of the county was also present. It was decided to arrange for a grand ball soon after Easter for the purpose of attracting the attention of the public to the resources of the county, and also obtaining funds to aid in the publicity campaign. A number of committees were appointed and arrangements for meetings from time to time were made. It is intended that this will be the largest ball ever held in this part of the province. There will be two orchestras so that square and round dances will proceed concurrently and a splendid program of vocal music will also be provided.

TWICE WOUNDED

Corporal Norman Truesdell, of Stirling, and his bride, are the guests of Mrs. Mary Anderson, 12 Moira street, Belleville. Corporal Truesdell recently returned from overseas with an excellent service record. He enlisted on August 9, 1914, being among the first to volunteer his services to the Empire, and was enrolled in the 2nd Battalion at Valcartier, where he was taken sick and sent to the hospital, being unable to accompany the battalion overseas. Corp. Truesdell returned to Belleville and when he had sufficiently recovered went to Kingston where he was attached to the 21st Battalion and left for overseas on May 1, 1915, proceeding for overseas on May ber 1, where a few days later they were in the trenches at Messine's Ridge. At the battle of St. Eloi in March, 1916, Corp. Truesdell received a bayonet wound in the knee, but was soon back in active service, proceeding to the Somme. Wounded again at Courcelette in September, 1916, he was in hospital in England, until April 27, 1917, when he returned to the service as bombing instructor for the 1st Training Brigade for a few months being transferred to the air service as motor mecahnic, returning to France in August, 1918, on active service with the Royal Air Force, finally reaching Bonn, Germany, which he left on January 7, 1919, for England, sailing for Canada on March 15 last. Corp. Truesdell is looking for an opening in civil life as motor mechanic and no doubt will soon find congenial employment.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian Northern Railway System

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday March 30th, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railways will at 2.00 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from this important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave railway stations on present schedules, such schedules will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore, in municipalities where local time is not changed to correspond with the new railway time, passengers must reach railway stations ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time table posters.

Where the municipal time is changed to correspond with the new railway time passengers will not experience any difficulty growing out of the change.

Called By Death

MAX E. DEVLIN

Mr. Max Devlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Devlin, of Marmoravillage died at Toronto on Thursday. Deceased was born in Marmora about twenty-seven years ago and spent the early part of his life here. As a boy he was popular with all classes. About fifteen years ago the family moved out West. After war broke out he enlisted in Winnipeg in the Mechanical Transport and after going to England was transferred to the Imperial service. With others he was sent to South Africa and in 1916 was ill for seven months with fever. He returned to Canada a short time ago and had apparently fully recovered from the effects of the fever. He leaves a widow.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

The Sale of Gin Pills is Greater than Ever

Gin Pills! You've heard of them, of course, for they are the acknowledged and established remedy for Kidney and Bladder Troubles. Gin Pills have restored hundreds of Canadian men and women to health, strength and happiness. Testimonials received by us from persons in all parts of Canada tell us that Gin Pills have relieved them from the sufferings caused by Kidney or Bladder derangements. These testimonials are from people who have used Gin Pills and benefited by them. In most cases they wrote us saying: "Publish this letter, so that all sufferers of complaints such as mine may know what Gin Pills did for me." Gin Pills remedy; that's why they have so many friends.

Gin Pills have been on the market for years; in fact, we believe there are more Gin Pills sold than any other proprietary medicine in Canada. From Halifax to Vancouver you can buy them in any city, town, village or hamlet. Their popularity has been built entirely on the endorsements of those who have been benefited by their use.

If you are suffering from Pains in the Back, Dizziness, Headache, or a General Feeling of Lassitude, you need Gin Pills. Get a box from your dealers; try them, and if they do not help you, write us and we will refund you the purchase price willingly.

Sold by dealers almost everywhere at 50c a box. A trial sample free if you write us for it.

Victorious "Nation of Shopkeepers" Sheathes Sword And Turns to Trade

BRITAIN "COUNTING NOT THE COST, BUT COUNTING THE GAIN" PREPARES FOR INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION WITH THE WHOLE WORLD AS A FRUITFUL FIELD—POLICY OF ISOLATION IS INVITATION TO POVERTY—BELLEVILLE CITIZEN MAKES LOCAL APPLICATION OF BRITISH TRADE POLICY.

(British Wireless Service)

LONDON, April 4—The new Department of Overseas Trade is ready with a plan for the reform of the Consular service and the establishment of commercial attaches. It is proposed to spend at least £1,000,000 annually on the Consular service and nearly £250,000 on the commercial attaches.

Several associations of British manufacturers intend to take advantage of this new activity on the part of the Government. The largest of these represents directly, or through allied organizations, nearly 20,000 firms, with a capital of £4,000,000,000. The director of this federation said:

"We will spend this year a third of our income and another £20,000 from our reserve on the development of British overseas trade. Our first Commissioner has been stationed in Greece. We have another Commission in Madrid and a third will tour South Africa and report on the possibilities. We have invited eight leading Brazilians to tour Engand this summer.

"One of our representatives is in Siberia with the British Government Commercial Mission and another has gone to Holland to investigate the offer made by the Dutch to form a corporation to encourage British trade. If we go on as we have begun we shall cover the world with British Trade Commissioners. They will not be selling agents or commercial travellers, but they will have a freer hand than the Consuls or commercial attaches, and their reports will reach British manufacturers the day after they come to hand."

Belleville, like all other municipalities in Canada and the nation as a whole, is interested in that after-war expansion of trade so necessary to the prosperity of the citizens as a whole. Bellevile canot stand still—it must go ahead or go back, and one of the greatest handicaps to a bigger and busier Belleville is the anomaly of penalizing our neighbors in Prince Edward County, who wish to come to Belleville to trade or visit—through a toll bridge across the Bay of Quinte. The following letter from Mr. Thos. Ritchie, points out very clearly the necessity of an agressive, forward civic policy especially in view of the fact that Canada is entering a new and greater develoment era:

MAKING A BETTER BELLEVILLE

To The Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—There has been much talk lately about making a better and bigger Belleville but hitherto it seems to be only talk. In many respects Belleville is admirably situated to become a flourishing city, prosperity however will develop only through the foresight and intelligence of its citizens, enabling them to see and take advantage of its opportunities and surroundings, to procure means to obtain betterments so much needed, such as, good streets and proper sewerage.

It would greatly help to make a better Belleville were we to live in closer intercourse with our neighbors in the County of Prince Edward and trade with them, this would undoubtedly be profitable to both fo us. But many people do not understand how trade brings prosperity to all alike, yet everybody knows that when trade is active and thriving all over the country there is no lack of work going on producing, making and growing things which people want. Not much profit can arise in Belleville to her citizens by trading among themselves inasmuch as what they produce to trade in is much of the same kind of things, trade will be more active and profitable between people who produce different kind of things.

LAW SUPPLY AND DEMAND

There is an economic law entitled "The Law of Supply and Demand," on which depend the wealth of nations which all intelligent men ought to recognize and act upon. A great country like the United States wherein is a very large population and an immense variety of nearly all kinds of products, can trade wholly within themselves, be prosperous and become exceedingly wealthy. But not so with Great Britain she produces a great variety of things and could trade and live within herself and prosper, but not nearly so much as with a wider field. So being girt around by the seas, feeling cramped and her energies curtailed, she had vision and not counting the cost but counting the gain, she forthwith spent hundred of millions in providing the Merchant Marine for her great ships to bridge the wide ocean to trade in distant lands of both advanced and backward people with great profit to them as well as herself. Thus the land that Napoleon sneered at as a nation of shop keepers has, become the most prosperous and enlightened in the world.

THE CHANEL TUNNEL

Snice the great war has ended and safety secured, England is about to build a bridge across the English Chanel by a tunnel from Dover to Calais, about thirty miles across, which will cost an immense sum. One chief object of this great undertaking is to develop trade by shortening the way to India and intervening countries. The people of England do not whine about the cost—they know that their leaders understand what is best for them.

It is an indisputable fact that the Law of Supply and Demand operating in trade works out exactly the same results within a limited area or like our own district, as it does in a great nation.

It is a pity and a shame when such opportunities for progress toward betterment are present to us that those who ought to be leaders and guides treat with indifference this matter of linking up with Prince Edward County.

Many seem not to be able to grasp the value and importance of the question or all would be glad to take advantage of a free bridge.

It may be mentioned that as the bridge unites two important counties the government may regard it not only as of local interst, but also as of provincial concern.

The Most Delicious MARMALADE

Last Marmalade and Preserving Season, when sugar was scarce, the Canada Food Board recommended the use of white corn syrup for preserving. Thousands of women tried it and were astonished at the results. They discovered the secret of making the most delicious marmalade—use

LILY WHITE CORN SYRUP

The following recipe, recommended by one of the leading Technical Schools, indicates the proper proportions and method for results you never before attained:

1 grapefruit	8 cups water
1 orange	10 cups Lily White Corn Syrup
1 lemon

Cut fruit in thin slices and allow to stand in water for 36 hours or overnight. Separate seeds and soak them in part of the water Cook fruit until tender and add Corn Syrup. Continue cooking until jelly is obtained.

LILY WHITE is the white corn syrup for table use or preserving—better than sugar.

Sold by grocers everywhere, in 2, 5, 10, and 20-lb tins.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS

Save Time Money Labor

WHATEVER speeds up traffic must be a real economy. Whatever delays traffic must always involve waste of time and effort.

Concrete, being the road material of minimum tractive resistance, makes a pavement on which all types of vehicle can travel quickly, and this speeding-up of traffic makes possible the speeding-up of production.

Wherever there is a concrete road, in that locality you will find farmers and their "help" able to devote more time to the vital work of sowing and gathering the crops.

SAVING TIME OF BERRY PICKERS

THE girls who helped so splendidly in the gathering of our berry crop last summer, can testify to the value of a concrete highway along lines of time-saving. To those of them who were able to use the Toronto-Hamilton highway, it meant many hours saved in transit between their camps and their berry-patches—thus giving them more hours for berry picking than they could possibly have had if their travelling to and fro had been on the old style road.

The manner in which the Toronto-Hamilton highway conserved time in last summer's berry picking is but one of the many sidelights on the value of concrete that have been revealed to those farmers whose properties adjoin this modern concrete road.

SAVING THE FARMER'S TIME

THIS same concrete highway has resulted in the opening of many wayside markets, to which motorists come for their fruit and provisions, thus saving much of the farmers' time.

Then, too, those farmers who still take their "truck" to market are able, on this highway, to get to market and back in double quick time. A farmer situated on this highway, twenty miles from market, can load his motor truck, and leave in the morning—be back home for lunch—and make another trip to market in the afternoon. Instead of three uncomfortable team trips per week, which was his average before the concrete road was built, he now makes twelve trips in comfort—two trips each working day—by motor truck.

HOW ONE FARMER PROFITS

THIS is the experience of R. H. Lush, of Clarkson, Ontario, whose farm adjoins the Toronto-Hamilton highway. He sold at his wayside booth last summer among other fruits, 700 baskets of cherries at an average price of $1.60 per basket, a total of $1,120, for cherries alone. Had he shipped those 700 baskets to Toronto (as he had to do before the highway was built), he would have had to reckon with the following items:

Commission to commission house (12½ per cent on $1,120)	$140.00
Express (at 5c. per basket)	35.00
Cartage at city end (1c. per basket)	7.00
Hauling from farm to railroad	7.00
	$189.00

The $189 which he saved by selling his cherries at his wayside booth represents an extra profit of $189 on cherries alone.

It is the duty of every Canadian citizen—a duty he owes both to himself and to his country—to get the facts about concrete highways which will enable him to intelligently use his influence for the building of the kind of roads which shall result in more complete conservation of all we produce.

A great help in Cooking

One of the most remarkable features of OXO CUBES is the economy they effect in cooking. They are an excellent substitute for meat in soups and savouries. They prevent waste and oddments can be served in many appetising ways by their use.

Then contrast the old-fashioned cumbersome way of cooking with the quick, convenient OXO CUBE way. Think of the time saved—the material saved—the fuel saved—and then reckon up that in dollars and cents. But that is not all. OXO increases nutrition—it makes every dish more wholesome and digestible.

Nine Airplanes In Ocean Flight

Eight British and One Italian Machine will Try for $50,000 Prize.

LONDON, April 4—Capt. C. W. E. Morgan, the assistant pilot and navigator of the Martinsyde two-seater biplane entered for the Daily Mail $50,000 trans-Atlantic flight prize has left London for Liverpool where he will board a steamship for Newfoundland.

The second week in April should see at least four competitors ready at their starting point, and unless American enthusiasts have been making preparations about which nothing is known on this side it looks as if the first attempt to fly the Atlantic will fall to British airmen.

The Daily Mail names five British machines entered through the Royal Aero Club and three others, including a British Handley-Page and an Italian Caporni.

The contest has interested the most famous pilots and aeronautical constructors. Sidney Pickle and Harry Hawker (both Australians) and F. Raynham were prominent in air navigation before the war and Major J. C. P. Wood, who will pilot a short Rolls-Royce biplane, has a fine flying record with the British air force.

Capt. Morgan, navigator of the Martinsyde Rolls-Royce biplane, lost his right leg below the knee in the war. Morgan says his artificial limb does not hamper him when flying. Sidney Pickle, the pilot in Rolls-Royce biplane, was piloting his motor from France in a seaplane in July 1913, when the engine failed over the channel, but refusing any assistance of a steamship he repaired the engine on the water and "taxied" into Folkestone. Pickle learned to fly in the Brihtop Biplane Fleet in the earliest types of Cadron, Grahame White and Handley-Page machines. Since then he has flown nearly every type.

Capt. Arthur Payze, the first British entrant, who is still working on a Whitehead biplane at Richmond, has had remarkable escapes. While flying over the lines in France he was hit on the head by shrapnel and fell several hundred feet before regaining control of his machine. He was piloting a machine in which the late A. Poyles of the Whitehead Air craft Company carried out his fatal experiment with a parachute and saw the unfortunate man fell 1,000 feet to his death.

Major Wood is probably the youngest airman in the competition and he will pilot a short Rolls-Royce biplane. His early experience was in the last African campaign, afterward he was on the Western front, where he gained a reputation of being a very stout pilot. He has flown more than 10,000 hours in service flights.

GERMAN CHEMICAL PRODUCT BARRED FROM UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, April 4—German hopes of reconquering American markets have received another blow. Users of dyes, chemicals, fertilizers and other products originated by German science were notified by the alien property custodian that imports from Germany hereafter would be subject to prosecution as an infringment of patents licensed under the Trading with the Enemy Act for use by American Manufacturers.

Possibly of a dumping of the great surplus stock with Germany, was reported to have accumulated with the intention of underselling and perhaps stifling the infant American industries in the same lines thus has been blocked effectually before shipments could begin. Government officials regard the decision as of far-reaching importance to business in this country.

MYSTERY AIRPLANE

MAY FLY ATLANTIC

An airship with engines and cabins inclosed in an outer envelope so that the craft can float on the sea, may be a competitior for the Atlantic flight. The Admiralty was engaged in building two such air vessels before the war ended, and it was expected that they would be superior to Zeppelins for scouting for fleets.

The feature of this craft, which was one of the several surprises being prepared for the Germans, is the use of a non-inflammable gas. The late Professor Ramsay was the discoverer of the gas, which permits of the construction of engines so that they can be placed on an airship which can float in the water is disabled. Shot through the envelope, it is said, will only damage the gas compartment struck. The airship is not expected to be ready for trial before June.

The entries for the aerial race across the Atlantic ocean for the prize of £10,000 sterling, offered by The Daily Mail, comprise machines of four companies, the Withbold Company, the Sopwith Aviation Company, Short Brothers, and the Fairey Aviation Company. It was reported today that still another company would make an entry.

TWO WIVES IN COURT CONTEST HUSBAND'S WILL

A lawsuit which was unique in so far as two wives contested for the will of the husband concluded in the Non-Jury Court at Toronto, when Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge admitted to solemn probate the will of the late Judson B. Hogate which left his $28,000 estate to Eliza Hogate, the woman whom he married in Spain and with whom he went through a second ceremony of marriage in Toronto at a time when his first wife, Mrs. Annie Hogate, and her son, Edward Hogate were living the United States. The two latter contested the will on the ground of undue influence and that Hogate was not of sound testamentary capacity. One feature of the case was that Mrs. Eliza Hogate, whose maiden name was Debnam, was convicted of bigamy after the Toronto marriage ceremony, and allowed to go on suspended sentence.

The Chief Justice, in finding for the will, held the testator to be of sound testamentary capacity and commented on the fact that while his first wife and the son had known for twenty years that Hogate lived with the plaintiff and that the son had lived with them they never made reflections as to the character of the plaintiff. His Lordship refused defendants' costs out of the estate.

FELDSPAR MINES TO OPEN

Kingston Whig—With reference to the closing of the feldspar mines throughout the country, the Whig interviewed, on Tuesday, J. C. Wilkes, of the Eureka Flint and 'Spar Contic in his views for the market in the near future, stated that he was opening up on a very small scale so as to provide employment for some members of his staff. The market was such that it was not considered likely that any 'spar will be sold for some time, but the directors of the company had been convinced that everything possible should be done to protect its own workers and were willing to run to keep the men employed and not force them to leave the district.

At present the demand for feldspar is met by importations from Carolina and Maryland. The local mines were not able to meet this competition, as the railways had jumped the rate over 100 per cent, during the war and until the produce of the mines was put on the old basis or there was some other great change in the situation to meet the difference in price it is not probable that there will be much activity.

The International Feldspar Company has shipped a few cars this year and a few of the other companies are making some progress. The price at the factories does not warrant big production or shipment yet.

The mica situation is not very lively as the buyers are content to wait until the Indian mica can be secured. This competes with the local product in spite of the long haul as the labor is a very small consideration.

GRAY DORT

Ask—and be Convinced

FOR three years we have been telling the motorists of Canada what we knew about the Gray Dort—we who created and built it.

Thousands were convinced—and bought Gray Dorts as fast as they became available.

Thousands were sceptical—rode in Gray Dorts and are now our enthusiastic friends.

To those who still doubt, we say—talk to a Gray Dort owner and be convinced.

Ask him about the motor—that puts at your command a smooth, quiet flow of real power—instantly. Ask him about the comfort of this generously-large light car. Ask him about equipment—about economy of tires, gasoline. And the longer he has had his Gray Dort, the more enthusiastic he will be.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

Country Correspondence

SIDNEY CROSSING

Mrs. Wm. Simmons of Belleville, has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hess.

Mrs. Clayton Stickle who has been quite sick is able to be out again.

Mrs. Judson Kelley is spending a few days with friends in Belleville.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Powell who has been quite ill is gaining nicely.

The W. M. S. of Aikens Church held a very successful "At Home" at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hamilton a few night ago. Over fifty were present and a most enjoyable and profitable time spent. A splendid programme was given by local talent, after which all enjoyed the dainty luncheon provided by the ladies.

Mrs. H. Palmer of Chatterton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. H. Irwin.

Mr. Bruce Hogle has purchased the farm of Mr. N. W. Kelley and is moving in Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are moving to Frankford.

Mr. Harley Hubble and son Everett have been busy in this neighborhood during the past week sawing wood. The wood piles are not as large this year as last.

The Queen Alexandra Red Cross held a very enthusiastic meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. Moon on Thursday of last week, about seventy ladies being present. Congratulations to Mrs. A. Lawrence, the President, who at the meeting in St. Thomas Parish Church, Belleville, was presented with a life membership and pin.

On Friday a few of the members of Aikens Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Kelley and presented Mr. Kelly with a gold headed cane and Mrs. Kelley with a hymn-book. The presentation was made by Mr. H. Spafford and Mrs. T. Irwin read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kelley:—Understanding that you are about to leave this, your home for many years, we have called on behalf of the neighbors and friends of Aikens community to express our appreciation of your life among us and our sense of loss at your departure. This has been your home for three score years and more, so your going will seem to be the passing of another land mark to those who have known you so long. Your duties Mr. Kelley, as class leader and as school trustee were faithfully and honestly performed and we take this opportunity to make recognition of your many years of service in those offices and you, Mrs. Kelley we have always found ready and willing to help when ever and wherever you could. It is true that of late you have not been able to be with us as much but we have understood and missed you. We hope that in your new home you may find content and many friends. As a small token of our esteem we ask you Mr Kelley to accept this cane and Mrs Kelley this hymn-book. As you use them may you remember the many friends whom you leave behind and whose kindly thoughts will follow you into your new home.

Only Twenty-Two French Traitors

Very Few in the Enemy Lines Who Betrayed their Own People.

Of all the millions in the French territory occupied by the enemy only twenty-two men and women have been accused officially of being traitors to their country's cause. Yet, while execrating them, all France blushes that there should have been even twenty-two "mauvais Français" as they are called contemptuously. The region in which these recreants denounced their fellow countrymen who were helping France by concealing wounded soldiers or hidding stocks of arms, bicycles and other useful things, embraces Laon, Hirson and Fourmies.

The arrest of these traitors was delayed necessarily until the French had re-occupied Laon and vicinity. The most dangerous of the prisoners are Toque and his wife, Marquet, a photographer of Laon; Thomas, formerly a police agent of Strassburg, and his sweetheart, Verlon, a native of St. Mihiel; and the women, Aubert, Herpson Miranda and Yvonne Marie Viez. The last named is accused of having written under the nom de plume "Yvette Musset" in the Gazette des Ardennes, the infamous German propaganda newspaper, circulated in the occupied regions.

Toque was in the photography business at Laon as an agent in the secret service of the 7th German Army staff. Fourteen persons were executed through his machinations, it is said, among them two Mayors a municipal Councillor, a captain and four soldiers and a physician. The Germans "convicted" the soldiers of having hidden themselves before they surrendered, and found the civilians guilty of having helped the soldiers to hide.

Thomas was aided by the women Verlon and Aubert. Verlon is accused of having denounced and caused of having denounced and caused the punishment of numerous people who concealed arms. This woman's impudence went so far as to denounce her brother-in-law and get him fifteen years' penal servitude in order to prevent him from being a witness against her.

Aubert is most deeply compromised. Besides being an aid of accomplished missions of espionage in France, England and Switzerland. It was she it is said, who denounced two Moroccan tirailours who had lain hidden in a chimney for 15 months, and the mayor, his assistant and a policeman who had been cognizant, and caused all to be shot. Later, in 1916, a miller of Assis-sur-Serre, who had sheltered for a short period a French airman who had landed there, was denounced by Aubert and condemned to death, but was not executed. It is through his aid—for he has returned to France—that much evidence is coming to light.

Mirande gave evidence against her husband to an under-officer, Heintz, who was her lover. Toque, his wife and Marguet are accused, up to this time, of having recruited agents for the German spy system at Laon. But the enquiry is not closed and new discoveries are expected.

No edge without stropping

Provide a barber with a number of the highest-priced razors obtainable and stipulate that he must use a new razor on every individual customer and he would refuse if he valued his trade.

Stropping, you see, is needful because it removes the roughness of the new blade and re-aligns the saw-like edge that shaving produces; because it keeps the blade free from rust; and because it is the only means that will provide you each morning with a keen edge for shaving.

You don't take the blade out to sharpen it; nor do you take the AutoStrop Razor apart to clean it. From first to last—stropping, shaving and cleaning—you never need to remove the blade from the razor.

You can get an AutoStrop Razor anywhere—razor, strop and 12 blades, complete, in attractive case, for $5.00.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

to the minister.

He was one of the Chicago pastors who had known her father when he was in the seminary. They were not in the same class, but had corresponded a little of late years.

"What!" he exclaimed, as Faith spoke her name. "Miss Kirk, of Conrad! My dear," he called to his wife, who was near by, "this is Malcolm Kirk's daughter. You remember stories in the Compassion. Our boys think there are no stories just like his. We are so glad to see you!"

The minister's wife greeted her very kindly and Faith almost cried, she was so touched by their cordial reception.

"Where are you stopping in the city?" the minister asked.

Faith hesitated, and then frankly told him where she was and what she was doing. There was a moment's look of surprise on the face of the minister and his wife, but they were genuine Christians, and without asking any more questions, the minister's wife said, as she laid a loving hand on Faith's arm.

"My dear, come and take tea with us next Sunday at five. Don't fail, will you?"

She gave Faith her house number, and Faith walked out of the church feeling as if some Christianity were left in that great sinful city after all.

That night she wrote home a long letter to her mother, telling her all about her work, and especially the experience of the day. When she finished it, she prayed for blessing on all the dear home circle, and in greater peace of soul than she had known in a young time she committed herself to the care of the All-Father.

As the week's work begun again, the Fulton's found themselves wondering how long the new girl's capabilities would hold out. Faith combined her father's physical and her mother's New England thrift and neat need. Her meals were delightful surprises to every member of the family. Her good nature seemed unfailing.

"We've got a real treasure," even Mrs. Fulton confessed Wednesday evening to her husband. "The only thing I dread in that she may not hold out. I have never been satisfield with any girl I ever had."

Perhaps you expect too much," Mr. Fulton suggested, absently, as he continued to read his paper.

"I'm sure we pay enough to get satisfactory help," she replied. "If the capable American girls would only work out more, we housekeepers would not have so many trials." Mrs. Fulton sighed, but it is possible if she had changed places with Faith that Sunday she might have understood better why more American girls did not work out at service.

Thursday morning Mrs. Fulton went down to the city on some shopping and Faith was alone in the house. She started her kitchen work early, and then went into the parlor to sweep and dust

The piano was open, and one of Sousa's new marches was on the rack where Alice had left it. She had been practicing it that morning before she went away to school.

Faith had received a good musical education from her mother. The piano at home had been one of the few expensive things that Dorothy had taken with her when she left her home in the east. Faith was like her mother in having a real passion for music and she had a more than ordinary good ear, and her technic was almost professional.

She had not an opportunity to touch a piano since leaving home. The sight of the open keyboard and the new music facinated her. Gradually she neared the piano as she was dusting off the furniture and finally she sat down on the stool and began dusting the keys.

The sound of the notes as her cloth pressed on the ivory seemed to make her forget her surroundings.

She changed the dusting cloth to her left hand struck a chord with her right. The instrument was in fine tune and before she knew what she was doing she had dropped her cloth on the floor and began the opening measures of the march before her.

After a few attempts the music began to come to her. The march was not difficult and she was fairly caught by its popular swing and rythm. She forgot where she was, and what she was, a "hired girl," who was not supposed to know anything about pianos and marches. Her fingers seemed to regain their old nimbleness and she was swept on into the piece with an enthusiasm and pleasure she had not known in a long time.

But just as she finished the music with a splendid close and felt the glow of the effort, she was conscious of some one in the room.

She turned around with a face that burned and saw, standing at the entrance of the hall into the parlor, three persons.

They were Mrs. Fulton, who stood staring at her with a cold, stern look; Alice, who seemed astonished at the performance, and the young man whom Mr. Fulton had addressed in front of the picture on State street as "Malcolm." They had come in unexpectedly, and all three had evidently been standing there for some little time. There was an expressive silence in the parlor as Mrs. Fulton came a few steps into the room and confronted Faith, who still sat on the piano stool looking at her.

CHAPTER XVII

Mrs. Fulton was the first to speak.

"When you are through playing the piano you can go on with your work," she said, coldly.

Faith stooped and picked up the dusting cloth and then rose to her feet.

"I didn't hurt your piano," the words were on her lips and her heart was hot within her. But she choked the words down and without replying to Mrs. Fulton, she started to go out. Even in her excited condition of mind she could not help noticing that the young man was gazing at her with great attention.

"It is not your place to touch the piano," continued Mrs. Fulton, who was angry. "You can leave it alone after this."

"Mother!" Alice spoke up in a tone of timid demonstrance. 'There has been no harm done, has there? She plays better than I do. I never knew before how that march ought to sound."

"You're right about that," said the young man, in a big, hearty voice. "It was finely done, and I've heard it played by Sousa's band, too."

Faith colored to her hair at the unexpected praise, while Mrs. Fulton shut the piano with a bang and looked extremely annoyed.

"You can finish your work here some other time," she said to Faith sharply.

Faith went out of the parlor without having said a word. She was glad when she reached the kitchen that she had controlled herself, but the effort not to say something in defence, to excuse her action, cost her a tremendous struggle. As she prepared the mid-day meal she choked several times with a dry sob as she realised that she must not try to be anything but a hired girl while employed in that capacity.

"That isn't the work I ought to do," she said to herself again and again. "But I am doing the best I can. I wouldn't have touched the piano if I hadn't forgotten myself at the sight of the music. If I can get anything else to do, I won't stay here. But what can I do, unless I give up everything and go home I won't do that until I have to."

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

GANG RAIDS POLICE STATION GETS LIQUOR

SYDNEY, N.S., April 3.—During the absence of the police, who were attending a shack fire set in a distant part of the town, a gang of men armed with sledge-hammers, crow-bars and other implements and weapons, stormed the police station at New Waterford and made off with several waggon loads of liquor before the authorities became aware of what was going on.

The plundering was still going on when the officers returned, but the gang made a complete escape, wth the exception of an Italian, who was caught in the act of lowering a keg of beer from a window. There was a carload of liquor at the station which had been seized in transit recently on the C. N. R.

Home in Halifax roofed with Brantford Asphalt Slates

A handsome roof that defies the weather

An added touch of beauty to any house is a roof of Brantford Asphalt Slates, which are in soft, harmonious shades of reddish brown and dark green. The colors are permanent and unfadeable, being the natural shades of the slate just as it is taken out of the quarries.

It will also prove a very economical roof, because Brantford Asphalt Slates do not split, get loose, absorb water or rot. They are strongly fire-resistant and are classified as non-combustible by the fire insurance companies, and allowed to be used in cities where the most rigid fire-prevention By-laws are in force.

Brantford Asphalt Slates are very moderate in cost. The regular size of the slates and their pliability make them easily and quickly laid, thus saving time and cost of labor. Being made of high grade felt saturated and coated with asphalt, and with a surface of crushed slate, they make a roof that defies the elements and is a permanent part of the building, just like the walls and the foundation.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are being used more extensively every year for city, country and summer homes, churches, golf clubs, stores, garages, and wherever an artistic effect is desired on a pitch roof.

If you are going to do any building this year or have an old roof that needs replacing, it will be to your advantage to investigate Brantford Asphalt Slates.

CRIPPLED SOLDIER DEPRIVED OF PENSION

Considerable dissatisfaction exists among the various veterans' associations over the manner in which Robert O. Jones, a returned soldier employed in the local Pension Office, has been relieved of his position under instructions from the Civil Service Commission because he had not passed their qualification tests.

Secretary J. V. Conroy of the G.W.V.A. has written to Mayor Church and Mr. E. G. Ahern of the Pension Office pointing out that Mr. Jones has been giving complete satisfaction to the local pension officials and that he chose to go to the Pension Office instead of accepting a position which was offered to him at the City Hall. "Mr. Jones, although a cripple, has been performing the work allotted to him in an excellent way," said one of the employes, "and there is no more painstaking man on our staff."

The various G. W. V. A. branches throughout are taking up the question as to whether after a man has been taken on trial in a Government position and makes good through service is the action of the Civil Service Commission in side tracking him for a recommended man justifiable.

"I think Mr. Jones has been accorded miserable treatment at the hands of the Civil Service Commission," said Secretary Conroy to-day "and if men are needed and taken on trial and afterwards they can do the work satisfactorily, then the Civil Service Commission ought to ratify their appointment. Otherwise, the veteran is liable to have and extremely difficult time in securing a job in the service of th ecountry he fought for."

K. OF C. SOLDIERS' HOSTEL POPLAR IN TORONTO

Since the day the Knights of Columbus Club at the corner of King and John Streets, Toronto, opened its doors, the number of returned soldiers who have stopped there has increased from eighteen on the first night to three hundred and three last night, with the record night on Friday of three hundred and eighteen.

All troop trains have been met by members of the reception committee and the automobiles used have all been voluntarily supplied by members of the Knights of Columbus, several hundred of whom have thrown themselves into the work of the reception house, hospital and other committees.

The popularity of the club amongst soldiers of all creeds speaks well for the policy of the Catholic Army Huts of opening the doors of its hostels to all creeds and colors on an equal basis, and supplying all the comforts, conveniences and recreations possible with the object of making them attractive and pleasing to all returned soldiers and to give them something they have not enjoyed since leaving home.

GIVES SALARY TO VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

It is announced from Dominion G. W. V. A. headquarters that David Loughman, editor of The Veteran, who was recently appointed to the Advisory Council of the Dominion Repatriation Committee, has donated his salary of three hundred a month to the association.

The reason for Mr. Loughman's action in accepting the salary and then turning it over to the Dominion Executive is because he feels that the Government should pay for services rendered.

On the other hand, he does not desire to benefit personally by his activities on behalf of returning comrades and their dependents.

MEMORIAL TO 3RD BN.

Col. J. Coopler Mason, D.S.O., of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, has in hand preliminary arrangements for erecting a memorial at St. Julien, Belgium to the dead heroes of the C and D Companies, 3rd Battalion. The suggested superscription the frontal tablets is as follows:

"Erected to the memory of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of C. and D. Companies, 3rd Battalion, who fell in the Canadian defence of Ypres on April 21-23. Erected at St. Julien, Belgium, 1919."

Major Cameron of the G. G. B. G. is associated with Col. Mason in the arrangements. A suitable spot is now being selected in Belgium.

PERKES' FEATS READ LIKE NOVELS

Lieut.-Col. George R. Pearkes V. C., D.S.O., M. C., Croix de Guerre, etc., who arrived in Toronto with the 116th Battalion is one of the greatest heroes of the war his adventures reading like a novel. Leaving Victoria, B.C., a private in the 2nd C. M. R., in June 1915, having bought himself out of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police because they would not allow him to resign in order to proceed overseas, he gradually rose from the ranks to his present rank of commanding officer of the 116th Battalion.

In France promotion and honors came quickly. He was a lieutenant and captain in the 2nd C. M. R.'s where he won his Victoria Cross, major in the 5th C. M. R.'s and was later given command of the 116th infantry in the autumn of 1917. The Ontario battalion he led until September 1918, having succeeded the well-known Col. Sam Sharpe, M.P.

Being wounded on this date he was denied participation in the glorious victory and during September and October last his life was despaired of. His wonderful powers of endurance and constitution conquered, however, and after being wounded seven times, is now quite well and ready to "carry on" for the Empire in peace as well as in war.

Beauty Hides a Multitude of Virtues in the Maxwell

THIS time beauty conceals the virtues—not the "sins." For the new "garments" of the April Maxwell are severely pretty, simple, modern, and the kind that make you want to possess one.

But underneath this "robe of beauty" you'll find a sound, rugged, compact, everlastingly-on-the-job chassis that now has a record manufacturing run of 300,000—all alike.

For in 5 years that number of chasses have come out of the 8 great Maxwell plants—each built on the same pattern; each one better than the last.

To date more than 1000 refinements, big and little, have been made in the Maxwell. The plan is to improve and improve—but not to change in any radical way the original chassis.

Thus you'll understand why a Maxwell never quits running; never grows wobbly and loose with age; never forces the garage man to send you a staggering bill for mechanical treatment.

Now you get a far better Maxwell than ever before. Which would be sufficient for the average buyer. But more than that you're getting a Maxwell that the touch of artistic magic has made into a car of rare beauty.

It doesn't take an art critic to pass judgment on the beauty of an April Maxwell. Anyone with fair eyesight gets it in a jiffy.

Manitoba's Mixed Farming King

For thirty years "S. Larcombe, of Birtle" has been a name growing steadily more familiar to the public, until to-day it is known and recognized all over Canada and in many states of the Union to the south as that of a man who has labored unceasingly to promote diversified agriculture in the Canadian West. Larcombe is 68 years young, and for 59 of those years he has worked on the land and worked hard. To-day he is hale and hearty, and loves a joke, tells a capital story, but in a moment can turn from gay to grave, and has a vision of what should be done agriculturally in this country, a vision that the younger men might well try to catch.

Like so many who have wrought well for western Canada he has had little or no tangible recognition by governments of his work. Occasionally he indulges in a little mild sarcasm over things as they are, as for example the other day when congratulated on winning the Bankers' Special of $500 in gold he remarked with a merry twinkle "Oh yes I have the glory and the bankers have the gold. Didn't you see that the placing had to be won twice before the money is paid over?" but the writer said "you have won twice the grand championship for wheat." "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Larcombe, "but banks are only retroactive in collections, not in payments, and my first win was before this prize was offered, but perhaps I will win next year though every year there are more expert wheat growers in Canada, and the prize is open to the whole Dominion, but banks like to play safe, they get the glory of offering $500, I get the glory of winning the sweepstakes and there is a long chance they will never have to pay the money" and he went on his way with a gay laugh.

Just a bare recital of his life work makes fascinating reading. Born at the little village of Muusbury, near Axminister, in bonnie Devon, in 1851, he went to work on a farm when he was nine years old and worked there until he was twenty-one, when he moved to Croydon, in Surrey, and specialized in market gardening for ten years. In 1889 the call of the new land became insistent and though by this time he had given seven hostages to fortune and had a wife and five children, he pulled up stakes, and came to Canada, landing in Winnipeg in May of that year, and after a few days rest started on what was in those days the old Manitoba North Western, for Birtle.

He did not make the mistake so common among his countrymen of thinking because he had farmed in England, there was nothing to learn in Canada, but hired out for a year with another farmer. The following year he rented a farm three miles from Birtle, and started on his own account, and that very year joined the Birtle Agricultural Society. At a time when everyone was talking wheat, and wheat and more wheat, he made his first exhibits not of grains but of vegetables. The first time he got three prizes. In ten years his list of entries numbered 4(and he had thirty-seven prizes from the Birtle society, and 94 prizes from four other local shows at which he exhibited. All these years he was growing grain, and feeling his way as to varieties and strains, but confined his exhibiting to vegetables and roots almost entirely.

Referendum In September To Decide Liquor Question

PRESENT INTENTION OF ONTARIO GOVERNMENT IS TO SUBMIT FOUR QUESTIONS—LIGHT BEER OVER THE BAR OR IN SEALED PACKAGES—REPEAL OF O. T. A.—LIGHT BEER 5 PER CENT.

TORONTO, April 6—The Mail and Empire which is usually well informed upon prospective legislation says the following four questions will in all probability be submitted to a referendum in September:

(1) Repeal of Ontario Temperance Act.

(2) Sale of light beer in sealed packages under Government control.

(3) Sale of light beer over bar.

(4) Restrictive sale of spirituous liquors generally under Government control.

The way was prepared for a thorough discussion on Wednesday night, when for three hours the Government threw the matter wide open and asked for a full and frank expression of opinion. The members gave their opinions and, incidentally, revealed a loyalty and a confidence in the Prime Minister and answered effectively stories of dissension and dissatisfaction. On Thursday night the definite proposals were submitted and approved.

VOTE ON ALL QUESTIONS

The submission on four questions left room for a good deal of uncertainty about the real state of public feeling, but it is said that the Government has found a way out and, that it is the simple expedient of requiring every elector to mark his ballot yes or no on every question. If this plan has been adopted it would record public opinion in an effective and entirely unique way, and with a certainty impossible if the elector had to make a single choice.

The reported scope of the referendum is generally as expected, except that it is said there will be no reference in it to wine, though beer and wine have been linked together in all discussions of the subject. Whether this means the exclusion of wine is not certain, but attention is drawn to the fact that native wines have, so far as Ontario legislation is concerned, a special place since they can be sold under the Ontario Temperance Act in wholesale quantities. So far as the sale of beer is concerned it is generally understood that the proposal is to allow— if the people so vote—the sale of a light beer of about two and a half per cent alcohol, equivalent to slightly under five per cent. proof spirits. This would meet the demands of the labor organizations without bringing back the strong beer of the old days.

Another concessation said to be intended for the workmen is the chance of getting this light beer sold over the bars of standard hotels. If the word "bar" still has power to terrify, but the people want a more moderate system than the O.T.A., then light beer can be sold bottled for consumption in the home.

The sale of all liquors under Government control should the verdict point that way would involve the building up of a big organization, but it is said that the Government will be ready for that eventuality. Such a system would, of course, absorb the present system of dispensing liquor through vendors. Experts, it is reported, have been at work for some time working out a proposed system which would be fully explained to the people before the vote is taken. The fact that the referendum is months away is sufficient guarantee that the whole issue will be fully understood by the people since it gives ample time for educational propaganda.

The bill will probably be ready for the House on Tuesday. It is not likely that the polling date will be definitely fixed, that being left to proclamation.

HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT PROPOSES' CONFERENCES TO DECIDE BOUNDARY DISPUTES — GEN. JAN SMUTS, REPRESENTING THE ENTENTE, IS GIVEN CORDIAL WELCOME.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BUDAPEST, April 7.—The Hungarian Government has proposed to General Jan Christian Smuts, who was sent here by the Paris Peace Conference, that conferences be held at Vienna or Prague between representatives of the Cecho-Slovaks, Rumania, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Jugo-Slavia, regarding boundaries and economic questions. Bela Hhun, the Hungarian Minister, in discussing the situation today said:

"This is the first time the Entente has sent us a diplomatic mission. This is proof that the Soviet Government is the first strong regime since the November revolution. There is not the least sign that the Entente wishes to undertake military operations against us."

General Smuts has been received in friendly spirit and the proposition for conferences concerning boundaries has been submitted to him.

One Auto After Another Falls Prey To Three Thieves

FROM TORONTO TO OSHAWA AND RETURN THEY INDULGE IN ORGY OF THIEVING — PEOPLE FROM DANCE HELP THEM ON ONE CAR WITHOUT THANKS.

TORONTO, April 7—One theft often leads to another theft, especially when the first article stolen is an automobile that may break down at most unexpected and inopportune moments. On Friday night three young men stole a motor car in Toronto and drove east along the Kingston road. Their car broke down at West Hill, but conviently close to where a number of cars were parked outside a ratepayers' meeting. Here a second car was stolen, and with it several motor rugs and other motor furnishings. The party then proceeded to Oshawa when the second car broke down and a third was stolen. Turning back on their trial the auto thieves mired their car in a ditch near Agincourt. To dig it out they stole spades from an Agincourt hardware store, but this failing, the car was abandoned and the young men walked five miles to Unionville, where they stole another car from G. A. M. Davison's garage, and rode to the city. Nothing more has been heard of them.

Very early Saturday morning some young people going home from a dance at Agincourt discovered the motor car at the side of the road. They offered their assistance to the three young men, but the car resisted the combined efforts of the party. After they had passed on the motor bandits walked half a mile east to Padgets & Hay's hardware store broke in and stole spades to dig out their car. They also took razors, watches and a rifle, with some ammunition.

Returning with their spades they again tried in vain to move the motor car. Deciding that the car was gone for good, they abandoned it and the spades.

Saturday morning the car was discovered by neighboring farmers and the county police notified. Reports of abandoned cars being found and cars being stolen, began coming in from other centres, and finally the police were able to piece together the whole story.

WHAT IS STANDARD TIME

Speaking about daylight saving T. M. Asselstine, of Kingston, secretary of the Frontenac Law Association, said:

"In view of the passing of a by-law or regulation by the City Council varying standard time, it is well that the public should be informed that such action by the council does not affect the time or the hours set for doing any legal act in connection with the public offices of the province or its courts located in the city, and, as far as these offices are concerned, until such time as the Provincial Government varies standard time to conform to variations made by local municipalities, they will continue to do business under the old time.

"As soon as it is was known that Ottawa had failed to pass a daylight saving act the Frontenac Law Association forwarded a resolution to the Attorney-General of Ontario asking for legislation to be passed, or an order-in-council (under Chapter 20, sec. 25, Geo. V., 1918), permitting variation of standard time in municipalities which pass local regulations varying standard time. The confusion which is bound to arise over those changes would be reduced to a very slight amount if these variations were legalized by the provincial government and the prospects are that they will be so legalized without much delay. Already the legislature has adopted the new time for their sessions and for all the offices at the Parliament buildings in Toronto. But in the meantime the old time prevails.

BOLSHEVIKI SHOT 2,000 IN THE TOWN OF OSCA.

London, April 7.—The Bolsheviki completely devastated the town of Osca, forty miles south-west of Perm, before its capture by Admiral Kolchak, according to official despatches received from Omsk, the seat of the All-Russian Government. All the educated classes in Osca, the message declares, were murdered, the total number of persons shot reaching 2,000.

Few of the men who were in the place are left, as nearly all the surviving workmen were carried off when the Bolshevik evacuated the town.

O. T. A. Amendments

TORONTO, April 7—Uncertainty as to the date for the annnouncement of amendments to Ontario Temperance Act was dispelled at noon today when Premier Hearst affirmed his intention of making his long expected statement on the subject in the House this afternoon. It is probable that the bill will be introduced at the same time. No official forecast as to the terms of the bill is forthcoming, but it is generally believed that they will follow fairly closely along lines already indicated in official conjectures. The medical bill based on Mr. Justice Hodgins reports on social diseases will be laid over until next session.

Another Revolution

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Advices reaching the State Department today indirect from Vienna, said that a communist is imminent in German-Austria.

RUMORS DISCREDITED

VIENNA, April 7—The Communist Government in Budapest was still in office Saturday and on that day Bela Kun in a statement to a correspondent of the Associated Press said that a proposition had been made to Gen. J. C. Smuts, chief allied representative in Budapest, that representatives of various states of old Austrian empire and Rumania hold a conference to discuss boundaries and economic questions. Recent reports from Budapest have indicated that the Communist Government was not meeting with very strong opposition at least in Hungarian capital in carrying out its measures. Bela Kun was formerly private secretary to Premier Lenine of Russian Soviet Government and has been looked upon as the real leader of Communist Government in Hungary.

BOLSHEVISTS NOT RECOGNIZED

WASHINGTON April 7—Lord Reading, British Ambassador, authorized the statement today that suggestions that Premier Lloyd George had advised recognition of Lenine or Trotsky, Russian Bolshevik leaders, were wholly unfounded.

Many citizens were this afternoon interested in an aeroplane which flew over the city at a rather low altitude. The machine came from the east and proceeded westward presumably for Toronto. Only the operator of the plane was visible.

Hun Faces 35 Years Of Paying Belgium and France Come First

PARIS, April 7.—The Council of Four on Saturday reached an agreement on the principles of the indemnities and reparations to be paid by Germany, and examination of the details will begin immediately, the newspapers say. It is not believed there will be any disagreement as to details, and it is indicated that the text of the financial terms will be finished during the week.

ALLIES IN AGREEMENT.

The Echo de Paris says that compromises were effected on all debatable points regarding the sum to be paid at once by Germany and the payments in the future. Against the opposition of the French Government it was agreed, the paper says, to distribute the future payments over a term of thirty years. The payments for the next few years were fixed.

FIRST PAYMENTS TO DEVASTATED COUNTRIES.

The Journal says there are indications that the rights of France and Belgium to prior consideration in the payments by Germany have been recognized. The first German payment, it says, will be 25,000,000,000 francs, of which five billion will go to pay for raw materials to insure the resumption of German economic life. France will get ten billion francs and Belgium five billion of the first payment. The rest of the indemnity will run over a period of thirty-five years.

ECONOMIC BLOCKADE THE ALTERNATIVE.

Plans for continued occupation of the left bank of the Rhine have been abandoned, and the Allies will depend upon an economic blockade as the means of pressure on Germany. Final agreement on the Rhine and Saar Valley questions will be reached before the end of the week, it is added.

Increased optimism in diplomatic circles is noted by the press, while in editorials the newspapers express satisfaction over the progress made on the question of reparation and indemnity. It is pointed out that each day of delay in reaching a final agreement adds to the losses of France.

The favorable solution of the Dantzig question is commented upon in complimentary terms. The moral and political advantages of the agreement are emphasized by the papers.

An Italian Found Clubbed To Death

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 6—Coroner W. W. Thompson last night opened an inquest in Niagara Falls latest murder case, and adjourned it for a week. Last night two children playing in a field on the outskirts of the town found the body of an Italian, who had been clubbed to death. Indications were that the body had lain there three weeks. The pockets were turned out and the shirt was pulled open by the murderers in their search for money. They probably found some, but a thousand and five dollars which the man had in a sock was overlooked.

A telegram from Warren, Ohio, found in the pocket showed this man to be Michele Basamise, of that town. The telegram had been sent to him at Midland, Ont., and it told him to come home to Warren as his brother was very ill.

Three weeks ago Provincial Police Officer Kelly saw Basamise turned back at the lower bridge here, he having no passport. It is believed he spent some time at a foreign boarding house in this city, and somebody learned he had a big sum of money on him. The police are trying to locate that place. The theory is that he was either followed from Midland here and killed or was murdered by local foreigners.

He wore a good suit of brown striped cloth, and inside the lapel of the coat were the initials "M.H.L." of the Montreal dealer's name.

Communist Gov't Reported Overthrown

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

VIENNA, April 7.—The Hungarian Communist Government in Budapest has been overthrown, according to rumors current in official circles. Bela Kun, Foreign Minister, is reported assasinated. Reports do not say whether the attempted revolution in Budapst was organized by socialists or Bourgeois parties.

21st Battalion Now In England

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, April 7—The Second Canadian Division is now arriving in England. 21st, 18th and 19th Battalions have already reached Witley Camp. Remaining units will leave there on consecutive days in the following order: twenty, twenty-two, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-nine, thirty-one, twenty-eight, and twenty-seven. They will be followed by machine gun battalions, artillery and engineers.

BOLSHEVIKI INDULGED IN SLAUGHTER OF THE CLERGY

LONDON, April 7.—The Siberian Minister of Justice, detailing the terrible atrocities by the Bolsheviki prior to the evacuation of Perm, lays special stress on the tortures of the clergy. One of the worst cases was that of Archbishop Andronique, who was buried alive while the Archbishop of Tchernigoff, who journeyed specially to Perm from Moscow to obtain information regarding Archbishop Andronique, was killed. Bishop Theophanus, after suffering great tortures was finally drowned by successive immersions in a hole made in the ice.

The official list contains the names of fifty priests who were butchered at Perm.

HUNDREDS REPORTED KILLED IN GERMAN TOWNS

LONDON, April 7—Several hundred persons were killed in further rioting at Frankfort-on-the-Main according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The hotels of the city were plundered during the disorders.

In the fighting at Stuttgart, the message adds, a violent crowd attacked Town Hall which was occupied by Government troops. The crowd, however, was beaten off. Frankfort is reported without water or light.

Called By Death

JOHN O'SULLIVAN

After an illness of two months Mr John O'Sullivan passed away at the residence of his niece, Miss Mary Ann O'Sullivan, Fifth Concession of Tyendinaga, on Thursday evening, March 27th.

The esteemed gentleman was born in the County of Cork, Ireland, in the Michael's Church on Saturday morn- and for several years resided in Belleville.

In 1860 he travelled to Arizona, where he followed the occupation of gold mining and in later years became a prospector.

In religion he was a Roman Catholic. His remains were taken to St. Michael's Church on Saturday morning, where services were held, thence the cortege porceeded to St. James cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs. John Smith, William Smith, John O'Sullivan, Timothy Hopkins, Henry McWilliams and John Lally.

WILLIAM DOXTATOR

There passed into rest on Sunday, March 9th, 1919, another of Shannonville's residents, in the person of William Henry Doxtator.

Deceased was born in Tyendinaga, December 20th, 1848. He lived on the farm until a few years ago, when he moved into the village, where he lived at the time of his death.

He was converted to God thirty-four years ago, in a praying band service led by the Farnsworth brothers. He lived a consistent Christian life and died in the faith.

The last few years he suffered much from physical ailments yet he bore his suffering with Christian fortitude and marked patience, never complaining.

Everything was done that could be done by loving hands for his comfort, and to prolong his life, but his time had come and God took him.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Farnsworth of Selby, assisted by Rev. W. W. Jones, his pastor. He was a loving husband, kind father and a good neighbor.

There are left to mourn his loss, the widow, one son, Frank, on the farm, one brother, Andrew of Thurlow, and three sisters, Emma Doxtator of Saskatoon, Delia Watt of British Columbia, and Mrs. Jas. Housten of Shannonville, who have the sympathy of the community.

MRS. S. A. MOORE

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Sarah Gilbert, relict of the late Mr. S. A. Moore, passed away in this city after being ill for some time. Deceased was 73 years of age and was born in Sidney Township. All her life had been spent in this city. Mrs. Moore was the last survivor of the Gilbert family. She was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church. Her husband preceded her to the tomb a few years ago. She is survived by five nephews.

(What the Press Agents Say)

DELIGHTED SMART NEW YORK FOR ONE SOLID YEAR

"Flo Flo" the delightful medley of music, comedy, costumes and pretty girls, which John Cort brings to Griffin's Opera House Tomorrow night comes to this city following its solid year's run at the Cort Theatre, New York. The musical conceit, the book of which is the work of Fred De Grassac, the brilliance and sparkle, while the music by Silveo Mein is considered the most catchy of his compositions. The distinction of beautiful girls and exquisite gowns, a background of resplendent scenery and a star cast, which includes Louise Kelley, prima donna; Jere Delaney, Mildred Leverly, Burns and Lynn, Carl George, Doroth Curtis, Augustus Buell and others, the "Perfect 36" chorus and a symphony orchestra combined to make this organization one of the foremost now touring.

A GRIPPING STORY

Rex. Beach's tremendous following in the screen world is certain to hail his "Laughing Bill Hyde" as the greatest of all Rex Beach pictures. It has for its featured player, Will Rogers, the famous wit and lariat thrower of the "Follies." The picturization of the author's most gripping story depicts what the kindness of others will do even for an escaped convict. Bill Hyde is one, and when he carries for miles a dying pal, who suffers mortal injury while fleeing, the doctor Bill calls on decides that society would be safe with a man of heart like Bill at large. The doctor's kindness and confidence in Bill are later rewarded when Bill meets him in Alaska, where both have made their way by devious paths. Pathe News, a beautiful Travelogue and a new Boke comedy will also be screened. [illegible]

JOHN BARRYMORE IN "HERE COMES THE BRIDE"

Portraying the role of a poor lawyer who is in love with the beautiful daughter of a millionaire, but who weds an ugly widow "with a past" to win a reward of $100,000 John Barrymore, the talented screen star, will be seen in one of the most humorous roles of his career in "Here Comes the Bride," which will be displayed at Griffin's tonight and Wednesday night. Mr. Barrymore is one of the best known actors in the country and he is now appearing in Tolstoy's play, "Redemption" at a New York Theatre with great success. Notwithstanding that much of his time is taken up with this attraction, he finds time to devote many hours to motion picture work. In "Here Comes the Bride," Mr. Barrymore has the part of a poor struggling lawyer who is induced to wed a strange widow for a bribe of $100,000 despite the fact that he loves the beautiful daughter of a corn magnate. She loves him but the father is opposed to the match This unfortunate marriage provokes numerous interesting as well as humorous situations in all of which the artistry of Mr. Barrymore is finely displayed. Jewel Carmen also appears on the same programme in a splendid 5 act drama entitled "Confession." A new Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon and "The Village Chesnut," a very amusing two-act Sennett comedy featuring Chester Conklin will also be screened.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XVII—Continued

Then she quieted her excitement by recalling the home circle. Her father's face came up before and she said: "I am selfish to mind such a thing. For dear father's sake."

When she appeared at the table in answer to Mrs. Fulton's ring of the bell the first time she showed no signs of temper, and served quietly and cheerfully. Mrs. Fulton looked at her sharply several times, but apparently found nothing in the girl's face to annoy her. The only embarrassing feature of the meal to Faith was the young man, Malcolm, was looking at her very directly. It was not a stare, but it embarrassed Faith somewhat. His face was honest and manly, but the look he often turned towards her was very searching.

She was relieved when the meal was over and she could clear the things away. It was Thursday afternoon and she very quickly put her kitchen to rights, and, running up to her room, she put on hat and cloak and went out. She determined to have another look at the picture on State Street if it were still there. And if it was gone, a plan had suddenly come to her mind which she had resolved to try before going back to the Fulton's.

She had gone out of the house only a few minutes, when a conversation occurred in the parlor which would have interested her intensely, if she could have heard it.

The young man, Malcolm(had been ill at ease all through the lunch time. When it was over he had gone into the library, where he had asked leave to write a letter. He was evidently a business acquaintance of Mr. Fulton's but the conversation at the table revealed the fact that he had not been in the Fulton home before.

He finished his letter and went into the parlor. Mrs. Fulton and Alice were there. The girl had not gone to school on account of not feeling well.

"I'm sorry that Mr. Fulton did not come out this noon, Mr. Stanley," said Mrs. Fulton, who seemed anxious to please him. "I am sure he must have been unavoidably detained in the city. He telephoned out in the early part of the forenoon that he would try to meet you here. I know he wanted to see you before you go West.

"Yes, madam," replied Malcolm Stanley. He spoke respectfully, but one who knew him well would have said his tone lacked heartiness. He was evidently very much disturbed over something.

He walked to the window and looked out. Alice went over to the piano and opened it. She sat down and played a few bars of the march. Often when she was feeling miserable a little music would relieve her.

The sound of the piano roused Malcom Stanley. He came back to the middle of the room and taking a seat near Mrs. Fulton, he said, with some emphasis, as if he had been making up his mind to a course:

"Mrs. Fulton, where does your—girl—the girl who waited on the table who was playing the piano—where did she come from? What is her name?"

Mrs. Fulton looked surprised and also embarrassed.

"She is from Kansas, I believe, she told me. Her name is Faith. What is the girl's last name, Alice, I never can remember it?" she called to Alice.

Alice stopped playing and turned around on the piano stool.

"Kirk, Faith Kirk."

"Oh, yes, she's a peculiar girl in some way, Mr. Stanley, as no doubt you noticed. It is not often that we housekeepers can furnish superior musicians to entertain guests," she said with a short laugh, which showed that she thought of the incident of Faith at the piano with great annoyance.

But Malcom Stanley had risen, his whole expression betraying great excitement.

"If this girl's name is Kirk, Mrs. Fulton, and she is from Kansas, it is almost certain that she is the daughter of the man who was with my mother when she died in mid-ocean; the man who held me in his arms. The man who has always been in my thoughts as one of the heroes of the world."

Mrs. Fulton rose, looking bewildered. She was familiar with Francis Raleigh's painting, but she had never thought of associating Faith with it.

"I must see her," said Malcolm Stanley. He spoke like one who has the right to command.

"I think she has gone out," said Mrs. Fulton. "Alice will you go and see?"

Alice went out and soon came back saying that Faith had gone. Malcolm Stanley paced the parlor in unusual agitation of manner.

"If this is the daughter of Malcolm Kirk," he said to himself. Then he turned to Mrs. Fulton and bowed formally.

"You will excuse me, madam, if I take my leave now. I am obliged to make some arrangements about the picture at Mr. Raleigh's this afternoon."

"When do you leave for the west?" Mrs. Fulton asked. She was annoyed at the events of the day.

"I had planned to go to-morrow. I expect to visit Mr. Kirk on my way to Denver. But I feel anxious to see Miss Kirk before I go. She certainly must be his daughter. A 'hired girl' as you call them would not be likely to have such a musical education and besides, she has the look in her face of the portrait. It must be she."

"Yes," cried Alice, her pale face showing some color under the excitement of such a discovery in real life. "She certainly played the piano like one who has had the best of teachers. And, besides, you can see from her manner that she is refined and ladylike." Alice spoke with a glow of unselfish feeling and Malcolm Stanley looked gratefully at her.

"I may come out with Mr. Fulton this evening," he said.

He bowed and went out, leaving Mrs. Fulton and Alice to talk the matter over, while he went down to Francis Raleigh's studio, determined every moment with increasing resolve to return and see Faith before the day was over.

Meanwhile, Faith had gone directly to the familiar window on State Street where the picture had been.

She knew before she reached the place that the picture was gone, because the usual crowd of people was not there. She stopped in front of the window, however, and read the address of the artist which was attached to a small scene of a foreign seaport. She hesitated a moment, and then resolutely went on to Randolph Street, to the block where Raleigh's studio was.

His room was at the top of the building and when she reached it she hesitated again before going in. When she finally opened the door, she drew back at the entrance, for the room appeared to be empty, except for a large canvas and a few decorations. There was another room opening from the first, and after waiting a moment, Faith went on to the door of that room.

A man was sitting there with his back to the entrance, so absorbed in his work that he evidently had not heard her come in. But Faith was at once attracted by the sight of the familiar picture of the father which was on a great easel in front of the artist.

She came a few steps further into the room and still the artist did not look up; and it was only when Faith had advanced as far as the frame of the picture of her father that he turned his face and looked at her.

"I am Faith Kirk and that is my father," said Faith, speaking directly, after Malcom's own manner and pointing at the portrait. "I've come on a rather peculiar errand, Mr. Raleigh but you won't blame me for it, I'm sure."

"Blame the daughter of Dorothy Gilbert!" cried Francis Raleigh. His once heavy, black hair was streaked with gray, and he had grown noticeably old in many ways, but he was a handsome and well preserved gentleman and the old Raleigh manner sat on him with even more grace than when he was young.

He rose and bowed with an elegant politeness that brought the color to Faith's cheek, and for a moment they stood facing each other in silence. Then Raleigh brought a chair and Faith sat down, while the artist looked at her with great and increasing interest.

"I suppose you have come to take me to task for painting this picture," he said. "It was in one sense a very bold thing for me to do. I think, however, your father will forgive me. I am sure he will when he knows all about my reasons for doing it." He spoke in a tone that made Faith feel somehow that the picture had been the real influence on the life of the artist, as, indeed, it had, and the telling of it at another time revealed the fact that Francis Raleigh had gone through an experience of moral struggle tah had left him also victor in overcoming.

"I'm sure father would be pleased," said Faith, slowly. Then she paused, for suddenly one of her shy spells came over her and she did not know how to go on. For the first time she seemed to feel as if perhaps her errand would be considered unusual.

"What can I do for you?" said Raleigh. He spoke in a way that removed Faith shyness at once. If it had not been for that she would have gone away without telling him what she had come for.

"Of course," he continued, "I am wondering every minute how you happened to come in here. For your home is in Kansas, isn't it, and I—"

"Will you let me tell you how I happened to be here?" said Faith, feeling more confident in her errand. "I shall have to tell it before you will understand why I have come."

"You tell me your story," said Raleigh, smiling encouragingly. So Faith related her expxerience in the photographer's studio and her present place of work at the Fulton's, whereat Francis Raleigh opened his eyes a little, but he continued to listen in sympathetic silence.

HOW'S YOUR BLOOD?

Pimples and Eruptions Mean Bad Blood

People who have impure or impoverished blood should be careful to take only a temperance remedy made of wild roots and barks such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is and has been for nearly 50 years. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulation begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the eliminative organs.

In place of the impurities, the arteries and veins gradually get fresh vitalized blood and the action of this good blood on the skin means that pimples, boils, carbuncles, eczema, rash, acne and all skin blemishes will disappear. Then you must remember that when the blood is right, the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys become healthy, active and vigorous and you will have no more trouble with indigestion, backache, headache.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day at any medicine dealers, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

[illegible], Ont.—"For over three years I suffered with stomach and liver trouble. I would bloat up, gas would form on my stomach and cause me to be terribly distressed at times. I also broke out with ring worms. I doctored and took medicine but did not get any relief until a lady advised me to try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and, also, the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and I am glad to say that these medicines so completely cured me that I have never had any return of those ailments."—Mrs. Florence [illegible], 4 Albert Street.

GOLD MINING IN HASTINGS COUNTY

In the autumn of 1914, Henry F. Lloyd, an old miner of Hastings county, was prospecting in the Eastern part of the township of Tudor, between the Moira river and Black Creek, and while engaged in opening up a quartz vein of about 4 feet in width, broke into a mass of decomposed iron pyrites, out of which he cleaned 110 ounces of gold dust which averaged $16 per ounce, of $1760 in the 110 ounces. He had since then staked this property and has done considerable work in opening up the several veins on the property, which contains 150 acres or three claims of 50 acres each.

Mr. Lloyd has associated with him, Theodore H. Dimon of New York city, and John Loughrey, of Minneapolis, Minnesota. There is now a company formed to operate those properties which will be known as the Newcomer and Kimm Mines Co., capitalized at $2,000,000. The headquarters of the company is in the Metropolitan Life in the city of Minneapolis. The officers of the company are: Lawrence H. Tucker, President; Arthur Lewis, Vice-President; F. T. Robbins, Secretary; Albert P. Kimm, General Manager and Treasurer. At present there is several hundred feet of stripping done along the veins and assays from $8 to $36 per ton have been taken from the ore. It is the intention of the company to proceed with the development of these properties this coming summer.—North Hastings Review.

MUST STILL SAVE FOR WAR PURPOSES.

Canadians must continue to save, if for no other reason than that the war estimates for this year call for an expenditure of $350,000,000. This is only $150,000,000 less than the amount asked for last year.

The armistice has been signed, but it is estimated that the expenditure on war account will this year be equal to about 70 per cent. of the amount asked for last year. The fighting ceased with the signing of the armistice, but the paying did not.

Such being the need of money all persons should save, and through the purchase of War Savings Stamps, place their savings at the disposal of the Government.

THE NEW BROTHERHOOD.

We are sifting out the selfishness that marred our olden creeds,
From the vineyards where we labor we are thinning out the weeds.
We are building for the future to a nobler, better plan,
For the world has caught the vision of the brotherhood of man.

We have put the past behind us. As the sturdy pioneers
Saw within the tangled forest all the glory of the years,
So we face our trials calmly, for beyond them we can see
The greater goals of freedom and the world that is to be.

These are days of self-denial, these are times for sacrifice,
It is freedom we are gaining and each one must pay the price.
We are drawing close together with a common end in view;
For the greater joys we dream of we've a common task to do.

We are sifting out the selfishness that marred us in the past,
For the light of truth is shining through the clouds of doubt at last;
We are building for the future to a larger, better plan;
For all eyes have caught the vision of the brotherhood of man.

—Edgar A. Guest.

Such is the vision of a poet of the people, and many will say Amen, but the great trouble is that real brotherhood is more or less visionary as yet. We are waiting for the other fellow, and the other fellow is waiting for us, to discard selfishness and help usher in the new millenium. However, the leaven is working and when the soldiers are all home and part of the home life—the brotherhood of the trenches may become the brotherhood of the shop, the street and the every-day life of peace times. The nation with high ideals and lofty visions cannot fail to achieve greatness even if the objectives are not all reached in first efforts.

WHERE THE PENSION MONEY GOES TO.

Estimates issued by the Minister of Finance show a yearly pension bill of approximately $30,000,000.00, and this, though a minimum figure, has provoked questionable comment.

How this vast fund is administered, and where this money goes, are queries advanced by an interested public. Here is the official answer: Pensions to the thousands of deceased soldiers' dependents, and pensions to an equal number of incapacitated veterans.

Sailors and soldiers in war, are citizens delegated by their fellows to perform a public service—the destruction of a public enemy. Therefore, sailors and soldiers incurring detriment to their persons while on service are recompensed by a grateful country as a reward for their patriotism, and this is done in a material manner so that they may suffer no more severely than the average citizen by reason of the enemy's action.

With the return of Canadian units we are to realize the toll that has been exacted and the demands that are to be made upon the Dominion exchequer through the ravages of war.

An outstanding example, though perhaps not a typical one, of the extent to which the financial resources of the country are to be taxed, has been illustrated with the return of Canada's first complete unit—the Princess Pats. Here some slight indication of the excessive war casualties is shown in the high death rate in this one regiment alone. Possessing an original strength of nearly 1,000, we have a unit returning approximately 100 strong, showing a casualty list of nearly 900 men—the majority of whom are entitled to pension.

GENEROUS MINDED FARMERS.

By no means all the farmers in the country are opposed to Daylight Saving, says the Toronto News. Many agriculturists take the view that they are not inconvenienced by putting the nation's clocks forward for one hour during the summer months. They feel and say they are not justified in preventing millions of workers in offices and factories from enjoying an extra sixty minutes of outdoor recreation in the sunlight during several months of the year. These generous-minded tillers of the soil, moreover, take into consideration the saving of millions of dollars in lighting costs which Daylight Saving means to the nation as a whole

They also appreciate the inconvenience and danger to the travelling public that is involved in an hour's difference in train times at the border. The farmers of whom we are speaking admit, moreover, that one class in the community cannot properly dictate to all the other classes, especially in view of the fact that it has been lightly taxed and that it has prospered abundantly during the war. The food producers of the country have certainly come through the war in much better financial position than the millions of wage-earners who reside in towns and cities. These circumstances are constantly borne in mind by many farmers who sent their sons to the war and who put forth their utmost efforts in support of the allied cause throughout the whole duration of the conflict.

HERE'S the story in a nut-shell: "Frederic Tile" needed money and he needed it quick. He also wanted a girl, but he couldn't get her if he took the money. But if he didn't take the money he wouldn't know what to do with the girl if he had her. You just watch John Barrymore crack this nut.

A STILL ALARM.

At 5.15 Saturday afternoon the firemen at the upper station answered a still alarm to apartments in the Marble Block. From some cause a bed caught fire and was partially destroyed. The blaze was extinguished by the aid of an extinguisher.

CALL FOR POLICE.

At an early hour on Sunday morning it was reported to the police that a fight was in progress near the upper bridge. Upon investigation it was ascertained that three men were talking rather loudly in reference to fast horses and this caused some person in the vicinity to telephone for the police.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The business to be transacted is chiefly of a routine nature. Mayor Platt and Alderman Hunter will be absent, they being in Toronto on city business.

TRAMPS SHELTERED.

Five tramps, all of whom were comparatively young men, were on Saturday night provided with shelter at the police station. Of late a num- of the knights of the road have been sheltered.

FINED USUAL AMOUNT.

In response to a call on Sunday morning to vacant premises on McAnnany street the police arrested William Munville on a charge of intoxication. This morning the magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs after the accused had pleaded guilty to the charge.

PTE. McCAW RETURNING.

Mrs. George McCaw, 377½ Front Street, received a telegram yesterday from Pte. George McCaw, at Montreal, that he expected to reach Belleville this afternoon. Pte. McCaw enlisted at Madoc with the 155th Battalion and has been on active service in France over two years. He was wounded on October 13.

MINING ACTIVITY.

Messrs. J. J. Morand and J. J. Morand, Jr., of the Eldorado Mining and Milling Co., Limited, were guests at the Hotel Quinte yesterday. The Eldorado Mining and Milling Co. have a talc mine about nine miles from Madoc and several mining machinery experts arrived here yesterday from Chicago en route to the mine to install new machinery which will very much increase the productive capacity of the mine.

BODY FOUND IN CANAL.

The body of Gladys Kimberley, daughter of Mrs. Frank Kimberley, nee Miss Meta Lang, of Belleville, who had been missing since Tuesday night last, was found caught in the framework of the waste weir above Lock 2 of the old Welland Canal, from which the water was shut off yesterday afternoon. She was nineteen years of age and had been employed for several months in a local banking institution, and had been in failing health. Against the wishes of her parents she accompanied her twin sister on a trip for milk. Near the canal Gladys paused and said she would await her sister's return. She was not seen since alive. Her hat was found Wednesday morning on the bank of the same level of the canal in which the body was recovered. Deceased was a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Lang, of this city.

"In The Family"

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

"You're a fine fellow, Bassett. Best of friends, eh?"

"Thank you, surely, Pierson."

"Business rivals, but that's the spice of the game. Now this little incident of that piece of property we both claim to own has come up. Are we going to take off our coats and pound each other? Not much! Our side is in possession—you've got only an old tax title. Litigation? Don't do it—expense—hard feeling. Honest, Bassett, I don't care a rap for the old broken-down farmhouse and miserable patch of land that won't raise anything but thistles. Only it's a sort of old-time relic and in all honor I want to keep it in the family."

"And I simply wish to abide by the business rules my father has inculcated—to hold on to what seems to be mine by right."

"Well, let it rest for a bit, and see what time develops."

To this Ned Bassett, bright, systematic young man of business, did not reply, for he had made up his mind to bring the matter to a decisive focus. As Pierson, shrewd and enterprising, had secretly formed the same conclusion, it was a question of who got there first. "There" was Mayville, near which little hamlet the property in contest was located. Dyke Pierson fancied he had stolen a march on Bassett when he quietly left the city to find out what the Mayville lawyers said about his case. Bassett had arrived in Mayville four hours earlier. As he was turning a tree-shaded corner he drew back quickly. Out of view sounded a familiar voice, that of Pierson, and it spoke questioningly:

"What's the trouble, Sonnie?" Bassett peered past a tree. Seated on the edge of the sidewalk was Pierson. An urchin of six was digging his fingers in his eyes and weeping copiously.

"I wanted to go to the movies and Ben Leyner promised to buy my bag of marbles for a dime, and he ain't here."

"Let's see your marbles," spoke Pierson, and the boy poured forth a full array of "mibs," glass alleys, "glassies," bolers and cornelians. Pierson pawed them over with a grin, powerfully reminded of his long past youthful days.

"I'll buy the outfit," he said. "There's a quarter," and the delighted lad bounded off in high spirits. Then Pierson chuckled as he jogged his memory to classify the marbles by names that came back to him like a whiff of early boyhood. Suddenly Bassett stepped into view.

"Hello!" he hailed. "What are you doing here at Mayville?"

Pierson looked up, bored and flushing. "Oh, well," he stammered. "I came down here to play marbles. What fetched you here?"

"Oh, to watch you play them," retorted Bassett. "Trying to steal a march on me, eh?"

"Well, you're here, too, aren't you? Say, ever play these things?"

"I'll play you a game of plumpins," suggested Bassett—"ten marbles in the ring, with bolars for shooters. If I win, that land's mine. If you win, I'll never trouble you about it again."

"Done!" shouted Pierson, who had a good deal of sporting spirit in his makeup—and lost.

A curious crowd had gathered around to witness the strange sight of two full-grown men playing marbles in dead earnest. Winner and loser hastened to get beyond the gaping villagers.

"Now don't look so grouchy because luck went against you," spoke Bassett. "Truth is, I don't want the old farm, and when I come to recken up just what taxes we have paid and interest amounts to I may turn it back to you on a new deal."

"Hope you will," replied Pierson, somewhat mollified. "Well, anyway, we'll keep it out of the devouring maw of the law. I say, are you putting up at the hotel? Yes? So am I, but I'm going to run down by auto to see my folks. Come along with me."

So Bassett went. Strange freak of fate! Glowing birth of a new ideal in his impressionable mind that colored all his life! It was at the Pierson home that he met Madge, the sister of Pierson.

"How such a perfect angel comes to be the sister of a man of such common clay as you are made of," he railed at Pierson, "I can't understand."

"Aha! You have got a soul for something besides dollar grubbing, eh?" Pierson abused him in turn.

Pierson went back to the city next morning. "See here," observed Bassett, "I like this little town. I need a rest and I'm going to take a week's vacation."

It was fully two weeks before Bassett returned to the city. "Got back, eh?" hailed Pierson, meeting him on the street. "By the way, you sort of hinted at some possible arrangement about that old farm land."

"Why, yes," nodded Bassett. "You're thinking of asking it back, are you?"

"Why, I was, for a fact—on a fair money basis."

"No need," pronounced Bassett.

"Eh? What do you mean?"

"Why, you said all you cared about was keeping it in the family, didn't you?"

"That's right."

"It's there, already. Your sister—"

"What's Madge got to do with it?"

"Only this: she is going to become my wife," was the buoyant reply.

Y.M.C.A. Notes

A meeting is called for in the Y. M.C.A. at eight o'clock tonight to organize a City Soccer Football League. Anyone interested in this line of sport please see that they have a representative at this meeting.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE

There were two basket ball games played Friday night. The first game between St. Mikes and the Wanderers resulted in a win for the former by a score of 39 to 10. This game was rather one sided, most of the boys playing on the Wanderers' team have not played the game for two or three years and were out of practice. They have the making of a good team and a few nights on the floor will help put them in shape.

The line up:

St. Mikes:—A. Meagher and C. Young, forward; H. Hurley, centre; F. W. Barrett and J. Frawley, defence.

Wanderers:—McWilliams and Boyle forward; Delong, centre; Young and Weese, defense.

The second game between the G.T. R. and the O. S. D. resultd in a win for the former by a score of 42 to 14. The score at the end of the first period was 12 to 10 in favor of the G.T.R. Capt. Payne of the O.S.D. was slightly hurt in the second period which proved fatal to his team. The G.T. R. team is a banner team and have played the game more than the O.S. D. boys and we ought to see a good game when the G.T.R. meet St. Mikes for the honors of group one.

The line up:—

O.S.D.:—E. Payne and A. Dick, forward; J. Marshall, centre; W. Smith and J. Maynard, defence; J. Marrie, sub.

G.T.R.:—Holland and Joss, forward Kimber, centro; Folwell and Shrader, defence; Gibson and Miles, sub.

MONTEAGLE VALLEY

About seventy friends of Mr. and Pomroy Sutherland met at he Orange Hall, Monteagle Valley, Friday evening to say farewell to them and their family who are leaving there this week for their new home in Herchel. An address was read by Miss Mary Younge on behalf of their many friends and a beautiful dinner set presented. The evening was spent by singing and playing games after which a dainty lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland have the best wishes of the community for their future home.

Our rural mail delivery has been taken over by Mr. Peter MacDonald of Hybla for the next two months, until the expiration of the present term. This, we hope, will insure a little better service for a time.

Rev. J. E. Davey conducted his first service at Zion, Sunday. There is also English Church service every second Sunday. We hope, after such a long intermission, to see some stir among the people on Sundays.

Pte. Arthur Lynn of Springbrook, who has lately returned from overseas, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. Irwin Robbins of Baptiste, spent Sunday visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Price had as guests last week four returned soldiers.

Miss Mildred Bresnahan received word that Mr. J. Regan is dangerously ill with smallpox in the hospital at Cobalt.

Mr. Hubb Welsh lost a valuable horse last week.

Mr. Taylor and son of Toronto, are guests of Mr. David Taylor this week.

Miss Margaret Wasmund has returned home.

A number of people have been suffering with severe colds lately. However, the weather is again becoming mild and we hope the epidemic will pass away.

Mr. Cecil Laundry of Bancroft, is visiting friends in the valley.

Miss Nellie Hinze of Greenview, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bartlett.

Could Have Saved Thousands Of Dollars

Brown Sorry He Didn't Know About Tanlac Sooner—Gains 17 Pounds

"I I had had Tanlac five years ago I could have saved not only a world of suffering but more than a thousand dollars besides, said W. L. Brown, of 132 Yorkville Ave., Toronto, Ontario, Canada, recently.

"I had a terrible case of stomach trouble," he continued, "and would bloat up with gas something awful, I would suffer with agonizing pains in my stomach and was never free from headaches. For nine months I was on a light diet, and became so weak that I could hardly dress myself, I lost weight until I was little more than skin and bones and was so nervous I could hardly sleep. I took every kind of treatment and spent months in hospitals, but only got worse and was so bad off that I was given up to die.

'One day my brother-in-law suggested that I try Tanlac, and I did so, and I am feeling a thousand times better. I have already gained seventeen pounds; my appetite is fine, the gas and those awful pains have disappeared and I can eat most anything without suffering afterwards.'

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling, by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

DISTURBED SCHOOL MEETING

Before Magistrate Jarman of Bancroft, a Mrs. Parks was charged by the trustees of the Maxwell School settlement of disturbing a school meeting. The charge was proven and the accused was assessed $1 and costs.

NEW LOCOMOTIVE FOREMAN

W. D. McCann, of Ottawa, has been appointed locomotive foreman at Brockville for the Canadian National Railways, in succession to H. Thompson, who has been transferred to the shops at Rideau Junction near Ottawa Mr. McCann has already entered upon his duties.

FIVE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

John Hughes, a laborer, arrested at Prescott on a serious charge, was found guilty when placed on trial before Mr. Justice Dowsley and sentenced to five years hard labor in the Penitentiary. The judge stated he would have added a lashing to the sentence except for the advanced age of the prisoner.

ANGLICAN SERVICES

The Fight Reverend E. J. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, made his annual visit to St. Mary Magdalene church, Napanee, on Sunday evening and administered confirmation. The final Social Service address will be given on Wednesday next at 8 p.m. in St. Mary's Church by Rev. A. F. C. Whalley, B.D. The subject is the vital problem of Labor and Capital, and Mr. Whalley has special qualifications for dealing with it.

GANANOQUE BATTERY RETURNING

It is expected that the 3rd Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, which left Gananoque in August, 1914, under the late Lieut.-Col. Russel H. Britton, D. S. O., will return to Canada about April 15th. A reception is being arranged by the council of the town of Gananoque.

CONFIRMATION AT TWEED

On Sunday, March 30, the Bishop of Ontario, the Rt. Reverend Dr. Bidwel, visited St. James' church, Tweed. Both morning and evening services were largely attended. In the morning the service was of confirmation, at which there were ten confirmed, and holy communion when the number of communicants was the largest in the history of the church.

BIRD HOUSE COMPETITION

For some time the boys of the Manual Training Class of the Public School at Tweed, have been busily engaged in the construction of bird-houses. School Inspector Minns had very generously donated a prize of five dollars, and the boys are all anxious to win a place. Competent judges have been selected and they will award the prize.

REMOVING FROM NAPANEE

Rev. C. W. DeMille, B.A., pastor of Trinity Church, Napanee, has received from the Methodist church the appointment of Secretary of Religious Education for the Province of Saskatchewan and in June will remove to Regina. The offer of this appointment was at first declined but Mr. DeMille's letter was delayed in the delivery and the appointment was made. He was urged to reconsider his refusal and eventually accepted.

TWEED MERCHANTS ORGANIZE

The retail merchants of Tweed met in the town hall on Monday evening and organized a branch of the Retail Merchants' Association. Messrs. Waters and Campbell, of Ottawa, representing the Provincial organization, were present and addressed the meeting. After learning the many advantages to be derived from the organization of a local branch, the merchants were not long in deciding with the result that a branch has been instituted with the following staff of officers: President, J. D. Taylor; 1st vice-pres., Chas. Kerr; 2nd vice-pres. Felix Rashotte; Sec., J. J. Quinn, treas., Chas. Clark.

A LINK OF THE PAST

Mr. J. E. Johnston of Tweed, made rather a unique find the other morning. He had cut down an old dead apple tree and was sawing it up for wood, when he came across a shoe for an ox, right in the centre of the trunk. Likely it had been placed there in days gone by and the tree had grown over it. It was similar to a horse shoe or is made in two parts; one for each hoof and the back of the shoe is very broad. The late Martin Countryman, father of Mr. John Countryman of town, built the house where Mr. Johnston lives. As he was engaged in the lumber business, and used oxen without a doubt it was placed there by him. It was rather a curio of the past and very rarely seen now-adays.—Tweed News.

WILD ANIMALS UP NORTH

Mr. Morrison, formerly proprietor of the Bancroft Times, which he disposed of a few months ago to Mr. Price, of Madoc, Ont., was a business visitor in town today, while on his way home from Peterboro. Speaking of the northern town Mr. Morrison stated that it was a thriving place, especially when the quarries and the mining industries were in action. True there were some wild animals roaming occasionally in the near-by woods, but very often the majority of stories in the papers concerning these animals were exaggerated. While coming to Lindsay the other day Mr. Morrison had a somewhat thrilling experience as the train was crossing the Burnt River. A car left the rails and for a time it was feared that the train would waddle off into the water. Fortunately, however, it went the opposite direction and ran off on dry land—Lindsay Warder.

A CHURCH CENSUS

At a meeting of the Belleville Sunday School Association yesterday, preliminary steps were taken for the making of a church census in Belleville under the Home Visitation Plan which has been used with great success in many places. The idea is to unite all religious bodies in an effort to discover a list of families and individuals who have some church preference, but are not attending any church, also those who have no church preferences, if any such there be, and never give church and Sunday School attendance a thought. The visitation plan is on thorough business lines and accurate records are secured which prove very useful in militant church extension work. The Belleville Ministerial Association is heartily in favor of the movement and a meeting of all concerned will be held in the near future to perfect arrangements.

A DISTINGUISHED HONOR

Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Napanee, has received the appointment as a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, in recognition of the work which Mr. Herrington has done in the interats of Canadian Historical Research. This organization is affiliated with the Royal Society and the Canadian one number among their members the most outstanding scholars in the two countries. The Canadian Society is composed of groups of men who have attained distinction in one or other of several branches of literature and science, as 1, French literature and history; 2, English literature and history; 3, Mathematical, physical and chemical science; 4, Geological and Biological sciences. Membership in its grants the letters F. R. S. C. to be used after the name of the member. Only one member is elected to each group each year. To Mr. Herrington falls the honor of being elected to the group of English literature and history.—Napanee Beaver.

REEVES NOT GUILTY.

A charge under the Ontario Temperance Act of being intoxicated, and a charge under the Motor Vehicles Act of driving an automobile when intoxicated was heard before Police Magistrates Casement and Gillen at Madoc on Friday night against Loomis Reeves, when it was claimed that Reeves, while running his automobile from Belleville to Madoc on Monday 31st of March, was so intoxicated that he could not continue the journey, and it was necessary to obtain the services of another party to drive the automobile home. Reeves, however, gave evidence that he was not intoxicated, but was suffering from the effects of a weak heart and he explained the irregular movements of the automobile on the highway, sworn to by two witnesses, as resulting from the rough roads and the newly fallen snow. The two parties in the automobile with Reeves also stated that Reeves was not intoxicated. Both cases were dismissed. E. B. Fraleck acted for the prosecution; W. C. Mikel, K.C., for the accused.

HELPED CHILDREN'S AID

In response to Mr. Wm. H. Nugent's appeal in behalf of the Children's Aid Society, a cheque has been received from Miss Flossie Hennessey, Secretary I.O.D.E. Jr. Branch of Coe Hill, Ont., for the sum of $40.00. This contribution is worthy of special mention as the branch of the organization is composed of very young girls and their generous assistance to the C.A.S. is only one among many appeals responded to, as this energetic band of juvenile workers has done a splendid work for all patriotic purposes. They have the distinction of being the first in the county to respond to the appeal for a work that should be foremost among our interests.

ARRIVALS FROM OVERSEAS

MORE VALUABLE THAN GOLD

Real Treasure of Peru Was the Potato, Though Spaniards Did Not Realize It.

The gold of the Indies was the attraction that led Columbus to sail westward, that carried Cortez to Mexico and Pizarro to Peru. The Incas had large stores of the precious metal, representing, no doubt, the accumulations of many centuries. The capture of such a booty resounded through Europe. Spain became for a time the wealthiest, as well as the most powerful, nation of Europe, and this was ascribed to the gold of Peru.

But Peru held another treasure much more valuable for the nations of Europe than the golden booty of Pizarro. Carrying the potato to Europe was an event of much more profound significance in relation to the subsequent history of the world than sending the Inca gold to the coffers of Spain. But nobody understood the value of the potato, and its Peruvian origin was generally forgotten before the plant became well known. Instead of Peruvian potatoes we call them Irish potatoes.

The potato was the basis of the ancient Peruvian nation and has attained almost the same importance in other parts of the world within the last 100 years.—National Geographic Magazine.

"Puget Sound Lobster."

Seattle is consuming only about half a ton of octopus, "devilfish," a week, according to fish dealers of that city. But this consumption is bound to jump as soon as the Americans become familiar with the taste of this inhabitant of the deep. The Greek fishermen, who consider the octopus a great delicacy, call it "devilfish;" while the Japanese fish dealer gets calls from his people for "tako," and when Sing, down in Chinatown, places it on his menu card he gives it a name that only a Cantonese can read or understand. When cafe managers uptown decide to give their patrons a treat the lowly devilfish probably will become "Puget Sound lobster."

Improved Fuel for Airplanes.

That the Germans are using a new and improved fuel for airplane engines was the statement of Leon Camen before the Aeronautical society. To gasoline is added one per cent of toluol and one and one-half per cent of alcohol. The mixture gives a sharper ignition than simple gasoline, and while it exerts some deteriorating effect upon the metal, the short life of the airplane motor at the war front means that the motor is discarded before the deterioration becomes serious.

Peace Conference Is Speeding Up

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, April 8.—The Council of Four met this morning at the residence of Premier Lloyd George. President Wilson was not able to attend the afternoon session, but hoped to be able to attend the meeting this afternoon at his house. The over night tension in conference circles had not been dispelled when the Council of Four met today. In conference circles, however, it was felt that the session today would serve to clear the atmosphere.

The first question taken up at the foreign session of the Council was that of procedure. This was considered in an effort to accelerate the work of the Council. It was planned to devote the afternoon session to the subject of responsibility for the far including the question of the tribunal to try the former German Emperor, former Crown Prince and others on which divided reports have been presented. It was said by American members of the Peace Conference today that the general situation was improved somewhat today because of an agreement reached by the commission of reparations on the main features of reparations question leaving only a few unessential details for adjustment. A generally more hopeful tone prevailed in conference circles as the day went on.

City Council Make Another Move Toward Free Bay Bridge

QUOTATIONS ASKED FROM WRECKING COMPANIES AS TO EXPENSE OF DIVER FOR EXAMINING PIERS OF BAY BRIDGE—BRIEF DISCUSSION ON BRIDGE QUESTION AT REGULAR MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL.

At the City Council meeting last night the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. A motion prevailed to ascertain the cost of a diver and outfit to examine certain piers of the bay bridge. The Council has been requested by order-in-Council to return $200 which was imposed as a fine under the Ontario Temperance Act upon a resident of the city. A number of petitions were presented asking for the construction of granolithic walks.

In the absence of Mayor Platt, Alderman Woodley was voted to the chair. Other members present were Aldermen Treverton, Simmons, Riggs, Hanna, Bone and White.

Minutes of previous meeting and a special meeting of the Council were read and confirmed.

Reports of Committees, communications, etc., were laid upon the table and on motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on reports, etc., Ald. Hanna in the chair.

The accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were passed and the following recommendations were disposed of:

Recommended that the Council take advantage of the 10 per cent discount offered by the Heaton Agency in their advertising contract and that the treasurer be authorized to forward them a check for $225 for payment, in full of contract—Adopted.

That Mayor Platt and Ald. Bone be a special committee to investigate several cases in which parties are asking for a remission of taxes and that said committee be empowered to deal with such cases as they think the merits of the appeal warrant.—Adoptd.

That Messrs Diamond and Hyde be given the contract for building a hand rail at the easterly end of the footbridge.—Adopted.

That the city's requirements of road oil for the season be purchased from the Imperial Oil Manufacturing Company at 8.90c per gallon F.O.B. for 50 per cent liquid asphalt oil.—Adopted.

"After hearing explanations from Mr. Gardner and Mr. Cook and in consideration of the present equipment of the gas plant that this Council exonerate both gentlemen from any blame as regards the making of poor gas at certain times.—Adopted.

That Mr. Geo. Belcher be engaged as caretaker of the city parks at a salary of $3 per day—Adopted.

CLAIMS DAMAGES

Mr. James McGinnis wrote the Council relative to damage to his car owing to the condition of Ashley St.

Ald. Woodley—The City Engineer is investigating this matter.

FINE REMITTED

Mr. Mikel wrote the Council relative to a fine of $200 which was imposed upon a resident of the city and the fine had been remitted by order-in-council and he asked that the money be returned.

On motion the matter was left in the hands of the Chairman of the Executive Committee to adjust.

TRUCKS FOR SALE

A communication was read asking the Council if it desired to purchase a Ford roadster with a truck attached. A number were built for the Imperial Munition Board and are now offered for sale. The price was $530.

The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee.

MORE FIRE PROTECTION

The Provincial Inspector of the Children's Aid Society recommended that another fire hydrant be placed in the vicinity of the Children's Aid Society on Dundas Street—Referred to the Fire Committee.

The Children's Aid Society through their agent asked for a grant of $500—Referred to the Executive Committee.

BAY BRIDGE

Mr. Sinclair wrote the Council on behalf of the Retail Merchants' Association asking the Council to take some action relative to the Bay Bridge matter.

Ald. Bone, suggested that a meeting of the citizens of Belleville and the Township of Ameliasburg be called in the near future to consider same.

Ald. White though that the matter of inspection could be brought up at the next Committee meeting. The matter of the cost of inspection should be considered.

Ald. Riggs—I would suggest that the merchants of the city give a considerable sum towards the purchase of the bridge, if it is purchased. The citizens generally should not be asked to pay the larger sum.

A motion prevailed that the City Clerk communicate with the Donnelly Wrecking Company of Kingston and the Dominion Wrecking Company at Montreal re the cost of a diver and equipment to examine the piers of the bridge.

WALKS WANTED

Petition were presented for the building of granolithic walks on Bleecker Avenue, on South side of Harvey Street, also for a sanitary sewer on Henry Street between Coleman and Cedar Streets.

These petitions were referred to the City Clerk, Assessor and City Engineer to report upon.

The report of the committee was on motion received and adopted.

ENQUIRIES

Ald. Bone—Could we not hold a meeting re the bay bridge matter?

Acting Mayor Woodley—We cannot do much until we have a price as to the cost of inspection by a diver.

Ald. Treverton—What times will sewers be ready to be constructed?

Acting Mayor Woodley—Probably within the next two weeks.

Ald. Riggs—Will it be possible to build the Isabell and West Bridge Street sewer at the same time.

Acting Mayor Woodley—That is the intention.

Ald. Bone—Does the Provincial Board of Health hold up the city in any of the sewer constructions.

City Clerk—No, it does not.

Ald. Treverton—Ponton Street is in a deplorable condition and cannot something be done to this street.

Acting Mayor Woodley—I will take this matter up with the engineer.

INTRODUCTION OF BY-LAWS

Ald. Bone introduced a by-law to construct sewers on East Bridge Street Dufferin Avenue, Octavia Street, Hillside Street and Dunbar Street.

The Council went into the Committee of the Whole on By-laws, Ald. Hanna in the chair.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

The By-law was passed through its various stages and numbered 2122.

MOTIONS

Ald. Simmons moved, seconded by Ald. Treverton that Mr. Danietl Stapley be given $75 and a free phone at his residence for the taking care of dead animals in the city—Carried.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Under this head Ald. Treverton asked the Council to reconsider the bill presented by Mr. J. A. Kerr, City Assessor, for help he employed. The speaker thought the bill should be paid by the Council.

Acting Mayor Woodley—There is a motion on the minute book that no official should engage assistance without consulting the Council.

The matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

STREET PAVEMENT

Acting Mayor Woodley stated that he had asked the engineer to give costs of pavements for certain streets in the city which had to be attended to.

Council adjourned.

Communism Is Spreading In Europe

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

BUDAPEST, April 8.—Great earnestness is displayed by members of the new Government in carrying out the work assigned to them. They are ready to discuss their plans and to solve problems and they refrain from abusing capitalism. Maintenance of strictly discipline to protect Bourgeoise and to prevent Red Guard outbreaks has been decided upon by the Government. Jules Alparia, prominent Communist, and Jules Sevres, the peoples Commissioner in charge of the Socialism of factories, argue that communicism is the only method by which Central Europe can be saved from total ruin. Capitalism, they maintain, is unable to cope with the bankruptcy, high wages and unwillingness of laborers to work. They point out that under communism workmen cannot strike and are obliged to accept a reasonable wage.

German Terms Had Huns Won

What Erzberger Demanded From Allies, When War Was Still Undecided.

BERNE, April 8.—Mathias Erzberger, Chairman of the German Armistice Commission and a member of the German Government, was accused of being the author of a document written in 1914 showing that Germany's peace terms, if she won, would include large annexations and indemnities, Herr Landauer, a representative of the Munich Soldiers and Workmen's Council, declared in a speech at Augsburg, Bavaria, according to a despatch to The Frankfort Zeitung. Landauer, who was speaking at a meeting in memory of Kurt Eisner, the late Bavarian Premier, said he had a copy of the document.

Landauer at first refused to give the name of the author, except that he was still a member of the Government Finally, however, he said that the person to whom he alluded was Herr Erzberger.

Among the peace terms mentioned in the document, Laudaner said, were: "Annexation of Belgium French Normandy and several towns on the southeastern coast of England.

Annexation of the territories on the eastern frontier of Germany which have since become separate States.

Establishment of a large German colonial empire. Payment of a war indemnity calculated to cover Germany's expenses during the first ten months of the war as well as the entire German debt before the war.

Herr Laudauer asserted that these terms were approved in principle by Gen. von. Falkenhayn, Gen. von Moltke and Admiral von Tirpitz.

Canadians Tested As None Before

Capt. Ketterson Tells of Sir Arthur Currie's Care for His Men.

COBOURG, April 8—That the Canadian troops were tested as the soldiers of no other country had ever been tested before, was the opinion expressed by Capt. Ketterson, in an address in Victoria Opera House here before a large audience. Capt. Ketterson went overseas as chaplain of the 29th Battalion from Vancouver He has recently been appointed chaplain of the Ontario Military Hospital.

Although the Canadians were outnumbered by the Germans 3 to 1 and even 5 to 1, the Germans could not break through the Canadian line. Then the Huns tried their murderous gas. With thousands of their number writhing on the ground, and some dying from its poisonous effects, the Canadians wavered, but only for a short time, and then rallied again, thereby saving the situation for the Allies and the Channel ports. They showed themselves to be of the old fighting British stock and held the line against all odds.

Of Sir Arthur Currie, Capt. Ketterson said that the Canadian commander took a deep interest in all of his men, was proud of them and of his command. The speaker was proud to have been associated with him in the work.

HEROIC IRISH REGIMENTS

Capt. Ketterson is a Belfast man, although he has been in Canada for some years. "We hear much said about Ireland in these days," he said, "and much advise as to what should be done for and in that country, but to really understand the spirit and the situation there, to understand Ireland, one must have resided among the Irish people." He reminded the audience that many of the great British leaders and commanders—Kitchener, Roberts, Beatty were Irish. An Irishman he humorously said, takes to fighting like a duck takes to water. He referred to the heroic part taken by the Ulster men and Irish regiments in the present war. In one battle there were 18,000 casualties among the Ulster men. They fought to the last man, not one would surrender.

KINGSTON BOY DROWNED.

KINGSTON, April 8—Kenneth Birchall, aged twelve, was drowned about 9.30 Saturday night, at the foot of Queen Street, by the capsizing of a canoe. A companion, was rescued and taken to Hotel Dieu in an exhausted condition. It is supposed that the boy went out in the evening to fish. His father is an employee in the Locomotive Works and resides on Ontaria street. Yesterday afternoon the body had not been recovered.

Premier Explains Referendum Vote On All Four Questions

TORONTO, April 8.—The Ontario Government's referendum proposals were announced in the Ontario Legislature by Sir William Hearst yesterday. The Prime Minister, contrary to expectations, did not bring down the legislation upon which the referendum will be based, but in a lengthy statement he gave the House a clear outline of what the legislation will be. The Government's policy may be summed up under two heads: its referendum proposals and its policy of ownership and control in the period that must elapse before the will of the people can be fully expressed. The Government, in pursuance of the announcement made by the Prime Minister several months ago, will bring in legislation providing for the taking over of the business of selling liquor under the Ontario Temperance Act, the establishment of distributing warehouses and agencies in various parts of the province.

The policy for the future will depend upon the vote of the people, for the four questions which Sir William announced will be submitted to the people will record public opinion absolutely. If the people vote for the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act that Act will stay upon the statute books. If at the same time they give a majority for the sale of light beer in standard hotels after a vote by the municipal electors, amendments will be made to the Ontario Temperance Act to make such sale possible.

The other two questions will be in exactly the same position. If the people give a majority vote for one or the other that one will be made effective. Thus it is possible, though not probable, that the province, by its vote, may say it wants the Ontario Temperance Act amended to permit the sale of light beer in sealed packages, in Government agencies, in standard hotels over the bars, and spirituous liquors generally in Government agencies. A full vote on all four questions is assured by the simple plan of requiring the elector to vote on every question or have his ballot thrown out.

THE QUESTIONS TO BE SUBMITTED.

1.—Are you in favor of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?

2.—Are you in favor of the sale of light beer, containing not more than 2 51-100 alcohol weight measure, through Government agencies and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

3.—Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than 2 51-100 per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favor such sale and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

4.—Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?

Medals For Troops, Silver Cross For Heroic Mothers and Wives

INTERNATIONAL AWARD WILL PROBABLY BE MADE FOR OVERSEAS TROOPS AND ANOTHER FOR HOME SERVICE.

Nothing definite has been decided as to the issue of war medals or as to their nature, but it is likely that two will be issued. (1) An international medal for all troops engaged in theatres of war, and a British medal for all troops engaged in theatres of war, and a British medal for all troops serving at home or in garrison regiments. It is estimated that from and a suitable recognition which will be issued by the British Government.

The following are the awards to date to Canadian soldiers:

Victoria Cross	61
D.S.O.	605
Military Cross	2312
D.C.M.	1452
Military Medal	7785

It is also proposed to issue a silver cross. "The Cross of Sacrifice" to be worn by the mothers and wives of those who have fallen in the war, and a suitable resrognition which will appeal to all.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

MUNICH, April 8—Complete severance from old German imperialism was declared still to be maintained in Ebert Scheidman Government of Germany and resumption of brotherly connections with Russian and Hungarian peoples is announced in proclamation of the new Soviet government for Bavaria from here.

RIOTS IN BAVARIA

COPENHAGEN, April 8—Demonstrations have occurred in Munich against the new revolutionary government of Bavaria, according to a Berlin despatch to-day. They were dispersed by troops, advices state. Protests against the formation of a Soviet Government voiced at a political meeting in Bamberg, northern Bavaria, are reported in despatches from that city. Deputies of all Burgeois parties of Upper, Lower and Middle Franconia met in Bamberg and registered an unanimous protest against the proclamation of the new regime.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP DEFEATED

DETROIT, April 8—Proposed purchase by city of Detroit of local lines of the Detroit United Railway at a cost of $31,500,000 was rejected. Sixty per cent of the vote was required to carry and the figures stood 56,001 in favor of the plan and 64,174 against it.

HAMBURG BOLSHEVISTS

COPENHAGEN, April 8—A political movement of great importance is imminent in the region of Hamburg, reports from Berlin say. Doctors Herz and Hauffenberg, Spartacan leaders, it is announced, have almost succeeded in making themselves masters of the situation and in converting Hamburg and the region between Hamburg and Bremen into a Soviet republic.

Mayor Booker of Hamilton was advised that practically all Ontario is under daylight saving through an Ontario statute which makes the time east of 90 degress west longitude five hours later than Greenwich time.

German Minister Of Justice Was Arrested In Saxony

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

COPENHAGEN, April 8.—Herr Landsberg, Minister of Justice in the Imperial Government, was arrested yesterday at Magdeburg, capital of Prussian Saxony, by members of regiments stationed there. Magdeburg despatches say that Gen. Von Kleist, in command of the Fourth Army, and his staff, were also arrested. Former Deputies Brandes and Filkel also were arrested. Other arrests of Social Democrats and members of the bourgeoise are planned. The majority of the Magdeburg garrison sympathizes with the Independent Socialists.

"Parasite" Case In Court At Last

Counsel for Rev. Ben Spence Declares Trial Travesty on Justice.

TORONTO, April 8.—After months of adjournments and delays the trial of Rev. Ben Spence, charged with the publication of the "Parasite," a banned book, commenced in the Police Court, in spite of the protests of Mr. W. E. Raney, K.C., counsel for the accused. Before any witnesses were called Mr. Raney, in the course of a lengthy argument, said the book had not been banned in England. He again asked for particulars of the portions of the work of which the Crown complained, and said that if his client was to have a fair trial these must be furnished. Mr. Kingsford ruled that the Crown was not compelled to furnish them.

Officials from the Methodist Book Room, the house that published the banned book, said that they had interviewed Mr. Spence regarding the book, and suggested that he get in touch with the Censor at Ottawa. Mr. Spence had refused, declared Wilfrid Kittlewill, Office Manager of the Methodist Book Publishing Company. Mr. Kittwill had then told Mr. Spence that if he did not notify the Censor he would have to.

Find "Treasure" In Quarry Cave

Police on Trail of Band of Italians—Lads Chased by Men.

ST. CATHARINES, April 8—High Constable Boyle received word on Sunday morning which led to a discovery that will have far-reaching results, and may lead to the arrest of an organized gang, that have for sometime past been robbing Grand Trunk freight cars.

In consequence of information received the High Constable paid a visit to Merriton and there recovered a wholesale cargo of stolen goods consisting of dry goods, dress materials, corsets, tapestries, furniture coverings, etc. How the stuff was found reads like a chapter from "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

A party of boys on Sunday decided to explore a cave in a quarry and discovered the big case of stolen goods, two of the boys started home with some of the goods leaving two others to guard the treasure trove. While the guardians were on watch six Italians arrived and chased them away.

The boys sent word to the police. When Constable Boyd arrived the Italians had made their get-away, but the boys were able to furnish a good description of them.

G. T. R. Detectives Scott and Holding and Provincial Officer McNamara are working with High Constable Boyd on the case.

TIME AND TIDE AND TRAVELLERS' TROUBLES

Commercial travellers are having their own troubles with the change of time.

In conversation with a traveller for a Toronto wholesale house at the Hotel Quinte a representative of The Intelligencer was informed that many of the smaller towns are still working on the old time, with consequent confusion.

"I was two days behind on my trip last week," said the traveller, on account of engagements made by my watch with business men who had not advanced their time. At Picton I missed a train through customers showing up an hour late, and I had to stay there all night in consequence. We travelling men have to set our watches by the railway clocks or we never would get anywhere, but it surely is some nerve-wracker to go from one town where the new time is observed to another where the old time is still in vogue and business engagements made on new time are kept on old time.

"Hully Gee! if the country don't soon agree on some time for everybody, the commercial traveller will have no time at all," said the disgruntled one.

MY DEAR!

Are you aware that an ointment applied to the skin is absorbed into the system just as surely as medicine that is swallowed? It is! You see, therefore, how necessary it is we should use a pure ointment; and the purest you can get for yourself and your children is Zam-Buk.

Dr. Scott, the great English analyst, says: "I have analysed Zam-Buk, and have no hesitation in certifying its purity."

There is another reason why you should prefer Zam-Buk. It is of such a refined nature that it can penetrate to the very seat of skin diseases; whereas ordinary ointments, owing to their coarse ingredients, remain on the surface skin. Skin diseases, like plants, have their "roots." Zam-Buk can get down to the very root of the disease, kill the germs and thus effect lasting cures.

There is nothing like Zam-Buk for ending eczema, old sores, or eruptions; nothing that can so quickly draw out the soreness of a cut, burn or scald. Try it!

Proof. Mrs. A. J. Cameron of Melita, Man., writes: "My little son's head and hands were completely covered with eczema. I tried numerous ointments, and he was under doctor's treatment for some time, but nothing would cure him. Then I tried Zam-Buk. After a week's treatment I noticed a marked improvement, and perseverance with Zam-Buk resulted in a complete and permanent cure."

All druggists and stores 50c. box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c. stamp for free trial box.

Government Assistance Asked In Developing Hasting's Resources

IRON ORE INDUSTRY CAN BE REVIVED BY SMALL GOVERNMENT BONUS—THOROUGH MINING SURVEY SHOULD BE MADE AT ONCE AND ENQUIRY INTO LATEST METHODS AND PROCESSES FOR TREATING ORE — HASTINGS DISTRICT DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL IS GATHERING STRENGTH.

One dollar and fifty cents per ton bonus on iron ore mined in Hastings District is the objective of the County of Hastings Development Council as defined by the mining section of the Council which met last evening in Shire Hall, County Buildings. Hastings Mining District takes in all of Hastings County, Peterborough, Renfrew and other adjoining counties included in the same mineral belt. The Dominion Government will be asked to grant one dollar per ton for iron ore mined in this district while the Ontario Government will be asked to grant a bonus of fifty cents per ton. This will coincide with a similar request from the Port Arthur District which was voiced at the recent meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario and endorsed by that body. Hastings County has an even greater claim that Port Arthur District for a bonus as the ores are much more refactory.

In addition the Dominion Government will be asked to appropriate the sum of one million dollars to be expended in encouraging the development of other metals in this district, sending experts to make a geologic survey and enquiry into the most improved conditions for treating the ores of this district, a report to be made this summer.

A resolution covering the above outline of government assistance which will be sought was moved by Mr. F. S. Pearce, of Marmora, seconded by Col W. N Ponton, of Belleville.

Delegation to Ottawa

A delegation will proceed to Ottawa soon to interview the Government upon the question of encouraging the development of the resources of this district. Before this delegation leaves for Ottawa reports will be prepared showing the needs of the various mining industries in the district, as follows:

Fleurspar—R. C. Bryant.
Iron and talc—Geo. H. Gillespie.
Arsenic—Elliott.
Limestone—Bennett.
Waterpower and Actinolite—James.
Freight Rates—R. J. Graham.

There were present at the meeting Messrs. J. W. Evans, Chairman of the Mining Section; R. A. Elliott, superintendent of the refinery at Delora; Geo. H. Gillespie, Madoc, operator of iron and talc mines; Peter Kirkegaard, of Cordova, a veteran mine operator of the district; Jos. James, of Actinolite; F. S. Pearce, Marmora; F. M. Ashley, Mining Engineer, of New York; R. J. Graham, Geo. Graham, John Elliott, H. F. Ketcheson, F. Aylesworth, of Madoc, and W. H. Nugent, Secretary of the County of Hastings Development Association.

Plan of Action

A general discussion was held covering the whole mineral field of the district and plans outlined to encourage development by attracting capital. A definite plan of action for the association was placed before the meeting by Mr. Peter Kirkegaard of Cordova, which was received with approval and will be dealt with by the association as a whole. Mr. Kirkegaard emphasized the great need of profitable publicity, and the getting of everybody in the district interested and working for the development of all the resources. Mining in Hastings has received a black eye in the past through enterprises without sufficient financial backing failing to make good. There should be a central organization with an able man at the head and there must be adequate finances for service worth while must be paid for. There should be geological surveys made with immediate reports instead of having to wait two or three years for government reports as at present. An executive committee of five with their expenses paid and possibly also their time would direct the development organization and report to a full meeting held at Belleville. All business men in the district should be interested and a syndicate capitalized for at least $250,000 should be organized to encourage the development of all Hastings natural resources. The farmers should be interested and for every hundred acres should subscribe for one dollar share every five years. An attractive pamphlet should be prepared to draw the attention of the public to the opportunities here in natural resources. The Ontario and Federal governments should be asked to supplement the local expenditure with grants of dollar for dollar. An office should be maintained under an able manager and assistants and if the entire district came in including Peterboro, Haliburton, Renfrew, Lennox and Addington, and other adjoining counties, a syndicate could be organized with a capital of one million dollars.

Millions of Capital

Mr. Kirkegaard, who knows the district thoroughly, sees no reason why Hastings should not be dotted with mines employing thousands of men with many millions of capital invested. Two million dollars was at present invested in Delora and Cordova mines. He personally knew of six large gold deposits in Hastings.

Fertilizer Plant

The future of the acid plant at Trenton which was in danger of being scrapped as junk was discussed and representations will be made to the government of the necessity of this plant being retained as a valuable asset in the development of the resources of this country. It can easily be turned into a fertilizer plant, and through its operation many tons of iron ore in this district at present wasted could be utilized to advantage and both the iron and the sulphur made remunerative, resulting in new life being injected in the local iron industry. The sale of the plant has been halted for the present through the efforts of Col. W. N. Ponton, and the Development Association.

High Freight Rates

The discussion brought out the fact that one of the chief handicaps upon the mining industry of this district was the high freight rates and difficulty of getting special competitive rates.

Mr. Geo. H. Gillespie, of Madoc, gave much valuable information as to the iron industry, its history locally and its present disabilities with his views as to what was needed.

Mr. James of Actinolite, said that the greatest handicap to the development of local resources was the fact that the people as a whole were not intelligently loyal to their own country and district. Mr. James takes a deep interest in the Development Association and by reason of his lifetime of experience is a valuable member.

The bonus will be asked for a period of fifteen years upon a maximum production of 200,000 tons a year.

It was announced that the local branch of the Canadian Mining Institute had endorsed the proposed bonus and asked the parent organization to send a resolution to the government along this lines.

New York Engineer Present

Mr. Ashley, a noted mining and mechanical engineer of New York City, was introduced to the meeting by Mr. F. S. Pearce, of Marmora, and gave a helpful talk full of many suggestions and illustrations of modern development in the mining industry.

Col. Ponton stated that the government had a brigade of two thousand skilled prospectors, returned soldiers, whom they were prepared to utilize in development work. Hastings had never been prospected thoroughly and this was a chance to secure practical government assistance.

E. Guss Porter, K.C., representative of West Hastings in Dominion Parliament, was obliged to leave for Ottawa yesterday to attend the session, but sent word that he was in hearty accord with the progressive measures which the association had in view and would assist to the full extent of his ability.

Carrier Pigeon Saves Airman

Bears Message From Flying Boat Adrift in Rough Sea Without Fuel.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 8—A blue-coated carrier pigeon was instrumental in saving the life of Ensign Finch, a navy airman adrift in a flying boat without fuel in a rough sea Saturday night.

William Lyall of Toronto was seated in his beach front room at the Marlborough Blenheim Hotel late last night when he was startled to find an exhausted carrier pigeon fluttering through an open window. He notified the hotel management and a porter conveyed the bird to the office floor. Upon a piece of paper in a tiny aluminum receptacle attached to the pigeon's leg was this message of appeal from the sea:

"Down ten miles west of submarine chaser at 4.15 p.m., no gas.
"Ensign Finch"

The Cape May naval base was communicated with and a submarine chaser hurriedly despatched off shore and succeeded in rescuing Finch and his disabled machine.

Capt. Joseph Read Has Passed Away

"The Ancient Mariner," Beloved by Commoners, Suddenly Dies of Pneumonia.

OTTAWA, April 8—In the death of Captain Joseph Read, member of Parliament for Queen's P. E. I., in his seventieth year, in St. Luke's Hospital from pneumonia, the House of Commons loses a member universally beloved, and one who was regarded as one of the characters of the House. His long, flowing beard, his venerable appearance, his twinkling, humorous eyes, his broad shoulders and thick chest, all made up a general ensemble which led his friends to dub him in a wholly affectionate manner, "The Ancient Mariner."

This appelation was given as well because Captain Read was a master mariner, who had commanded his own vessel in many parts of the seven seas, and who was able to enrich his occasional addresses in the House by appropriate yarns to illustrate almost any subject that might come up.

Especially was this true when subjects like free trade or reciprocity from the store of information he had with the United States came up, when gleaned in the capacity of captain of a merchant ship he could tell what free trade or protection had actually done in the trades in which he had been engaged.

The death of Captain Read came very suddenly to the members, as, though he had been known to be sick during the past few days, he came to the present session as full of energy as ever, and he seemed to be so full of life and vitality, even at his advanced age, that a fatal termination of his illness was not expected.

Led To Death Chair In Irons By His Keeper

OSSINING, N. Y., April 8—Goiyanna Ferrara, the first man to go to the electric chair in Sing Sing prison handcuffed to a keeper, has paid the penalty for his crime in the prison here.

As he entered the death chamber his right hand was manacled to the left wrist of the keeper who walked beside him. On the left hand side of the condemned man walked Father Cashin, the prison chaplain, who was praying. Ferraro made no disturbance in the short walk from the death cell to the chair and was answering the prayers.

As Ferraro was placed in the chair the handcuff was removed from the keeper's wrist but not from Ferraro's. He died with the handcuff attached to his right hand.

He had nothing to say when he faced death. Ferraro was pronounced dead nine minutes after the current was turned on.

Unusual precautions were taken by Warden Moyer and Martin Deeley, principal keeper, to guard Ferraro in his last hours in the death house. Since he attempted to break out of the place and his attack upon the keepers, orders were issued that no one would be permitted in the death house to see any of the condemned men.

Giovanni Ferraro was forty years of age and had a wife and four children living at Farmersville. His wife called on him Tuesday. Ferraro shot and killed William Dunbar at Farmersville on July 14, 1917.

Dog In Pocket With Bark and Bite

The ownership of the site of an ash house in the station yard of the C. P. R. at Verona, on the Kingston and Pembroke branch, is an issue in an action brought by the railway against Charles Stevens, Napnee. According to the story of the station agent, there had been an old frame building standing there since his appointment as station agent in 1907. It had been used by Mr. Stevens for storing ashes which he shipped at long intervals to points in the United States. This building, which was twelve by twenty feet in ground plan, became very dilapidated, and finally the railway tore it down and notified Mr. Stevens that the material was at his disposal.

Mr. Stevens appeared on the scene and proceded to rebuild the house. When the railway employees sought to interfere he is said to have remarked that he had a dog in his pocket that would both bark and bite. The railway then asked the courts to lay a restraining hand upon him, and Justice Sutherland at Toronto, has granted an injunction restraining Mr Stevens from going ahead with the building till after the trial of an action to determine the rights of the parts.

The railway solicitors state that a lease was prepared at a nominal rental and submitted to Mr. Stevens for the ground occupied, but he refused to sign it, and said that he had been in possesion for a sufficient period to entitle him to retain it.

INSPIRES BLIND MEN

SIR ARTHUR PEARSON VISITS THE DOMINION.

Famous Newspaper Man Who Has Been Devoting All His Time and Ability to Helping the Men Who Lost Their Sight Fighting the Battles of Their Country.

ONE doesn't ordinarily think of a blind man as being dominating, masterful, self-confident to a marked degree. Blind men tap along with canes. They lean on some one. They put out feeling hands, and hesitate. They look up peculiarly and turn their heads to listen. They seldom "go about alone." But this one is quite different. This one is Sir Arthur Pearson, the man who was, six years ago, one of the biggest newspaper and magazine men in England, perhaps in the world, and who is now giving his life to "teaching men to be blind," as his own expression has it.

Sir Arthur Pearson, who lost his sight six years ago, when he was in the prime of his life and his journalistic success, and who founded and directs St. Dunstan's hostel for Blinded Soldiers and Sailors, in Regent's Park, London, recently paid a visit to Canada as he is intensely interested in the work that is being done here for the blind soldiers. The work for Canadian blinded men is being started on lines closely following those of St. Dunstan's, and he came to Canada to tell in detail what he has done, and for mutual discussion on the subject. And, for any one who spoke with him, or even saw him during his stay here, the connotations of the word "blind" have been swiftly and miraculously changed.

And this, since he is a sort of prototype of what men blinded in battle are to be, is a very cheering thing. We have heard, of course, of the work done at St. Dunstan's, but we have not seen the actual results. All men blinded in battle have not the personality and the force of Sir Arthur Pearson, but we know at least now that they can live their normal lives again, and do their work, and "go about alone," and that, even in a blind man, it is personality and force which count.

But even the wide significance of his example and his work is somewhat lost sight of in the consciousness of the sheer personality of this man who, being cut off, by one of the worst physical afflictions, in the middle of one remarkable career, became the pioneer in another. As soon as he lost his sight, as he will tell you, he "sacked his valet," believing that if a man is dependent in little things he will be dependent in big things. That was characteristic, and the fact that people often speak of what a good man he must have, to tie his bow ties as if he had done them himself, proves that his independence in the little things is just as great as in the big.

Sir Arthur himself — the man whom some one has described as "the greatest hustler I ever knew outside of America." He is a big man and radiates energy. He would come to greet you with his hand extended, and by some sense more subtle and immediate than eyesight he would know what kind of person you were; and he would listen to your voice and to your thought more than to your words. He would wave aside all idea of the visit being an intrusion, or of the fact that he might be tired after his trips.

"I don't believe in being tired," he would say, almost brusquely, and turn to the matter in hand, speaking briefly and very quickly, and without wasting a word or a second or a movement of the hand. Sir Arthur is a man of action and of instantaneous decisions, of absolute self-confidence, large will power, and an enduring mental energy. He dominates other people. It is possible to imagine him, a blind man, leading a regiment into battle, over the top, and into the enemy's trenches. He could find his way, and lead it. He could put confidence into every man behind him, and command him. He is the sort of person whom people fear, and admire, and look to in an emergency.

He knows the psychology of the blinded, in distinction to those born blind, and for that reason is peculiarly fitted to help the soldier and the sailor back to living. He is only asking them to do what he himself has done—to fit themselves for some new kind of work if their old kind has become impracticable for them. His own fitting for his new work came simply through his own experience of going from light to darkness. He knows what it is like. He knows what has to be learned over again, and how it may best be learned. For a while he travelled, and tried to be cured.

But for a real newspaper man who knows something new, or has just learned an old thing for the first time, the important thing is to tell it. There were things he wanted to tell other blind men, ways in which he believed the whole condition of the blind could be improved. So he became president of the National Institute for the Blind, and then, when the war came, was asked to be one of a Joint Honorary Collectorship for the National Relief Fund. He came across a blinded Belgian soldier one day, in hospital, and two Britishers, and it was just then that the present work came into existence.

Two blind men were the first patients at No. 6 Bayswater Hill, donated by Mrs. Lewis Hall, and then, with sixteen men, came St. Dunstan's, an immense place which had been given by Otto H. Kahn. Now there are 403 men there, 654 trained men have left, and 250 more, who will enter soon, are still in hospital. They are learning Braille reading and writing, typewriting and stenography, telephone operating, massage, poultry farming, joinery, basket making, and netting. Sir Arthur himself lives with the blind officers in their special hostel in Portland Place.

When he stopped his own work, he was controlling and directing three daily papers and several magazines. He never hesitated to take on more work, more responsibility. Nor does he now. There is enough work for the ordinary blind heaped up waiting for him at the National Institute for the Blind, his secretary says, to take a lifetime for completion. He works almost every minute of the waking day, often being read to even when he dresses, dictating and planning and seeing people, and personally supervising, all day long.

Pearson was known in the old days, along with his friend and rival, Lord Northcliffe, as an exponent of "the new journalism," and his chief efforts were made in advocating tariff reform. He was, in fact, vice-president of the Imperial Tariff Reform League. He began in the publishing house of Sir George Newnes, where he quickly became manager. After four years he left to start Pearson's Weekly, which he followed by Home Notes, Pearson's Magazine, Rapid Review, and others. In 1900 he started the Daily Express, a halfpenny London paper, and he also went through the country districts, buying up provincial newspapers in large numbers. He founded the North Mail and Evening Mail at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and the Gazette and Express and Evening Despatch in Birmingham. Late he bought the London Standard and consolidated it with the St. James' Gazette.

THE REGIMENT OF WOMEN.

Welcome Desired for English Girls Who Married Our Soldiers.

Canadian Government officials overseas are giving considerable attention to the many thousands of British women who will shortly be sailing for the Dominion with their Canadian husbands who are now serving in the army. As the great majority of these women are the brides of soldiers married in England since the outbreak of the war, and have never been in Canada, it is felt that a special effort should be made to acquaint them with the conditions they will meet when they reach their new home. Through its immigration and colonization branch in London and in conjunction with the Khaki University, the Government has assisted in organizing a department of home economics which will be of great advantage to those availing themselves of the opportunity it offers.

Courses have been arranged in Canadian citizenships, cooking, poultry raising, gardening, first aid, home nursing, infant care and a number of other useful subjects. These will be open to any woman intending to go to Canada, without cost, the full course consisting of 12 lessons. Sir Edward Kemp, Minister of Overseas Military Forces, makes a special appeal on behalf of the wives of Canadian soldiers about to see Canada for the first time, urging for them, a considerate and sympathetic welcome.

"Our women-power," he said, "mobilized and well organized, has played a part in keeping with the proudest traditions of Canada. As one additional war effort, I make an appeal to our patriotic women at home to form in each town and city and port of disembarkation, a reception committee to receive and to extend to the wives and children of Canadian soldiers now proceeding to Canada a welcome that will leave no uncertainty in the minds of these English women of the position it expects them to take in our Canadian life in the future. Many hundreds of these dependents are now proceeding to Canada weekly, and part and parcel as they are of the future career of their husbands in Canada, it would, I consider, be unfortunate if their welcome proved less sincere and interested than that accorded our men now, returning home from the war."

Water Power In Canada.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the Dominion Water Power branch of the Department of the Interior, assisted by various provincial departments, have just completed a census and directory of central power stations in Canada, which are engaged in the production of electrical power for sale. The capital invested in power stations totals $356,004,168, of which 79.5 per cent. is invested in commercial stations and 20.5 per cent. in municipal or public-owned stations. Total employes number 8,840, receiving wages and salaries totaling $7,777,715 per annum.

The total revenue received from the sale of electrical energy in $44,536,848 of which $29,135,399 was received by commercial and $15,401,449 by municipal plants. The primary power installation in central stations totals 1,844,571 horsepower, of which 78.3 per cent., or 1,444,314 horsepower is installed in commercial stations and 21.7 per cent. or 400,257 horsepower, in municipal stations. Of the total primary horsepower installed, 1,652,661 horsepower is derived from water, 180,800 from steam and 11,710 from gas and oil.

These statistics show, with an aggregate turbine installation of 745,797 horsepower and a total construction cost of $50,740,458, an average cost of $69.11 per installed turbine horsepower. One of the outstanding features of the statistics is the position water power occupies. Out of a total installed primary capacity of 1,844,571 horsepower, a total of 1,652,661 horsepower, or 89.6 per cent., is derived from water.

He Did Get Ill.

There is an elevator boy in a Toronto office building who is among a large number of public servants that resent needless questions. One day there entered his car a rather fussy old lady, and garrulous as well. "Don't you ever feel sick going up and down in this elevator all day?" she asked. "Yes, ma'am," said the boy. "Is it the motion going down?" "No, ma'am." The motion going up?" "No, ma'am." "Is it the stopping that does it?" "No, ma'am." "Then what is it?" "Answering questions, ma'am."

St. Lawrence Is Grave Concern To Americans

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 7.—The United States seems to be in much greater anxiety to have the St. Lawrence rendered navigable for large vessels than is the Dominion Government. Spurred on by the necessities of the war for navigation for large vessels connecting the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean, the United States Congress in the closing days of the last session passed a bill in which the International Joint Commission was directed to investigate the report upon the navigation needs of the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario, the amount of work required to make the same navigable for ocean-going vessels and the cost of the same.

This would have been productive if the International Joint Commission were an organization taking orders from the United States Congress, and if the St. Lawrence had been a United States stream, instead of an international boundary. But the International Joint Commission may act only upon the joint request of the two Governments and neither the American Congress nor the Dominion Parliament can give orders to it. Neither can either Government alone undertake the improvement of navigation on a boundary stream without the approval and consent of the other. The result is that the Act of Congress calling upon the Commission to act is utterly without value, and can have no effect at all upon the improvement of the river.

GERMAN PLOTTER ATE CASTILE SOAP

NEWARK, N.J., April 8.—At a time when his fellow countrymen would have exchanged a field piece for a cake of castile, Captain Franz von Rintelen, convicted German plotter with an aversion for the Atlanta penitentiary was blowing soap bubbles in the Newark jail, in an effort to convince examining physicians he was suffering from tuberculosis.

This became known recently, when officials of the jail asserted the ex-German naval officer and "borrowed" all the soap possessed by his fellow-prisoners and, after having eaten it by the pound, had emitted from his lips a foam which for a time puzzled the doctors.

But the unpalatable meal was eaten in vain for, still spouting bubbles, von Rintelen was shipped south.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

MRS. S. A. MOORE

The funeral of the late Mrs. S. A. Moore took place this morning from the residence of Mr. J. G. Clark, 180 Moira Street, west, and was attended by a number of relatives and friends. Rev. S. C. Moore of the Tabernacle Church officiated. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. A number of beautiful floral tributes were placed on the casket. The bearers were Messrs D. Caldwell, T. Wills, J. T. Orr, S. A. Barclay, H. Rowe and J. N. Miller.

PAULINE JOHNSON'S GRAVE

Recently it was stated in a despatch from Vancouver that Pauline Johnson grave in Stanley Park, Vancouver, was sadly neglected, being not even marked. The Indian Department made investigation and word has now been officially received from Mrs. George L. Gilpin, Secretary of the Pauline Johnson Chapter, I.O.D.E., of Vancouver, that such is not the case. The chapter itself has placed a temporary tablet in memory, while the Pauline Johnson fund has been commenced to afford a permanent memorial though Pauline herself had asked that she be buried among the trees and flowers she loved so well, without other monument than the ferns and grasses. However, from the fund sufficient money had been obtained, and Signor Mega had been authorized to prepare a memorial. This shows an Indian maiden sitting on a rack beside the water in which floats her canoe, being based on Pauline's love song, "The Song My Paddle Sings." The monument will be erected as soon as sufficient funds are available, and the Six Nations songstress will not lie unhonored."

GREAT BANKER IS NOW BOOKKEEPER

BUDAPEST, April 8—Simon Strauss former director-general of the Great Magyar bank and one of the best known financiers of Hungary, has offered his services to the new Government and has been accepted as bookkeeper. He is now working in a bank under the supervision of a communist.

Wood's Phosphodine. [illegible] Tones and invigorates the [illegible] in old Veins. Cures Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain Worry, Despondency, Loss of Energy, Palpitation of the Heart, Failing Memory. [illegible] for $5. [illegible] Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain pkg. on receipt of price. New pamphlet mailed free. [illegible] MEDICINE CO., TORONTO, ONT. [illegible]

Strauss began his banking career in a humble way and worked his way upward to the position of director general by unremitting zeal. He was, perhaps, the most popular man in Hungary, being always interested in charity and doing much for the poor. He was the founder of a system of villas for workers which he was expanding when the present regime was established. Though his personal tastes were simple, he had great power with the press, which he always exercised in favor of Germany.

WHERE LIFE IS CHEAP.

Trotsky, Bolshevik Minister of War and Marine in Russia, is the greatest strategist ever. He despatches armies of desperate hoboes without commissariat, but with permission to eat up the whole country as they pass through—the idea being, apparently, that the army would starve to death coming back and so eliminate another official worry. Bolshevik government is based upon the process of elimination. Everybody is eliminated by murder who may be a possible menace to the government, now or in the future, and the process of elimination if carried to its logical conclusion will find Trotsky and Lenine fighting a duel to see who is to remain alive to "carry on" as sexton of the great Russian graveyard.

Now Trotsky seeks to eliminate the Russian Baltic fleet, which is ordered to put to sea and give battle to the warships of the Allies. If the crews do not wish to be blown to bits or Davey Jones' Locker by the guns of the Allies they can stay at home and be planted near their own firesides—Trotsky threatening all with death that disobey the order to take the warships out.

THE RETURNED MEN.

"Our God and sailor we adore
In times of danger—not before!
The danger past, both are alike requited:
God is forgotten, and the sailor slighted."

These lines of protest against the careless ingratitude of nations towards their defenders are said to have been quoted by Lord Nelson and by another eminent Admiral before him. Canadians must make sure that no such charge can fairly be laid against them in the coming years. Those of us who remained comfortably at home while the army and navy defended us abroad cannot decently rest until every soldier and every sailor is placed in a better position than that which he occupied before the war began. The Government and various organizations are earnestly trying to do their duty by the returned men. The obligation also rests upon every home-keeping civilian to do his part in making life desirable for those who have come back and are coming back.—Toronto Times.

THE PROHIBITION TIDAL WAVE.

"Bone-dry" legislation in the United States has been so sudden and complete that hotel-keepers in Uncle Sam's domain are still gasping for breath and wondering how it all happened. At the annual dinner in the Biltmore Hotel, New York, of the National Hotel Association, the president, Thomas D. Green, ruefully referred to the situation as follows:

> "Well, we certainly have had a lot of things happen to us during the past year, haven't we? I'm really trying to figure out what else could have happened without 'pushing us off' entirely. The fellow who said it all happens for the best evidently wasn't a hotelkeeper, and we poor, optimistic 'nuts' had confidence to the last. We believed that there were a lot of hypocritical bigots, but we didn't think there were quite so many.
> "You know this last jolt came so suddenly it reminded me of the old darky who was sitting out on the curb in front of a bank which had just suspended payment, and in which he had put his little savings. One of the depositors, a white man, who had shared a like fate, was trying to console him, saying, 'Don't grieve so, Uncle Henry, banks burst every day.' 'I know dat, boss,' he said, 'but dis one bust right in my face.'
> "And such has been our experience."

DAYLIGHT SAVING ON THE FARM.

We think an appeal should be made to the farmer to consider daylight saving without prejudice and without any feeling that it is chiefly a proposal to benefit the city, says the Chicago Tribune. We know that not a few farmers, after giving the experiment a trial last year, now believe daylight saving has distinct advantage.

A correspondent of the Tribune, writing from Genoa, Illinois, says instead of daylight saving we ought to have a law compelling people to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning. "It is a shame," the writer says, "that it should be necessary to pass a national law to give these city cousins an extra hour of sunlight at the end of the day just because they are too lazy to take a little healthful exercise before breakfast."

If daylight saving were only a selfish indulgence of city people—an indulgence obtained at the expense of the farmer—then it would be easier to understand the basis of objection. But The Tribune is informed by an official of a leading farmers' organization that the objection appears to arise principally from a "state of mind." He has talked with farmers who are glad to have the extra hour of daylight in which to ride in their automobiles. The principal question seems to be one of adjustment to changed conditions. We realize that the summer is the period in which the farmer does most of his work; we realize that the country is dependent upon him for its food supply. But we think that if he is willing to make the readjustment involved in setting the clocks forward he will find it more of an advantage than otherwise.

NO DIARY FOR HIM

One Experience Enough for Mr. Wilbur.

In Common With Most People, That "Bug" Had Bitten Him Once, and With Emphasis He Declares "Never Again."

As the 7:15 neared the station Billers reached into his pocket and drew forth a little leather-covered book. He shook down his fountain pen and wrote:

"Day sunny. Had apple pie and cheese for breakfast. Feeling fine. Baby fell and skinned his lil' nose. Wife wants a new dress like sample in vest pocket. Rent due next week. Not feeling as well as I did."

"I see," said Billers' friend Wilbur, glancing over his shoulder, "that you keep a diary."

"Don't you keep a diary?" asked Billers, placing his daily record back in its resting place.

"If I keep a diary I lose it," replied Wilbur paradoxically, "and to keep a diary that you'd eventually lose is bad business.

"I used to keep a diary. At one time it was my pet hobby. I'd buy the fanciest gilt-edged little book I could find, make a few entries and lose it immediately. It was very annoying.

"I used to make my entries too intimate. You know how it is. All diarists do the same thing. While a diary is in close communion with one's soul for a time, the day comes when it faces the world.

"Imagine the foolishness of a man who writes the following in a diary that he knows he'll eventually lose:

"'Called on Mary Jane last night. That she will accept me for better or worse I have no doubt. Carrie will rave when she hears of my engagement to Mary Jane!' I wrote it.

"Another entry read: 'What a day! I haven't a cent to my credit at the bank. And yet the world looks upon me as an example of prosperity. I hope I can keep up the bluff until the tailor has my wedding outfit delivered. I should worry when Mary Jane's dad has a cool million. Oh, boy!'

The last notation I made was on a Friday, the 13th, and, while not of a superstitious nature, a strange feeling permeated my soul as I penned the following:

"'For a wedding present I believe Mary Jane's pa will give her at least $100,000 in cash or collateral. While the old man could easily afford more to begin with, I feel that more will come later. I think he likes me. Why shouldn't he?'

"I dropped the diary on Mary Jane's sun porch as I went away that night, and when I discovered my loss you can imagine my feelings."

"Awful to contemplate!" exclaimed Billers. "Mary Jane found it and all was off, I'll venture."

"No," said Wilbur. "Mary Jane's little brother found it, and being a businesslike little chap held it up for a $10 ransom."

Good Yield on Sod Land.

An instructive and practically useful account of how a third of an acre of pasture land two miles from the center of Leeds, Yorkshire, England, was made to provide food sufficient fully to maintain three men for a year is published by the board of agriculture from the pen of A. G. Ruston of the University of Leeds.

The land had been under grass for at least 50 years, when last year it was divided into plots and planted with potatoes by Mr. Bedford, former lord mayor of the city, and some of his friends. The crop aggregated three tons sixteen hundredweight, which is at the rate of 11.4 per acre, as compared with 6.7 tons per acre, which was the average for the farm crops of Great Britain last year.

A Massif.

The war continues to enrich our vocabulary. News from France that the allies have captured the entire "massif" of Lassigny will cause another searching of dictionaries, by which it will be revealed that a massif is a mountainous group of connecting heights, sometimes isolated and sometimes forming part of a larger mountain system, more or less clearly marked off by valleys. The word is French in origin, but has been adopted without change by English and American geologists and physical geographers.—Oregonian.

Engineering Pays.

Basing conclusions upon the income-tax returns, the best-paying profession in the United States is that of engineering. It excels even that of law, which long held the record, and is far ahead of those of theology and medicine. The reason for this is not difficult to find. This is a constructive age, even though the war would seem to contradict such an assertion. After the war, when reconstruction generally sets in, the engineers bid fair to become a class of plutocrats.—Christian Science Monitor.

Fast Construction.

A record for hospital building that is likely to last for a long time was made recently on work for the war department at Staten Island, N. Y. The building, a one-story frame structure with every modern convenience, was put up in just 10 hours and 28 minutes from the time work started, at seven o'clock in the morning. The hospital is 150 feet long and 24 feet wide, with a 10½-foot porch the entire length of the building on one side.

WITH CHINAMAN CONCEALED ATTEMPTS TO CROSS BORDER

WINDSOR, April 8—With a Chinaman concealed in the tonneau of his automobile and several quarts of liquor packed carefully away under a seat, Cecil Smith, a taxicab driver, of this city, walked straight into the arms of waiting U. S. immigration officials at the ferry dock.

For some time officials on both sides of the river have kept a close watch on Smith, and when they learned he intended to bring over a load Friday night he was permitted to drive his car on to the ferry boat, where it was searched. The contraband was soon brought to light, and Smith was locked up, and was also the Celestial. The auto was ordered held by Detroit immigration officials.

A New, Harmless Way To Banish Hairy Growths

(Beauty Topics)

By following this suggestion any woman can, in the privacy of her own home, remove every trace of hair or fuzz from her face: With powdered delatone and water mix enough paste to cover the not wanted hairs; apply and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off and wash the skin. This method is unfailing, harmless and quick results, but care should be employed to get the genuine delatone.

HERE'S a welcome to the returned soldier and his bride. May their wedded life be a long and happy one.

If she is a "British Bride" she will be very fond of tea—and good tea, at that.

She will first be attracted to Red Rose Tea by the name which will remind her of the "Red Rose" of "Old England".

And when she tries it she will again be reminded of the "Homeland", for she will find Red Rose Tea the same kind of Tea that she has used at home—a rich, full-flavored blend, consisting chiefly of ASSAM teas grown in British-owned plantations in northern India.

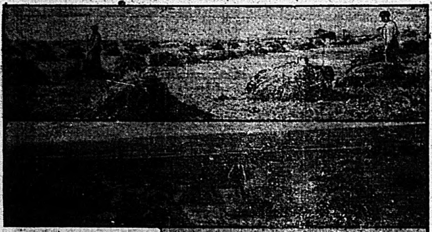
Irrigation as a source of wealth



FEW agricultural districts have grown to prosperity more quickly and founded it more substantially than the country tributary to Lethbridge in Southern Alberta. Driving through this territory towards the end of last summer, a prominent official of the Dominion Government at Ottawa, who had been making an extensive tour of Western Canada, remarked that here were the most prosperous agricultural communities he had seen during the whole of his trip. Now this remark is relative. All over Western Canada there are very prosperous districts, where modern homes, spacious barns, well filled granaries, good sized herds of live-stock and many other signs reflect the welfare of their owners. reason may be given in one word—irrigation.

Driving into one of these districts from the east, one cannot help but be immediately impressed. The more compact settlement, the deep green fields of settlement, the deep green fields of alfalfa, in which hogs, sheep or cattle are pasturing, the substantial farm buildings, mostly surrounded by trees, the well fenced farms, all these are evidence of a prosperity which is being built up on sound lines. A measure of the fast development of the whole of the territory east of Lethbridge is the village of Coaldale, for this village has grown with the district. But a very short time ago a railway siding only, Coaldale is now an active business centre, with a lumber yard, hardware business, general stores, hay market, elevator facilities, bank and other businesses. The community is also served by one of the best and most up-to-date consolidated schools in the West.

Probably no other community in Canada has received more settlers who have purchased lands at the high average price which has been paid by those who have settled among the Coaldale community during the last two years. Many of these settlers have come from the irrigated districts of the States, particularly from Washington, Idaho and California. An illustration will serve to show the value placed by them on the land in this territory. A settler who purchased a farm four miles west of Coaldale at $102 an acre, recently bought the quarter section adjoining him for $100 an acre. This was without any improvements except a timothy meadow. But the property could not be bought from its purchaser now for less than $150 an acre, and he has been heard to remark he would not care to sell at that price.

The number of tenant farmers throughout the Lethbridge district who are purchasing irrigated land at similar prices is a good illustration of its productive value. Men who have farmed land here for a year or two on a rental basis are purchasing it now at ninety and a hundred dollars an acre. Instances of such purchases during the last year or two are becoming numerous and the inference is that the buyers have made sufficient money out of their crops to be able to purchase the land on which they were grown. This is probably one of the most striking facts in connection with the development of the district, for the men who have bought these lands knew what they were capable of producing.

As for renting, the demand for and by tenants is unprecedented, notwithstanding the fact that rents have doubled in many cases during the last three years. Whereas at that time irrigated land was being rented at $5 and $6 an acre, as much as $10 and $12 an acre was paid in 1918; while owners who rented their land on the crop plan received much more than this in many instances.

The district has been favored by the arrival and settlement there of a large number of settlers of high average intelligence. Most of them have had experience with irrigation elsewhere and are able to make comparisons with other districts. The concensus of opinion of these men is that the facilities for irrigation in Southern Alberta equal or are superior to those to which they have been accustomed. A farmer who came from one of the irrigated districts in Idaho early this season was at first somewhat discouraged with conditions in Alberta. But business matters requiring his return to Idaho later in the season he had an opportunity to compare conditions and crops in his old community with those in the Lethbridge district, and he came back highly elated. "Conditions in Alberta are ever so much better," he said.

These facts about the Lethbridge district are interesting because they reflect the enormous possibilities of the other irrigable areas of Southern Alberta. From like conditions like results may be expected. And what is being accomplished at Lethbridge can be accomplished in other parts of Southern Alberta where similar conditions prevail. It is only during the last few years that people have begun to appreciate at their proper value the irrigable lands near Lethbridge, but since they have begun to realize their worth development of the country has gone on apace. The effect of this development has been an awakening of interest in other irrigable areas in the the province and a more rapid settlement of them. As these areas are considerably larger than the Lethbridge district the effect of their development on the prosperity of the province is incalculable.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XVIII

His love for Dorothy Gilbert had long ago passed into a memory. He was married now, and had a wife and children whom he dearly loved. But as Faith went on and made her errand to him clear, he thought back in silent wonder at that time when Malcom Kirk had crossed the ocean with him and he had thoughtlessly made the sketch which meant so much now to more than one person.

"And I've come here now," continued Faith, as she concluded the story of her experiences, "to see if you would give me a letter of introduction or recommendation to some place where I could do the work that I feel that I ought to be doing. I'm very proud. I don't mean that I am in any way ashamed of the housework," Faith's cheeks glowed with sudden color, "but am sure I can do something different, something that the world needs more. Sometimes when I look at a picture like that, I feel as if I could, in time, paint something almost as good."

Francis Raleigh bowed and a pleased smile came over his face. Not all the praise from the art critics of his picture had gratified him so much.

"If I could get a permanent position somewhere, I know I could work up into a place of usefulness. I can do retouching, and I like to do it. And in time I might have a studio of my own. There are several successful women photographers here.'

"That's true and I know one or two of them," said Raleigh, thoughtfully. He never knew how much it had cost Faith to ask him what she did. She had no foolish pride that some girls have, and Malcom Kirk had always taught his own children, as well as others, that sometimes the most manly or womanly thing one can do was to receive help to help oneself, but Faith would never have come to Raleigh for such assistance if she had not somehow felt certain that she must have some friendly aid in the great city, before she could do what she felt she must do in order to help the dear ones at home as well as herself.

There was silence in the studio for a moment. Then Raleigh said, while the smile on his handsome face lighted up like sunshine:

"How would you like to work in Miss Varney's studio at Kenwood?"

"It would be a beautiful place!" cried Faith with enthusiasm. She knew the famous studio which the richest people in the city patronized, and she had been out to it once or twice to solicit orders, but each time had failed to get anything. It was an ideal place, and she could not help wondering if Raleigh knew anything of her experience there.

"Miss Varney is a niece of my wife," said Raleigh, smiling at Faith again. "Suppose, instead of writing you a letter of introduction, I go out there with you and introduce you in person?"

"That would be beautiful," cried Faith. Then she grew suddenly shy again, and gazed at the artist half fearfully, as if she felt she might have trespassed somewhat on her knowledge of his old-time affection for her mother.

Raleigh seemed to read her thought. "My dear girl," he said, with a smile that set Faith's mind forever at rest. "Perhaps you know that once I thought very much of your mother, but she gave her heart to a better man, for which I have never reproached her. How the years have gone since then!"

He was silent suddenly and his face grew thoughtful. "Let us see. We shall have time to get out there this afternoon. I am at your service. Good-bye to the kitchen and welcome the vocation you are fitted for. At the same time, I envy the people you are working for, if you are anything like the cook your mother used to be." He laughed so delightfully that Faith joined him, and neither of them heard a step in the other room and did not know anyone had come in, until Malcom Stanley stood at the entrance gazing at them.

Raleigh had risen and had laid his palette and brushes down. At the sight of Stanley he exclaimed, "Come in, young giant and let me introduce someone you ought to know!"

Malcom came slowly forward, looking at Faith, who had risen. Each of them was evidently excited at what was now evident to them both.

"Miss Kirk," said Raleigh with an emotion he did not try to conceal, "this is Mr. Stanley, Malcom Stanley, whose likeness I have so faithfully reproduced on the canvas there."

Malcom and Faith faced eath other in silence, and then Faith put out her hand.

"Will you shake hands with a hired girl, Mr. Stanley, for father's sake?" she said, half shyly, half in the manner she had inherited from Malcom Kirk.

"Will I?" cried Malcom Stanley. The way he shook Faith's hand assured everybody that he had no hesitation on the score of Faith's position. They had all three been suddenly smitten with unusual solemnity, and Malcom's energetic handsake made Raleigh laugh. Faith followed and Malcolm joined in, and the excitement of the sudden meeting passed into question and answer.

"It's a long ways from the deck of that steamer to this studio," said Malcom Stanley. "But truth is stranger than fiction, at least any fiction I ever read." And then he went on to give Faith some account of his life since the time when Malcom Kirk had left him with his aunt in London.

The aunt had died when he was two years old, and he had been adopted into the family of a distant relative, taking the name of Malcom at his aunt's request, in loving memory of his queer nurse. The money that Kirk had raised on board the steamer had been fortunately invested. On coming of age this fund enabled the young man to fit himself for an engineer. He had risen steadily, and had at last been promoted to a place of great responsibility. The company for which he worked had interests in the United States and Malcom had come over to superintend the opening of some mines in Colorado and New Mexico. His business interests had made him acquainted with Mr. Fulton and it was through him that he had made the acquaintance of Mr. Raleigh and finally purchased the picture with the intention of giving it to Malcom Kirk. The artist had insisted on practically giving a large share of the value of the picture to Stanley and the latter had planned a surprise for Kirk on his way west.

All this, and more, did Faith hear, wonderingly. The short winter day was going by and Raleigh suddenly interrupted the conversation.

"We shall have to give up our trip to Kenwood to-day, Faith."

"And I must be getting back to my work!" cried Faith, rising. She was like one who has been in a dream of the day. It all seemed so strange the studio, the artist, the picture, the big, hearty, honest young Englishman. She found it hard to realize that she was actually in the heart of the great, rushing, prosaic, selfish city. All this was so like a story, like one read about, but so seldom knows in real life.

"If your father were only here now," said Raleigh, whose romantic temperament was moved deeply by the events of the day, "this room would contain all the elements of a genuine story."

As they spoke, they all three turned instinctively towards the entrance of the other door. There stood Malcom Kirk, his tall, heavy figure filling up the opening and his homely loving face showing unusual emotion.

"Father!" cried Faith, and the next minute she was in his arms, sobbing and exclaiming.

Then she stepped back, a little ashamed of her sudden outburst as she remembered the presence of the two men behind her, but she kept hold of Malcom's hand and drew him into the studio.

"How did you come here, father? We had no idea—"

"It's not a long story, my dear," said Malcom.

"Mr. Raleigh, how do you do? It's long time since I saw you on the deck of that steamer." Malcom pointed to the picture, and still his great brown eyes rested on Malcom Stanley, who was standing there pale and excited.

Raleigh took Kirk's hand and shook it heartily. He then turned quickly to Stanley:

"You ought to know this gentleman, Mr. Kirk. You met him before I did."

Kirk stepped toward Stanley. Both men were deeply moved.

"You were with my mother when she died, Mr. Kirk," said Stanley in a voice that trembled a little.

"If we were Russians we would embrace each other now," cried Malcom Kirk, "but as you are an Englishman and I am an American, I suppose a handshake is the nearest we can get to it."

As he said it he grasped Stanley big palm which went out to meet his, and Raleigh said afterwards he was sure he heard the bones snap, but neither man winced.

"The heart goes with it," said Malcolm Stanley, admiring Kirk out of his honest face with a loving look.

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable—never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

Brantford Asphalt Slates make an artistic, durable and economical roof. Booklet describing them mailed on request.

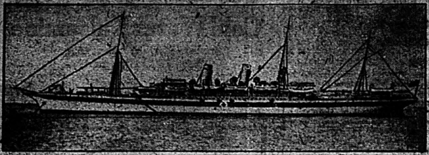
The Hospital Ship "Loyalty"

HER INTERESTING CAREER RECALLED



1916, ex-R.M.S. "Empress of India." Hospital ship "Loyalty," Bombay.

QUITE recently the hospital ship "Loyalty" has been converted in Bombay into a troopship, and the occasion appears to justify publication of some account of her career as a hospital ship, a career which was not only one of great service, but which reflects in a very remarkable way the great generosity of his Highness, the Maharajah of Gwalior.

In August, 1914, his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior visited Bhopal and arranged with the Begum Sahiba to present the Government with a hospital ship, to be called "Loyalty," to which the Chiefs of India were to be asked to subscribe. The offer was gratefully accepted, but there was considerable delay in procuring a suitable ship. Eventually the ship chosen was the "Empress of India," built by the Naval Construction & Armaments Company, of Barrow-in-Furness, in 1891, for the Canadian Pacific Railway's Pacific Ocean trades. Together with her sister ships "Empress of China" and "Empress of Japan," she was specially designed, built on very handsome lines, and fitted most luxuriously with everything considered necessary for the comfort of passengers of all classes. The matter of engine power and speed was kept specially in view, so that the ships in their time were the fastest in the Pacific trade, and earned a great name for the quick transmission of passengers, mails and fine goods, such as silk and tea, between Hong Kong, Japan and Vancouver, and thence to various points by the Canadian Pacific Railway across the North American Continent. It will thus be seen that the "Loyalty," prior to becoming a hospital ship, took a great part as "Empress of India," in the opening up and developing of commerce in one of the outlying parts of the Empire. Incidentally she has the honor of carrying King George as a passenger when he was Prince of Wales.

It would almost seem to be in the natural order of events that the good ship "Empress of India," after carrying on such useful commercial work for 23 years, and being relieved on the Pacific station by a larger and more modern style of ship (the new "Empress of Asia") should come on the scene at the outbreak of the present war, just when his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior decided to repeat his loyal and munificent act of 1900, by presenting a hospital ship of 300 beds capacity for use during the war. Most appropriately the ship was acquired from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The Director of the Royal India Marine and his officers acted for his Highness in the matter of buying, altering and refitting, the "Empress of India," of London, and changing her name to the "Loyalty" of Bombay. This was done in October, 1914, and within four months from the time war was declared the hospital ship "Loyalty" was ready to begin her good work and assist in the relief of suffering humanity.

Record of Four Years.

The "Loyalty" sailed from the Persian Gulf on November 29th, 1914, having been renamed by Lady Willingdon on the previous day, and from that time up to nearly the end of last year she was in commission. On her first voyage she was deflected to Karachi, where she stayed till December 24th, when she left for England. During this time the ship was bought outright for the Chiefs, and subsequently remained their property.

In the four years she was in commission as a hospital ship she sailed 41 voyages and carried 15,406 patients British, Indians, Chinese, West Indian, East and West African, and German, Turkish and Arab prisoners of war.

The hospital was staffed with three or four I. M. S. officers and one military assistant-surgeon, and one matron and four to six nursing sisters and sub-assistant-surgeons, compounders, ward orderlies, etc. A few lent by the Government of India, the rest being recruited from Gwalior, Indore, Dhar and Bharatpur States, and the balance locally in Bombay. The cost of buying and fitting out the ship was approximately $600,000, and her upkeep for four years was $1,900,000, the total being nearly two and a half million dollars, of which by far the greater part was paid by H. H. the Maharajah of Gwalior, though contributions were made from other States.

Incidents at Sea.

Unique as part of the ship's life-saving work was the rescue of the crew of the steamship "Ben Vorlich," after that ship had been shelled and torpedoed by a German submarine near Ushant, on August 1st, 1915. This incident and the sinking of the steamship "Clintonia" were witnessed by the "Loyalty" from a distance of about 1½ miles, when she was full of badly wounded men (British cases from the Dardanelles) on her way down Alexandria and Malta to Southampton.

When plying in Indian waters, the "Loyalty" had the good fortune to render assistance to a transport which took fire and was abandoned at sea, the "Edavana." Hearing the distressed vessel's messages on the wireless, the "Loyalty" proceeded with all speed to the place indicated and picked up 70 of the burning ship's people in three boats during the night, afterwards transferring them to the steamship "Madras," which was bound for Bombay. Had the "Loyalty" not been an hospital ship she would have towed the "Edavana" into Bombay, but, of course, could not do this without infringing the Geneva Red Cross Convention.

She also rendered assistance to several India and native craft met at sea during her voyage, short of water and provisions, and to a lighthouse crew in the Red Sea.

"I Am So Short of Breath"

"IT MUST be your heart, Grand Dad."

"Yes, I suppose it is. I am getting old, you know."

"Oh, you are not so old. You have got run down after the cold you had and will be all right when you get your blood built up again."

"Well, I hope so, dear."

"You remember how weak my heart was, Grand Dad, when I used to be pale and anaemic. It was no joke for me to climb these stairs then."

"You are all right now, aren't you?"

"I never felt better in my life, Grand Dad, and if you will use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a while you will get strong and well, too. That is what cured me."

"But do you think that the Nerve Food is any good for old men like me?"

"I am sure it is. I often read letters in the newspapers from old people telling about what a great benefit it has been to them by enriching the blood and increasing their vitality."

As an example of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does for people of advanced years, here is a letter from Mr. James Richards, 73 Dundas St., Belleville, Ont., who is 89 years of age. He writes:

"I was suffering from a weakness of the heart, shortness of breath and frequent dizzy spells which used to force me to go and lie down for a time. I secured Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and received such splendid results that I continued its use until I am now feeling fine and am not troubled with these symptoms any more."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

WORK DONE IN WHITBY

TO BE SHOWN IN ROME

COBOURG, April 8—Specimens of work done by the vocational classes at the Ontario Military Hospital here were shipped this week for exhibition at the third International Annual Conference, to be held in May next at Rome, Italy. There were specimens of woodcarving, woodturning, portable lamp with reed basketry, cement pottery and models, water color and pencil drawings and pastel work, in the collection.

This work has been carried on for some time here under the direction of Mr. Harry Turner, the district vocational officer, and by means of it quite a number of men have been given a trade that will fit them to earn a living when returned to civil life. It is of value especially in this hospital, as the work fills a large part in the mind and thought of the patients, takes them out of themselves, and gives them a fresh interest in life. It is one of the aids in the big problem of reconstruction, and an important one.

MASKED GOLD

By JOHN HARVEY CURTIS

Lucky Levi Brill returned from the Alaska gold fields with a fortune, and it was represented not by drafts or bank notes, but by the real thing—gold. They called him "lucky" because he was one of the first in the Nome pioneer rush to make "a ten strike."

He was old, unhandsome, but innocent of guile as a schoolboy. "I've gone through a heap to get in two years what most men spend a lifetime over," he announced. "Now I'm going to enjoy it rationally. First to build a home, then to find a wife, and a little love, a little farming and lots of comfort, and I'm fixed for life."

But Brill, good natured and kindly as he was, could not prevail on any maid or widow of the town to link her destiny with an uncouth man long past middle age. Then he went abroad into new fields to prospect for the helpmeet he felt to be essential to his plan of life.

"Rank, wild crazy over her, and no wonder!" commented a visitor to the city who had seen Miss Helena Drury, whom the daily prints announced was soon to become the "bride of the millionaire miner, Levi Brill." The newspaper, too, told of the princely antenuptial gifts Brill had given his fiancee, of the mansion he had started to build in his native town. Her beauty was manifest to all, for the pride and pleasure of Brill was to show his friends a superb photograph of a bewilderingly beautiful woman, and finally it was reproduced in the local paper.

One morning early Levi Brill alighted from the city train, his face colorless, his eyes faded and dim, his gait unsteady. He had grown 20 years older in a single day. He spoke to no one, but repaired to the half-finished mansion that was never to be completed. He shut himself out from all human companionship, and soon the solution of the mystery was public property. Almost upon her wedding eve the perfidious Helena Drury had eloped with the man she really loved. Thenceforth Levi Brill hated all womankind. He checked the completion of the mansion, making habitable only a few rooms in one wing. He barely spoke to men acquaintances, never to a woman, and when some girl, bright and lively, neared him he would cross the street to avoid her.

When he came back to the house of desolation Brill went to a room where were stored the mementoes of his first, last and only love venture. He had told nobody, but he had prepared a great surprise to bedeck the boudoir when Helena became his wife. Brill had gone to a famous plastic artist in the city and had arranged to have nearly all the gold in its natural state he possessed made into a life-size bust of the woman he loved. It was a marvelously natural presentment of the false but beautiful creature who had deceived him.

Brill removed the bust from the pedestal upon which, covered with tinselled silk, it rested, and bore it to the room which thereafter he allowed no one to enter save himself. He got a pail of black paint and covered the bust with its mourning blackness, a grewsome memento of the one fatal romance of his life.

Two years went on and Brill had dissipated most of his fortune. He became a preternaturally old-looking man. He had frequent spells of illness, but would allow no one but men hired from the village to nurse him. Then one day fate cast in his way a girl of about twenty who was destined to care for him for years to come.

She was Wanda Rolfe, a poor, but refined village girl, the daughter of a music teacher who had just died. Brill had set traps and spring guns about the place to scare away tramps. Wanda had crossed the garden to receive on one side of her face a powder discharge that marred her beauty. It was beauty that Levi Brill now abhorred. To make up to the girl for her affliction, he offered her a home for life and she accepted. He was always morose and sullen, but he cared for her respectably and practically adopted her.

Half a mile away from the place lived a widow, a Mrs. Graves. Her son, a young man of twenty-five, had been blind from his birth, but had become an apt musician, and his patient, pleasing face and manners had made him a favorite with all the village. More than with all others, his gentle, lovable nature had made an impression on Wanda. Together they wandered through the wildwood until affection blossomed forth strong and lasting.

Little by little the means of Levi Brill dwindled. The house was placed under foreclosure. Wanda economized and became a veritable treasure to Brill. One day he was taken ill, the next day he died. "For you, Wanda," he gasped with dying breath, "all that is in my little room, all that is left!"

Wanda gave up the house. It was when they were removing the odd mass of hoarded possessions of the past that two of the movers marveled at the weight of a blackened and dust-covered bust.

"It must be lead!" puffed and panted one of them, and as such it was conveyed to Wanda's home, its sterling worth fated to be discovered shortly, the legacy of the old miner to a faithful helper who now became the happy wife of Arnold Graves.

DRAGGED HER ACROSS

RED HOT STOVE

WINDSOR, April 8—Charging that her husband, Alcide L. Letourineau, farmer, of Ruscomb, dragged her across the top of a red-hot stove, in addition to humiliating her by spitting in her face, Mrs. Rose Letourneau, twenty-six years olds, has committed suit for alimony. The writ was issued Saturday by Barrister Frank Wilson of Windsor. The case will be placed on the docket of the non-jury sittings of the Ontario Supreme Court at Sandwich in May.

MARKHAM, April 8—With the high school running on summer time, the public school on standard time, and some stores keeping to one and some to the other time, people in Markham scarcely know what time they are at. The Bell Telephone Exchange, which is running on the old time, is located in a drug store that is running on the old time. Monday morning the high school opened on the old time and closed on the new time.

SPOT CASH SYSTEM

QUEBEC, April 8.—The Quebec Retailers' Association, have decided to adopt a spot cash system of sales to do away with the credit system. The grocers who sell necessities of life and who are the heaviest losers through the credit system will also adopt the same stand. The spot cash system is to be put in force in Quebec city on May 1.

It is expected that the Grand Trunk will shortly commence the laying of new steel on sections of the fifth district in the vicinity of Morrisburg, Bainsville and River Beaudette. Both tracks will be relaid.

THEIR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Eyre, Brockville, have been receiving the congratulations of their friends on the 53rd anniversary of their wedding.

LIGHTHOUSES OPENED

The American lighthouses on Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence were lighted up for the first time this season last week, 17 days earlier than last year and the earliest in eleven years.

CALL FOR POLICE

Last evening the police answered a call to Brock street West, Belleville, it being alleged that a man was acting in a disorderly manner. The party had been taken in the home of a friend before the police arrived upon the scene.

HOGS ADVANCING IN PRICE

Live hogs are still advancing in price and today $20 per hundredweight was paid. Mr. D. Scott and son shipped from here today two car loads, for which they paid the above price.

RUBBER POLICEMEN

The iron policemen now in use can smash a car very badly if a motorist runs into it unintentionally or to avoid an accident. The new ones are of a rubber preparation which makes them pliable. A car can strike and pass on without injury to either. In view of the number of cars which were damaged last year, the purchase of this new kind in the future should be considered.

ILLICIT STILLS

Since the first of the present year officers in Perth Division of the Inland Revenue have made twenty-three seizures of plants where illicit whiskey was being made. The great majority of these did not contain a still, but merely a mixture of grains, raisins, etc., with some means of fermentation introduced. The liquor as a result of this process, is vile stuff but the manufacturers found a ready sale for it. In a few cases, perfect miniature stills were in operation and of course the brand of whiskey turned out was much better than that where the "mash" or "wort" only was used. All the seizures made in Perth Division were in the northern part of the province, in the wilds around Sudbury, North Bay and New Liskeard. Heavy fines ranging from $100 and costs to $300 and costs, were imposed and in nearly every case the offenders paid, only a few going to jail.

SOLDIERS ARRIVED HOME

Private A. J. Bolyea, of 293 Pinnacle Street. He signed up with the 59th Battalion in 1916 and has been serving with the 2nd Battalion in France.

Pte. A. J. Smith of 2 West Bridge Street, who has had a long service overseas.

Sapper J. W. Milne, 233 Charles St. He went with the 8th Canadian Division and has been serving with the divisional signaller in France for two years.

Bomb. A. L. Alford, of 173 Church Street, went over with the 33rd Batter in December 1915 and has been serving with the 43rd Battery.

Driver W. R. Service of 5 Dafoe Street, signed with the 23rd Battery in August 1915 and has been serving with the 34th Battery.

Private J. McGaw, of 377½ Front Street, went over with the 155th Battalion and has been serving with the 2nd Battalion.

Sniper Bernard, of 150 Front Street went with the First Eastern Ontario Depot Battalion and served in the 6th C.R.T.

Gunner W. A. Stolliker, of 38 Station Street, went over with the 71st Battery and has been serving in the heavy artillery.

MUNICIPALITIES WANT THE MONEY

Mayor Platt, Ald. Ostrom and Ald. Hunter, went to Toronto yesterday to represent Belleville in a deputation to wait upon the Provincial Government re the license money received through the issuing of motor vehicles going to municipality instead of to the Government. Mayor Platt was not very optimistic as to the request being granted, but the Government promised to consider the matter. The deputation was cordially received and their claims ably presented.

GOV'T. EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

The Ontario Government Public Employment Bureau in connection with the re-establishment of soldiers and employment generally is well represented in Belleville by Capt. Nesbitt (21st Batt.) who has an office on Front street. While the interests of the soldiers is the first care of this office, anyone applying for employment will be placed if possible. Returned soldiers are given information upon all subjects in which they are interested as well as employment. Employers of labor in all parts of the district should get in touch with Capt. Nesbitt, as well as everybody desiring employment of any kind. Already a number of returned soldiers and others have been placed in good positions.

Largest Wheat Crop Ever Grown In U. S.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WASHINGTON, April 8—The largest crop of winter wheat ever grown was forecasted for this year by the Department of Agriculture to-day. An enormous yield of 837 million bushels was estimated, with a value of $1,-[illegible],100, which will be 152 million bushels larger than the previous record crop produced in 1918.

Hungary Must Recall Troops To Smuts Line To Gain Concessions

BLOCKADE WILL BE RAISED IF COUNTRY COMPLIES WITH RULES LAID DOWN BY PEACE EMISSARY — ALLIED TROOPS TO OCCUPY "NEUTRAL" ZONE — NO WORD OF OVERTHROW OF COMMUNIST GOVERNMENT.

BUDAPEST, April 8—General Jan Christian Smuts the Peace Conference Commissioner to Hungary placed his proposals before the Hungarian Communist Government Saturday. They included the following:

The Hungarian Government to withdraw all troops west of a line which Gen. Smuts outlined, that Rumanian troops be ordered not to advance beyond their present positions and that the territory between thel ine drawn by Gen. Smuts and the Rumanian army be neutral and be occupied by British, French, Italian, and, if possible, American troops.

That the Hungarian Government accept the terms of the military convention included etaoei aoietoai n convention concluded last November by the Hungarian Government with the allied powers; that the aforementioned line of demarication has no influence on the territorial arrangements in the final peace conditions and that Gen. Smuts will propose to the peace conference to raise the blockade of Hungary immediately and allow facilities for the immediate import of prime necessities, especially fats and coal.

Gen. Smuts also suggested that he would propose to the peace conference that before it finally determined the political frontier of Hungary it should invite the Hungarian Government to send representatives to Paris. Those representatives would formulate their standpoint on the frontiers and the questions arising from them in a special conference with representatives of the Cecho-Slovaks, Jugo-Slavs, Rumanians and German-Austrians. A representative of the Allied Powers would be chairman of the special conference.

Epworth Leaguers Entertain Friends

The command to "Eat, drink and be merry" was obeyed to the full extent when nearly one hundred members of Holloway Street Epworth League gathered last evening in the basement of the church for a banquet.

During the last month an "airplane contest" has been in progress and resulted in the White side, which was defeated, entertaining the winning side, whose colors were red.

It was not difficult as one sat at tables where there were good things aplenty to obey the first two phases of the command, and as to being merry, that was not one bit harder, for was not the winning side jubilant and the losers bore their defeat with a smile.

After the supper a programme was presented by members of the League.

The president, Mr. Everett Prindle, was seated on the platform beside Rev. J. N. Clarry. During the supper Messrs. Barragar, Smith and Sills delighted everyone with music.

A piano duet by Misses Farrell and Pearce was the first number. Mr. Jack Herity responded to the toast "King and Country." He said, "We are all loyal citizens and the last four years have drawn us closer together." He emphasized the necessity of team work in everything undertaken. Mrs. Dobbs sang a number of patriotic songs.

In speaking of "The League" Mr. Austin Gay dwelt upon three stages, past, present and future. He said, "There was no reason why West Belleville Epworth League should not rank as one of the foremost." "The record of its past achievements is inspiring, at present we are strong in numbers and the members are hopeful of great things for the future." A reading entitled "Mrs. Smart Learns to Skate," was given by Miss Elsie Yerex, which received a hearty encore.

As spokesman for the White side, Mr. Leonard Reid talked briefly on the subject "Cheerful Losers", while the winning side had as its champion Mr. Russell Woodley. He spoke at length on "How we Won" and discussed various phases of League work. In concluding, the speaker expressed the appreciation of the side of which he was a member for the good things provided by their opponents. Between these addresses Miss Pearce and Mr. W. Sills sang. Miss Evelyn Brown sang very sweetly "The Vales of Arcady." The president, Mr. Prindle, in a few humorous remarks responded to the toast "The Ladies," after which Miss Rae Farrell read to every one's delight a cutting from "Anne's House of Dreams" and in response to an encore a humorous reading in Irish dialect was given by her.

The subject "Our Returned Men" was capably dealt with by Mr. Charles Marvin. Mr. Marvin said, "You who were at home, by your sacrifice helped to win the war just as truly as we did who were 'over there'." When called upon to speak Mr. Sills said that he was always interested in young people's work. The evening closed with the National Anthem.

Music & Drama

(What the Press Agents Say)

COME EARLY TONIGHT
OR STAND UP

Patrons of Griffin's Theatre this evening should bear in mind the necessity of being in their seats before 8.30 as after that time no one will be shown to seats until after the first act. As there are only two acts it will be the part of wisdom to come early as the rush will be great in any event.

"HERE COMES THE BRIDE"

A pleasing farce is John Barrymore's latest picture "Here Comes the Bride" which was presented before a large audience at Griffin's last night. The picture is adapted from the play of the same name by Max Marcin and Roy Atwell, which was produced with great success in New York on the speaking stage. The story deals with the love affairs of an impecunious lawyer, who is entrapped into a marriage although he loves another woman. How he gets out of the trouble is charmingly told. A splendid five-act drama entitled "Confession" with Jewel Carmen was also screened and held the interest greatly from start to finish. Mutt and Jeff in a new and amusing comedy cartoon and "The Village Chestnut," a very funny Mack Sennett comedy completes a splendid program.

"LAUGHING BILL HYDE"

Will Rogers is given an odd assignment in Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," which was screened at the Palace last night. It is that of a master of ceremonies at a wedding of a pal in the Klondike. What made it a ticklish job is the fact that all parties concerned were "flat broke" in the land where all round them was gold. Bill Hyde brought the minister and when the ceremony was over rushed to the bonanza saloon where he encountered a man he knew to be a thief. He followed him out and attacked him. Grabbing his purse Bill took a $20 gold piece from it and threw it back. Bill then made his way to the home of the minister and handed him the money, saying: "We plum forgot to pay yer, parson." A funny Luke comedy, Pathe News and a beautiful Travelogue are also being exhibited.

Benefit Of Birds Shown By Dr. Clark

Interesting Illustrated Lecture Before Canadian Club on Birds of Eastern District.

An Illustrated Lecture entitled "Birds of the Eastern District" under the auspices of the Canadian Club in the High School Assembly Room by Dr. Chas. Clark, of Toronto University, last evening, drew a large number of the members and outsiders. Dr. Clark is now on the Commission of Mental Hygiene which is making a survey of all the Provinces.

Dr. Clark's study of birds was carried on with the least injury to the feathered folk that was possible. He made no habit of robbing their nests and if he ever happened to destroy a bird felt very sorry for doing so. Most of his observation of birds was carried on in this district.

Dr. Clark gave some excellent examples which proved that the world would not exist if it was not for the birds, for the insects would develop so rapidly. There were now three thousand species of insects described and a great many more that up to the present date had not been described. One pair of moths if left to their freedom would in the course of a year destroy all the foliage on the continent of America. A caterpillar eats twice its weight in a day and therefore if he was left alone would in a very short time do a great deal of harm. Some years ago a crusade was formed in Hungary against the English Sparrow which resulted in all the sparrows being done away with. In a very short time a famine came over Hungary and the people were forced to bring back the English Sparrow.

Dr. Clark remarked that a number of his best friends were among the birds.

The lantern slides were first class and proved to be very interesting and also showed what one can see if he only looks.

A number of scenes of Cataraqui Marsh were screened with various pictures of birds and their nests.

The tree which contained an eagle's nest, nest of a sawbill, and one of an English Sparrow was rather a peculiar looking tree and proved rather interesting to look at. A picture of a French Canadian and his three wives, with three infants in arms, rather an uncommon occurrence, was shown, all living in the same house.

At the conclusion of Dr. Clark's talk on birds by the request of Dr. Yeomans he gave a brief outline of the work of The Mental Hygiene Commission. Dr. Clark spoke of a number of children who were mentally deficient. He had noticed not long ago two boys of rather tender years playing. He observed their actions and at once noticed if they continued to be brought up in this way they would at some later time develop into criminals instead of worthy citizens.

The Mental Hygiene Commission finished its work in Manitoba after an examination of all Institutions of that Province.

Mr. MacLaurin moved a vote of thanks to the worthy speaker and Dr. Yeomans seconded the motion.

Dictatorship Exists In Bavaria

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

COPENHAGEN, April 8.—A Berlin despatch says that Erich Muehsam, a prominent communist, who is included in the Bavarian Soviet Government, has been given unlimited powers by the Bavarian Central Council, and thus exercises a dictatorship. It is the expressed opinion of a leading newspaper that the Soviet Government will not last, as the people are opposed to a dictatorship, and hope that counter measures taken by Premier Hoffman of the old government will be effective.

Definite Development Plan For Resources Of Hastings

PUBLICITY FIRST REQUISITE IN CAMPAIGN TO DEVELOP RESOURCES OF HASTINGS DISTRICT—FINANCES NEEDED, AND HOW TO SECURE NECESSARY CAMPAIGN FUND—BENEFITS TO BE DERIVED—ATTRACTIVE PLAN SUBMITTED TO HASTINGS DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION BY MR. PETER KIRKEGAARD, OR CORDOVA.

A concrete plan for the comprehensive development of the resources of Hasting's district has been submitted to the recently organized Hasting's Development Council, by Mr. Peter Kirkegaard, of Cordova, a veteran mining operator of this district. Mr. Kirkegaard's recommendations, which are well worthy of consideration are as follows:

My many years connection with Mining in Hastings County have convinced me that our latent mineral resources warrant very serious attention from our leading men of the County. I am also well aware that many abortive attempts have been made at opening up a number of these mineral deposits, and that these failures have given a bad odor to mining in Hastings, but this I believe can be overcome if taken hold of along rational lines if supported by our business men and by the various Councils throughout the County.

To raise money which will be needed for surveys, reports, write-ups, printing and distribution of reports, etc., etc., and to handle such matters right it will require a central organization with an able man at the head to handle it, and he will need assistants

Enrol All Reeves

The Association should enrol all the Reeves of the County, everyone of them should become members; out of these men should be apppointed an executive committee of say five, selecting the ablest and most progressive and these five members should be paid at least their travelling expenses.

A full meeting of all the members, "The Reeves" should be called at Belleville; all the business men not only at Belleville but from all over the County should be invited to attend. At this meeting propose that a Syndicate be formed and incorporated, Capital $250,000 for the purpose of developing any and all of Hasting's natural resources; not only mining, but improvement in agriculture, reforresting, development of our water powers, good roads, etc. etc.

Propose that every farmer or owner become a subscriber to shares in Hastings or Eastern Ontario Development Syndicate to the extent of one share, par value $1.00 for every 100 acres he owns per annum for 5 years. A pamphlet should be got up setting out and explaining the purpose of this Syndicate, so that the Reeve can talk intelligently to his Council men, and such pamphlet should be mailed to every farmer in the County explaining that the object of this Syndicate is to draw pulbic attention to our rescources, that the subscribers to Syndicate shares should not expect any direct returns from their contribution to this Syndicate but that the benefit will be indirect. That the Ontario Government be asked to supplement this dollar for dollar.

Benefits To Farmers

For illustration I will just refer to Mining: the benefits to be derived;

Mineral is found on a farm through the effort of the activities of the Syndicate. Capital is interested in it; he sells his mineral right thereby getting a sum of money he would not be likely to get otherwise, or even suspect that there was mineral on his land; therefore enriched without efforts on his part, and still hold his farm same as before; this find leads to finding other deposits on his neighbors' farm and so forth, and independent of all, the fact of mining being carried on in the neighborhood enhances the value of his farm product.

Mining is far reaching in its beneficial effect to any community. It leads to large expenditure of money brought in from outside, it gives employment to many men, large payrolls are distributed locally, food is needed for these men and what can be bought locally adds that much more money in circulation.

A Business Organization

The syndicate formed and money in Treasury, an able man should be engaged, a man of broad business experience, and he jointly with the Executive Committee be vested with authority to engage expert prospectors, under the guidance of competent geologists, including in the organization, land surveyor, and hydraulic engineer etc.

This may at first glance seem an ambitious scheme, but I do not hesitate to state that our dormant mineral deposits alone fully warrant such effort by the people of the county and I will go further, very much further by suggesting that such counties, as are within the mineral belt be invited to form similar associations and join one main Development Syndicate; to name a few of them, the Counties of Peterboro, Haliburton, Lennox and Addington, Renfrew, Leeds, Frontenac, Lanark and others coming within the mineralized zone—enlarge the scope of the organization in keeping therewith even to the extent of making the capitalization $1,000,000.

Not Visionary

This is not a visionary scheme by any means though it may seem so to laymen in mining. In order to awaken the right kind of interest an excursion might be arranged for as many of the Reeves and business men generally as could be induced to come take them to see for themselves what mining means, show them what has been done, which I venture to say would be a revelation to most of them.

In one trip they could be shown Richardson Feldspar Mines, Syndenham Mica Mines, Talc Mining, and Fleurspar Mining near Madoc, Deloro Mine and Smelter, Cordova Mine, etc., all built up by individual efforts and enterprise ,none of these as far as I know are stock companies in the sense that the capital has been raised by sale of stock to the general public. They may all be justly called close corporations.

I have drafted a brief outline on gold mining, also on the possibilities for arsenic as an aid in agriculture. You know more or less about my work covering the last score of years, which has resulted in building up first Delora, later Cordova; these are large enterprises, have required very large amount of capital, amounting to over $2,000,000; few realize this.

Hastings will in time be dotted with mines, all it is waiting on is to properly bring before the mining investor what we have here.

If Hastings' mineral were located in one of the mining states of the United States it would soon become a busy hive, draw in millions of capital, employ thousands of men, produce vast quantities of valuable mineral of many kinds and bring prosperity to the whole community.

Bavarian Soviet Government Meets Strong Opposition

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

MUNICH, April 9—With another twenty-four hours behind it the Bavarian Soviet Government appears less able to impose itself upon the country and the general political situation has become more involved and threatening than ever. Not only has support of old Government taken concrete form in north Bavaria but the breach among Social Democrats in south Bavaria has widened until the Majority Socialists and Communists are not at all united.

Sir David Beatty Hauls Down Flag As Commander Of Grand Fleet

LONDON, April 9—On the dispersal Monday of the Grand Fleet Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty hauls down his flags as Commander-in-Chief.

All the newspapers publish articles on the historic occasion, dwelling on the fact that its purpose was achieved with the complete destruction of the enemy's naval power. They pay tribute to Lord Jellicoe as the organizer and leader and Vice-Admiral Beatty as a first-class fighter, who crowned Lord Jellicoe's work.

There is some speculation whether Sir David Beatty, now unemployed, will be offered the post of First Sea Lord, the importance of which position, it is now pointed out, has never been greater, in view of the possible effect of the League of Nations upon Britain's naval policy.

It is also urged that a properly organized naval general staff must never again be allowed to lapse.

New Cunarders To Be Oil-Driven

Cunard, With Other Associated Companies, Have 29 Vessels Building.

LONDON, April 9—The new Cunard transatlantic liners will be oil-driven. An official of the Cunard Line verified this statement to the correspondent Monday. It was told in a recent despatch as illustrating the intense effort the great British shipping interests are making to hold marine supremacy.

The Cunard and other associated companies, it is understood, now have twenty-nine vessels in course of construction. Most of them are the standard type, 20,000 tons, are built to carry both passengers and cargo. They are all being fitted with engines which can be driven either by oil or coal. The alternative is provided because of the uncertainty of readily acquiring the necessary oil supplies.

Greater Unrest In Palestine

Residents Do Not Want State Turned over to Zionists.

CAIRO, April 9—Reports received here indicate there is greater unrest in Palestine, Moslems and Christians there are aroused over reports that Palestine will be turned over to the Zionists. They are bitterly opposed to a Jewish state in Palestine and to an influx of Jews supported by American and European gold. They declare the land belongs to the inhabitants.

They invoke the principles of self-determination as founded by President Wilson.

The Syrians say they are ready to accept a reasonable Jewish immigration and to grant full religious liberty to every one. On the other hand, they protest against a partition of Syria, and declare that the country will be ruined if the Jews get Haifa (in Syria on the bay of Acre and at the foot of Mount Carmel), and the Armenians get Alexander (on the Gulf of Alender). In the Cairo colony reports are being circulated of programs among the Jews by Moslems and Christians. They are without foundation. The British have the situation well in hand.

Daring Swindler Believed In Army

NEW YORK, April 9.—If the stories about the activities of William H. Moffitt, former realty king here, that are drifting into the district attorney's office and police headquarters from the Canadian Northwest, are true, Moffit has got "J. Rufus Wallingtord" backed off the boards.

Moffit disappeared from this city last December, after he had cleaned up more than $1,000,000 in alleged fraudulent sales of Long Island and New Jersey real estate. The New York county grand jury indicted him on several charges of grand larceny December 20 last, and, although detectives folowed innumerable trails, they were never able to catch up with him.

Now reports of Moffitt's activities since he became a fugitive are beginning to reach the city. He is now supposed to be in France, connected with the supply column of the Canadian Army, under an assumed name. Assistant District Attorney Waugh sent a request to the British Government for the arrest, and extraditon of Moffitt.

According to the information received by Mr. Waugh, corroborated by detectives, Moffitt went to Winnipeg when he fled from this city. There he announced that J. Pierpont Morgan and Andrew Carnegie had sent him to Canada to locate sites for prospective big cities and enormous industrial plants.

By clever advertising and big promises Moffitt, according to the information, got hold of a number of acres of prairie land and ran big excursions from Winnipeg and other northwestern Canadian cities, and sold thousands of acres of land to investors. When the latter woke up they found they paid their money for Government-owned property.

Moffitt, it is stated, exhibited photographs of himself Mr. Morgan and Mr. Carnegie apparently studying maps of western Canada. On strength of these photographs Moffitt, it is alleged, had little difficulty in fleecing would-be investors.

Two Peace Treaties May Be Necessary

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, April 9—There is much apprehension in Peace Conference circles as to what effect the establishment of a Soviet Government at Munich may have on the conclusion of peace. As the Munich Government appears from press despatches to be well established peace delegates are considering the eventual necessity of negotiating two peace treaties with Germany one with Berlin, and the other with Munich.

Twenty-Five Billion Francs First Payment Of Germany

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

PARIS, April 9.—The preliminary peace treaty will require Germany to make an immediate indemnity payment, on account, of twenty-five billion francs in cash and raw material, according to the Echo de Paris. The treaty, it declares, will not leave uncertain the total amount which Germany is to pay, as that amount will be written into the document.

Odessa Evacuated By Allies Under Bolshevik Pressure

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

PARIS, April 9.—The evacuation of the Black Sea port of Odessa by the allied forces is confirmed officially.

A Paris despatch Tuesday night said that a wireless message received there from Moscow reported the capture of Odessa by the Ukrainian Soviet troops on Sunday. The Paris Matin said that the evacuation of Odessa by the Allies was imminent as Bolsheviki pressure was increasing. The paper said that the allied forces probably would be withdrawn ultimately to the line of the Dneister river, west and south of Odessa.

German Government At Odds On Recognition Of Soviet Republics

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

BERLIN, April —At this morning's session of the Soviet congress Independent Socialists presented two resolutions extending greetings to the Bavarian and Hungarian Soviet republics. There was lively discussion especially regarding Bavaria. Independent Socialists wanted congress to express the hope that the Bavarian Proletariat might overcome oposition and that the rest Germany might follow its example. The motion was postponed after unfavorable discussion. The greeting to Hungary was accepted.

In spite of recent threatening predictions Berlin was quiet today, being strongly patrolled by Government troops with artillery. The Wilhelmtrasse was commanded by machine guns from the Chancellory. No strikes were reported up till noon.

Spartacan leaders at Hamburg are plotting to proclaim a Soviet republic in that city, according to The Zeitung Am Mittag which calls upon Gustav Noske, Minister of War, to send troops there to prevent this action.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

HALIFAX, April 9—The Megantic with two thousand returning soldiers came up to the harbor in the teeth of a twenty-five knot wind this morning and made several attempts to dock but was unable to do so. She will remain at anchor in stream until the wind moderates. Men are being brought ashore in lighters.

Mich an Swats Beer and Wine

Despite Wet Verdict in Wayne State Rolls Up Huge Dry Majority.

DETROIT, Mich., April 9.—Overwhelming defeat of the beer and wine amendment, which has been beaten in most counties by a larger vote than that which carried the prohibition amendment in 1916, is assured by returns from all parts of the State. The majority can only be estimated, but it is believed to run from 100,000 upward. This majority out in the State is more striking because Detroit voted "wet" in a dry state. The county of Wayne, which went wet by 6,426 in 1916, voted by several times this majority yesterday for the beer and wine amendment. The counties out in the State, however, are evidently dryer than ever.

The last hope of the wets in those upper peninsula counties, which went strongly wet in 1916, was destroyed when county after county from above the Straits reported a dry majority.

Literary Test Will Be Set Up

New Immigration Bill Introduced in House of Commons.

OTTAWA, April 9—Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, introduced the Government Immigration Bill. In its amendments to the present immigration law the bill will generally extend restrictions on imigration which are now in force. In the first place, the bill extends the time during which immigrants may be deported. Under the law at present the period is three years. The bill extends the period to five years.

The present law contains a provision defining the responsibilities of transportation companies. The term transportation company is to be extended so as to include Federal and provincial transportation facilities. Thus officials who may be in charge of Government boats will be responsible for the carrying out of the law just as are the officials of ordinary transportation companies.

The prohibited classes are also extended under the bill. Those who for physical or mental reasons are not likely to be able to earn their own living will be excluded. A literary test will be set up and those unable to read will not be permitted entry. Persons will also be excluded who believe in the overthrow of constitutional government by force or violence and enemy aliens who have been interned or deported from Canada or any allied country.

Under the present law the Government has power by order-in-council to prohibit certain persons from entering Canada. Government powers in this regard are extended.

IT HAPPENED
IN BELLEVILLE

A PRINCELY GIFT

When "Flo Flo" came to town came also a noted theatrical man in the person of Mr. J. Jones Johnson, owner and manager of the "Flo-Flo" production, whose visit to the Bay of Quinte district revived many interesting recollections of his childhood as he was brought up at Adolphustown. Mr. Johnson left this district about thirty years ago, and has been very successful in theatrical enterprises, making his headquarters in New York City, where he was associated for a time with his brother, Mr. J. S. Johnson, who has since returned to his boyhood home at Adolphustown.

The brothers Johnson met again in Belleville yesterday and reminiscences were the order of the day. In the course of a trip about the city meeting old friends a call was made at the Crystal Hotel to see the proprietor, Mr. F. H. Kingsley, an old friend, and that gentleman proudly exhibited a recent purchase in a pure bred Holstein heifer, Dekol Horwitje Ormsby, sire, Paul Ormsby Pieterje; dam Fannie Dekol Houtje.

Mr. J. Jones Johnson, of the "Flo-Flo" company, was so pleased with Mr. Kingsley's Holstein that he induced that gentleman to part with the animal for the sum of three hundred dollars, and then presented the heifer to his brother, Mr. J. S. Johnson of Adolphustown, who needless to say was delighted beyond measure as he is particularly interested in Holstein cattle and the gift will make a notable addition to his farm stock at Adolphustown.

Some men are so self-confident that they are unable to distinguish between a cheer and a jeer.

A PLEASING PICTURE

John Barrymore's new photoplay, "Here Comes the Bride," is being screened at Griffin's tonight for the last time. Mr. Barrymore has a congenial role in this unusually clever photocomedy and he is well supported by a capable cast of players by Fair Binney who was recently seen here in "Sporting Life." Jewel Carmen in a splendid 5 act drama entitled, "Confession," a Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon, and "The Village Chestnut," a 2 act Sennett comedy, will also be exhibited.

DON'T CHANGE YOUR HUSBAND

Can you imagine Elliott Dexter as anthing else but imaculate? Yet in the first part of his new picture, "Don't Change Your Husband," a special production which will be displayed at Griffin's tomorow to Saturday, this popular leading man is seen as a business absorbed individual who is untidy in dress and habits. That's why his wife leaves him, only to come back later when she finds there are worse things about a man than a certain carelessness in habits. Bryant Washburn the popular star, will be seen on the same program in "Venus of the East," one of the most amusing serio-comic pictures of the season. The original was published in the Saturday Evening Post some months ago and the story is by Wallace Irwin, and is fully as entertaining, it is declared, as the original printed version. "Never Too Old." is the title of the Mack Sennett comedy for the week-end and is a screaming farce. The story is a good one and the comedy as a whole is as clean as a hound's tooth. Bert Roach and Marie Prevost supply the fun. The British News will also be shown.

A REX BEACH STORY AT PALACE

Will Rogers, lariat-throwing wit of the "Follies," was right at home in the opening scene of Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," which is being viewed at the Palace tonight. Rogers makes his debut on the screen as a convict in a break for liberty for which purpose his trusty lariat and his expertness at throwing it stood him in good stead. With it he renders a prison guard helpless and not only frees himself but his old pal as well. The noted wit has the main role in the production. A good Luke comedy, a beautiful travelogue showing some of the leading health resorts in England, and Pathe News are also on the same program.

"DE LUXE ANNIE"

"De Luxe Annie," Norma Talmadge's latest production, will be the feature attraction tomorrow to Saturday at the Palace Theatre. Miss Talmadge has never appeared to better advantage than in this absorbing play of criminal life with a surpassing psychological ending. As Julie Kendal, the wife of a prominent lawyer who is interested in the workings of a criminal mind, whom a blow on the head turns adrift on the world, a total victim of asphasia, Miss Talmadge registers a tremendous hit in a most realistic portrayal. The 8th chapter of "The Bull's Eye" serial and a new and amusing Luke comedy completes the program.

"FLO-FLO" PLEASED

A real musical show is "Flo-Flo," a John Cort production seen at Griffin's Theatre last evening. Patrons of the theatre have learned to look upon the John Cort label as a guarantee of merit and "Flo-Flo" is one of the brightest gems in that popular producer's collection. Admirably staged with attractive scenery and electrical effects, an excellent cast, fashionable costumes, catchy songs with adequate instrumental accompaniment, and clever comedians, "Flo-Flo" afforded an evening of music and laughter thoroughly enjoyable to the large audience present, which taxed the capacity of the theatre. The costumes of the ladies were daring to the last degree, but their artistic excellence took the edge from possible criticism of good taste in so ruthlessly exposing the intimate secrets of my lady's wardrobe.

Louise Kelly, as "Flo-Flo" was capable and attractive, her physical charms being strongly featured.

The comedians were clever and introduced many new laughter provoking stunts, William Burns and Edward Lynn, as Aloysius Pink and Kid Mudd, two nimble crooks with restless feet and amusing songs, taking the lead in the fun-making closely followed by Carl George as Issy Moses in a very amusing Hebrew character. Jere Delaney, as Robert Simpson, the brains of the Bride Shop also added materially to the general hilarity. William Cummings, as Billy Cops, gave a delightfully natural characterization of "the small-town boy from Oskosh." Mildred Beverly as Mrs. R. G. Stokes, was good, and the part of her daughter Angelina, was well taken by Bell Stanley. Augustus Buell, as the fortune hunting count, was all that the part called for, while Rhea Morton, as the jealous Spanish girl was clever. The ladies of the chorus were youthful, shapeful and entertaining in the songs and dance movements.

"Flo-Flo" has evidently served as a model for several other musical comedies now touring and parts of the production were quite familiar to local theatre goers.

It is interesting to note that the chorus was headed by Rene Jouvet, a magazine cover girl who has posed for many of the leading artists of the United States, and was the model for the Salvation Army Girl cover recently used by the Saturday Evening Post.

Another interesting feature of the production is the fact that Louis Chakofski, the violinist, with the company, uses a very rare and valuable violin, said to be a genuine Nicolas Amati, which was presented to Mr. Chakofski by a friend who is a collector of rare violins.

Prescribing for Paul

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Aside from any considerations of patriotism—and he really was as true a patriot as any in the county—Paul Dedham longed to join the colors and lamented the youthful bookishness that had made him too astigmatic as to eyesight to be of military use to his country. This secondary feeling of discontent in mufti was frankly due to the fact that he felt completely snubbed in the once-doting circle of his own family, snubbed by the young women of the community by whom his mother had once assured him he was regarded as quite a catch. For the little community of Marden was within short range of an encampment and Marden was doing its best to create a "desirable home atmosphere" for the boys in khaki. Meantime men who still wore gray cheviot, or blue serge, or pepper-and-salt business suits were negligible.

"You don't mind not having any sugar on your baked apple," Paul was assured sweetly by his mother at breakfast. "We are making apple pies for the canteen this morning, and those apples were so tart that we had to use all the sugar we had on hand." And when Paul, his mouth in a pucker, put his hand out for the sugar bowl for his coffee his mother passed him a nice little jug of sirup, assuring him that he was going to enjoy using that in place of sugar because they had used practically their entire quota of cut sugar and they would henceforth have it only when they had soldier boys for dinner.

"The boys just love cake," his sister assured him, "and it does seem a pity to use any substitute in it." Then with moisture in her eyes—"They'll be in France so soon the least we can do is to let them have our wheat," and Paul gulped down a soggy bullet of a corn muffin and sipped cautiously the insipid mixture of his coffee.

Occasionally, however, Paul was assured that he was a "perfect dear." That was after he had signed a check for his mother for the Red Cross, or when he had paid the bill for a hundred pounds of candy for a soldier spread at the canteen. He was a "nice boy," too, sometimes, and was assured that he was one by some of the girls who had once rather vied with each other to meet him on the tennis court or golf links. But to earn that title he had to sit for an hour or more on someone's front porch holding hanks of yarn or winding them from the backs of chairs, while he was actually deserted for a man in khaki.

"If you should happen to get anything the matter with you," his sister told him one morning when he was feeling especially dejected over the cook's most recent attempt at war muffins, "I do wish you'd let Doctor Pratt have a try at you—not, of course, that I want you to have anything—but if you should."

And on inquiry as to who Doctor Pratt was he was informed that Doctor Pratt was Kate Pratt—that Doctor Peters, being a skilled surgeon, had volunteered for the war and that Kate Pratt, his niece, just from medical college, was going to handle his practice.

"And she has quite a lot of money, so she is going to give all her fees to the Red Cross or to the canteen or something. That is confidential, of course, but I have it on good authority. So it would be awfully nice if you did get something the matter with you to go to her. She's been quite successful. She set Priscilla's chow's leg the other day and the blessed dog didn't even whimper, and she fixed one of the soldiers' ankles at the service club dance. He was dancing with that fat Baldwin girl and she tripped him and he strained his ankle and Doctor Pratt fixed him—but of course she didn't charge for that."

To Paul there was something odious in the idea of letting a woman doctor prescribe for him, but he kept his opinion to himself and merely made some comment on Priscilla's chow, and hoped that he was much better. Meantime he had a new worry. He was wondering how he could get his socks darned, for his mother and sister knit soldier socks now to the disregard of the darning bag. At first he had bought new socks as he needed them, but he had now accumulated three or four dozen pairs and it didn't seem the best solution. He was wondering whether he could arrange with some seamstress to mend them without letting his mother know—he didn't want her to feel offended, of course.

So Paul's spirits and his appetite waned, and before long his mother and sister noticed a lagging note in his step and a stoop to his shoulders that had not been there before. He neglected the unsweetened apples and the coffee with corn sirup and they decided he had no appetite. "Well, any way, it will be a case for Doctor Kate," his sister told him, and because Paul was actually becoming alarmed over his own dejected condition and because there was no other doctor in the place, Paul made a special appointment for consultation and went to see her in old Doctor Peters' office.

Paul had realized before that there would be difficulties in consulting a woman physician, but the difficulties were different from those he had expected. For Doctor Kate proved to be a most radiant and bewitching young woman, who somehow sent strange thrills coursing through one's veins when she felt one's pulse, and for lack of a stethoscope she had to lay her golden-crowned little head against his heart for full three minutes at a time to find out the state of that organ. But, anyway, there were advantages in this new embarrassment. At least she was taking him seriously—even though she received a fee for doing so—and that was more than any woman had done since the encampment was established near Marden. She told him that he surely did need treatment, but that she would have to think the matter over before she could prescribe.

Meantime Paul went home encouraged and Doctor Kate cultivated the acquaintance of Paul's sister and mother. She had suspected something and she found it to be true. Then she laid out a plan for a cure and proceeded to apply it. But the cure did not come in any pill boxes or medicine bottles. The first dose was an invitation to dinner at her house, on the pretext of meeting her mother. And Doctor Kate watched with satisfaction that was not all professional as he accepted his fifth muffin—they were made with as much wheat as the Hoover regulation allowed—and watched him eat the dessert to make which she and her mother had foregone sugar for two days. Doctor Kate had a wonderful way of finding things out, for Paul himself never told her about his socks. But before many weeks had passed he was actually bringing his socks stealthily to Doctor Kate's mother, who assured him she had a perfect passion for darning, and since her own boy had gone to the front she had had none to do.

Then Kate prescribed some sort of electrical treatment for her patient that had to be administered every morning in her office before breakfast, and she also assured him that the good effects of the treatment would be offset if he went out afterward without eating. Having breakfast with Doctor Kate and her mother therefore became part of the treatment.

And Paul recovered rapidly. He regained the lost pounds, and presently his case was spoken of as a feather in the cap of Doctor Kate Pratt. Gossip had it that he was in an actual decline when she took him in hand. No one knew just what the treatment had been, but it had required many, many visits, and the fee that was handed over to the Red Cross as a result was enough to buy all the yarn that Marden women could knit up in a year.

And the funny thing was that when Paul sued for Doctor Kate's heart and hand and gained them both Marden women folk were a little peeved, even to Paul's own mother and sister. "It's always that way with eligible men," was the comment. "The girls in the home town can pet them and pamper them for years, but the first nice girl from out of town is the one they marry."

For Marden failed to see how pitifully susceptible Paul Dedham had become as a result of the neglect he had suffered.

ALL HAVE DREADED GHOSTS

Spirits Play a Most Important Part in the Lives of Primitive Peoples of the World.

Ghosts are extremely ancient. The people of old who dwelt in caves were well acquainted with them.

In the lives of primitive peoples of today a very important part is played by ghosts. Their world is thickly populated with them. When a man sleeps his phantasm, which cannot sleep, goes a-traveling.

With this phantasm he is quite familiar, because it visibly attends him in the daytime. It is his shadow. Savages are usually more or less afraid of shadows.

To the savage, not only animate but even inanimate things have their ghosts. Concealed within every object is a mystery—a noumenon lurking behind the phenomenon, as a psychologist would express the idea. In any rock there is fire hidden. One has only to strike it with another piece of rock and sparks fly.

Among the most appalling spooks that haunt the Iroquois is a carnivorous ghost that feeds on men. Echo, in their belief, is a phantom that repeats their words mockingly among the hills. Particularly malevolent are certain huge heads, without bodies, that go flying about.

Where Americans Lead.

The American is fascinated by novel problems, by ungauged and ungaugeable difficulties. He glories in building a Panama canal after Europe's most famous engineer had failed. Because Europe had never ventured to build skyscrapers that is no reason why a Woolworth should not rear a structure more than 50 stories in the air. For centuries man had dreamed of flying, but without success; yet two obscure American lads, nothing daunted, experimented until they conquered the air. The original McCormick was a farmer, not a mechanic, but that did not deter him from making up his mind to produce a machine which would cut grain, and he did not give up until he had made both a reaper and a fortune.

Army Supplies.

Since April 1, 1917, the army of the United States has been supplied with 5,377,000 overcoats, 8,069,000 woolen coats, 10,507,000 pairs of woolen breeches, and 55,958,000 pairs of woolen socks. Motortrucks to the number of 17,988 have been sent overseas and 9,800 motor ambulances have been provided.

Letters to the Editor

AN ANTIDOTE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly publish the little poem enclosed, which I clipper from a newspaper some time ago. It may serve as an antidote for the alleged "Sinn Finn" song of hate, handed you by a prominent citizen. Enough said.

P. J. Wims.

GINCHY BO-BRAUGH

O Erin dear, and did you hear the news that going round?
Our Irish lads have led the fight for
Ginchy's gory ground.
They drove the German from his dens,
and swept his trenches clean,
Then back they marched, while pipers played, "The Wearing of the Green!"

For many a brave and daring deed,
in France's war-worn land,
The fame of other dauntless men for ever more shall stand;
But no more dashing charge than theirs will in this age be seen;
Those laughing lads, while fighting, sang "The Wearing of the Green!"

We doff our hats to loyal sons of far
Australia's Isle;
New Zealand's men are at the front,
and daring all the while;
Canadians, Englishmen, and Scots,
and Welsh have heroes been,
But Ginchy's capture stirs the pride of men who wear the green.

'Tis ever thus, when danger calls and Britain arms for war,
Her loyal sons from every clime, come flocking from afar,
And, foremost in that eager host, are certain to be seen
Those fine two-fisted fighting men, who wear the Irish green.

NOT THE SAME.

To The Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—When I suggested in last Thursday's paper to the theatre goers of Belleville to be sure and see "Flo Flo" I was told by the management that it was the same show that played the Princess Theatre, Toronto.

It is only fair to myself to state that last night's performance was put on by a poor aggregation, as compared with the cast in Toronto, and am very sorry if people were disappointed in last night's show, not coming up to their expectations through my little note in the paper.

S. R. Burrows.

IF YOUR EARS RING
WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Cocoanut Oil Fine
For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Instead of a leather belt seven inches wide a steel band only three inches in width is being used to drive machinery in a large coal mine in Europe.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, April 8.—With a run of 4,142 cattle on the Union Stock Yards market yesterday, a large percentage of which were very good cattle, the market generally was a little slow. There was a fair demand for good, well finished butcher cattle, with the medium grades about 25c lower.

Butcher cows held steady and the bull market was steady to strong.

There was a fair run of calves, 333 in all, with the market holding about steady. Choice calves sold from 16c to 17c, medium, 12c to 14½c, grassers and common calves, 6c to 10c.

With a run of 2293 hogs the market held very strong, selling at 20¼c f.o.b. The outlook, despite the fact that the packers are quoting 25c lower, seems to be for a steady market.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,800; steady. Heavy, $20.75 to $20.90; mixed and yorkers, $20.75; light yorkers, $20 to $20.25; pigs, $20; roughs, $17.50 to $18; stags, $12 to $15.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7600; lambs, 25c higher; others steady. Wool lambs, $15 to $20.76; clipped lambs, $12 to $17.75; yearlings, $11 to $15.50; wethers, $14 to $14.50; ewes, $5 to $11; mixed sheep, $13 to $13.50 (all clipped).

New Strike In Berlin.

BERLIN, April 8. — Independent Socialists and Spartacans decided Sunday, by a vote of 10,000 to 3,000, to begin a general strike in Berlin Monday. The Majority Socialists opposed the movement, but the employes of the large machine and metal works carried the day for those favorable to a strike. Government troops in Berlin have been reinforced.

Board Of Trade Hold Brief Session

Banquet To Returned Soldiers Suggested—Demobilization of 2nd Battalion at Belleville Asked for—Other Matters Referred to.

A monthly meeting of the Belleville Board of Trade was called for last evening and only a bare quorum of nine members were present. This was owing to the inclement weather and counter attractions in the city.

Mr. F. S. Deacon, vice-president, occupied the chair in the absence of Col. Marsh, President, who is in France on business. Col. Ponton, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting which were endorsed.

NEW INDUSTRIES

Mr. E. R. McBride thought that if Belleville had a live industrial man, industries for the city could be secured. The Board and City Council should unite in an effort to secure industries.

Col. Ponton and Mr. W. B. Deacon supported the remarks of Mr. McBride.

Ald. Riggs—The Retail Merchants Association of the city and the Board of Trade might merge.

Mr. W. D. Hanley suggested that a competent man be secured as secretary for the position and be paid for his services.

Mr. F. S. Deacon—We lack co-operation in matters appertaining to the city welfare and the people are apathetic. The City Council might be asked to employ an industrial commissioner.

Nothing definite was done in the matter.

Col. Ponton referred to the Hastings County development meeting held in this city the evening previous.

BETTER TIMES

Mr. John Elliott stated that better times were ahead for Eastern Ontario and the Board of Trade of this city must assist in this reconstruction period. In referring to the local board the speaker thought the membership fee of $2 was too small. Hamilton, Kingston and other Boards of Trade were following in our footsteps in regard to procuring farmers as members. At the recent annual meeting of the Associated Boards Belleville Board showed up well. Honors have recently come to Belleville through its President, Col. Marsh, who is abroad on business. We must realize that we are in competition with the world.

BANQUETTING SOLDIERS

Mr. W. B. Deacon stated that other cities were tendering banquets to returned soldiers and Belleville should do so and make it a big municipal affair. Our boys were worthy of this honor. More went from Belleville than any other city of its size.

A recommendation was adopted that the City Council be approached in the matter and arrangements be made to hold a banquet on June 3rd. The Board of Trade also to co-operate in the matter.

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

Ald. Riggs spoke of Bridge Street east being made the outlet through the city of the proposed Provincial highway.

Ex-Ald. St. Charles—A petition was presented two years ago in the Council to pave this street and that should be undertaken.

No action was taken in the matter.

DEMOBILIZATION

Some of those present spoke of the demobilization of the 2nd Battalion taking place in this city, and every effort being made to secure this. A motion prevailed that a telegram be sent to Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P. asking him to endeavor to secure for Belleville the demobilization.

Board adjourned.

REPATRIATION IN NO. 3

KINGSTON, April —The report for last week issued by the repatriation employment office in Kingston is very

Story of Pte. Kinross, V.C.

GERMAN machine guns have given Canada a large number of V.C.'s. One of these was Pte. Cecil John Kinross, who returned to his home in Lougheed, Alta., the first week of January, after three years in the army. His memorable attack on a troublesome machine gun in the enemy trenches was made at the battle of Passchendaele, Oct. 30, 1917.

The attack on Passchendaele by the Canadians, in which Pte. Kinross displayed the fearlessness and skill which won him the highest honor in the gift of the British Empire to her soldiers, lasted from the night of Oct. 28-29 until the night of Nov. 1, 1917. The attack was successful, as history knows, and Passchendaele Ridge was occupied by the British at the end of the engagement, but history cannot estimate how much of that victory was due to such acts of individual courage as won Cecil Kinross the V.C.

The struggle was severe. The Canadian line was withering under terrific fire. One of the sources of this punishment of the line was a machine gun which was pouring its deadly hail into the trenches of the Canadians. Pte. Kinross was seen to make a careful survey of the ground intervening between the Canadian line and the German line. It was broad daylight. Deliberately divesting himself of all his equipment, except his bandolier, the belt that carried his ammunition, and his rifle, he went over the top alone.

He advanced steadily, under direct fire, towards the enemy line, and single-handed charged the machine gun. He killed the crew of six and put the gun out of commission. Fired by the example of their comrade the other men of his company made a rush and advanced 300 yards and established a highly important position. He was seriously wounded in the head and arm later the same day. It was not until two months later, while convalescing in Orpington Hospital, England, that he heard that he had been given the Victoria Cross for his work that day in October. He was the most surprised man in his company.

Pte. Kinross is the only son of James Sterling Kinross, J.P., Lougheed, Alta. Before enlisting he worked on his father's farm. He joined the 51st Battalion in October, 1915, at Edmonton. By volunteering to go over with a special draft he got to England the following December, spending Christmas Day at sea. In England he was sent to Shorncliffe, where he was in training until March. He was soon in action in the third battle of Ypres. In June he moved to the Somme, where he was wounded, but was back in the trenches in about a month. From that until Passchendaele he was in the battle line continuously, with the exception of ten days' leave in England, just before the big engagement in which he won the V.C.

The Kinross family came from England to live in Canada in 1911. They settled on a farm near Lougheed. Cecil Kinross was born in Uxbridge, Middlesex, England, about ten miles from London. When he was nine years old his parents moved to Hollies Farm, Lea Marston, near Birmingham. Six years later they came to Canada. One sister is now a nurse in Edmonton. The younger sister took her brother's place on the farm during his absence overseas as so many girls have done in England. Two cousins who had come to Canada the same time as the Kinross family, joined the army early in the war. One of them, D. A. Kyle, was a trapper in the Peace River district when war was declared and walked 200 miles to enlist. The other was James Miller. Both have won the Military Medal. Every relative of the V.C., of military age, was in the army.

Cecil John Kinross started school when he was about six years old. He went to a boarding school near his home, Dewes Farm, Uxbridge. A cheering bit of information for boys of that age now will be the fact that the future V.C. was frequently minus dessert, Sundays, for wriggling in church, while he was in attendance at this school. He did not attend that school very long. When his parents moved north Cecil John went to Lea Marston public school, and later to Coleshill Grammar School.

Last spring, obtaining leave from hospital after his wounds were beginning to mend, Pte. Kinross, V.C., visited his old home. Hearing of his coming the town arranged a public reception for him. He was met at the railway station by prominent citizens, carried shoulder high to a waiting motor and driven around the surrounding parishes. The procession was headed by a band and a large number of the boys from Lea Marston and Coleshill schools. The parade ended up at the school, where speeches were made and a presentation made to the boy who had brought distinction to the school.

In the three years that Pte. Kinross was in the army he was engaged at various forms of military duty, always with that tincture of danger that made the life attractive to him. But of all the phases of work he was happiest when he was just an ordinary "Tommy," and with that curious mixture of refinement and keen and fearless daring, which is found so often in the English makeup, he could say, "This is the life for me."—Carolyn Cornell.

THE VERDICT OF THE PEOPLE.

The cards are on the table. As a war measure prohibition has been on trial in Ontario and in fulfilment of the promise made when the Ontario Temperance Act was enacted, Premier Hearst now announces the procedure proposed to ascertain the will of the people as to permanent temperance legislation. The referendum to be submitted will have the advantage over the previous votes of a similar character in that the public will have had actual experience of a prohibition law as stringent as it could possibly be made and actively enforced.

Summing up the effect of the proposed referendum the Mail and Empire says:

> Feeling that at this advanced stage of the session the Assembly should know as soon as possible the nature of the most important of the measures the Government has yet to bring forward, Premier Hearst gave the members a sketch of the legislation relating to the liquor traffic that will be introduced in a day or two. It consists of two bills, which are now receiving their finishing touches at the hands of the Law Clerk. To have waited until the bills are ready would have been to shorten the time in which the policy and methods proposed in them can be discussed. Even if the bills had been before the House the Premier's very luminous speech would have been none the less acceptable. True, the measures can speak for themselves, but not with such full and instant clearness as the Premier spoke for them. Those who listened to Sir William Hearst's speech will have a complete understanding of this session's liquor traffic legislation.
> Of the two bills the one on which public attention will be chiefly fixed is that providing for the referendum. That is to come some time in the Autumn, most likely in the month of October, though possibly in September, or the time may be as late as November. As the continuance or discontinuance of the present Ontario Temperance Act is one of the questions to be voted on in that referendum, it is but right that the Act should be improved in accordance with the lessons taught by its own working. Accordingly the Government is bringing in a bill to amend the Ontario Temperance Act. The chief of the proposed amendments places in the hands of the Government the sole authority to sell all liquors that can lawfully be sold under the Act. Thus, as the Government announced several weeks ago, the sale to private vendors is to be abolished. Druggists will be allow- to dispense liquor as at present, but they can get their supplies only from Government stores. By this change important reforms will be brought about. The sale of liquor will be under the control of the License Board. There will be a head office in Toronto, and there will be a central warehouse or warehouses for the receipt of liquor in quantities and for its distribution to the Government sales agencies at convenient points throughout the province. There will be no chance for profiteering, for there will be no private sellers and the prices will be prescribed from time to time by the Board. The liquor will be sold in sealed containers as determined by the Board, and the quality will be beyond question. By taking over the sale of the liquors the Government hopes to put an end to the abuse of doctors' prescriptions. When the Ontario Temperance Act has thus been improved, its merits may commend themselves to many voters who may be dissatisfied with it in its present form. At all events, nobody can say that the Government left the Act under the handicap of faults that were brought out in its operation.
> A War Measure.
> Sir William Hearst reminded the House that the Ontario Temperance Act was resorted to as a war measure, and for its justification it stands on exactly the same ground as the statutes of Parliament and the orders-in-council passed at Ottawa for restricting in war-time the home consumption of foods such as bacon, wheat flour, sugar, and for otherwise abridging individual rights in order to strengthen the nation's arm against the enemy. A Government that lacked the courage to take the responsibility for strong action in the nation's behalf at such a time would be unworthy of its trust. Sir William Hearst looks upon the Ontario Temperance Act as one of the most helpful of the measures taken to increase Ontario's vigor in the cause of defence. Most people will agree with him. In the speeches he delivered in the House when the Ontario Temperance Bill was being discussed he made it perfectly clear that it was as a war measure the Bill was introduced. He provided for a referendum to be submitted after two or three years when the men should all be at home, and he is now presenting legislation for the taking of that referendum. As provided for in the Ontario Temperance Act, the referendum would be simply on a question whether that Act should be continued or the liquor traffic restored to its former status as a licensed trade to be carried on over the bar and through stores. Sir William Hearst, like everybody else, is convinced that the overwhelming mass of public opinion is now against the restoration of the bar as formerly authorized. He is also sufficiently observant to note that very many estimable citizens who are as hostile to the open bar as the most thoroughgoing teetotalers are almost as hostile to prohibition as provided for in the Ontario Temperance Act. He sees that the force of public opinion must be behind any law for the restriction of the liquor traffic, and his Government has therefore sought to make the referendum a true test and authoritative arbiter in the matter. Four questions will be submitted to the voters—the men and women of the province, being British subjects of not less than 21 years of age. Here are the questions that are to be on the ballot paper:
> 1. Are you in favor of the repeal of the O. T. A.?
> 2. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than 2 51-100 per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to the O. T. A. to permit such sale?
> 3. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than 2 51-100 per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by majority vote for such sale, etc.?
> 4. Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to the O. T. A. to permit such sale?

Light Beer, 5.46 Proof Spirits.

The light beer of about two and a half per cent. alcohol would be of about 5.46 proof spirits. It seems to be the intention that everybody who votes shall answer each question.

As has already been said, the main line of cleavage on this question of liquor traffic is no longer one between prohibitionists and adherents of the open bar. It is rather a question of differing views as to policy on the part of different shades of temperance sentiment. For this change the community owes a debt of gratitude to the Government and to the Government's war measure, the O. T. A.. The three years of the closed bar have, so far as the weight of public opinion goes, sealed the fate of the open bar. But it was a difficult task so to arrange the referendum as to enable the weight of public opinion to predominate. By a less skilful plan the will of the majority might be thwarted. Under this plan the citizen can vote against every proposal he dislikes and for the one he likes. There is little danger that the issue of this referendum may not be in accordance with the will of the majority voting. If the O. T. A. is continued it will be because more than half the voters so desire. There is no doubt that the thoroughgoing prohibitionists will rally their full force in support of the O. T. A. The citizens who are against out-and-out prohibition but are far from desiring to bring back the licensed trade as it was, will vote against the O. T. A., however they may distribute their support among the other three proposals, against all of which the thoroughgoing prohibitionists will vote.

IN THE HIGHLANDS.

In the highlands, in the country places,
Where the old plain men have rosy faces,
And the young fair maidens
Quiet eyes;
Where essential silence cheers and blesses,
And forever in the hill recesses
Her more lovely music
Broods and dies.

O to mount again where erst I haunted;
Where the old red hills are bird-enchanted,
And the low green meadows
Bright with sward;
And when even dies, the million-tinted,
And the night has come, and planets glinted,
Lo, the valley hollow
Lamp-bestarred!

O to dream, O to awake and wander
There, and with delight to take and render,
Through the trance of silence,
Quiet breath;
Lo! for there among the flowers and grasses,
Only the mightier movement sounds and passes;
Only winds and rivers,
Life and Death.

Passing a law to make it compulsory to play the National Anthem at the close of public entertainments is a departure of questionable merit. Compulsion is never palatable no matter what it is attached to—whether castor oil or cocktails. If we were forced to eat ice cream or compelled to watch a good ball game we might rebel, hence the compulsory playing of God Save the King gives the impression that the piece is played unwillingly. In better taste would be a law to penalize the people who jam their hats on and rush for the door just as soon as the National Anthem starts, and it is surprising how many thoughtlessly include themselves in this category.

Famous Hockey Player Buried

VANCOUVER, April, 9—The funeral of the late Joe Hall, former Canadian hockey player, who died of pneumonia following influenza, at Seattle Saturday was held here Tuesday. The body was forwarded to Vancouver from Seattle, arriving Sunday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Emily Hall and Bert Hall, mother and brother, respectively, of the hockey star, who went to Seattle last Thursday when informed that his condition was serious.

Joe Hall was born in England and on coming to Canada first took up his residence in Brandon, where his wife and family now reside. He first learned to play hockey with the Brandon intermediate team in the winter of 1900, and played with them until 1902, when he became a member of the Winnipeg Rowing Club. He moved up into senior ranks that season, and when the Winnipeg Rowing Club team journeyed to Ottawa to play for the Stanley Cup, Hall played on the defence for the Rowing Club.

From Winnipeg Hall returned to Brandon and played on the team of that city until he went to the International League, playing for Houghton, Mich., with marked success. From Houghton Hall returned to Winnipeg, and afterwards came to Montreal to play for the team of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association. From the M.A.A. team he went to the Shamrocks, and played with them for one season.

JOINED QUEBEC IN 1909

He joined the Quebec Hockey Club on the formation of the National Hockey League in 1909 and played on the team when they won the championship in 1912 and '913. He continued as a member of the Quebec team until two seasons ago, when the club decided to suspended operations. When Quebec abandoned hockey the players were pooled, and in the draw for them Hall became a member of the Canadiens, with which team he was playing for the Stanley Cup, when he contracted influenza and developed pneumonia, which resulted in his sudden death.

ALWAYS GAVE HIS BEST

Hall's worth as a defence man was never more apparent than this season, despite his thirty-eight years and there has been little, if anything, to warrant the name of "Bad Joe" in his playing since he joined the N.H.A. During the last two seasons, when he was seen to such good advantage in Toronto, he earned a host of friends for his gameness and his earnestness. Discussing him in one of the dressing rooms at the Arena last winter "Rusty" Crawford said: "The trouble with Hall is, he never knows when to quit, and he is just as anxious now to win as when he was a kid out West." To go down with the feeling that you always tried, no matter what happened, is the best than can be expected and in the passing of Hall the game loses a man that has never tried and found wanting. He was afraid of no one and spared neither himself nor his opponent in a pinch, but when the history of Canada's national winter pastime is written Joe Hall will be one of its grandest figures.

150 PRESCRIPTIONS IN 27 DAYS

CHATHAM, April 9—Dr. Reginald Rutherford, a local physician, was convicted in the Police Court on a charge of assisting or enabling Edward Ellis to evade the Ontario Temperance Act, an he was fined $300 and costs by Magistrate Arnold. Evidence was given in the court showing that he had issued over 150 prescriptions during the period from March 1 to 27. The defendant denied the charge that he had tried to evade the Act, and claimed that he had issued prescriptions in good faith. The case was enlarged from Tuesday in order that the prescriptions might be inspected. Tho defendant expressed his intention of appealing.

The Tourniquet

By R. RAY BAKER

(Copyright, [illegible], by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"My hermiting business is ruined."

James Morgan stood in the doorway of his hermitage and gazed resentfully across Silver lake, where the red brick buildings of the new Ashton Memorial hospital loomed against a blue June sky.

The slight frown developed into a pronounced scowl as his ears detected a faint humming which originated some distance back of the shack. The humming became a roar as a motorcar, with cutout open, whizzed past not far from the dwelling of the dejected hermit.

"It's the limit the way civilization chases a fellow around," he growled. "Here I got a place all picked out for a quiet, unmolested summer of solitude, and when I arrive to begin my hermiting I find that some one has built a concrete race track at my back door, and some one else has erected a kill-or-cure place in my front yard. Between shieking motorcars and complaining, convalescent patients and giddy nurses my hermitage bids fair to ripen into a main street of a busy town on a Saturday night."

He shrugged his shoulders in disgust and strode into the shack, which consisted of a living, dining, cook and sleeping room—all in one. Three open windows permitted plenty of light and breeze to dispel germs and gloom.

In one corner were a cook stove and a table, in another a narrow cot devoid of bedding. Still another corner held a bookcase in which were some dust-incrusted volumes. Two three-legged stools and one which, possessing four, stood aside in proud disdain, comprised the other articles of furniture.

The hermit rummaged in his pockets and produced a pipe, a sack of tobacco, a box of matches and a railroad guide. Planting himself on the haughty stool, he filled the first-mentioned article from the second, applied part of the third and began to peruse the fourth.

He was not a veteran hermit. His face was clean-shaven and he had clear-cut, youthful features, set off by a pair of piercing brown eyes. He was only twenty-seven years old, and that is altogether too young for one to be in the business of hermiting.

The decision to become a recluse was due to two things. They were the acquisition of a fortune and the loss of an attractive young woman he had intended making his partner in a venture far different from hermiting.

Janet Ellison had decided, after all, that she did not care to settle down, so just before she left with her parents for a tour of the continent she broke off her engagement with James.

A month later James inherited nearly half a million dollars from an uncle who died in the Klondike. The money acted as soothing balm for his shattered heart for a brief period—until doting mothers heard of his stroke of luck and began setting snares for him.

This having sweethearts thrust upon him when he had just lost his heart's desire was too much for James. He got tired of attending debuts of young misses and listening to their chatter of society and fashion and other subjects that held no interest for him, especially since he was still yearning and longing for Janet. The deceit of the whole thing grew on him and made him cynical. He determined to sever the sphere of feminism from his universe.

He decided to spend a winter in California, and then in the summer to start hermiting for fair. Before his trip West he located this shack in the Ohio woods, learned who the owner was, and rented it for the season. When this transaction took place there was no sign of a habitation or a road in the vicinity.

Only one man knew his present whereabouts, and that was his chum of college days, Ralph Williamson. Williamson helped him locate the place and even offered to spend some of the time with him; but James declined, declaring he was going into hermiting "for all there was in it."

Williamson laughed and remarked: "You'll soon be back and you'll marry Janet, after all, when she comes home." Then, thinking to do his friend a favor, Williamson secretly sent a letter to a certain address in the Canadian wilds, taking pains to detail facts about Klondike gold.

The day after James arrived at his cabin, to find it no longer a solitude, he set out on a hike, avoiding the turnpike and heading into the woods that fringed the shore. Heavy underbrush made progress rather difficult, so he took out a long clasp knife to cut a walking stick from a tree. Spying a branch that looked good to him some distance up the trunk, he climbed the tree and, seated on one branch, began to saw at the one he had selected, which was just above him.

James was not adept as a tree cutter or climber, or as an equilibrium artist, and somehow, just as he was taking a final whack at the branch he desired, he lost his balance and fell. The knife, clutched in his right hand, slashed his left arm and severed an artery, and as he sank in a faint to the ground blood gushed from the wound in vicious spurts.

When James regained consciousness he was lying on the cot in the hermitage. But alas! It was a hermitage no longer. A young woman, clad in a white uniform with narrow blue stripes, was holding his left arm aloft while another similarly dressed was busy about the stove, in which a fire had been built.

The young woman holding his arm—a very pretty blonde—smiled pleasantly and handed him a glass of water.

"What's happened?" he asked after he had drunk the water. She explained in a few words.

"My friend and I were enjoying a half day off, strolling about the lake, when we heard you cry out. We found you lying under a tree, a severe cut in the brachial artery, and blood spurting so profusely from the wound that we were obliged to improvise this tourniquet with your handkerchief and a piece of wood. We saw this house in the distance, assumed that you lived here, and managed to bring you here."

The girl's fingers holding the arm were singularly soothing to the feel of his skin and her smile was one of the most cheery things he had ever seen.

"My friend is preparing something for you to eat," she announced. "It's something light, just the thing for you."

James felt that it was good to have this girl looking after his comfort in this way.

"She knows her business," he decided. "She's a very capable person, all right, and that's what I need."

One day, a month later, while James was partaking of a canned dinner, he heard an automobile horn emit several croaking blasts, followed by the sound as of a machine coming to a stop back of the shack.

Soon there was a knock at the door, and it was thrown open to admit Ralph Williamson, radiant with smiles. The two young men clasped hands warmly and Williamson was offered the four-legged stool as a special honor.

"Can't stop," he remonstrated. "I just came out to see if you had enough of hermiting."

Obtaining no answer, he went on:

"I've a pleasant surprise for you. Janet Ellison is out there in my car, and she wants you to be her special guest at a house party starting tomorrow. She got back just this week, and immediately inquired about you. Come on and get ready."

James held up the coffee pot.

"Have a drink," he invited, and receiving a shake of the head from his visitor, he poured another cupful for himself. Dropping in a lump of sugar he stirred it and said:

"I've had enough of hermiting, all right, Ralph; but I can't go with you. You see, I'm getting married to-morrow—to a young lady who tonight will finish her course of training in that hospital across the lake."

CUSTOM OF COLONIAL DAYS

"Beating the Bounds" Was Enjoyed by the Boys More in America Than in England.

I believe that, in earliest colonial days, boys also took part in a joyful outing, a public custom known as perambulating or beating the bounds, writes Alice Morse Earle, in her "Child Life in Colonial Days." The memory of boundaries and division lines, of commons, public highways, etc., was kept fresh in the minds of the inhabitants by an old-time Aryan custom,—the walking around them once a year, noting lines of boundary and impressing these on the notice and memory of young people. To induce English boys to accompany these perambulations, it was customary to distribute some little gratuity; this was usually a willow wand, tied at the end with a bunch of points, which were bits of string about eight inches long, consisting of strands of cotton or woolen yarn, braided or twisted together, ended by a tag of a bit of metal or wood. These points were used to tie the hose to the knees of the breeches; the waistband of the breeches to the jacket, etc. Long after points were abandoned as a portion of dress, the wands, with their little knot of points, were given. Pepys wrote, in 1661, that he heard that, at certain boundaries, the boys were smartly whipped to impress the bounds upon their memories.

After the War Is Won.

"Mr. Smith, this is Mr. Blankencamp."

"Glad to know you."

"Glad to know y— Say; your name is awfully familiar. Didn't you serve with the marines over at—?"

"Why, yes!"

"And didn't you once lend me a light when I was all out of briquet juice and happened to be going by your diggings with an unlit pipe in my face?"

"Seems to me I do remember a mutt with a phiz like yours, straying up in our neck of the woods one morning looking like a lost soul; yes, I remember swapping addresses with him after lighting his stove for him. So you're it, are you?"

"I am that—shake!"

"Shake!"—Stars and Stripes.

Rather Fastidious.

"Copperhead" Lehew, our erstwhile orderly with the dilapidated shirt, objects strenuously to escorting negro women around camp. He claims that if he had a good shirt it would not be so bad to walk with the women, but even in his old shirt he has been very faithful and courteous to the negro folks. We agree with you, Lehew, that it is tough to walk around camp with the women wearing a ripped shirt.—Camp Lee Bayonet.

KINGSTON SHIPBUILDING

KINGSTON, April 9—One of the Dominion Government's new standard boats for the inland lake trade is to be built by the Kingston Shipbuilding Co. The keel has already been laid, and much progress has been made in assembling the various parts. The vessel is one of the largest ever built in this yard, being 260 feet long, 45 feet beam, and 30 feet in depth.

Toronto Soldiers Objected To W.C.T.U

TORONTO, April 8.—Commenting on the interference by some returned soldiers with the W.C.T.U. tag collection Provincial Secretary William Turley, of the G.W.V.A., expressed the opinion that it was unfortunate that the women's organization should have passed resolutions against the soldiers' smokes.

"They do not know the conditions at the front," he said, "and they were going outside their province in taking the action as they did. At the same time it is unfortunate some of the veteran should take objection to the efforts of the women to raise funds to provide a better home for girls in Toronto who have no homes."

"We are very much upset over the whole affair," said Mrs. Pugsley, chairman of the publicity committee of the campaign, adding: "The veterans who interfered, I believe, represented only a small percentage of the returned men. Ninety per cent. of the men are sympathetic towards our campaign. In any event, only a small section of our workers in the down town district were asked by the Mayor to discontinue their collections."

"The soldiers, as a body, are not antagonistic to us," she said.

DEATH OF JAMES KERR

PORT Hope, April 8—One of Port Hope's oldest residents, James Kerr, passed away yesterday afternoon, following a stroke of paralysis about ten days ago. He was born in the County of Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1826, and came to Canada when fourteen years of age, settling in the township of Clarke. For some time he conducted a hotel in Orono, and moved to Port Hope forty-two years ago, taking up the business of auctioneer, which he carried on until 1916, when he retired. He was of a robust constitution, his rapid recovery after the amputation of his left arm at the age of eighty-eight being a proof of his wonderful vitality. Three sons, Stonewall and Collingwood of Los Angeles, and Henry, overseas and two daughters, Mrs. E. J. McLean, in town and Mrs. Stanley Fallis at McTaggart, Sask., survive. Mayor B. L. McLean of Lindsay and Russell and Charles McLean of Toronto are grandsons.

A Labor Saving Combination

"IT is the last straw that breaks the camel's back." So runs the old proverb. And it is the little extra efforts which tire you out on wash-day.

Eddy's Indurated Fibreware Washtubs and Washboards form a combination which save you much extra labor. Indurated Fiberware tubs are much easier to lift and to move about. They keep the water hot for a much longer space of time, because they do not conduct heat as metal does. They are easier to keep clean, because they are made in one piece without joint or seam, and the hard, glazed surface is impervious to liquids or odors. And they cost no more. Last longer, too.

Eddy's Twin Beaver Washboard has a double rubbing surface of Indurated Fibreware which loosens the dirt quickly and saves many tiresome motions.

Fashion dictates Oxfords for Spring. Among the most pleasing models is the long slender vamp with plain toe, high arch and Louis heel. Correct in dull black, patent or colored leathers.

An Easter Suggestion

FASHION for women as reflected in the new gowns for spring, strongly suggests the Oxford in footwear as in most proper keeping with style. Oxfords will be more popular this year than in many seasons past.

Most effective in appearance among Oxfords is the long, slender vamp model, with the popular Louis heel. Its effect with the new gowns, either in black or patent leather, is most striking.

As with all of our models, A.H.M. Oxfords combine, with correct style, a capacity for service and an assurance of comfort to the feet—when properly fitted by your dealer.

After Clouds comes Sunshine.
After Despondency comes Joy.
After Sickness comes Health.
After Weakness comes Strength.

In the spring, when you're "all in"—fagged out—blood thin, if you will turn to Nature's remedy, a tonic made from wild roots and barks, which has stood fifty years as the best spring tonic—you will find strength regained. No need to tell you it's Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, put up in tablet or liquid form, and sold by every druggist in the land. After a hard winter—shut up indoors, your blood needs a temperance tonic, a tissue-builder and blood-maker such as this "Medical Discovery," of Dr. Pierce's.

Stratford, Ont.—"I can highly recommend Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets. I have used these remedies twenty-five years in my family. Had a very bad case of neuralgia and 'Golden Medical Discovery' completely cured me in a very short time. I have given it to all my family, also to my grandchildren. I had a grand-child last summer that we thought could not live. We gave him the 'Discovery' and he is strong and healthy as any child could be. I am a great believer in Doctor Pierce's Medicines and would not be without them."—Mrs. A. Bowling, 265 Railway Ave.

Overcoming The World
The Story of Malcom Kirk
By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued

Kirk drew back a little and gazed at the stalwart young figure. Then he glanced at the painting.

"I would not like to take the contract of holding you in my arms as I did then. But, as I remember, you were a very good baby."

"So he is now," said Raleigh, who had turned his face towards the easel to hide his emotion.

That made Faith laugh, and the rest joined her, and the tension of feeling broke, and they all grew more at ease. For several minutes questions and answers flew fast in the now darkening studio.

"Father, you must give an account of yourself. The rest of us know how we came to be here. But your presence is a mystery!" said Faith, drawing up closer to him.

"Well, my dear, it was your letter that brought me."

"My letter?"

"Yes, the one you wrote Sunday. Your mother was very anxious about you. You did not mean to tell us, but we read between the lines that you were having 'experiences' as you call them. Besides, a check came from the Companion that morning, and I felt the need of a little vacation and came on to Chicago to study the 'hired girl problem' and other sociological experiments.

Faith laughed. Then she passed her hand over her father's sleeve.

"I do believe you have gone and bought a new overcoat! You aren't going to be sick are you, father. Are you feeling all right in your mind?"

"Your mother made me promise that I would get one as soon as I reached the city," said Malcom, a little sheepishly. "It one cost eight dollars and a half. That was one reason I was late in getting around to the Fulton's. The train was delayed by an accident, too."

"Eight dollars and a half," muttered Faith with some indignation. But the thought of her father and his love for her that had brought him to the city softened her indignation. She clung to him closer, and the other men looked at father and daughter with great interest.

"How did you happen to know I was here?" asked Faith, suddenly.

"I didn't, but when I called at the Fulton's, Mr. Stanley had just gone. Mrs. Fulton told me who he was and confessed that she had no idea that you were in any way connected with the story of Stanley's life. She said he told her he expected to be at the studio this afternoon. No one knew where you had gone, and so I came down here to find him, intending to go back to the Fulton's by the time you returned."

"It's all simple enough, isn't it?" said Malcolm Stanley, thoughtfully.

"Yes," said Faith. Then she suddenly remembered that she was a "hired girl" having a Thursday afternoon off.

"Father, I must be getting back to the Fulton's. They cannot live without me. Put that down in your sociological notes on the "hired girl problem," that no matter how low in the scale of the 'hired girl' may be, she is really of the first importance for the comfort and happiness of thousands of the best families in the land."

"That's true. Why isn't there some way, then, to elevate and dignify the service?" asked Malcom Kirk, who seemed ready to discuss the problem seriously.

"No, no, father! We can't stop to reform the world right here. It is too late. Do you want your daughter to be scolded for not getting dinner in time?"

"I am going back with you," said her father, rising.

Then he turned towards Stanley, who was looking a little anxiously at father and daughter.

"Come, Stanley, I'll take the liberty of asking you to come with us. Mrs. Fulton said you might return this evening anyway. We haven't had our talk out, and I will be responsible for the consequences of taking you out with us."

"I was planning to go," said Stanley, looking relieved. "I want to see Mr. Fulton again on business." He did not say that he wanted to see Faith.

"Come to think of it," said Raleigh, suddenly, "I have an invitation myself to take dinner with the Fulton's tonight. Mrs. Raleigh is out of town, and Fulton asked me to come and talk over a new art design he has received for the cover of his Mining Journal.

"But," cried Faith, in some dismay, "Do you three big men realize that I am the 'hired girl' at the Fulton's. Do you think I can possibly get a dinner ready at this time of the day for such appetites as I am sure you all have?"

There was a look of embarrassment on the faces of Raleigh and Stanley, but Malcom Kirk settled the matter by saying, as he took Faith's arm and led her out of the studio:

"Don't be alarmed, gentlemen! I will speak for the dinner. Faith can make a palatable dinner out of bread and water in some mysterious way, and if anything else is wanted we can feast on the remarkable events of the afternoon."

So they went out, laughing and talking, and as they took a carriage for Ellis avenue, the driver engaging to get them there before five o'clock, there was no more happy, light-hearted girl in the great city than Faith Kirk.

CHAPTER XIX

That was the most remarkable company dinner that Mrs Fulton ever knew in her house. Faith insisted on going to work as if nothing unusual had happened. By seven o'clock everything was ready, and the company sat down. Malcolm Stanley rubbed his eyes several times as Faith came in and removed the several courses and served with a quiet dignity that made its impression upon every one. Mrs. Fulton was visibly embarrassed by the fact that the girl who was in her kitchen, her "help" was the daughter of Malcolm Kirk, who was the author of such stories in The Companion. Roy had discovered his authorship at once by asking him a leading question, and Malcom had not been able to conceal his identity. There was an unusual respect in the young gentleman's attitude towards the Kansas preacher, a respect which, however, did not prevent him from eating a larger part of a dish of preserves, unobserved, during the general excitement of conversation. Malcom Kirk looked proudly at Faith every time she came into the room, and the fact that she was there serving the household work did not disturb him or give him any false feeling of shame. Even Mrs. Fulton had a vague dawning of the fact of nobility in service that had been an unknown thing to her, although she could not help feeling astonished whenever she looked around the table and realized who her guests were.

After dinner was over, Alice insisted on going out to help Faith. Her mother did not rebuke her, and Faith gratefully accepted her aid. When the work was all done, Mrs. Fulton came into the kitchen.

She was struggling with an unusual emotion, and it was not easy for her to say what she had prepared.

"Faith, Miss Kirk—of course—you must come into the parlor with us this evening. You ought to have told me who you were. I—I—perhaps, I have not treated you just right. I don't know—'—'

"Don't say anything about that ma'am," said Faith. "This experience has been worth a good deal to me. I'm afraid I've have had some unchristian thoughts about you.

"You do not need to say anything about that," said Mrs. Fulton, hastily Then she added in a tone that made Faith feel that she had been thinking a good deal of Faith's efficient service "we shall not know how to get along without you. You have quite spoiled us for the average help."

"I'm glad if you're been pleased," replied Faith, and that was all that was said then, but the atmosphere between her and Mrs. Fulton cleared up wonderfully.

That evening was not soon forgotten by the Fultons. The three guests had a good deal to say. All of them had seen a good deal of the world and each one from his own point of view was a fascinating talker. Mr. and Mrs. Fulton sat silent and intensely interested. Mr. Fulton quite forgot his business interests for a while. Alice and Faith sat together and listened breathelessly to one or two stories Malcom Stanley told very modestly about some genuine adventures in the mining districts of the African Transvaal. Roy, who was just beginning to devour books in much the same manner as he devoured pie, leaned his chin on his hand and his elbows on his knees, looking up at the three men who represented so much that was heroic to him.

But perhaps the one person who impressed the whole company most deeply was Malcom Kirk.

There was something so modest, yet so manly, so winsome in its genuine Christian sympathy in his whole manner that even Mrs. Fulton was profoundly moved by it.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Key West, Fla.—"For five years I suffered from irregularities, with terrible pains and an awful weakness in my back. The doctor gave me different medicines but they did me no good. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it to be the best medicine I ever tried because it made me well, and I can now do my housework. I am telling my friends about it."—Mrs. J. M. Camus, 726 Caroline St., Key West, Florida.

Many women at some period in their life suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex and which in most cases may be readily relieved by this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, just as Mrs. Camus found it helped her after suffering for years and trying everything else in vain.

If you have any annoying symptoms you fail to understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The results of their 40 years experience in advising women on this subject is at your service.

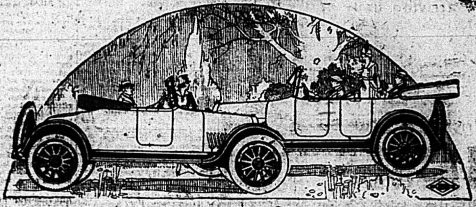
NEW GASOLINE AND TIRE MILEAGE RECORDS ESTABLISHED BY THE

McLAUGHLIN LIGHT-SIX



Economy and stability of the McLaughlin Light Six is due to the fine balance struck between power and burden. There is not a pound of unnecessary weight nor is it impoverished of a pound that could contribute to its efficiency or its life.

Power, with the famous forty-four horse power valve-in-head Light Six engine, and roomy body in open and closed models set a new standard of value in Canadian built cars. Owners of this model get from 25 to 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline and from 8,000 to 12,000 miles on tires.

WINNIPEG IS REEKING WITH HOME-MADE LIQUOR

WINNIPEG, April 9.—"Winnipeg is literally reeking with home-made liquor. We are trying to keep things within reason, but there are so many stills in the city the situation is beyond control," T. H. Verner, Customs collector for the Inland Revenue Department stated in Police Court. "The evil is very strong and growing stronger daily," he said.

Coldblooded Murder By Sinn Feins

BELFAST, April 7.—The coldblooded assassination of Resident Magistrate Milling at Westport by Sinn Feiners has caused horror and consternation among peaceable and law-abiding people in Ulster, where the murdered officer was well known, having been police district inspector in Belfast, Antrim and elsewhere. He was a fine gentleman, both as police officer and magistrate, and the only motive for his murder was that he represented British rule.

The police are scouring the country for the murderers. If the Government makes the reward big enough the murderers will be discovered.

The loyalist press everywhere urges the Irish Government to drop namby-pamby ways and deal drastically with Irish sedition. The present state in the south and west is a disgrace to British rule. Neither life, limb or property is safe, yet a section of the Government would put Ulster Loyalists under the heel of Millings' murderers.

THREE YEARS FOR LETTER CARRIER

TORONTO, April 9.—"A severe law," remarked Col. Denison in the Police Court when he sentenced Arthur H. Godard, a letter carrier, to three years in Kingston penitentiary for stealing $3.00 and two postal notes the property of the Postmaster-General of Canada.

"He was a letter carrier. The public must be protected. The law is necessarily drastic. But it is very likely it won't be long before he is out on the street again," sair Mr. Corley.

G.T.R. ROADMASTER DEAD

BRANTFORD, April 9—James Piper, for over forty years roadmaster on the Grand Trunk Railway in this district, is dead here after a few days' illness with pneumonia. He had only recently retired from active work, and was known all over the system in Ontario. A grown-up family survive.

21ST BATTALION COMING SOON

KINGSTON, April 9—Lieut.-Col. H. Le Pense, in a cablegram received in Kingston, states that the 21st Battalion will probably sail for Canada at the end of April or the beginning of May.

BUYS PURE BRED HOLSTEINS

W. J. Taber, Athens, has recently added to his herd of pure bred Holsteins a bull, which is a grandson of May Echo Sylvia, the world's record cow and a half brother of the bull sold by A. C. Hardy for $106,000. The animal was formerly the property of R. W. E. Burnaby, West Toronto.

TO RETURN SOON.

Miss Whittard, of this city, has received word from Driver W. Hunter that he is soon to leave for Canada and expected to be home about the middle of April. Driver Hunter enlisted in the year of 1914 and has come through most of the largest battles without receiving a wound. He is to be accompanied on his return by his English bride of Brighton, England.

HONORS FOR A BELLEVILLE BOY

Word has been received that Thomas E. Hyland, of this city, who went overseas as a sergeant in the 80th Battalion, has been promoted to the rank of captain in command of No. 2 company, 75th Battalion, No. 2 military district, Kinmel Park, Rhyl, North Wales, also that Pte. Gerald Draycott of this city is in that camp and in good health.

SAPPER CARRE RETURNS

Sapper F. J. Carre, son of the late Mr. Henry Carre, 276 Albert Street, returned from overseas on the steamship Caronia and arrived home yesterday, being heartily welcomed by his relatives and many friends. Sapper Carre enlisted with the 155th Battalion in January, 1916 and was transferred to the Royal Engineers, serving in France and Belgium.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mr. John Colville, an employee of the Matthew Gravity Carrier Company, Port Hope, was yesterday morning found dead in bed in his apartments on John Street in that town. Deceased lived alone and had not been seen since Saturday evening and it is supposed that he died early Sunday morning as the meat and other provisions for Sunday's dinner were all on the table. His parcel of laundry was on the table in his bedroom not untied.

PLANE FORCED TO LAND

Two aeroplanes passed over this city on Monday afternoon and a third one followed about seven o'clock. The last mentioned one, owing to engine trouble, was forced to land near Cobourg. Yesterday the machine was repaired and started on its journey to Leaside. The disabled machine marked the last of the numerous planes in use at Mohawk Camp. So Bellevillians will likely be deprived of the pleasure of witnessing any more birdmen floating across the city at least for some time.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Palmer, who four years ago went to Renfrew from a farm at Northcote to spend the rest of their days in retirement, completed last week fifty years of married life. They as Albert W. Palmer and Jane Burton stood before Rev. Mr. White a Methodist minister on April 2nd, 1869, and made their marriage vows. The wife is now three score years and ten, and the husband six years her senior. Both are well preserved physically, and are serenly spending the twilight of life. Mrs. Palmer still does her own housework. The family of seven children being scattered, there was no celebration of the golden wedding day.

RAPID PROMOTION

Lieut.-Col. Jas. C. Stewart, son of Postmaster Stewart, of Kingston arrived home on the Northland. Col. Stewart went overseas with a draft from the R.C.H.A. and won the rank of major and lieutenant-colonel, and the D.S.O. on the field. He was given command of a battery at the front and did valuable work till the armistice was signed. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College and one of the youngest and most popular colonels of Kingston. A brother, Lieut. Rodgie Stewart, was killed in action a year ago.

CHURCH AND SOLDIER

Lieut. A. G. Sanford, well known in Belleville, will speak in Chalmers Church, Kingston, upon "The Church and the Returned Soldier."

SOLDIERS ARRIVE HOME.

The following Belleville soldiers arrived home yesterday:

Private Robert Hunter; he enlisted with a unit from Camp Borden and served two and a half years in France. He is stopping at 51 Station Street.

Sergt. H. Holton, of 377½ Front St.; he went over with the 155th Battalion and has been serving with the 2nd Battalion.

Corp. L. Sullivan, 32 Colborne St.; he enlisted with the 155th Battalion and has been serving with the 2nd Battalion.

Pte. Geo. Collins, of 124 Chatham St. He has been serving for over three years with the R. C. H. A. and judging from the remarks of his comrades on board the troop train they were sorry to part company with him. He had a host of friends to welcome him home.

Driver W. [illegible], 2 Dafoe St.; he signed up in August, 1914, with the 34th Battery and was transferred to the 30th Battery.

NEW C.P.R. FREIGHT SHED

Mr. W. H. Patterson of this city, has been awarded the contract of cutting down the embankment on South George street, preparatory to the construction of the C. P. R. freight shed, work upon which will be started at once.

CALLS FOR POLICE

Last night the police responded to a call on Ridley street, where it was alleged trouble was ensuing between husband and wife. All was quiet when the officer arrived, and no complaint was made by either party concerned. A call was also answered to Mill street, where a drunk was said to be noisy. The man was taken care of by a friend.

CAR STOLEN AT TORONTO

The local police have been requested to be on the lookout for an auto which was stolen in Toronto on Sunday last. It is a McLaughlin two passenger roadster, 1918 model, maroon color, Ontario License No. 4425, serial No. 2761, round bumper slightly bent, Goodyear tires and the word Antduva on a nickle and brass name plate on wind shield. A reward of $50 is offered.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY MEET

The annual meeting of Christ Church Branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday, April 2. There were fifty members present. After the opening prayer and the roll was called a number of reports were read. Twenty-two meetings were held during the year, two bales were sent to Archdeacon Goodall at Porquis Junction, and to the Shinwauk Home. The treasurer's report showed receipts during the year to be $149.11 and an expenditure of $139.28, leaving a balance of $9.83. After election of officers and dispersion of work for the coming year the members adjourned to a light tea.

PTE. MCDONALD HOME

Pte. Harry McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, of McDonald Avenue, city, arrived home yesterday from overseas, receiving a warm welcome from many friends. Pte. McDonald enlisted with the 8th C.M.R. in 1915, was transferred to the 4th C.M.R. and in the strenuous fighting about Ypres was taken prisoner on June 2, 1916. He was confined at Merseburg, Saxony, and conceived a very poor opinion of his captors from the treatment accorded prisoners. When the armistice was signed, he was ill in hospital, but was able and glad to leave the prison camp on December 22 last, for England, leaving there on March 29 for Canada on the S. S. Caronia. Pte. McDonald is very grateful for the many parcels of food and comforts received from Belleville patriotic organizations during his captivity, without which he could hardly have existed.

VICTORIA

A very pleasant evening was spent on the 26th March at the home of Mr Lorne Brickman, when about 25 of the young people of this locality gathered with well filled baskets to bid farewell to Mr. Donald Dinnie before his departure for the Northwest, where he intends taking up land. The evening was spent in games, music, refreshments. An address was read and a purse of money was presented to him.

Mr. Norman Ductia of Trenton gave a very impressive sermon on Sunday morning in our church.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Rae Fox and children spent Sunday at the home of Mr. S. Bush, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Loney entertained company over the weekend.

Mr. D. Dinnie left on Wednesday for the west.

Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer spent a couple of days at the home of Mr. S. Fox.

"It Has No Equal" Says Ed. Hopper

No Medicine Did Him Any Good Till He Took Tanlac

"Tanlac has convinced me that it has no equal for people in the condition I was in, for it has made me feel like a different person," said Edward Hooper, of 2062 St. Claire Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"For four years," he continued "I suffered from an awful case of stomach trouble. My appetite failed and the little I forced down hurt me. I felt like there was a lump right in the pit of my stomach and was constantly belching up sour undigested food. I would get so dizzy that I would almost fall, I had dull headaches and felt unfit for work. I felt I was getting worse and don't believe I could have kept up much longer.

"I have taken four bottles of Tanlac now, and am feeling fine. My appetite is great and I haven't been troubled with indigestion or gas since I started taking Tanlac. All that bloated feeling is gone, the dizziness has left me and I actually feel like a different person."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling, by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

MRS. HAMILTON GAULT HAS OBTAINED DIVORCE

Montreal, April 9.—A special cable from Paris to The Montreal Star announces that Mrs. A. Hamilton Gault has obtained a divorce from her husband, Lt.-Col. Hamilton Gault, who raised the Princess Patricia's regiment.

Suit for divorce was brought by Lt.-Col. A. Hamilton Gault before the Canadian Senate, which refused the decree. Another suit was reported as likely at the time, but this cable is the first news of any further action.

Lt.-Col. Gault this morning said he had nothing to add to this cabled information.

The opinion of legal men in the city is that a divorce granted by a French court, before whom the evidence was made in a proper and legal way, would be respected by the Canadian courts.

AFTER A HARD DAY'S WORK

Rub the tired muscles with a few drops of the soothing, refreshing, antiseptic liniment, Absorbine, Jr. You will find it pleasant and convenient to use and remarkably efficacious. This liniment invigorates jaded muscles, limbers the joints and prevents second day soreness and lameness after a strenuous, tiresome day of sport or work.

America's best athletes and trainers use Absorbine, Jr. to relieve strains and wrenches and also as a rub-down before vigorous exercise to prevent such conditions.

Absorbine, Jr., is concentrated and therefore economical—only a few drops are required at an application. One ounce Absorbine, Jr., to a quart of water or witch hazel makes an invigorating rub-down and general purpose liniment.

$1.25 a bottle at druggists or postpaid. Send 10c for liberal trial bottle or procure regular size from your druggist to-day. W. F. Young, P. D. F. 457 Lyman's Bldg., Montreal, Can.

A LUCKY FIND

By HELEN PAGE ROSSITER

Daniel Grove stepped up to the window of the bank paying teller, presented a twenty-dollar bank note and asked for change. The bank man hesitated, held the note up to the light, pushed it under a stamping machine and passed it back to the astonished Daniel bearing across its face in big staring letters the ominous word "Counterfeit."

"Why, see here!" began Daniel.

"Phoney, that's all," interrupted the teller. "Know who you got it from?"

"Neither his name nor address. Know him by sight only," replied Daniel.

"Tell your story to the secret service office. You'll find them interested," and Daniel located the office in question and was directed to a keen-eyed man, who scanned the discredited bank note closely, consulted with two others and said:

"You wouldn't have brought this bill here if you wasn't square. Now then, tell us all about it."

"I've been out of work, was waiting around a garage for extra chauffeur work," narrated Daniel, "and a call came when the regulars were busy. I went as directed to a certain corner. Three men got in. One of them carried a suitcase. The others had fishing outfits. The man with the suitcase sat in front with me and did the directing. I must have run 60 miles when he ordered a halt. It was along a road I don't know that I could find again, for it ran through the middle of a wooded stretch. He gave me the regular tariff out and return. Then he eyed me curiously. 'Forget us and this trip,' he said, 'and that's for yourself.' That was the twenty-dollar bill."

"Yes, this is the twenty-dollar bill, and the most dangerous counterfeit ever put on the market," observed the secret service man. "Do you want a regular job?"

"It's what I've been looking for."

"Very well, you think you would know the man who sat on the front seat of the auto with you if you met him again?"

"I feel pretty sure."

"Take a month to find him. Take another month and try to locate the spot where you left him. It's three dollars a day for you and as many thousand if you round him up."

Daniel Grove, all-around office utility man out of steady work for two months, experienced a certain fascinating zest in doing detective work. "Probably found out we've spotted their issue—planted the plates on that trip," and other enlightening expressions Daniel had caught from the secret service men.

It was a good many days later, after prodigious tramping and guess-work, that Daniel located a spot which he believed was the one where he had left the three strangers.

Using it as a base, for over two weeks Daniel traversed its neighborhood. At the end of a month he made a final report, and was allowed to resign his position as an amateur detective. Then Daniel resolved to devote his time to any kind of rural work that came along.

One day passing over a rustic bridge spanning a brook, his poetic nature responded to the attractiveness of a bright-faced, supple-limbed girl driving a cow down a foot-path. She nodded to him in the natural friendliness of ruralite ways. He asked her about the prospects of work in the neighborhood, and Doris Lake informed him that her father needed a helper.

It was a joy to the lonely young fellow to live in the same atmosphere of pleasant ways and homelike comfort with the Lakes. One evening as he and Doris wandered by the brookside they chanced to pass an old hut Daniel had not noticed before.

"I made quite a little money taking milk and vegetables to three men who came there to fish for a few days two months ago," said Doris. "They went away as mysteriously as they came."

"Two months ago—and three men!" repeated Daniel eagerly.

Doris regarded her companion in a puzzled way as she noted a sudden excitement on his part. Then she shared the same, as Daniel told all his story.

There was nothing to it but a visit to the hut. Daniel did some searching about it, but nothing developed. It was Doris who came across an old spade and a pair of rubber boots. Both objects were plastered with a sandy loam.

"Why," she said, "these must have been used in the old gravel pit over beyond the reed patch yonder. A queer place for fishermen to visit," and thither went the duo of amateur detectives, to find a spot showing loose dirt with a stake driven in its center nearly out of view.

Daniel dug and Doris watched in suspense. Daniel uttered an exultant shout, and Doris chimed in as there was revealed a suitcase.

"The plates!" spoke Daniel, as he opened it.

"Oh, the wonderful find. Now you'll go back to the city, of course, for you will be well paid, and won't want to work with humble folks in this lonely old place," and her lips puckered.

"Doris, dear," responded Daniel, fondly kissing those precious lips, "whatever I get out of the lucky find, or don't get, I shall be back here posthaste to share with you, never to leave again, if you say so."

Steamer Service For Belleville

Since the war began Belleville has suffered from a lack of steamboat service, excursion and freight. The civic deputation consisting of Mayor Platt, Aldermen Hunter and Ostrom while in Toronto this week took the boat question up with the Canada Steamship Lines with the result that Belleville is practically assured of a daily passenger and freight boat service from Trenton to Picton, also a steamer service between Trenton and the Rideau waters. The Belleville wil make the usual calls Tuesday and Sunday.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

Quebec Member Slanders Fathers of Fighting Sons

STORM IN HOUSE OF COMMONS FOLLOWS SNEER OF LUCIEN CANNON, OF DORCHESTER, QUE.—"MISERABLE COWARDLY SLANDERER," CRIES NICHOLSON OF ALGOMA, WHO WANTS TO MEET DORCHESTER MEMBER OUTSIDE"—STIRRING WORDS FROM MR. NICKLE—MINISTER OF MILITIA EXPRESSES VIEW THAT MILITARY DEFAULTERS SHOULD BE DISFRANCHISED AND DEPRIVED OF CERTAIN CIVIL RIGHTS FOR PERIOD OF YEARS.

OTTAWA, April 10.—Enraged over a taunt that Ontario members, in voting for conscription, were actuated only by a desire to win the election, Mr. G. B. Nicholson of East Algoma, who lost his only son in the war, sprang to his feet in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, denounced Mr. Lucien Cannon of Dorchester as "a miserable, cowardly slanderer," and challenged him to "repeat the remark to my face outside."

Parliamentary procedure, he complained, prevented him from giving Mr. Cannon a thrashing there and then, but he intimated that he was quite ready to whip the Dorchester member if the latter dared reiterate the slander on the green outside the House.

Members Grew Angry.

It was a stormy scene. Members from Ontario and the West were furious, and the acrimonious discussions which ensued from the reckless remarks of the Quebec man might very easily have resulted in a free fight.

Mr. Cannon bitterly opposed conscription from the start, and is alleged to have told his electors in Dorchester, in 1917, that Canada had done enough in the war, and that we should not ruin our country for England. When Mr. Nickle, the member for Kingston, charged him yesterday with making these serious statements he did not deny them, neither did Hon. Dr. Beland, when asked directly by Mr. Nickle, deny writing from his prison cell in Berlin that Cannon's speech was being widely reproduced in the German newspapers to show that Canada was getting weary of the war.

Mr. Cannon's Allegations.

The storm broke during the discussion of a resolution moved by General Sir Sam Hughes demanding uniform punishment for defaulters, deserters and slackers. The debate was very moderate, in fact very tame, until Cannon, who has been dubbed "the Dorchester Firebrand," jumped into the proceedings with a bitter speech, in which he said that the Ontario members who voted for conscription were actuated only "by a desire to win—not the war, but the election"; that Premier Borden was "anxious to save—not the Empire, but the Conservative party," and that the Ontario members and Cabinet members who misled the electors with promises of exemption from military service "should be placed in the prisoners' dock beside the victims of their promises."

When Mr. Cannon charged the conscriptionists with shifting at the time on the conscription policy, while the members from Quebec were consistent from the start, Mr. Morphy of North Perth retorted that "We were shifting mostly toward the front."

Withdraws—to Say it Outside.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt of Brantford warmly resented the Dorchester man's insinuations and indignantly exclaimed that if Quebec had done its share in the way of furnishing soldiers conscription would not have been needed. Mr. Cannon, he said, had been crying out for justice. If he got justice there would not be enough prison room in the whole province of Quebec to accommodate the slackers in Dorchester.

When Mr. Nicholson of Algoma called the Quebec man "a miserable, cowardly slanderer," he was ordered by the Speaker to withdraw, and Dr. Edwards of Frontenac shouted, "It's true, just the same."

"I will withdraw, Mr. Speaker, but I'll say it to his face outside. I hurl the contemptible remark back in his teeth, and dare him to repeat it outside this chamber," declared Mr. Nicholson.

Should be Deported.

Then Mr. Morphy of North Perth rose and said the men who wouldn't fight were not fit to live in Canada, and should be deported. He added that only fifteen soldiers enlisted from Dorchester county, represented by Mr. Cannon, that only fifteen enlisted from Kamouraska, that only three joined the colors in Joliette, and only nineteen went overseas from Bagot. As against these counties in Quebec, the German riding of North Waterloo in Ontario sent 659 young men to fight the Huns.

Mr. Charles Gauvreau of Temiscouata, whose sons served throughout the war, rose to a point of order. He wanted the Speaker to halt the man from Perth.

"Take your medicine, you mixed it yourself," yelled Dr. Edwards of Frontenac.

From a Soldiers' Constituency.

The outstanding speech of the day was made by Mr. W. F. Nickle of Kingston. Both of his sons served with distinction—one in the Royal Flying Corps, the other in the infantry—and were severely wounded in encounters with the enemy. He, of course, said nothing about that; but was a man representing Kingston, a constituency which had sent 2,000 men to the war, to sit still while taunts were being flung across the floor that conscription was used to win the election, especially when these taunts came from a man whose riding sent but fifteen soldiers to the fighting line?

What Beland Learned in Prison.

Mr. Nickle read from reports of Mr. Cannon's speeches in the Dorchester by-election of 1917 to show that "he was not only against conscription, but against the war from its inception." He asked: "Are we to ruin our country for England? No. It is not Canada's war." He read from a copy of a letter written by Hon. Dr. Henri S. Beland from his German prison to the effect that the German newspapers were quoting Cannon's statements at great length to show that Canada was getting weary of the war. He asked Dr. Beland to say so at once if he never wrote such a letter.

The member for Beauce sat silent.

"The member for Dorchester asks for justice," proceeded Mr. Nickle. "Let him thank God that he is not getting justice. If he were getting justice his punishment would be far worse."

COPENHAGEN, April 10 — Despatches from Kissington report that citizens and officials of Wuerzburg, thirty miles to the northwest have struck against the Bavarian Soviet Republic and that town is now in the hands of Government troops. Most of the Spartacan leaders are reported to have been arrested but railway communication with the city has been interrupted.

Terrible Tornado In Western States

Speciail Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

DALLAS, Texas, April 10.—One hundred known persons had been listed as victims of the tornado which yesterday struck northern Texas, Southern Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas, when order began to form today from the chaos caused by storm. Property damage was heavy. The injured, some of them so badly hurt that they cannot recover, are expectd to number several hundred.

EXPRESS CO.'S MEN AWARDED INCREASES

MONTREAL, April 10—Judgment was rendered yesterday by the Board of Appeal appointed by the Minister of Labor in connection with the dispute between the Canadian Express Company and those of its clerks, drivers, porters and messengers who are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees granting increases in wages. John Pullen, President of the Company, notified the Minister of Labor that it accepts the award, and will introduce the salary increases as from February 1.

The men, however, still demand the full award of the Conciliation Board, headed by Judge Gunn, from which the company appealed, and threaten to strike tomorrow at 6 p.m. unless the award is introduced.

Inquire Into Guelph Raid

Appoint Royal Commission to Investigate Happenings at Catholic Novitiate.

OTTAWA, April 10—Announcement was made by Hon. Arthur Meighen in the House of Commons that the charges against the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph, Ontario, of harboring young men who were evading the military service would be investigated by a Royal Commission. In the words of the Minister of the Interior, "the whole thing is to be dug to the bottom," and "nothing is to be concealed."

THE "RAID" AT GUELPH

The decision in Parliament was initiated by General Sir Sam Hughes and is the sequel to the midnight raid on the Novitiate last June which set the whole country talking. A son of Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and one of the Catholic members of the Cabinet was a novice in the college at the time of the visit of the military police, and Catholics see in the whole unfortunate affair "nothing but a conspiracy to hold in contempt the Jesuit Order in Canada," to quote the words of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. In the course of his argument, General Hughes, who is a prominent Orangeman, charged that the Jesuits in authority at the Novitiate assumed the attitude that "we are above the law," and resisted Captain MacAulay, the officer in the charge of the eleven military policemen who carried out the raid.

RETURNED SOLDIERS ON CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

OTTAWA, April 9—The Government's pledge to increase the Civil Service Commission to five members and appoint at least one returned soldier and probably two to the new positions was announced at the general meeting of the Ottawa Branch, G.W.V.A. in the clubhouse, Cooper and Cartier Streets last night. The committee which interviewed the Government on Civil Service changes presented an exhaustive report on the Government's reception of its requests.

Artillery And Machine Guns Guard Gates of Krupp Plant

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

BERLIN, April 10.—Government troops are reported to have entered Essen and to have occupied the Krupp plant, which, according to previous reports, had been seized by Essen strikers. The troops posted artillery and machine guns at the entrance to the plant. The result of intervention of Government forces, advices state, was that two-thirds of the workmen resumed their labors.

Wine And Beer Referendum Taken To-Day in Quebec

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN ON WINE AND BEER REFERENDUM IN QUEBEC—"WETS" HAVE BIG TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION IN MONTREAL—WAR VETERANS ASSOCIATION OF MONTREAL DISTRICT PASS RESOLUTION AGAINST PROHIBITION—METHODIST MINISTER ARRESTED FOR DISTRIBUTING LITERATURE ON STREET.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

QUEBEC CITY, April 10.—Voting on the wine and beer license referendum today seemed to be largely in favor of this measure. The voting in rural districts is light owing to bad roads and the sugaring season.

MONTREAL, April 10.—The Province of Quebec is today voting on a referendum as to whether wine and beer licenses shall be issued or whether the province shall go dry. Both liquor interests and temperance organizations have conducted a vigorous campaign and the vote is expected to be heavy. All Protestant pastors have denounced the granting of wine and beer licenses but Roman Catholic priests in some cases have not directed their charges.

TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION

Last night the wets organized a torchlight procession which marched through the city, bearing such announcements as "Let's all go home, Let Toronto run the show"; "Home Rule in Old Quebec"; "Vive la France. Long live its wine!" "Look at Bone-Dry Russia!"

The Great War Veterans Association for Montreal district last night passed a resolution against prohibition.

DRY MINISTER IS ARRESTED.

Rev. S. F. Newton, pastor of the East End Methodist Church, was arrested yesterday afternoon for distributing temperance literature on the public streets of Montreal without a permit. Mr. Newton was arrested outside of the plant of the Consolidated Rubber Co. He said he had the permission of the company to operate there. He contended that literature was given away outside the Roman Catholic Church every Sunday, but no one was arrested.

MONTREAL, April 10—As indication of how the vote is expected to go in wet campaign circles is found in the buoyancy of national breweries stock on the market this morning, the stock advanced to a new height of 82 to 102.

Three lay temperance workers were arrested on the streets of Montreal last night for distributing literature. The temperance forces in the city are up in arms at what they consider discrimination by the authorities against the dry forces. It is pointed out that while the wet procession was authorized in contravention of the law which says that no public demonstration of this character can be held within eight days of a vote, the distribution of dry propaganda has been stopped.

Commission Has Been Named On Industrial Relations

CONSISTS OF TWO REPRESENTATIVES EACH OF EMPLOYERS, OF THE EMPLOYED AND OF THE PUBLIC — CHIEF JUSTICE MATHERS IS CHAIRMAN.

OTTAWA, April 10.—The commission to investigate industrial relations will consist of two representatives each of employers, of the employed and of the public. Chief Justice Mathers will be chairman. The members of the commission are: Chief Justice Mathers, chairman; Senator White and Charles Harrison, M.P., representing the public; Carl Riordon Pulp and Paper Company, Montreal and T. Pauze, lumberman, Montreal, representing the embolyers; Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, and J. W. Bruce, member of the Labor Appeal Board, Toronto, representing the employes. Thomas Bengough, Toronto, will be secretary of the commission.

Announcement of the composition of the commission was made in the House by Sir Thomas White yesterday afternoon. In its report the commission will submit recommendation as to how industrial relations may be improved.

Sketch of Members

The Hon. Chief Justice Mathers has had considerable experience as chairman of various boards of conciliation, and his decisions have been generally approved and accepted in all cases where he has dealt with labor disputes.

Mr. Carl Riordon, vice-president and managing director of the Riorden Pulp and Paper Company, is a business man of wide experience, and a large employer of labor. He has long been deeply interested in welfare work among his own employes.

Mr. F. Pauze, lumberman, of the firm of W. Pauze and Fils, of Montreal He was a member of the trade commission which visited France during the war.

Mr. Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the most representative person of organized labor.

Mr. J. W. Bruce has been connected with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada for many years.

Senator White, as managing director of the Montreal Gazette publishing Company, may be regarded as one who would view this problem from the standpoint of an employer; while Mr. Charles Harrison, M.P., who is a railroad conductor, and has been the head of the Order of Railway Conductors on the Eastern lines of the C. P. R. for a number of years, it is assumed will represent the sentiments of railway employees and thereby maintaining an equilibrium as between employers' and employes' interests on the commission.

Changes in Educational System Outlined by Hon. Dr. Cody

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS TO BE REVISED SOON—SCHOOL ATTENDANCE ENFORCEMENT — SECONDARY SCHOOLS TO FIT BOYS AND GIRLS FOR LIFE WORK—HOME WORK TO BE KEPT AT A MINIMUM — ONTARIO MINISTER OF EDUCATION OUTLINES PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS TO PROVINCIAL EDUCATIONAL POLICY.

For several months past much has been heard from Hon. Dr. H. J. Cody Minister of Education, on the public platform of changes that could advantageously be made in the educational laws of the Province. These statements have been largely dealing with the subject in a broad, general way. In the Legislature he did what was more important, and gave, although in what he styled a birdseye manner, a sketch of the concrete proposals that he has in mind for amendments to the existing laws. He spoke for an hour and forty minutes. During that time he dealt with the entire educational system as it exists in this Province. Some of the proposals he has in view have already been introduced in the House, such as to provide for consolidated schools and to change the method of enforcing school attendance. The other changes have yet to be introduced in a general bill amending the Public Schools Act.

Dr. Cody foreshadowed a relieving of the heavy burden placed upon children in the elementary courses. A revision of the text-books was now under consideration, and legislation was to be introduced to provide for peripatetic teachers in the sparsely-settled districts. While regulations were necessary, inspectors and teachers were not expected to be slaves to the rules laid down by the department. They were merely for the guidance of the officials. It was the first occasion that Dr. Cody has spoken in the House this session, having returned on Monday to his office after a three weeks' illness. He made his address on the second reading of the bill respecting consolidated schools.

Education and Reconstruction

The war had brought a fresh recognition of education to the world, said Dr. Cody. Every proposal of reconstruction is now linked up with education, whereas not so long ago the idea of reconstruction was merely to get the men back into civil life. The idea of reconstruction now obtaining is that of a nobler, better world. The formation of character and mind was of greater importance than reformation. He ventured the opinion that what was done in the training of the young in education would have a more lasting effect than what was done in any other line of public endeavor.

"In all Provinces there is a fresh evidence of interest in this vital subject," said the Minister of Education. "We in the Province of Ontario are not going to step back into the rear rank, out of our proud position of supremacy in regard to this all-important matter of education." There were more so-called educational experts than there were experts in any other line. He would welcome constructive criticism of the department, which he promised, if approved, would be acted upon. "We are all one in our desire to make our educational system the best system it can possibly be," declared Dr. Cody.

The late Dr. Ryerson has founded a splendid system, the idea of which was to reach all the children. The Minister said he recognized that there would have to be changes made. In all kinds of Ontario schools there were 14,054 teachers and [illegible] pupils. These were divided as follows: Public schools, 6,103; teachers, 11,274 pupils, 457,616. Separate schools, 543 teachers, 1,488; pupils, 70,041; Continuation schools, 137; teachers, 241; pupils, 5,104. High schools and collegiate institutes, 162; teachers, 1,061 pupils, 29,000.

The next great step forward in connection with the educational system of the Province, the speaker said, would be the step for the differentiation of specialist and varied secondary schools, so as to have a course that will fit the boys and girls between fourteen and eighteen years of age for their life work.

Five Different Methods

There are five ways in which educational problems are to be dealt with by the Legislature. The first of these was the practical method of legislation. However, there was no need for much more legislation. While some

IT HAPPENED IN BELLEVILLE

A BLOW OR A BLOWOUT

A cold bottle and a chicken after the show at Rector's or Dels with the peachiest, plumpest and prettiest face and figure in the chorus of the reigning Broadway theatrical attraction is often featured in the light literature which pictures the midnight follies of "stage-door Johnnies" with more regard for sensationalism than the truth.

A story is going the rounds of two local young men who essayed a venture into the "stage-door Johnnie" class the other evening with sensational but not very agreeable results.

It is said that the young men in question followed two young chorus ladies from the theatre down Bridge Street after the show and after a preliminary long-range bombardment of airy persiflage stepped up to the girls, with the evident intention of conferring the pleasure of their company upon them to the possible extent of a cold bottle of ginger ale and a T-bone steak at some Celestial food emporium.

The chorus ladies did not see it that way, however, so the story goes, and the romance was brought to an abrupt ending by the sudden impact of a feminine but muscular fist upon the mouth of one of the young gallants, who was so surprised and upset that he swallowed his cigarette and nearly choked to death. That ended the chase right there and the chorus ladies proceeded on their way without any further annoyance while the would-be Johnnies sadly took the other direction with their ideas of stage folk generally considerably revised.

How You Can Quickly Remove Hairy Growths

(Aids to Beauty)

A well known beauty specialist advises this treatment for the removal of hair from the face. Mix into a paste some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This method is quick and entirely safe. To avoid disappointment, however, it is well to make certain you get genuine delatone.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "DE LUXE ANNIE"

Norma Talmadge appears at the Palace tonight to Saturday, in her latest select picture "De Luxe Annie." The story first appeared as a two-part serial in the Saturday Evening Post so that many homes are familiar with this thrilling tale. It is a crook play with a surprising psychological twist which holds you in doubt to the last minute and shows how Julie Kendal, the loving wife of a devoted husband, is struck on the head and becomes an asphasia victim. While in this condition she becomes a confederate of Jimmy Fitzpatrick in the operation of the De Luxe book variation of the old badger. The 8th chapter of "The Bull's Eye" serial and a good Luke comedy completes the program.

BARZAC'S EUROPEAN INDOOR CIRCUS COMING TO GRIFFIN'S

With clash of cymbals and sound of drum Barac's European Indoor Circus makes its entry at Griffin's next Tuesday for a stay of two performances, a special matinee at 2.15 and usual evening performance. Novelty and comedy and speed are all combined in this unusual performance. Thrills and laughter, artistry and daring, pleasing equine sketches, dazzling electrical effects and the Boston ladies silver concert band of 15 instruments conducted by Bertha Meyers, famous to vaudeville and concert alike. Great names are included in the personel of the cast, artists who have become internationally famous, and animal sketches long known for their intelligent cleverness, as the following group will show. The Bounding Pattersons, the Murray-Ward trio, Lackland and Lackland, Patricks, prize stallions and monkeys, Livner's statuesque and donkeys. The performance which offers two and a half hours of continuous amusement is enlivened by nine clowns, a pleasing ensemble has been arranged which will rejuvenate the parents of the youngsters who will wait to bring them to their first circus. Everybody goes to a circus.

BRYANT WASHBURN AND GLORIA SWANSON AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

That it isn't a good idea to change husbands without genuine consideration, which cannot be a thing for the moment, is the advise of the picture "Don't Change Your Husband" at Griffin's tonight to Saturday. Jeanie McPherson is the author and she has woven a tale of really beautiful characters, and into the warp and woof has introduced a thread of oriental mysticism that is distinctively bizarre and at a time effective.

Ama Q. Nilsson and Margery Wilson, both beautiful and accomplished actresses and each a star in her own right, appear in support of the ever popular Bryant Washburn, in his newest picture "Venus of the East" which is from the story in the Saturday Evening Post by Wallace Irwin, and which is being screened on the same program. A screaming farce from beginning to end, "Never Too Old," the latest Mack Sennett comedy to be shown also on the above week-end programme, fails to show a dull moment throughout the action, Charlie Murray and Marie Prevost are the principal funmakers. The British News will also be exhibited.

SOCCER FOOTBALL

A fine exhibition of football was given yesterday afternoon by the Car Department and the Shop Employees of the G.T.R. on their athletic field, the final score being 2 to 1 in favor of the Car Department.

This being the first game, a splendid start was made and in a few weeks time the two departments hope to supply a team to compete with outside teams to advantage.

BASEBALL

The regular weekly meeting of the G.T.R.A.A.A. was held last evening in the Library. Many details in connection with Departmental games were discussed and settled. The schedule for the inter-department baseball league was presented and accepted. Forty games will be played starting May 6th, and ending September 19th. A crest designed by Mr. Harvey, manager of the basketball team, was adopted by the meeting for use on various uniforms.

An inter-department football league comprising of the Motive Department Car Department and Transportation Department, was formed, and a schedule is being drawn up for two games a week during May and June.

An eastern section of the Midland Baseball League will likely be formed as other places have signified in favor of the proposal and something definite will be given out soon. A meeting is being called at Belleville of the different teams concerned.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Forward Movement In Presbyterian Church

The following meetings will be held in John St. Church, Belleville, during week April 13th—20th:

Sunday, April 13th—Rev. Principal Dyde of Queen's Theological College will preach morning and evening.

Monday, April 14th, 8 p.m.—Mrs. J. T. Hall of Stirling will speak on "Women's Work."

Tuesday, April 15th, 8 p.m.—Mr. R. J. Graham will given an address on "The Relation of the Church to the Nation."

Thursday, April 17th, 8 p.m.—Subject—"The Relation of the Church to Labour." Speaker—Dr. W. A. Riddell, Superintendent of Trades and Labour for the Province of Ontario.

Friday, April 18th, 8 p.m.—Principal Dyde, subject—"Choosing a Lifework."

Sunday, April 20th—Principal Dyde at both services.

All are cordially invited to these meetings.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

BERLIN, April 10.—Discordant elements seeking to disturb law and order, are making strenuous efforts, according to official announcement to bring about a demonstration by wounded soldiers in connection with the Soviet congress now in session here. The idea behind the plan, it is said, is to provoke loyal troops to pursue cruel tactics with the result that any conflict that might arise might be used as a pretext to call a strike and initiate the establishment of a Soviet Government at Munich.

Parades are forbidden under the Martial Law which still applies to Berlin. The Government adds that it was impossible for any parades to be held on the Wilhelmstrasse where it was reported a demonstration was planned so that the paraders might march before the chancellory and foreign office.

Prosperous Year For Linsday Limited

MONTREAL, April 9.—The annual meeting of shareholders of C. W. Lindsay Company Limited was held at the head office of the company on the 8th inst., and was largely attended.

The President, Mr. C. W. Lindsay, was in the chair.

The annual statement presented to the meeting by the company's auditors, Messrs. Fisk Skelton & Co., showed that the corporation had experienced the most prosperous year in its history. In view of the fine showing the directors voted a ten per cent cash bonus to the staff at all branches payable May 1st next to all employees who have been in the continuous service of the company since March 1st, 1918, and are still in its employ on May 1st, 1919.

The usual dividends were declared, viz. 7% on the preferred shares and 8% on the common shares and a large amount carried to reserve account.

The directors of the old Board were re-elected, viz. Messrs. C. W. Lindsay, Alfred McDiarmid, A. E. Brock, J. A. Herbert and E. Hamilton with Mr. C. W. Lindsay as President and General Manager, B. A. Edward, Secretary, and W. A. Robinson, Treasurer.

The managers were present from all the different branches where the company carries on business, viz: Ottawa, Quebec, Kingston, Belleville, Brockville and Three Rivers, in addition to the two warerooms in Montreal.

A dinner was held in the evening at the Windsor Hotel at which the Directors, Officers and Branch Managers were present, and at which the President again expressed his gratification at the splendid year's business and announced that in the event of next year's profits equalling the year just past, he would support a motion to pay the staff a 20% bonus.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

"I like that Mr. Kirk," she said to her husband that evening. And that meant a good deal for her.

Malcom and Stanley remained that night at the Fulton's, at their urgent request, and in the morning after breakfast, while Mr. Fulton and Stanley were talking business in the library, Faith and her father held a conference in the parlor.

"I had planned to take you home with me, my dear," said Malcom. "But Raleigh told me last night of his niece, Miss Varnew, and said there was no doubt of your being able to secure a good position there. We want to do what is best in every way. Your mother is homesick for you, too."

"Well, father, I feel as if I ought to stay in the city if I can really become a bread-winner. Let me try it a while at the studio, and if I fail I'll come home and spend the rest of my days cooking for you and the boys."

"How about your work here, Faith? Are you under promise to Mrs. Fulton to stay any length of time?"

"No, father. But I think it would be no more than fair for me to stay three or four weeks until Mrs. Fulton has time to work in someone else.

"I think so, too," replied Malcom who in all his relations to others was always guided by the strictest sense of fairness and honor. "Do what is right in the matter. Better talk frankly with Mrs. Fulton about your plans and let her feel that you are willing to stay as long as it is right."

When Mrs. Fulton came in, Malcom and Faith had a talk with her. The result of it was that Faith promised to remain with Mrs. Fulton another month. Meanwhile, she was to see Miss Varney, and if arrangements could be made, she was to enter the studio at the end of the time of her service at the Fulton's. Mrs. Fulton was considerably surprised and a good deal pleased with the arrangement. It was a good deal more than she had supposed Malcom Kirk or his daughter would agree to do, but she did not know either of them as well as she did afterward.

Malcom Kirk spent a Sunday in Chicago and Faith had a great delight of hearing him preach in the church where she had gone to the evening service that eventful Sunday before. They took tea with the pastor that evening and teh next day Malcom started back to Conrad.

Malcom Stanley went with him. there was, if it the truth must be told a secret disappointment in the heart of the young Englishman that Faith was not going home, too. But the two men said good-bye cheerily to Faith, and were whirled out into the west, while Faith went back to her work with a brave heart, in spite of a little feeling of homesickness that crept over her at the sight of the two stalwart figures on the platform of the receding train.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION AT WALLBRIDGE

On Saturday night, April 5th, a goodly number of the people of this community met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kierman to give them a pleasant surprise and to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home in Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Kierman were taken completely by surprise and after all were made as comfortable as possible the Rev. Mr. Wallace called the gathering to order and the following address was read by W H. Nobes and presentation made by Laura White and Hattie Bird.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kierman:—We, your friends, neighbors and church-workers feel we cannot allow you to sever your connection with this neighborhood without in some slight measure evincing the esteem in which you are held, and we have taken this opportunity of assembling here previous to your departure to spend a pleasant hour at your home. It is with deep regret that we have learned that you are about to leave us and go to Frankford.

During the years you have spent with us we have found you ever ready to do your duty as a friend, neighbor and worker in the Master's vineyard and when we add to this fact your genial manners and kind natures we feel you have endeared yourselves to us and your absence will cause a vacancy in our lives that cannot easily be filled.

We therefore, take pleasure in asking you to accept this library table, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our appreciation. We all unite in wishing you long and happy lives and may God's richest blessing attend you in your new home and surroundings, and may health, happiness and prosperity be yours and when our labors here are ended may we all meet around His Throne in Heaven, where we will never say good bye.

Signed on behalf of your many friends,

Laura White,
Hattie Bird,
W. H. Nobes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kierman made suitable replies thanking their friends for their kindness and inviting them to visit them in their home at Frankford.

Short addresses were made by Mrs. Hinchliffe and Mrs. Ketcheson, also by Messrs. Massey, Hinchliffe, Ketcheson, Hubble, Nicholson and Purdy, all speaking in highest terms of Mr. and Mrs. Kierman.

The program was closed by singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and the remainder of the evening was spent in a social time and all departed with best wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Kierman.

ANOTHER SEIZURE OF LIQUOR MADE

BROCKVILLE, April 9—Inspectors Taber and Sykes made another big seizure of liquor Monday night off G. T. R. express No. 19, after leaving Montreal for Brockville, and as a result one Goldberg of Port Hope, was lodged in police cells here after his consignment of sixty-eight bottles of whiskey had been seized. In addition, the inspector's seized ten gallons of high wines and two bottles of whiskey, believed to have been the property of John Kartuck of Toronto, who only last week paid a fine in the local court for an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act. Kartuck boarded the train at St. Anne de Bellerue after he had observed the inspectors and they had returned the compliment. Kartuck left the liquor aboard the train and it was brought to Brockville by the officials. This morning Goldberg appeared before Magistrate Page and was convicted. A fine of $200 and costs was imposed. Goldberg is making arrangements to pay his fine.

CHECK THE FOOD BARONS.

While the war was in progress people were more or less content to pay high prices for necessities, but now that the war has ceased the downward trend of prices is not so pronounced as to be very noticeable. The leader of the Opposition in the Dominion Parliament has struck a popular chord in denouncing the present high cost of butter, which is selling at sixty-seven cents per pound and upward, and in opposing large subsidies to steamships to carry foodstuffs from Canada while prices are prohibitive here. It is not good business to vote hundreds of thousands of dollars for subsidies to steamships while the poor people of the country are pay enormously high prices for foodstuffs and duty on boots, shoes and clothing entering the country, said Mr. McKenzie. "Beef prices are enormously high," said the leader of the Opposition, and before we grant subsidies for carrying beef out of the country the home market should be something like normal."

Good ideas may even come from the Opposition, and the Government will do well to give this question serious consideration in an effort to curb this sky-rocketing of prices of necessities.

As a matter of fact the Government has already taken action upon the butter question and despatched the Cost of Living Commissioner to Toronto to investigate the reason for the recent sensational rise in the price of butter.

A woman's organization in Toronto has passed a resolution to the effect that whereas the price of staple foods, such as butter, are becoming prohibitive and the children of this country are suffering for want of them, and also that the price of oleomargarine is much too high; that the Government be asked to take such steps in the matter to see that the butter stored in cold storage be put on the market without delay.

The old wheeze about the law of supply and demand regulating prices is all right in its place but both supply and demand can be manipulated by the highly specialized Food Barons of today.

CRITICS SHOULD BE FAIR.

Criticism of the proposed provincial referendum on the temperance question was to have been expected, as it is manifestly impossible to please everybody. Extreme temperance advocates protest against any vote at all being taken and are in favor of making temperance legislation as drastic as possible without any reference to the people. This, of course, is one of those extreme viewpoints modeled upon the ancient spirit of intolerance which created Bolshevik Russia. Others find fault with the number of questions to be answered in the referendum vote and protest against the opinion of the electors being taken upon more than one phase of the temperance question—a flat vote for or against total prohibition. Recognizing that responsible government must represent the will of the people Premier Hearst seeks the opinion of all classes of electors so that the will of the majority may be ascertained and given expression to in legislation. It is noticeable that the newspapers which are trying to pick holes in the referendum as proposed are all extremely partisan Liberal sheets which would never acknowledge that any good could emanate from a Conservative Government and even have the hardihood to condemn a referendum which seeks to meet the wishes of all the people instead of a select few.

That strong advocate of prohibition and independence in politics, the Ottawa Citizen, takes a fair attitude upon the referendum and says editorially:

> The Ontario Temperance Act is, of course, a war measure. The whole credit for its enactment belongs to the Hearst Government, which showed splendid courage in passing this progressive, indeed, at the time, this radical temperance legislation. The temperance people of Ontario should be, and no doubt are, grateful to Premier Hearst for his wise leadership in this regard; and they will, it is to be expected, register their gratitude by supporting him on his next appeal to the electorate.
> When the Ontario Temperance Act became law in 1916 it was definitely stated by the Government that it would be submitted to the people in the form of a referendum after the soldiers had all been repatriated. This procedure, including the promise of the referendum, was commended by the Citizen at the time as being wise in respect of the Act and democratic in respect of the future vote. It might be contended that the referendum promised and at the time intended by the Government was to be in the form of a straight, single question ballot, "Are you in favor of repealing the Ontario Temperance Act?" Many sincere temperance people would no doubt prefer some such single question in order to reduce to a minimum the chance of confusion. The liquor interests, on the other hand, would prefer to have the difficulties of the Government and the anti-liquor section of the electorate increased in every possible way in the hope of gaining something out of the confusion.
> Premier Hearst, apparently a sincere friend of temperance, certainly desires to see that cause treated fairly in provincial legislation. The Premier, however, is the head of the Government of all the people of Ontario, including the pro-liquor element, and as such must be careful to provide that section with a fair opportunity to express itself at the polls. Moreover, the Government is entitled to have a reasonably complete expression of the sentiment of the Ontario ratepayers on the temperance question before enacting permanent legislation; and a desire for this information would seem to explain the four-question plebiscite which it is now proposed to substitute for the simple referendum originally promised.
> While the form of the proposed plebiscite may be disappointing to some friends of temperance, it seems to the Citizen that the Government, whose responsibility is a great one in the circumstances, may not reasonably be blamed for adding the three questions to the one originally expected by the prohibition advocates of the province, if not originally intended by the Government. The Government is entitled, as already stated, to the information asked for; and those who favor the total suppression of the liquor traffic in Ontario—the Citizen includes itself in this class—need only vote "No" to all four questions.

∴ CRISP COMMENT ∴

The London Daily News says that the choice is between a world peace and a French peace. The paper that up to the last minute urged that Britain stay out of the war and profit by it is surely a good authority on peace.—Mail and Empire.

The Globe believes that there are many people who at first glance will suppose that the answer "Yes" to the question, "Are you in favor of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?" will be a declaration in favor of prohibition. Our sympathy goes out to an anxious contemporary that has such readers. Where do they get the stuff that so muddles them?—Mail and Empire.

There is, however, one good feature about those four temperance questions that are to be on the ballot. They are not tangled questions. They all have the same frontage, so to speak. The out-and-out prohibitionist can vote "no" four times right down the ballot. The anti-prohibitionist can vote "yes" four times right down the ballot. Others who are not out-and-outers can, if they choose, vary their answers to the questions in an effort to express their angle of view.—Toronto Star.

It is wrong to save money or daylight. It is criminal to crook the elbow if the beverage exceeds one per cent w. c. t. u. Who goeth down into the cellar and wipeth his mouth as he ascends is a leper with many spots. One sees in the near distance a measure for the abolition of cellars and the confiscation of vessels of wood whereto a flavor belongs. Reform and conform are the conditions of the new freedom. Already grandmothers disguised in men's clothing are formulating decrees against smoking. In the Ontario Legislature a reformer burning with celestial fire would censor women's dresses at the inaugural ceremonial. Apparently they are too open for the climate and too fractious for a discreet and lowly democracy.—Sir John Willison.

The decision of the management of Griffin's Theatre to prevent patrons taking their seats after the beginning of the performance had a very beneficial effect at the "Flo-Flo" presentation, only a very few late-comers having to wait until the close of the first act before being shown to their seats. Patrons who came early were thus enabled to enjoy the entire entertainment without being annoyed by late comers. Another improvement could be effected by the patrons themselves being a little more thoughtful of the comfort of others and remaining quietly seated until the final curtain. As a general rule the final stage grouping of the entertainment is the best and has been arranged with great care to make the last impression a pleasing one. Patrons who recognize this often have their view of the stage obscured by people in front of them rising and struggling into their wraps before the final curtain. This is only a bad habit which thoughtfulness can speedily cure.

April Fool

The heartiest laugh we have enjoyed for many moons was given us the other day by one of our clients—We'll share it with our readers.

"April 1st suits me first-rate," he said; "April fool and every other kind of a fool—A year ago to-day I was offered Davidson stock at around 35 cents and strongly advised by you to purchase it; but no; I thought myself the original wiseacre, and here I am now adding to my holdings, and glad to do it.

"April fool? That's me all over, Mabel."

We could not help admiring the humor and frank expression of the situation.

This house still persists in strongly advising the purchase of Davidson stock strictly on its merits as a speculative investment. Davidson today, in view of recent developments, is as good a buy at 70 cents as it was a year ago at 35 cents.

End Every Corn Before You Fit a Shoe

Week-Old Corns

Should Be Unthinkable

These positive facts are now known to millions.

The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days.

The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course.

The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved to so many people that corns are now comparatively uncommon.

Corn aches are needless.

Paring corns is folly.

Old-time harsh and mussy treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight, and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

OBJECTORS A RELEASED

KINGSTON, April 9—Most of the conscientious objectors to Military Service, who were sent to Portsmouth Penitentiary for terms of from two years to life imprisonment, have been liberated after serving but a few months of their sentences. There were thirty in all who claimed that they were really conscientious objectors and should never have been confined with moral delinquents, as they did not come within the category of criminals as that terms is generally understood.

CONSTANT PAIN AFTER EATING

St. Martin's, N.B.

"For two years, I suffered tortures from Severe Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth.

I tried doctors, but they did not help me. But as soon as I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I began to improve and this medicine, made of fruit juices, relieved me when everything else failed."

Distinction—with a Difference

"1919" is imprinted in every line of the Fit-Reform Suits and Overcoats for spring.

Newness and novelty are blended with happy conservatism.

They are styles of distinction, with that difference which makes them stand out as products of a new season, reflecting a newer and happier period.

These Fit-Reform styles do not depend solely on correctness of line—but rather on perfect tailoring through and through, and on those fine fabrics which hold their shape for long periods of wear.

There are many styles in many pleasing effects in our opening display of Fit-Reform Suits and Overcoats for spring.

Come in and see them.

Wine Cellar Looted in Port Hope

PORT HOPE, April 15— Burglars entered the cellar of Brigadier General Ralston's residence and made a great haul from the wine vault. Four doors had to be forced before the cellar was finally reached but the thieves persevered and finally accomplished In all eleven cases of liquor were taken, one case of rye, Gooderham & Worts special, two cases three star Hennesey Branby; two cases Haig & Haig Scotch; two cases port wine, two cases Gordon dry gin, one case cherry and one case of French wine.

The thieves carried the cases to the northern part of the grounds near the bowling green and here the contents were removed and taken to an automobile or truck which was in waiting on Pine Street. When Mr. Tickell, who looks after the property, went over in the morning he found the cellar doors all open. The footprints of the thieves were quite small but the supposition that it was the work of boys is hardly feasible.

There was no person in the house at the time so the burglars had full swing.

HELP!

You may be able to defend yourself from a frontal attack, but how about it if you are held up from the rear?

Your body has to fight constantly against disease. It isn't always a fair fight, because constipation is a treacherous enemy that you usually don't recognize until too late.

Stagnating, poison-forming food waste in your large intestines, helps disease to attack you and hinders you from defending yourself. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

You may be held fast for months in the grip of constipation, trying vainly to free yourself by taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in order to force the bowels to move. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but you will be less able to defend yourself against the attack when it comes.

On the other hand, Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals. It acts gently and harmlessly, at all ages under any conditions.

Take Nujol and constipation can't sneak up on you and cripple you when you least expect it.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and write for free booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."

Warning. Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

DAVIDSON GOLD MINES

The announcement by the Managing Director, Mr. H. H. Sutherland at the annual meeting of the Davidson Gold Mines at the head office of the company yesterday to the effect that the development of the mines had been so successful that it was necessary to increase the milling capacity by 150 tons a day, was received with considerable satisfaction by the shareholders. Mr. Sutherland reviewed the operations at the mine during one of the most trying periods the gold mining industry has known. In spite of shortage of labor, he stated, developments of the first importance has taken place. Mr. Sutherland referred especially to developments in the new shaft, where the ore body at the 500-foot level, over a width of 34 feet, showed a channel assay averaging $18.00 to the ton. Drifting on two faces of the vein was now in progress and development ore from these operations was being treated in the mill. Over a period of seven days, millheads had averaged $34-31 per ton. Development ore broken down at this level was already weeks ahead of mill capacity.

The new mill addition will follow the pattern of the most progressive plants in the camp. The ball and cyanide process will be used. It is estimated that the mill will cost $75,000 the financing of which has already been arranged. Electric power entered the property during the year and mining equipment was materially increased. In view of the important developments now taking place, the directors believe it would be misleading at the present time to make an estimate of physical resources.

The financial statement of the company shows assets amounting to $1,810,446.48. The sum of $85,781.86 was expended in development work, but gold recovered last year amounted to $15,584.50, leaving expenditures at $70,197.36. This latter amount, together with the amount of expenditures brought forward on December 31, 1917, totalling $86,139.24 brings the total amount of expenditures to $156,336.60.

The Directors were re-elected with one exception. Mr. H. S. Smith of Oshawa, was succeeded on the board by H. T. Sutherland of New Glasgow, N.S. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. Gordon C. Cream was elected President.

Rev. J. H. Hazlewood Dies Very Suddenly

And Methodist Church Loses an Outstand Son—Was in His 62nd Year.

TORONTO, April 10—Rev. James H. Haelwood, field secretary of the Department of Evangelism and Social Services of the eMthodist Church, died suddenly early to-day from an attack of heart failure at his residence, 50 Summerhill Gardens. In his death the Methodist Church lost one of its strongest supports and an outstanding figure on Methodism. Dr. Haelwood had been ailing for a year and had been confined to his bed for the last four weeks.

He was born at Brockville and was in his 62nd year. He entered the ministry in 1882, studying at Wesley College, Montreal. After his ordination in 1887 he preached in many pulpits.

Called By Death

AN APPRECIATION

In the "passing" of Mrs. L. W. Yeomans, the Women's Christian Association has lost an esteemed and valuable member, one who possessed great mental ability, excellent judgement, and a kind and sympathetic heart. A worthy daughter of a worthy mother, Mrs. Nathan Jones, the second president of the association, her mother's achievements were always an inspiration to Mrs. Yeomans, who was herself a charter member. She was convener of several committees at different times, was secretary of the hospital board for several years and in 1903 accepted the office of president, which she ably filled until 1908 when she went abroad.

In addition to the numerous duties of her position as president she undertook the revision and enlargement of the constitution, and was instrumental in having a new by-law passed giving the Women's Christian Association a standing as a body cooperate with greater powers for carrying on the objects of the association in its three departments, Hospital, Home, and Indigent. She recognized the fact that the by-laws passed twenty-seven years before did not meet the requirements of the work, which had grown in that time to a great extent, and the revision of them will stand as a mark of her clear sightedness and mental grasp of detail.

After an absence of a year or more, Mrs. Yeomans returned to Belleville and again became identified with the work as treasurer of the Hospital Board, which office she held until recently.

Neither time, breavement, nor affliction could daunt her ardent and steadfast spirit. She served with head, hands, and heart and felt that "he lives most who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best." She is another added to that company of noble women "gone before" who have been connected with the Women's Christian Association of Belleville.

May we "be given grace to follow their good examples" and honor and revere their work bequeathed by them, the care of the sick and afflicted, and of "all who are desolate and oppressed."

ANNIE MAY LLOYD

Miss Annie May Lloyd, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, residing at 81 Mill Street, city, died this morning from an attack of appendicities. Deceased was 14 years and 9 months of age and was born in this city. She was a young lady who was much esteemed by all who knew her. She was taken seriously ill on Saturday last. Deceased was identified with the Tabernacle church. In adition to the parents three brothers survive, John, Percy, and Norman and two sister, Helen and Rose survive to mourn her desime.

MRS. ELMINA COOPER

Mrs. Elmina Cooper, wife of Mr. Hiram Cooper of Springbrook, Rawdon Township, passed away here at an early hour this morning from anaemia. Deceased was 58 years of age and was born at Latta Mills, being a daughter of Mr. Godfrey. She was a member of the Methodist Church. In addition to the husband one son, Joseph, and one daughter, Nellie, survive. The body was taken to Tickell and Sons undertaking establishment and prepared for burial after which it was shipped to the family home at Springbrook.

A Mother's Tribute

THIS letter from Mrs. Roberts gives such a fine idea of the value of Dr. Chase's medicines for use in the home that we shall publish it without further comment.

Mrs. Everett Roberts, 44 Endicott Ave., Halifax, N.S., writes:

"I feel it a pleasure as well as my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Ointment. After the shock of the Halifax explosion my system was all run down, and I was so weak that I could not walk. Night after night I lay awake unable to sleep. Nothing did me any good until one of my neighbors recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After a treatment of this medicine I can positively say that my health and strength have been restored, and I can now sleep well and do my work as well as ever.

"I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for my baby, who had ringworms all over his face. I tried almost everything I knew of without success until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This cured him in a short time. I would not be without either of these medicines in the house, and trust this may induce others to give them a trial and be convinced of their merits."

You can scarcely ask for a stronger gurantee of the value of a medicine than the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the box. This is for your protection against imitations and substitutes. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Pastmasters Night At Moira Lodge

Pastmaster's Night at Moira Lodge A.F. & A.M. attracted a large attendance last evening at the Masonic Temple and a very interesting evening was spent. Wor. Bro. Wm. Cooke, W.M. of Moira Lodge, handed the lodge over to the Pastmasters present and the first degree was exemplified by the following:

CITY AND COUNTRY

SLIGHT BLAZE IN STORE

Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire brigade was called to Mr. Edgar Deshane's store on Front street. A coal oil stove in the rear of the store blazed up to such an extent as to set fire to the wainscoating. Fortunately the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

EXPRESSMEN STRIKE SITUATION

In answer to an enquiry a representative of The Intelligencer was this afternoon informed by a Canadian Express Company employee that there was nothing new in the situation, as to the proposed strike tonight. The Board of Appeals have granted an increase in wages but the men still demand the full award of the Conciliation Board and threaten to strike at 6 p.m. unless the award in introduced. Should a strike take place we are informed that the strikers will receive the pay due them if they desire same at once.

BICYCLISTS USING SIDEWALKS

Complaints recently reached the police that in certain sections of the city bicycists were using the sidewalk instead of the roads, and as a result an officer in plain clothes was detailed to catch the offenders. Some twelve were detected breaking the law and they have been summoned to appear tomorrow before the magistrate to answer for their wrong doings.

THE HOME-COMING

It is desirable that the return to Belleville and district of all soldiers from overseas be chronicled in the public press so that friends and well-wishers far and near may be apprized of their safe return. As soldiers are returning on the many trains at all hours of the day and night it is impossible to accurately record their arrival and The Intelligencer will be pleased to receive notification from relatives and friends of the return of soldier boys with records of service, as the public is very much interested. Phone, write or call.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Adams, 125 Yeomans Street, last evening, a number of friends of Miss Ethel Prest of this city, asembled for the purpose of extending to her a miscellaneous shower in view of her approaching marriage. Miss Alice Flindell was in charge of the affair which proved to be successful in all of its details. At an opportune time little Miss Irene Hicks and Jennie Adams carried in a large basket containing the gifts and presented same to Miss Prest, who made a suitable reply. Games were indulged in after which a dainty lunch was partaken of.

Fashion Display At Ritchies Tomorrow

Many new style ideas have been dictated by New York since the commencement of the Spring season and these new features will be illustrated in the garments to be shown tomorrow at Ritchie's. The show will embrace the very latest ideas in Suits, Coats, Dolmans, Capes, Dresses, etc., in fact the entire style range from Canada's leading cloak house will be displayed for your seeing.. All ladies are particularly requested to view this timely exhibition for one day only, Friday, April 11th.

Changes in Educational System Outlined By Hon. Dr. Cody

people seemed to think that a whole new educational bill was necessary, that was not the case. Many of the features in the famous Fisher Bill in Great Britain were already in the Ontario laws. What is needed to develop the existing machinery in the department. However, there was a certain amount of legislation needed, and he mentioned particularly the Consolidated School Act. He foreshadowed, too, a bill which he will bring down to improve the Adolescent School Age Act. There will also be a bill affecting the Public Libraries and public life. Further there will be a bill dealing with some amendments to the Public Schools Act.

The Minister said that the second problem in improving education to be dealt with by the House was that of finances. He believed all of the educational problems could be solved by the expenditure of money. In 1912 there had been $1,900,000 spent on primary and secondary education, and this year there would be spent over $3,000,000 for the same purpose.

The third problem to improve the education was by regulations. However, he did not want the House to think that he was "a worshipper of regulations for themselves." "I believe regulations are made for the sake of teachers and pupils, and that teachers and pupils were not created and trained for the express purpose of obeying regulations," said the Minister of Education. "I do not want inspectors or teachers to feel that they are the slaves of the letter, and through being the slaves of the letter that they kill the spirit. I want them to feel that the text-books and regulations are instruments and not masters. Surely they ought to use and not abuse these regulations that are for their help and guidance." It was the duty of the inspectors in the first instance to assist the teachers. It was only a secondary duty to compile reports. "I can promise that we shall not be the slaves of the system and that we shall not be killed by the regulations," declared Dr. Cody.

The Minister said the fourth method of improving education was by the method of utilizing text-books, and the last was by the method of administration. But with regard to the former the teachers should recognize that htey were only instruments and not a lesson. He had visited many parts of the Province, and he hoped to prove to the people that the department was not a soulless machine; instead he wanted them to feel there was some personality in it.

Increases in Salaries

Discussing salaries, the speaker said they had greatly increased in the last ten years, the percentage being 19 per cent. In connection with the salary increases there was also a steady increase in the number of teachers holding higher class certificates. Dr. Cody said that it was the intention to give a great deal more attention to practical teaching in the normal schools. They will be given a short course of training in the proper use of a school library. Added attention will be given to instruction in social and household science, by permitting the household science instructors to give this instruction, by lessening the amount of the duties of the latter.

It was the intention to separate the Department of Teacher Training from the Department of Technical and Industrial Education. The work was so great that Dr. Merchant would confine his duties solely to the development of technical and industrial education. He explained the proposed course for soldiers, and said that it was hoped to be able to remove the academic defects.

Training Inspectors

Referring to the choosing of inspectors, Dr. Cody said it would be necessary to give some special training to them before they start their work. The Minister dwelt at some length on proposed revisions to the course of study. It was proposed to make grammar and composition a combination in the elementary school course. There had been too much physical and scientific geography in the elementary classes, and this will be corrected. Inspectors and teachers were now considering improving on the arithmetic course. He had never hoped when a boy that the day would come when he could strike a blow against "undue burdening of unnecessary arithmetic."

Col. Rutherford Was Insane When He Killed His Friend

ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE CASES EVER TRIED IN ENGLAND HAS AN UNEXPECTED ENDING

LONDON, April 11.—Lieut.-Col. Norman C. Rutherford, of the Medical Corps, of the British Army, Wednesday was ordered detained as insane by the judge in his trial for the killing of Major Miles Charles Seton, of Melbourne, on January 13.

The case was one of the most remarkable ever tried in England, as Col. Rutherford was said to have shot Major Seton, also an officer in the Medical Corps, under circumstances which led everyone to believe that the "unwritten law" would be raised in his defence. A plea of insanity, however, was entered in the trial.

Army medical officers testified that Col. Rutherford suffered from shell-shock and insomnia and also had contemplated suicide because his arms were diseased as a result of the constant use of antiseptics. Dr. Hyslop, a mental expert, testified that Rutherford told him he had had a dream a month before the shooting in which he murdered Seton and awoke from it in a condition of terror. Rutherford said he could not afterwards put the thought from his mind. Dr. Hyslop testified that Rutherford told him he had no doubts of his wife.

The judge said he agreed with the verdict and ordered Col. Rutherford detained.

Dangerous "Drop" is Latest Solace For The Booze Fiend

STRATFORD, April 11—Many medical and quasi-medical preparations have been recently discovered to have the necessary kick to satisfy the longing for red 'licker," but the newest on the list is a manufactured "drop," composed of ether and alcohol. The discoverer of the use of the preparation as an addition to the booze family, Allan McNeil, was fined $10 and costs in the Police Court here.

The "mixture" woudl prove fatal if taken in large quantities, and, indeed in this case produced a condition more of dopiness than of drunkenness. The accused seemed rather disinclined to talk about the matter, but finally gave the name of his favorite prescrip-

'How much did you take—a spoonful?" asked the Court.

'If I did I wouldn't be here," replied the accused. When he was captured by the police he was in a decidedly dopey condition, and it took him half of the next day to recover from the effects.

"Have a heart; we're all human," feelingly replied the prisoner. But the magistrate evidently had no heart for $10 and costs it was.

"I suppose you know the minimum fine for being found with a jag on is $10?" remarked the Magistrate.

Germany, Austria, Turkey To Pay Indemnity For Thirty Years

PARIS, April 11.—The text of the reparations clause, as finally approved by the Council of Four Wednesday, specifies that enemy countries must admit responsibility for all loss and damage to allied and associated nations and their citizens due to unjustifiable aggression.

al view, however, of the inability of the enemy countries to fully make recompense for these losses, an nter-allied Commission will assess them on a just basis for thirty years, beginning May 1, 1921, when Germany must make an initial payment of five bifiion dolairs. Germany is to pay all the expenses of the Commission and its sta during the thirty years.

Britain Stands Resolute In Demand For Full Justice

LONDON, April 11.—Premier Lloyd George has addressed a message to the membra of Parliamnt, saying:

"My coleagues and I mean to stand faithfully by all the pledges which we gave our constituencies. We are prepared at any moment to submit to the judgment of Parliament, and, if necessary, of the country, our efforts loyally to redeem our promises."

The Premier's message was in reply to a telegram sent to Mr. Lloyd Gorge yesterday, signed by 200 members of the House of Commons, holding the Premier to his election pledges to exact the utmost indemnity from Germany. The movement was initiated by a group of Conservative members under the belief that it would strengthen the Premier's hand at the Conference.

Rival Cossack Factions Agree

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

HARBIN, April 11—It is announced in newspapers controlled by General Semenoff published here that complete agreement has been reached between General Semenoff and General Ivanoff, representative of Admiral Kolchak, head of the Omsk Government. General Semenoff, it is said, will be commander of the special Far Eastern Corps and also Hettman of Far Eastern Cossacks, under orders of General Ivanoff Rinoff. General Semenoff will be subordinate to Lt.-Gen. Horvath who will be in direct control of the administration of Cossack territory in Eastern Siberia. The Omsk Government will provide funds for the maintainance of General Seminoff's Corps and General Semenoff will mobilize troops under Government sanction being allowed board powers in enlisting volunteers.

General Kalmikoff, Cossack Cammander on the Ussuri River front, is going to the front with his own troops and parts of those mobilized by Gen. Semenoff. As the result of this agreement between the leaders the Tungusian and Buriatic troops in Trans Baikali are on the same basis as the Cossacks.

Federal Prohibition Law Will Be Amended

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

OTTAWA, April 11.—Federal legislation on prohibition wil be brought down in the House of Commons shortly after Easter and in the meantime the situation resulting from yesterday's vote in Quebec for beer and wine, will be considered by the Government. As things stand at present Dominion legislation by order-in-Council, prohibits the manufacture or importation of wine and beer in any province. It is understood that new Dominion legislation will make provision for provincial rights in this matter, giving provinces that desire it, the privilege of manufacturing or importing but preventing such manufacture or import in provinces who don't want it.

Canadian Express Employees on Strike

Only Seven Belleville Men Affected By Strike Order—No Business Accepted To-day Locally.

At least 1,500 employes of the Canadian Express Company throughout the Dominion went out on strike at 6 o'clock last night in response to orders given by the chiefs of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes. These men included messengers, clerks, and checkers, as well as other classes of employes. Orders were given out by the company to advise patrons to send consignments by the more cumbrous channels of ordinary freight, until the situation was cleared. In response to queries Mr. Norman Western, superintendent of the Canadian Express Company at Toronto, stated that the Toronto office had received 800 applications for positions on the Toronto division, and the Hamilton division had received applications from more than 200. There was no doubt, said Mr. Norman, that the company would be able to fill the places vacated or expected to be vacated by 200 of the employes.

AT BELLEVILLE

Acting upon the strike order of their National President local employes of the Canadina Express Company went on strike last night. Only seven employes are out in this city and of this number, it is said, that only three are members of the union. Three are express train messengers and the others are city drivers. The men are out on strike and they want the award of the Board of Conciliation with its eight-hour day and wage increase. The men declare that they will not accept the decision of the Labor Appeal Board. The mileage rate for messengers the strikers are willing to submit to the Board of Adjustment. At noon to-day there was nothing new in the situation as far as known as the local office of the Canadian Express Company. No, parcels are being accepted at present. No particular hardship has been heard of in regard to express parcels here but a few merchants were minus parcels which they anticipated, chiefly books and magazines which are sent in here by express and which usually arrive on Friday. It is expected that the disagreement will be satisfactorily arranged in the very near future.

Quebec Province Votes "Wet" On Wine And Beer Referendum

STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN RESULTS IN ELECTORS OF QUEBEC PROVINCE VOTING IN FAVOR OF LEGAL SALE OF LIGHT WINES AND BEER—MAJORITY OF OVER ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

MONTREAL, April 11.—With a large number of distant points in the province to be heard from, the "wet" majority registered yesterday in favor of light wines, cider and beer jumped to 110,000 this morning and was expected to go higher. The temperance element, which was inclined to be very downcast last night at the landslide, was this morning reported to be more cheerful. While bone-dry prohibition, the object striven for, has not been attained, leading temperance advocates here pointed out that a substantial victory has nevertheless been secured, because the people yesterday showed unmistakably, they say, that they want the hard stuff done away with. The vote also means the abolition of the bar, it is argued, as establishments securing licenses will have to provide seating accommodation for their patrons.

MONTREAL, April 11—The referendum taken in the Province of Quebec yesterday on the uestion of wine and beer licenses showed, according to early returns, that an enormous majority voted wet.

The referendum was decided on by the provincial legislature to settle the future of the liquor question. In 1918 the legislature passed a total prohibition measure to come into effect on May 1, 1919 for "the duration of the war." The war ending before the act could be applied, the government compromised on the demands made from the liquor faction who demanded a continuance of complete "wet" privileges and those calling for the enforcement of the act, by submitting the question of the sale of beer and wine alone to the electors.

Both liquor and temperance factions in the province waged an energetic campaign, the former securing powerful support from a number of the most prominent men in Montreal.

In the province as a whole the "wets" turned out in great numbers, while the "no" element seemed indifferent. In Montreal the "wet" majority was enormous, in several divisions being over 7 per cent. The referendum result will license the sale of wine and beer in districts only where local legislation has not introduced prohibition. "Dry" districts though allowed to vote, will not become "wet" even though they gave a majority in favor of wine and beer.

EFFECTIVE MAY 1

Only in one locality in the province was the temperance sentiment emphatic enough to offset the "wet" organization. This was in the English-speaking eastern townships. The majorities for a complete "dry" state were, however, quite small.

The new liquor legislation which will be given effect to as a result of the referendum will come into force on May 1, next. The districts which will be affected are Montreal, Sherbroke, St. Johns, and the few municipalities which still grant liquor licenses.

Montreal shows a total of 44,340 and 4,106 against, while Westmount voted 3,419 for and 2,172 against. Other centres such as Sherbroke, Three Rivers and Hull went in favor of light wines and beer by considerable majorities so fas as the available results show, though these are still incomplete.

Bolshevism Not Popular Loyal Citizens Chase Reds

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

ROME, April 11.—A group of men styled Spartacans carrying red flags attempted demonstrations here today, but the public attacked the crowd and dispersed it. Several of the Spartacans were hurt and others arrested. There ensued an enthusiastic demonstration in honor of the army and victory of the Allies. Many cries were heard of "Long Live the King!" "Long live Fiume!"

A Rome despatch on April 9 said that Socialists there had decided upon a general strike for twenty-four hours on Thursday in memory of Doctor Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, killed during the winter demonstrations in Berlin and also in honor of the birthday of Nikolai Lenine, the Russian Bolshevik Premier. It was stated that the Government had forbidden meetings of both anti-war and pro-war Socialists fearing that grave clashes would follow.

65 Million Dollars More Wages For Railway Men In U.S.A

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

WASHIHNGTON, April 11—Wage advances aggregating sixty-five million dollars were ordered to-day by Director-General Hines for four hundred thousand railroad engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors in both passenger and freight service, members of Big Four Railway Brotherhood retroactive since Jan. 1, 1919. The average advance in pay per man will amount to about $160.

Wedding Bells

CAVANAUGH—ORR

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place in Christ Church on April 2, 1919, when Miss Mary Margaret Orr, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Orr, of this city, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Perry J. Cavanaugh of Newboro. The officiating minister being Rev. Rural Dean Swayne, Rector of Christ Church. The young couple were attended by Mrs. M. M. Costello, of Toronto and Mr. Frank Orr, brother of the bride. After the wedding ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, only relatives and intimate friends being present. After which the young couple left for Ottawa and other eastern points. The bride was the recinient of many beautiful and useful gifts which showed the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Cavananugh will take up their residence in the city.

Agreement Reached On All Peace Questions

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,
Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, April 11—The Peace Conference has reached an agreement on all questions concerning peace with Germany, reparations, indemnities and frontiers of the Rhine and Poland according to an interview in the Petit Journal with the private secretary of Premier Lloyd George. Certain details remain and it is added they will be settled in two or three days.

German delegates will be summoned to Versailles within two or three weeks The British Premier, his secretary is quoted as saying, thinks that if the allies agree as well at present as during the war the achievements of the peace conference will be lasting and numerous dangers including Bolshevism will be averted.

City and Country

RODE BICYCLES ON THE SIDEWALK.

The city treasury was today enriched to the extent of upwards of $100 when some twenty boys and young men were summoned before the Magistrate for riding bicycle on the sidewalk. Seventeen paid a fine of $5.00 and costs each, and three, owing to their youth, were allowed to go after a warning from the Magistrate. If the practice is continued a fine of $10 will be imposed.

CALL TO CHAPLEAU

Rev. A. L. Phelps, B.A., of Adolphustown, Bay of Quinte conference, has ben invited to the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Chapleau in the Toronto conefrence, to succeed Rev. Mr. Applegath, who has accepted an invitation to the pastorate of Port Hope Methodist Church. The call is subject to the will of the Transfer and Stationary Committees.

Y.M.C.A. Notes

At a meeting of the Boys' Work Committee last night it was decided that we make an effort this summer to meet the needs of the Industrial Boy of which we have some two hundred in the city. Most of those boys are in factories and shops. The committee feel that there should be an athletic program that would give those boys an opportunity to fill in a few spare hours in good clean sport. We know that if there was an Industrial Boys Base Ball League started this spring the boys would only be too glad to play for the company for which they work. We feel also that every employer has an interest in their employees in their hours off work, and that they will co-operate with us in any effort which we put forth to help their men along athletic lines. Why not in the next few weeks organize and Industrial Boys' Base Ball League that will include every Plant in the city employing the required number of boys for a team.

Mr. Braden, National Boys' Secretary for Employed Boys is in the city in the interest of the Employed Boys and is giving us two days of his time. Mr. Braden has had wide experience along these lines and his visit should prove of great value to us.

BASKET BALL

There will be three games of basket ball at the Y.M.C.A. tonight, the first will be between Bridge Street and the Y. team, second game between the St. Mikes and the Wanderers, last game between the Baptists and St. Andrews, any one of these are worth the price of admission, so come around tonight and get fifty worth of good clean sport for fifteen cents.

EARN AND GIVE

Our quota this year for the Earn and Give Campaign which comes in May from the 5th to the 9th is $325.00 given by sixty-five boys at the rate of $5.00 each. The money this year will be used in getting the boys back to civilian life. Extension work in China and India and the general expenses of our Association work. Let us keep those dates in mind and be prepared to do our share in helping the other fellow.

MOVIES

There will be movies for the boys Saturday night at 7.30. All hands on deck.

CIRCUS

Are you in on the circus? come be a boy again and have two nights good sport. We have a place for you on the programme if you can run, jump, laugh or sit down. All boys come out and get on the job. Let's have a real circus.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

MAUDE, THE FAMOUS MULE, COMING

Everyone has seen and laughed at the famous cartoons, of "Hee-haw Maude" the mule with the wonderful kick and the super intelligence but with Berzac's European Indoor Circus which comes to Griffin's next Tuesday matinee and night comes the original Maude, very much alive as the men who have tried to ride her and who will try to ride her in Belleville Tuesday, will testify. It is said she can kick three ways at once and never miss. Maude and her capers is only one of hundreds of funny incidents throughout an extremely enjoyable programme of skill, wit, artistry and daring in the only circus coming this winter.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little magnesia—not the ordinary carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in your stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

..You will find that, provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything, and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

Death Notices

CHRISTY—In Belleville on Thursday, April 10th, 1919, Ethel Maud Christy, wife of Mr. Walter Christy, aged 35 years.

First Nights At The Movies

Good Programs at Griffin's and the Palace.

"Venus in the East," With Bryant Washburn, a Pleasing Picture Story—Norma Talmadge Shines in "DeLuxe Annie."

It is probable that those who talk learnedly of "Art" on the screen, are not always exactly sure of their meaning. But no one, even the least conscious of what constitutes art, could fail to recognize something far beyond the ordinary in motion pictures in "Don't Change Your Husband" which was presented at Griffin's last night. The story is a new version of the familiar triangle—a lovely and romantic young wife, a husband immersed in business and neglectful to his wife and a debonnaire, sleek and highly clever young architect. The wife leaves her husband under the spell of the newcomers romantic promises and lives to repent and go back again to the man who was foolish enough to put business before everything else, but who, meantime, has reformed and become immaculate as his ex-rival. This is the bare outline—the delightful qualities are in the touches of beauty, oriental mysticism, charm of character and in every phase of the production. A small but wonderfully selected cast interprets the different roles and includes Gloria Swanson, beautiful and charming for Leila the wife; Elliott Dexter the well known leading man, as the husband; James Porter, and Lewis Cody, an excellent actor, as Van Stupen, the other man. Bryant Washburn also appears on the same program in a new vehicle entitled "Venus of the East." All the fun-making ability and whimsical characterizations for which Wallace Irwin, its author, is famous i back of it. "Never too Old" a very funny two-act Mack Sennett farce comedy and the British News completes a splendid varied bill all o which will be repeated again tonigh and Saturday.

A CROOK PLAY

"De Luxe Annie" is the title of Norma Talmadge's latest starring vehicle which delighted a large audience at the Palace last night. Miss Talmadge has never appeared to better advantage than in this absorbing play of criminal life with a surpassing pyscological ending. As Julie Kendal, the wife of a prominent lawyer, who is interested in the workings of criminal minds, whom a blow on the head turns adrift on the world, a total victim of asphasia, Miss Talmadge registers a tremendous hit in a most realistic portrayal. The 8th Chapter of the thrilling serial "The Bull's Eye" and an amusing Luke comedy completes an excellent bill.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will b glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength.) Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in an form, or distressing rumbling, hissin sounds in their ears, should give th recipe a trial.

Letters t the Editor

NOT THE ORIGINAL COMPANY

Belleville, April 11, 1919.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Dear Sir:—The following letter from the manager of the Princess Theatre, Toronto, proves my assertion that the Flo-Flo Company wh'ch I saw at the Princess was an entirely different company from that which played here this week.

Being assured by the management of the local theatre that the Belleville engagement would be filled by the Flo-Flo company which played the Princess Theatre I advised theatre patrons through the newspapers to see the show.

S. R. BURROWS.

New Princess Theatre, Toronto,
April 10th, 1919.

S. R. Burrows, Esq.,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—Your letter received. I regret I cannot send you a program of "Flo-Flo," as I have only the one we keep on file. The company I had here was the original, headed by Rena Parker and Andrew Tombes, under the direction of John Cort. It is not the same now touring Canada, nor has John Cort anything to do with the present production, having sold the rights for the smaller towns.

Trusting this will be sufficient information to settle your wager.

Yours very truly,
A. R. LOUDON.

BOOSTING PRICE OF COFFEE.

Coffee growers and dealers are starting a campaign for higher prices for coffee, the Brazil coffee grow[illegible] contributed, it is said, one million dollars to the price boosting propaganda, w[illegible] Valley roasters have put up $150,000. A hard frost which injured the Brazil coffee fields in August 1918 is given as the excuse for the attempt to raise prices. There should be another hard frost generated by coffee users who could knock the price-raising project sky-high by swearing off coffee until assured that the project was abandoned. From this distance it looks as if coffee drinkers would be obliged to contribute that million odd raised to raise the price of coffee for it would be idle to expect the Coffee Barons to pay it out of their own pockets while there is one percolator left percolating.

SIR ADAM BECK CAN HELP QUINTE DISTRICT.

Fifty-one municipalities using power from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario are to receive substantial reductions in power charges, but the Bay of Quinte District is not included. Reduction in the price of power in this district is absolutely essential if mining and manufacturing industries are to be developed to the full extent of their possibilities. Mining operators, particularly, complain of excessive power charges and the urgent need of a revision of rates downward. Cheaper power will result in a great deal more power being used and an impetus given industry in this district—a strong and united effort should be made to impress this fact upon Sir Adam Beck, the Minister of Power, who should visit this district and see for himself the immense possibilities for the development of natural resources under favorable conditions.

HON. DR. CODY'S PLANS FOR BETTER EDUCATION.

Elementary education in Ontario is capable of considerable improvement. No one realizes this more fully than Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, who in the brief time since his appointment has made a close study of conditions with the result that an outline of proposed improvements, which give promise of being effective of much good, has been laid before the Legislature.

Home-work—that bane of child life—finds no champion in Dr. Cody, who is determined that it shall be reduced to the lowest minimum; nor is Dr. Cody enamored with the practice of expecting children to write elaborate compositions on this, that and the other thing, and composition, that favorite torture of many teachers, is to be curtailed and combined with grammar in elementary schools. Unnecessary arithmetic is to be eliminated, and some of the burdens imposed upon the child mind shifted to something more readily understandable.

Examinations, greatest torture of all for the average child, are to be so remodelled as to produce a result which will show what the child knows and not what the child does not know.

Dr. Cody is determined to make the educational system of Ontario as practical as possible, and while he has many walls of prejudice to break down and will not arrive at his objective this year or next, he has made a good start, which should shown beneficial results from the beginning.

The principal object of the new Minister of Education is the providing of a better and more practical education for the boy and girl whose education is limited to the Public School, from which they graduate to business life. These pupils are in the great majority, but hitherto the principle of elementary education was a preparation for higher education through High School to University. Secondary schools are to be established to provide practical education preparatory to entering mercantile or industrial pursuits. Here the child can get the ground-work of a commercial education, typewriting, stenography, etc., while the mechanically inclined can take up those studies which will best fit him for the calling he has elected to follow in life. Agricultural instruction would be one of the principal courses in these secondary schools.

Hon. Dr. Cody's reforms may be grouped under the following headings:

Combine grammar and composition in the elementary school course.

Cut amount of physical and scientific geography in elementary classes.

Eliminate unnecessary arithmetic.

Keep home work down to a minimum.

Revise examinations so that they would show what a child knew and not what he did not know.

Revise text books.

Make plans for secondary schools specializing in agricultural, commercial, industrial and technical education.

Department of Teacher Training to be separated from the Department of Technical and Industrial Education.

Special training for inspectors.

.·. CRISP COMMENT .·.

That Canada should be asked to vote large subsidies to ships to carry foodstuffs overseas while on account of high prices at home the average person has to materially cut down his daily rations seems too grotesque to be true. Feed Canada first at Living Prices—Let the Turk wait for the second table.

If the price of butter keeps climbing it would be an act of political economy to turn the Parliament Buildings into oleomargarine factories and make the M.P.'s do the work. All this chin-music and speech-making may be very entertaining but it is far from filling.

Canada's High Cost of Living Commissioner says the price of butter is not abnormal because the export demand warrants a high price. From his system of reasoning it appears that because Germany, Austria, Turkey, et al, stopped producing to destroy the freedom of the world Canadians should be bled forever by high food prices in order to supply the overseas demand. Canadians should be fed first at a fair price and the surplus marketed to the best advantage. Why Canadians should continue indefinitely to pay a war indemnity to the Food Barons passeth understanding.

It would have been a mistake on the part of the Hearst Government to require the people of Ontario to vote yes or no on the bald question whether the existing prohibition law shall be retained or abolished. If that were done it would be impossible to obtain an accurate expression of public opinion; for there are many who favor prohibition of the license system but who are against the O.T.A. brand of prohibition; many who believe in the regulation, under license, of the sale of light beer and wine, but who think the sale of spirits should be suppressed; many who do not favor the license system at all, but would like to see the dispensing of liquor in the hands of the government.—Hamilton Herald.

Snider Suffered Most All His Life

Feels Better After Taking Tanlac Than He Has In Thirty-five Years

"I am feeling better than I have in thirty-five years and it is all due to the Tanlac I have taken," said Jas. A. Snider, of 17 Jackson St., Hamilton Ont., recently.

"I have suffered from a bad stomach nearly all my life," he continued, "I had no appetite, and had to force myself to eat. Gas would form on my stomach and I would nearly double and I [illegible] my heart would flutter spells. I suffered so with [illegible]tism in my knees that at times I just couldn't straighten up.

"Tanlac has put my stomach in good condition, gas has stopped forming and I never have those smothering spells anymore. My food agrees with me and I have gained several pounds in weight. The rheumatism is about gone and I can walk as good as anybody, all the pain and misery is gone from my system and I just can't praise Tanlac enough for the good it has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling, by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

Death Notices

LLOYD—In Belleville, April 10th, Annie May Lloyd, aged 14 years.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lloyd, 81 Mill Street, tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon, at four o'clock. Service at the house at 3.30. Interment family plot, Belleville Cemetery.

O'NEILL—In Belleville, April 10, 1919, John O'Neill, aged 61 years.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 91 Canifton Road, on Saturday, April 12, 1919, at 8.30 a.m. to St. Michael's Church, thence to St. James Cemetery.

The Admiral's Broom—and—Up From Somerset H. Ruthven McDonald 216053

"The Admiral's Broom" is a ballad, vigorous and tuneful, having all the swing of a rollicking song of the sea and possessing breadth of bigness as well as strength of workmanship. This rousing baritone song as rendered by Ruthven McDonald is remarkable for clearness of enunciation, and the listener will have no difficulty in following every word.

"Up From Somerset." The old song has all the qualities of the good old ones, the expressions used all possess the power of conjuring up pictures in the mind of the listener, which is one of the highest qualities of art. Mr. McDonald's voice is not only ample in volume but he can phrase with delicacy and the tones of his upper register are remarkable for their richness.

HOW TO KILL DANDRUFF SO IT WON'T RETURN

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well-known fact. We appreciate, therefore, the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests, will completely destroy the dandruff germs in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home or any druggist will put it up for you—6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

CITY AND COUNTRY

TIME CONFUSING

Picton time is rather confusing these days. The C.N.R., the express office and the hotels run on Daylight Saving, while the rest of the town are continuing standard time. This condition of affairs is very unsatisfactory and some definite action should be taken in the matter by the Town Council.—Gazette.

INQUEST TO BE HELD

Owing to numerous rumors it has been directed that in the public interests an inquest should be held to ascertain the cause of death of the late John Colville, who a few days ago was found dead in bed in his apartments over Mr. Charles Scott's repair shop in Port Hope. Yesterday a post mortem examination of the body was made by Dr. G. A. Dickinson and the stomach was sent to Toronto for analysis.

"HOME WELCOME" FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS

On Sunday next a "Home Welcome" service of solemn thanksgivnig will be held at St. Thomas' Church, to which the many returned soldiers of St Thomas' congregation are invited with their comrades and friends. The rector, Ven. Archdeacon Beamish has received seventy-eight official notifications from overseas Anglican chaplains' service of returned men, and, after Easter, it is purposed to entertain all these, and others, that may arrive in the meantime, with theirHouse, by the members of St. Thomas comrades and friends, in the Parish church and congregation.

The Armenians have sent strong protest to Paris asking for protection in Trans-Caucasia.

Further outbreaks have taken place in Korea, which are being sternly suppressed by the Japanese.

ALLOWED HIS LIBERTY

Yesterday before Judge Wills, Joseph Moran of Marmora, was charged with theft arising out of a horse trading deal with Mr. Robert McFaull. The accused was found guilty, but owing to the fact that matters had been satisfactorily adjusted and Moran had been in jail for some time, he was allowed his liberty. Mr. Carnew, County Attorney, represented the Crown in the case.

In The Spring-Time.

Any fool knows enough to carry an umbrella when it rains, but the wise man is he who carries one when it is only cloudy. Any man will send for a doctor when he gets bedfast, but the wiser one is he who adopts proper measures before his ills become serious. During a hard winter or the following spring one feels rundown, tired out, weak and nervous. Probably you have suffered from cold or influenza which has left you thin, weak and pale. This is the time to put your system in order. It is time for house-cleaning.

A good, old-fashioned alterative and temperance tonic is one made of wild roots and barks without the use of alcohol, and called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form. This is nature's tonic, which restores the tone of the stomach, activity of the liver and steadiness to the nerves, strengthening the whole system.

CENTRAL BUTTE, SASK.—"I have used the 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal. I think my boy would not be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach."—MRS. PERCY WOOD.

Social And Personal

Mr. George Gulliver, 110 Bleecker Ave., received a telegram from his son, George, who enlisted with the 32nd Battery, stating that he arrived in Canada and expected to reach home on Saturday.

Mr. C. P. Robinson, who resides on Pine Street, a G.T.R. conductor, formerly of Brockville, who has had his right leg in plaster-paris for the last twelve weeks, which was the result of an accident last July, left yesterday for Montreal to enter the Royal Victoria Hospital for treatment by Dr. Carrow, specialist. Mr. Robinson's many friends both here and in Brockville, wish him every success.

On My Back For Eleven Weeks

I was this length of time on my back suffering with a running sore, putting my limb in hot water five hours of a day according to doctor's directions, and then finally he wanted to lance it. I had been advised by more than one to try "Mecca" Ointment, and I did, with the result that in less than two weeks I was up and walking on my front verandah. I believe "Mecca" Ointment to be the greatest healing antiseptic of today.

AVOID ALUM IN FOOD

Baking Powder is one of the most important food ingredients. Alum or other injurious acids are frequently used by some concerns to lower the cost of production.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

Contains No Alum

It is a pure phosphate baking powder and is guaranteed to be the best, purest and most healthful baking powder possible to produce.

W. Matthew Williams, in "Chemistry of Cooking," says: "Phosphates are the bone-making material of food and have something to do with building up of brain and nervous matter."

Making the "Queer" In Prison Walls

Three Convicts Said to Have Worked in Cells at Night.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11 — A counterfeiter's den in full operation has been discovered within the walls of the Eastern Penitentiary here.

Three convicts were doing the work in their cells at night. They had been operating only three days, however, before the deputy warden discovered the plot. The case was immediately turned over to the United States Secret Service men, who found dollar bills and two-dollar notes in the process of becoming "fives" and "tens." Some of these had actually been completed, but the enamel, which was used to raise the figures and change the letters was hardly dry.

QUEBEC PAPER THINKS ONTARIO A WARNING

QUEBEC, April 11—In an appeal to the electors in favor of the vote that wil bring the sale of beer and wine, 'Evenment Wednesday night says that prohibition is undesirable. It says that Ontario has had a taste of prohibition; still, according to official figures, in one year more than one million quarts of pure alcohol were sold under doctors' prescriptions. An official report, says L'Evenement, states that in Ontario stills multiplied since prohibition was passed in the Province. The paper cites the instance of an American barge that was a floating still. L'Evenement says Ontario would have drunk less alcohol and prevented all sorts of scandals had the moderate use of beer and wine been tolerated.

LIQUOR BURGLARS GET THREE YEARS

TORONTO, April 11.—Four "liquor burglars" were each sentenced to three years' imprisonment by Judge Coatsworth in the Criminal Sessions. The men are believed to have been responsible for many of the "cellar raids" that have taken place recently. The convinced men are: Thomas Fratt, Harold Radnor, Joseph Radnor, and John Quigley, and each was found Radnor and George Moriaty, charged with being implicated in several of the subterranean excursions, were discharged for lack of evidence.

"Add one cup of Sugar"

—but what Sugar?

MANY women, when they think of Sugar, are inclined to let their interest dwell upon the matter of price rather than upon quality. But we who make Sugar, and the grocer who sells it, know there is something more important about Sugar than the price. We want you to learn about Sugar Quality. The best way to obtain a realization of how good a sugar can be, is to try a dollar's worth of

DOMINION CRYSTAL SUGAR

This is the only Sugar that may rightly be termed "Canadian from the ground up." We do import the finest of Raw Cane Sugar and refine it for Canadian use. But our pride is in the product we make from Canadian Sugar Beets.

Pure, sparkling and finely granulated. A sugar that will give unfailing satisfaction in preserving, in baking, and for table use.

Most grocers carry this brand. They will substantiate all we say about its quality—they will tell you it is a matter of pride with them to be able to offer a Sugar so good, that is made from Sugar beets grown on Canadian land. Most grocers have it in the popular 20-pound bag, as well as in barrels. Specify "Dominion Crystal" next time you order Sugar.

Toronto Cattle Dealer Explains How His Big Roll Vanished

IN COURT HE IDENTIFIES EDDIE MINES AS THE JOHN KELLY WHOM HE MET ON THE TRAIN BETWEEN REGINA AND WINNIPEG AND WHOSE TALK COST HIM MUCH MONEY LATER, HE SWEARS.

MONTREOL, April 11—How Eddie Mines, identified as John Kelly, "Uncle Johnny," got $7,500 from R. McLaughlin, of Toronto, while "Eddie" and his nephew, Joseph Kelly, and a third member of the party described as the cashier of a brokerage firm, were living in three separate rooms at a hotel here, was told by McLaughlin, who swore positively that MiMnes, the prisoner in the dock, was John Kelley, who introduced himself to the complainant while the latter was on a return journey from Regina to Winnipeg last January.

Following the evidence of McLaughlin, Mines was taken to detective head quarters to await identification by two citizens who lost about $50,0000 last fall at Buffalo on horse racing bets.

The prisoner was arrested on St. James Street by Chief Lepage and Joseph Gorman, of the local detective bureau. He was defended by Mr. Alban Germain, K.C., while Mr. W. M. Coopér, K.C., represented the complainant.

McLaughlin swore he had the attentions of the accused forced upon him while traveling from Regina to Winnipeg last fall. A man who declared his name was John Kelley, who had a nephew, Joseph Kelly, in a brokerage office at New York, insisted upon starting a conversation with the cattle dealer.

"Stocks are the only thing to make money out of, and I can put you in the way of winning without any chance of loss." That was the way Kelly put the thing to McLaughlin.

"He was a sticker and I just listened to him until the train arrived. Then I went my way to my home in Toronto and banished the conversation from my mind. That was last January."

"About six weeks later while at my place of business I was called to a telephone and told that a man named Kelly desired to speak to me. I had forgotten about the passenger.

"This fellow, I want to say, was on the train when I boarded from Winnipeg to Toronto, but I kept out of his way and did not go near him. When he entered my office, he still talked stocks and I was foolish enough to listen to him. He finally insisted on my coming to Montreal and I did come here. I met the prisoner at a hotel and also his alleged nephew, Joseph Kelly, and a third man. We had separate rooms at the hotel."

They talked Mexican stocks, petroleum stocks and told me that I would not have to put up a cent as the money was all in and the stock was to jump up one point which would net a profit of $30,000. The third party went out and came back with a document which showed that the stocks had been bought.' Later in the day he went out and came back with a document which showed that the stocks had been bought. Later in the day he went out again and returned to me with $30,000 which had been won. I had not taken part in this speculation and they let me in on the next speculation.

"It was agreed to purchase United States Steel stocks and we were to put up $60,000—the $30,000 just secured and $30,000 more. Of the latter amount "Uncle Johnny Kelly" was to put up $20,000 and the nephew $3,000 I was given a chance to make up the balance and I went to my banker at Toronto and got the necessary $7,500.

"The next day I placed the money on United States Steel and they showed me a recipt for the purchase of the stocks. When the market closed that day the stock had gone down and the information I received was that the order had come in to sell the stock and not buy it. I had lost my money and this man who says his name is Mines is also Kelly who put this game over me."

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

Her relations with the Fultons were decidedly different now. She was careful not to presume in the least on the change in their thought of her and when Mrs. Fulton asked her that day if she would not sit down at the table with them, she said she preferred not to, which was entirely true, for Faith believed that if she was to serve the family as she ought at meal times, she must be ready to do so in the most effective manner. And she knew she could not do so if she ate with the rest.

Mrs. Fulton was much relieved at Faith's action in that particular. It seemed to Faith, however that when Sunday morning came, and Alice asked her to come into the family circle to prayers, that she ought to go, and she did so quietly, and enjoyed it.

When evening came, Alice wanted to go to church with her and Mrs. Fulton did not say anything. The new order of things was unheard of, but a girl whose family friends include men like Francis Raleigh and Malcom Stanley, was not an ordinary hired girl, and Mrs. Fulton reasoned with herself accordingly.

But before that Sunday came, Faith and the artist had gone to see the famous lady photographer, who had taken a liking to Faith at the beginning. She readily agreed to take on trial Faith at the end of the month, and Faith went back to her kitchen quite exultant at the prospect.

"If I could only send ten or even five dollars a week home. I'd be the proudest girl in this city," she said as she prepared the dinner that evening. "And then, in time, perhaps, I can have a studio of my own like Miss Varney's. I know I have plenty of artistic ideas and maybe one or two of them are original."

So she sang, light-hearted as she worked, overcoming the world of her selfishness and her trials, for it was not all heaven on earth always even in that well-appointed kitchen and there were many things to fight without and within.

But when the time of her stay with the Fultons was out, she parted from them with genuine regret. It is very certain that Mrs. Fulton dreaded exceedingly to "break in" the new girl, and at the last she even urged Faith to remain another month.

"We will give you five dollars a week if you will only stay," she said, anxiously. "And you can play the piano if you want to," she added with a short laugh and a little embarrassment.

"I'm sorry, really sorry, to leave you Mrs. Fulton. You have been very good to me. But I feel as if the Lord meant me to do something else. Perhaps" (Faith said it a little vaguely but she had brooded over it a good deal while at work in the kitchen) "perhaps I may be able to do something to make American girls willing to go out to service."

"I wish you could. Really, you have no idea what I have suffered from my help in the last twenty years."

Roy was inconsolable. He wanted Faith to bake up one or two hundred apple pies and leave them in a cold storage plant near by, so he could have something to eat between meals.

"Tell you what I'll do," he said, a week before Faith's time was up. "If you will bake a pie every day and send it over from the studio, I'll give you my kodak. It's new, but I'm tired of it, anyhow."

Faith laughed, but declined the offer.

"Then, I'll give you the kodak anyway," said Roy, and he insisted on Faith taking it, and his offer was so pressing that she had not the strength to refuse. At the earliest opportunity she sent him a photograph of a street urchin eating a pie, holding it in both hands, and Doy delightedly framed it and hung it up in his own room after his mother had refused to let it adorn the top of the sideboard in the dining-room.

But Faith experienced the sincerest regret in parting from Alice. The two girls entered into what proved to be a genuine friendship. There was not the least feeling of social caste. She wanted Faith to show her how a certain finger exercise on the piano was best done, and more than once expressed the greatest admiration for Faith's accomplishments. When the girls parted, they kissed each other, and Alice afterwards cried heartily. The friendship thus begun has lasted to the present moment. Then there began a new life for Faith. She seemed at last to have found her place in the world. Miss Varney was more than delighted with her.

"That girl," she said to Francis Raleigh, who called at her studio a month after Faith had been there, "has brought more new ideas into my work than all my other assistants. She will make her mark in the profession.

Faith was in the next room and could not help hearing what was said, unknown to the artist. She trembled with pleasure, and when she wrote home that night, she gave her mother a glowing account of her work and its hope for future success. It was with the keenest pleasure that she was able to enclose in this same letter ten dollars, which she had saved from her earnings in the studio.

CHAPTER XX

So the winter quickly passed, and spring melted into summer, and then a growing plan developed in Faith's mind. She had not been able to crowd it out of her "heart-thoughts" as she called any ideas that kept making her think of other people. Even her rapidly increasing artistic power could not prevent the silent, increasing powerful pressure of an idea that she had also a mission to perform for the good in a certain peculiar way.

"I shall have to go home and talk it over with father before I can settle it right," she kept saying to herself all summer, and when fall was ushered in, she could see the frosty mornings on the prairie, and call up in memory the sound of the prairie chickens out in the corn-fields, and see the big stretch of sky that was never possible in the smoky city, with its ugly piles of buildings, that shut out sun and air, then Faith grew really lonesome and homesick and one day she resolutely told Miss Varney that she must go home for a little visit.

"I don't blame you, my dear. Go out home and breathe some fresh prairie air and photograph some Kansas ideas, and come back with them, and we will make our fortune."

"I don't know about getting photographs of Kansas ideas," replied Faith. "But I do know about the prairie air. And I'm going to get some."

So Faith ran out to the Fulton's, said good-bye to them, and Francis Raleigh at the same time and started for home that day.

She had written home, telling of her coming, and when she reached Conrad, there were father and mother and the boys at the station, and a little back of that eager group a stalwart, manly figure, Malcolm Stanley, who had come in quite suddenly the day before from New Mexico. It is not exactly certain how he knew that Faith was coming home, or, indeed, if he knew anything about it, but it is very certain that he was there at that time, and that Malcom and Dorothy had given him a hearty welcome.

"You're just in time to help our church celebrate our twenty-fifth anniversary," Malcom had said to him. His church was planning, in a quiet way, for such an anniversary, and it pleased him much to think that Faith was to be at home in time, and also that Stanley could be with them.

That was a wonderful home-coming for Faith. The expereinces she had were rehearsed in the family circle, and there never had been so much hearty, pure laughter in the parsonage since it was built. In the frosty evenings they sat around the open fire in the parlor, and even Malcom shut up in his study and joined the group early o ,klatgnigerlyint beexh group early, talking over matter with Faith, and entering into all her new plans with the enthusiasm of a boy. Dorothy smiled often through her happy tears, as she looked at her children and saw them growing up into sturdy, useful lives, and in her heart she thanked the Great Father continually for such treasures, worth more to her and her husband than all the gold and silver in the world.

MRS. LEWIS OF BROOKLYN

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For one year I was miserable from a displacement, which caused a general run-down condition with headaches and pains in my side. My sister induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I found it helped me very much and such a splendid tonic that I am recommending it to any woman who has similar troubles."—Mrs. ELSIE G. LEWIS, 30 Vernon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Such conditions as Mrs. Lewis suffered from may be caused by a fall or a general weakened run-down condition of the system, and the most successful remedy to restore strength to muscles and tissue and bring about a normal healthy condition—has proved to be this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have disturbing symptoms you do not understand write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

What You Get for the Last $10

WHAT is it worth to you that your C.C.M. will be running more smoothly after long use than many ordinary wheels do when new—that it will still be giving sturdy service years after an inferior wheel is played out—that fewer repairs are needed owing to C.C.M. sincerity of workmanship in every part—that in case of accident, you can get C.C.M. service almost everywhere in Canada?

Imagine getting all this extra service for the last ten dollars you pay! Spread over the much longer life of your C.C.M., the cost to you is but a trifle!

C·C·M· Bicycles

Every running part of a C.C.M. bicycle is made true as a watch. And it keeps true. Every rider of an ordinary wheel has felt the hard pedalling caused by inaccuracies in the crank-hanger—the power plant of a bicycle. He feels an alternate looseness and tightness, indicating friction and loss of driving power. In C.C.M. bicycles the parts subject to wear are not stamped out but are accurately machine ground. Not a whit of driving power is lost.

And the "Hercules" Coaster Brake! All C.C.M. bicycles have it. It is the only brake without a side arm. Lightest and simplest of all brakes, the Hercules is sensitive, sure and powerful. The clutch engages with utmost smoothness. We back this brake with a hard and fast guarantee.

Look at a C.C.M.! After years of hard use its graceful lines are still enhanced by the sparkle of its brilliant enamel. The handle bars, and all bright parts, defy the rain—these are nickelled over a heavy coat of copper—and copper can't rust.

There's a C.C.M. dealer not far away.

Value of Decision

On October 21st we received two enquiries from small towns in the Middle West regarding Davidson Gold Mines, Ltd. The enquirers, for obvious reasons, we shall call "A" and "B".

As is our custom, these enquiries were answered promptly, with full details as to the latest developments on the property, etc., and a suggestion that a purchase at the price then prevailing (32c.) would be a wise move.

Five days had hardly elapsed when the mails brought a substantial order from "B" for this stock; whereas about a week later a second letter was received from "A" asking for further particulars. At every marked advance in the price of Davidson shares we were asked by enquirer "A" whether or not Davidson was still a "good buy."

Who is profiting by the appreciation in value of the Davidson stock? Who is benefiting by our suggestion?

When all particulars are in hand, it is time for decision. Further enquiry is useless and only decreases profits.

Davidson today, in view of recent developments is as good a buy at 70c. as it was months ago at 32c.

Are you interested? If so, mail in this coupon for particulars, or mail your order for Davidson stock.

Profit by the experience of enquirer "A."

NO GREAT KICK IN THE NEW BEER

Since the announcement of the prohibition referendum by Premier Hearst there has been a certain amount of indecision on the part of the general public as to the strength of the light beer mentioned in one of the clauses. The strength of the beer referred to will be 2·1 alcohol weight measure, considerably lowed in alcoholic content than the lager beer of anti-prohibition days, which ran from 3¼ to 4 1-2 and ale 4 1-2 to 6, alcohol weight measure.

Five Vacancies In The Commons

Doubtful if Elections Will Be Held Until Troops Demobilized.

OTTAWA, April 11—With the death of Capt. Joseph Read, member for Queen's P. E. I., there are now five vacancies in the House of Commons. The other seats which are open are Glengarry, North Ontario, Quebec East and Assiniboia. Sir Thomas White was asked in the Commons last week when the bye-elections would be held, but gave no definite reply. It is doubtful if the elections will be held until the troops are demobilized as at present there is no way of voting the overseas soldiers.

There is general regret over the death of Capt. Read, who was one of the picturesque figures in the House. He was generally known as "The Ancient Mariner." He was for forty years a sea captain and had sailed the seven seas. As a result he had a unique knowledge of country and of men and his speeches were always refreshing.

General Griesbach, the distinguished Canadian soldier, who was elected for East Edmonton, defeating Hon. Frank Oliver, has arrived in Ottawa and taken his seat. General Griesbach had nothing to say for publication on Argyle House and said that for the present he intends "to sit tight." He intimated that if the subject came up in the House he would have something to say.

Policeman Fined In Whiskey Case

TORONTO, April 11.—The Board of Police Commissioners imposed a fine of $200 on Inspector John Pogue, late Pape Avenue Police Station, in connection with the Pape Avenue Police Station-Garnet Archibald whiskey episode. Staff Inspector McKinrey received a severe reprimand for his lack of discretion in telling Inspector Pogue to give whiskey to Archibald. The board regrets that the persons primarily responsible for the difficulty are outside the jurisdiction of the board.

Sergeant George Guthrie, who has ben acting inspector of detectives since Inspector eKnnedy's retirement, was appointed to the vacant post. Detective William Wallace was made sergeant of tedectives, in which capacity he has been acting.

Toronto Traveller Poisoned By Liquor

TORONTO, April 11—When the inquest into the death of Robert Johnston Spence, whose body was found in a culvert at the Humber a week ago Sunday morning, was resumed at Connaught Hall, Mimico, the cause of death was revealed in the post-mortem examination made by Drs. Godfrey and Graham as acute taxema brought on by acute alcoholism.

County Crown Attorney Greer examined a number of witnesses as to the movements of Spence on the night previous to his death, and brought out the facts that Spence had purchased two bottles of liquor from one William Dunvan, Tremont Hotel, for $16.

SEARCH FOR VENDOR

The foreman of the jury wanted the man brought who had sold Spence the liquor, and Provincial Detective Reburn said that he was now looking for him.

"We also want to know what became of the $200 Spence had on him, and how he came to be at the Humber," intimated the Crown Attorney, and Coroner Allison said that he would adjourn for a couple of weeks to clear up these points.

Another juryman pointed out that the Tremont Hotel appeared to be the headquarters for the "Vendors' Association," but the Ontario detective said that it was only a meeting place.

Cassie Gadway, with whom Spence roomed for some two years or more, said that he had called on her in company with the man called Dunvan, from whom he purcahsed the liquor. Spence had said that he was going to "the club" to "see the boys." Crown Attoriney Greer pressed the witness to tell him just what she meant by "the boys," but witness said that she did not know. She had seen a roll of money, and later Spence had displayed the same roll before her husband on Queen Street. He also had two bottles of liquor.

BODY BROUGHT THERE?

County Constable Simpson, Pte. Bryan and James Collins told of the finding of the body. The constable claimed that wagon tracks indicated the body had been brought there. He had found a receipt on it: "Delivered to R. J. Spence from vendors, two bottles of cream." The receipt was signed, "Vendors' Association, Tremont Hotel." Collins contended the man could not have rolled down the incline and got into the position he was found in.

Manitoba's Mixed Farming King

For thirty years "S. Larcombe, of Birtle" has been a name growing steadily more familiar to the public, until to-day it is known and recognized all over Canada and in many states of the Union to the south as that of a man who has labored unceasingly to promote diversified agriculture in the Canadian West. Larcombe is 68 years young, and for 59 of those years he has worked on the land and worked hard. To-day he is hale and hearty, and loves a joke, tells a capital story, but in a moment can turn from gay to grave, and has a vision of what should be done agriculturally in this country, a vision that the younger men might well try to catch.

Like so many who have wrought well for western Canada he has had little or no tangible recognition by governments of his work. Occasionally he indulges in a little mild sarcasm over things as they are, as for example the other day when congratulated on winning the Bankers' Special of $500 in gold he remarked with a merry twinkle "Oh yes I have the glory and the bankers have the gold. Didn't you see that the placing had to be won twice before the money is paid over?" but the writer said "you have won twice the grand championship for wheat." "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Larcombe, "but banks are only retroactive in collections, not in payments, and my first win was before this prize was offered, but perhaps I will win next year though every year there are more expert wheat growers in Canada, and the prize is open to the whole Dominion, but banks like to play safe, they get the glory of offering $500, I get the glory of winning the sweepstakes and there is a long chance they will never have to pay the money" and he went on his way with a gay laugh.

Just a bare recital of his life work makes fascinating reading. Born at the little village of Muusbury, near Axminister, in bonnie Devon, in 1851, he went to work on a farm when he was nine years old and worked there until he was twenty-one, when he moved to Croydon, in Surrey, and specialized in market gardening for ten years. In 1889 the call of the new land became insistent and though by this time he had given seven hostages to fortune and had a wife and five children, he pulled up stakes, and came to Canada, landing in Winnipeg in May of that year, and after a few days rest started on what was in those days the old Manitoba North Western, for Birtle.

He did not make the mistake so common among his countrymen of thinking because he had farmed in England, there was nothing to learn in Canada, but hired out for a year with another farmer. The following year he rented a farm three miles from Birtle, and started on his own account, and that very year joined the Birtle Agricultural Society. At a time when everyone was talking wheat, and wheat and more wheat, he made his first exhibits not of grains but of vegetables. The first time he got three prizes. In ten years his list of entries numbered 40 and he had thirty-seven prizes from the Birtle society, and 94 prizes from four other local shows at which he exhibited. All these years he was growing grain, and feeling his way as to varieties and strains, but confined his exhibiting to vegetables and roots almost entirely.

Allied Victory Miraculous Says Field Marshal Haig

MARSHAL HAIG REVIEWS MILITARY OPERATIONS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM DURING PROGRESS OF GREAT WAR—WHAT CONTRIBUTED TO GERMAN COLLAPSE—FEATURE OF CONFLICT WAS CREATION OF NEW BRITISH ARMY, WHICH WAS BUILT UP IN VERY MIDST OF HOSTILITIES—VICTORY DUE TO BRITISH SPIRIT.

LONDON, April 12.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in his final despatch made public, presents an important review of the war, and describes in detail the expansion and achievements of the British army, with many remarkable facts and figures. He treats the operations on the Western front as a single continuous campaign, in which can be recognized the same general features and necessary stages that, between forces of approximately equal strength, have marked all the conclusive battles of history.

"Miraculous" Victory

"The high-water mark of our fighting strength in infantry," says the British Commander, 'was reached only after two and a half years of conflict, by which time heavy casualties had already been incurred. It was ont until midsummer, 1916, that the artillery situation became even approximately adequate to the conduct of major operations.

"During the Somme battle artillery ammunition had to be watched with the greatest care. During 1917 ammunition was plentiful, but the gun situation caused anixety. It was only in 1918 that artillery operations could be conducted without any limiting consideration beyond that of transport.

"The margin with which the German onrush of 1914 was stemmed was so narrow and the subsequent struggle was so severe that the word 'miraculous' is hardly too strong a term to describe the recovery and ultimate victory of the allies.

Lengthened by a Year

"The breakdown of Russia in 1917 probably prolonged the war by a year and the military situation in Italy in the autumn of 1917 necessitated the transfer of five British divisions to Italy at a time when their presence in France might have had far-reaching effects.'

Sir Douglas records the interesting fact that more than half the British casualties in the fighting of 1918 occurred during the five months from March to July, when the allies were on the defensive.

"The rapid collapse of Germany's military powers in the latter half of 1918," he says, "was the logical outcome of the fighting of the previous two years. It would not have taken place but for that period of ceaseless attrition which used up the German reserves. It is in the great battles of 1916 and 1917 that all have to seek for the secret of our victory in 1918."

Value of Cavalry

The value of cavalry in modern war is emphasized by Sir Douglas Haig, and, in discussing the value of mechanical contrivances such as tanks, he observes that, immense as their influence might have been, they could not, by themselves, decide a campaign Their true role is to assist infantrymen, by whose rifles and bayonets only can decisive victory be won.

The expansion of British personnel artillery, ammunition, transport, railway construction, and establishments of every kind in France is dwelt upon by the Field Marshal. Regarding machine guns the British equipment increased from one gun to 500 infantry men in 1914, to one to twenty infantrymen in 1918. The 486 pieces of artillery with which the British took the field in 1914 were represented at the date of the armistice by 6,437.

Army Built Up In War

On the first day of the Somme battle in 1916 nearly 13,000 tons of artillery ammunition were fired by the British on the Western front. On two days, September 20 and 21, 1917, 42,000 tons were expended, and in the tnere days of the crucial battle of September 27, 28, and 29, 1918, nearly 65,000 tons were fired by the British artillery.

Sir Douglas says that the feature of the war, which to the historian may well appear most noteworthy is the creation of the new British army, which was successfully built up in the very midst of the war.

"The total of more than 327,000 German prisoners captured by us on the Western front," says Sir Douglas, "is in striking contrast to the force of six divisions, comprising some 80,000 fighting men, with which we entered the war. That we should have been able to accomplish this stupendous task is due partly to the loyalty and devotion of our allies and to the splendid work of the Royal navy, but mainly to the wonderful spirit of the British race in all parts of the world."

With respect to the use of cavalry, Sir Douglas Haig contends that in the light of full experience of the war the decision to preserve the cavalry corps has been completely justified.

"It has been proved," he adds, "that cavalry, whether used for shock effect under suitable conditions, or as mobile infantry, have still an indispensable part to play in modern warfare. Moreover, it cannot safely be assured that in all future wars the flanks of the opposing forces will rest on neutral States or impassable obstacles."

Why Attacked Always

The Field Marshal devotes special section to "Why we attacked whenever possible," in which he says:

"The object of all war is victory, and a purely defensive attitude can never bring about a successful decision."

He emphasizes that the defensive role sooner or later produces a lowering of moarle, while the defender becomes almost entirely ignorant of his opponent's dispositions and plans. This was exemplified in the fighting of 1918. 'So long as the enemy was attacking he obtained a fairly full information regarding our dispositions," says Sir Douglas, 'but so soon as he was thrown on the defensive, and the initiative returned to the allies, he was kept in comparative ignorance of our plans and dispositions, and the allies were able to effect many surprises, both strategic and tactical."

In this section the Field Marshal thanks the various Commanders and his staff and mentions Lieut.-Col. Pacon, who, he says, "as Chief of the American Mission attached to my headquarters, has been able to give me advice and assistance of the greatest value on many occasions.

Ocean Going Plane Makes Trial Trip

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 12—Harry G. Hawker made a test flight in the biplane in which he expects to make the first air voyage across the Atlantic Ocean.

Loading barely enough gasoline to keep the ship in the air for forty minutes, he took off at 4.40 o'clock and until 5.30 circles over Conception Bay, the City of St. John's and the huge ice field which stretches to sea.

No announcement had been made of the flight, but the hum of the big Rolls-Royce engine gave the alarm to the city and from stores and offices, houses and ships at anchor thousands poured out to see the wondrous sight.

More than half the population of 25,000 walked the streets a full half-hour and found occasional glimpses of the plane a more than adequate reward.

At the field itself there were perhaps a dozen people, besides mechanicians, members of the Hawker party and workmen, who have been busy since yesterday morning cutting away the hillside and carting earth over the worst parts of the landing field. There has been a veritable quagmire since the arrival of the plane. Flight would not have been possible if the frost had not hardened the surface. Even then the machine could never have done it with 6,150 pounds of fuel needed for the trip.

The party expects the big "hop" to start not later than Monday, April 11.

Parliament Adopts Daylight Saving

Railway Commission Has No Jurisdiction in Time Change.

OTTAWA, April 11—Parliament has swallowed itself on the daylight saving question. After rejecting it by an overwhelming majority two weeks ago, it decided just before midnight tonight that it would observe summer time, commencing on Monday. Practically all the farmers in the House had gone home for the week end when the announcement was made by Hon. Arthur Meighen.

OTTAWA, April 11 — "Daylight saving is a matter for Parliament, and the board having no jurisdiction cannot pass on the merits of the issue one way or the other," says Sir Henry Drayton, Chairman of the Railway Board, in a judgment handed down regarding daylight saving.

Earl Curzon Sees Sinister Clouds On Horizon Which May Break Any Time

LONDON, April 12—Defending the military bill in the House of Lords, Earl Curzon, of Kedleston, president of the Council and Government leader in the House of Lords, declared that Vienna, "being in a serious position and apprehensive lest it should share the fate of Budapest, had turned to Great Britain and said: "If you will send 10,000 British troops, we can guarantee the situation."

Earl Curon was not sure that war conditions would not revive. He said: "I see slouds on the horizon which may burst at any moment in a more sinister form than anything yet seen. If the critics of this bill can show the Government how to rule Ireland without maintaining 40,000 troops there they will confer a great favor on the Government."

Mr. And Mrs. S. F. Lake 70 Years Married

They are Bright and Brisk at 90 and 91 Years Respectively.

TORONTO, April 11.—At the home of their daughter, Mrs. B. E. Belle, 37 Jackman Avenue, assisted by their other daughters, Mrs. G. A. Seamith and Mrs. W. D. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Lake are celebrating to-day a rare event—the seventieth anniversary of their wedding day. They are both hale and hearty at the ages of ninety and ninety-one respectively, and are welcoming a host of friends to a reception being held today.

It has been their privilege to live under the reign of four British monarchs. Mrs. Lake was born near Norwich, England, and she sailed with her parents from Yarmouth on the sailing vessel "Simon Fish" in 1837 when she was nine years old. She remembers well the long voyage, the events of the passage and the landing at Quebec. Mr. Lake was born near Napanee, Ont., on the farm which descended from his U. E. L. forefathers. Mr. and Mrs. Lake were married at Kingston in 1849, and spent the greater portion of their lives on the farm near Napanee. Later they moved to Trenton, coming to Toronto nine years ago to live with their daughters. Their eldest daughter, Mrs. C. J. Garrison, of Vancouver, hopes to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of her wedding next October, and Mr. Lake's youngest brother his sixtieth wedding anniversary in June.

Referendum Bill Is Brought Down

TORONTO, April 12—When the bill containing the Government's proposals for the taking of the temperance referendum was introduced in the House yesterday, and further explained by the Prime Minister, Sir William Hearst, it as found that it was only slightly different from what was foreshadowed on Monday last. It is made clear that every municipality must stand or fall by its vote on the referendum. Thus, the referendum will not only be a verdict by the Province as a whole, but at the same time it will be a verdict upon the local situation, upon which the Government and the Board of License Commissioners may take action.

The bill states that if the majority of the electors of the Province give an affirmative vote on the third question, which provides for the sale of light beer in standard hotels the Board of License Comissioners may issue licenses for the sale of light beer of the specified strength in any municipality in which the majority of the electors voting thereon have voted in the affirmative. Even if the Province as a whole should carry question three, no local municipality will have light beer sold in standard hotel unless the majority of the electors in that place have carried the question in the affirmative.

MAY TAKE ANOTHER VOTE

However, provision is made for the municipality to change its mind by taking another vote any time after December 1, 1921. Thus, if the Province voted "Yes" on question three and the municipality voted "Yes" and licenses are issued to standard hotels to sell light beer, a referendum locally may be taken subsequently to see if any change is desired. In each case the sale of light beers will date from May 1 of the following year.

No change is made in the text of the questions to be submitted from what was announced by the Prime Minister. It is made clear in the body of the bill, however, just what will be the effect of the vote on each question. Thus, a majority vote for the repeal of the O.T.A. will mean bringing again into force the old Liquor License Act, though not automatically, the revival of that measure being subject to a proclamation by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. In fact, the law would be just the same as before prohibition came into effect, for districts which had local option then would revert to the former status.

The bill states that the date for the taking of the vote will be fixed by proclamation. It also makes it clear that each question stands alone. If the O.T.A. is repealed, and yet the electors want the sale of light beer in government agencies, then the O.T.A. will remain upon the statute books, but will be amended to permit the sale of light beer. The same applies to the sale of beer in standard hotels and the sale of spirituous and malt liquors by the Government.

23,000 Pairs of Socks Sent To Soldiers Overseas

RAINBOW KNITTING CIRCLES OF BELLEVILLE HAVE A GRAND WAR RECORD—WIND-UP MEETING PLEASANT FUNCTION.— BOUQUETS AND SOUVENIR SPOONS PRESENTED TO OFFICERS AND LEADING WORKERS.

During the war no society in this or any other city in Canada did more to provide comforts for the boys than the Red Cross and Patriotic Socity of Belleville, under the capable leadership of Mrs. (Col.) S. S. Lazier. In this city were some twenty-seven branches of the Knitting Circles and these worked in conjunction with the parent society, in fact they were a part. Yesterday afternoon the members of these branches entertained the officers of the Red Cross and Patriotic Society to a luncheon in the tea room of the Hotel Quinte and it proved to be a most delightful function. At five o'clock after the luncheon a number of presentations took place in the tea room.

COMFORTS SENT OVERSEAS

Mrs. (Dr.) Yeomans, chief convenor of the circles, stated that the societies had knitted and sent overseas 23,000 pairs of socks in addition to many other comforts for the boys. All had worked faithfully and harmoniously.

PRESENTATION OF BOUQUETS

Mayor Platt being called upon made a few remarks which were eulogistic in nature concerning the work of the ladies. They worked hard and faithfully and it was, no doubt, largely through the efforts of the ladies in Canada and the Empire that the war was won by the allies. On behalf of the ladies he desired to present to Mrs. (Col.) Lazier a bouquet of roses as a slight token of the appreciation of her work.

Mrs. (Col.) Lazier in reply thanked the ladies for the handsome bouquet. She said she was totally unable to express her feeling upon this occasion. She had endeavored as far as possible to assist in the work of providing comforts for the boys over there, who were fighting for liberty.

Col. Lazier being called upon referred to the successful conclusion of the war and the work which had been accomplished by the ladies during its progress. Great assistance had been rendered to Mrs. Lazier by Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, vice-president of the Association. He (the speaker) felt honored at being invited to be present at this gathering. The men had worked well, but had possibly been outdone by the ladies in the patriotic work. Messrs R. Tannahill, C. M. Stork and the late Mr. Walker had much to do with patriotic work. There was considerable work to be done when it was considered that between $50,000 and $60,000 was distributed here each year to the dependents of those who were fighting. The work done by the ladies was marvellous and all honor was due the Canadian women. No part in Canada had patriotic work been better done than in Belleville. In conclusion he asked Mrs. O'Flynn to accept a bouquet of roses.

Mrs. O'Flynn in reply thanked the donor and said that when the mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts saw how bravely their boys responded to their duty they, the women, could not do anything else than they had done. The President, Mrs. (Col.) Lazier, was untiring in her efforts in this direction. Mrs. O'Flynn in conclusion said that long after the flowers are faded, their fragrance will ever remain in memory.

Mr. R. Tannahill said that the burdens imposed on the ladies entailed much work but it had been cheerfully rendered. Miss Greene, matron of the hospital, had been a power behind the throne in this work and he was pleased on behalf of those present to be the medium of asking her acceptance of a bouquet of roses.

Miss Greene expressed her thanks for the bouquet in a few well chosen remarks.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said the men were proud of the work done by the ladies of the Rainbow Circles of the city. There was twenty-seven circles and as a united body they had sent overseas 23,000 pairs of socks and other comforts which the boys appreciated highly. The ladies of Belleville were efficiently organized and without doubt did better work than the ladies in any other part of the Dominion and one of these indefatiguable workers was Mrs. (Dr.) Yeomans and it was with pleasure he asked her to accept a bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Yeomans in accepting the roses thanked the donors and stated that she had with the other members of the society only done her duty.

Mr. C. M. Stork spoke briefly stating that the citizens of Belleville would ever remember the splendid and noble work by the ladies of the city.

Capt. T. D. Ruston, agent of the Children's Aid Society and Mr. H. B. Stock, also spoke briefly eulogizing the work done by the ladies.

CONVENORS REMEMBERED

Mrs. (Col.) Lazier gave a resume of the inauguration of the Red Cross and Patriotic Society and the honor that had been conferred upon her by electing her President. The packing of boxes with comforts for the boys had been a pleasure for the ladies. It had been suggested that a banquet be tendered to the returned heroes and if this was done the ladies would only be too pleased to assist and do anything they could if their services were required. She desired to give a token to the convenors of the various circles in recognition of their faithful services and it was a souvenir silver spoon.

SOUVENIR SPOONS

The following ladies were called upon and to each was presented a beautiful spoon:

Miss Libby, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. C Bogert, Mrs. R. J. Graham, Mrs. J A. Borbridge, Mrs. J. H. P. Young Mrs. W. S. Clarke, Mrs. J. Hurst Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. C M. Reid, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Stewart Mrs. Adams, Miss Greene, Mrs. Gribble, Mrs. Farley, Miss Mary Yeomans, Mrs. Storm, Miss Craig, Mrs. St Charles, Mrs. S. A. Hyman, Mrs Scantlebury, Miss Herbert, Mrs. Walker, Miss Reid, Mrs. Brickman, Mrs Sprague and St. Agnes School.

Miss A. Hurley, secretary of the Association, recently received a life membership certaificate of the Red Cross Society and pin in appreciation of her services.

MAURENTANIA TROOPS HAVE BEEN RELEASED

NEW YORK, April 12—After being held virtually prisoners for an entire day on the Cunard liner Maurentania because of a disagreement between American imigration officials and the British military authorities, 2,700 war veterans, the majority of them Americans who had served with the British army, were allowed to leave the vessel. The troops were transported to Camp Mills, N.Y., to await settlement of the controversy.

IT HAPPENED IN BELLEVILLE

ALLEE SAMEE MELICAN MAN.

"Venus in the East" was just going west in the arms of Buddy McNair who was sealing his promise of a lifetime of love and devotion to the only real girl in all New York when the usual nervous unrest which generally precedes a mad rush to the exits, appeared in the audience. There was a new spirit in evidence, however, a spirit of restraint, which prevailed over habit and kept the audience loyally in their places as the picture of His Majesty King George was flashed upon the screen and the pianist struck up the National Anthem.

Two Chinese laundrymen sat well down in front, and before the kissing fadeaway had entirely dissolved in the mist of the Bronx one of them, evidently a newcomer, was on his way to the exit. His companion, who has been a resident of Belleville for some time and is a well-known figure on the streets as he gathers up or delivers laundry to patrons, stood at attention to do honor to the National Anthem which was just beginning. Looking around he discovered the absence of his pal and divining the cause started at once in swift pursuit, catching him near the entrance, where he snatched his headpiece off, swung him about to face the curtain, and told him volubly in lattice-work letters where he got off at.

Both Chinamen remained standing in the aisle until the conclusion of the National Anthem, and a well-known citizen nearby who witnessed the incident said "Good boy, John!" which brought a happy smile to the face of the Celestial, who believes in doing as do the Romans while in Rome—also in Belleville.

Funny we always call a Chinaman "John"—why not Tom, Dick, Harry, Pete, Andy, Bill?

But no, not Bill, no Chinaman could fill the bill with a name like Bill tacked on him, for Bill is generally a human dynamo of mischief, force and strenuous fun-loving activities—otherwise, Willie, Will or William.

Bill is always the Boisterous, tattered and torn and muddy Broth of a Bhoy!

Willie the Little Lord Fauntleroy in the clean middie.

So don't call a Chinaman Bill, for that's one part in the human cast nature never intended him for.

But to get back to Griffin's and "God Save the King," there is a noticeable improvement in the demeanor of the audience at the close of performances and so few show signs of a sudden attack of heart failure requiring their immediate presence in the open air during the rendition of the National Anthem that they are hardly noticeable.

The King as the head of the British Empire, is a symbol of that liberty and justice which guarantees a square deal for everybody under the Union Jack, emblematic of that law and order and loyalty which protects us from Bolshevism and other malignant evils cursing the world today.

Cynthia White—Pest

By VINCENT G. PERRY

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

With a quick jerk Horace Sangster pulled his line from the water, and then cried out with disgust. The fish, if there had been one, had got away. Three hours without a catch—it was enough to annoy a man with normal nerves, and Horace was far from that. He drew in his line angrily and attempted to wind it up, but something had gone wrong with his reel. That was the last straw. He sat down on a rock and swore.

The sound of the word startled him. He had not sworn for years. His nerves were certainly making a wreck of him. The solitude of the place was aggravating him, too. They had told him the simple camp life, with lots of fishing, would make a new man of him. Such bosh! Why, there was hardly a thing about it that did not make him feel worse.

This was the second day, and he was going to make it his last. To begin with, he had had trouble pitching his tent. The storm in the night had kept him up keeping out the rain. Every crack of the bushes or sound of the birds in the trees caused him to start uneasily. It was nearly as nerve-racking as an afternoon session with the fourth-year class. The thought of the fourth-year girls irritated him the more. They had been the cause of his breakdown, he felt confident. For months he had looked with dread on the hour each afternoon that he was forced to teach them mathematics. They were just silly, thoughtless girls, and would not have been so hard to put up with had it not been for their ringleader, Cynthia White.

Without exaggeration Cynthia was the worst girl he had ever had under his tuition. Her main object in life seemed to be to torment the professor of mathematics. Something always turned up for her to argue about or laugh over. There was always something for her to ridicule, and she never missed an opportunity to make him feel mean—perhaps because she was so large and he was so small.

As he sat there thinking it over, Horace made up his mind he had been foolish. It would have been easy to have arranged for her dismissal from the college. Why hadn't he done it? There was something he liked about Cynthia, in spite of everything. The spirit of fun behind those twinkling black eyes of hers appealed to him, and the warmth of her laugh made him long for something—something that was not in his life.

Suddenly the laugh sounded close beside him. He nearly toppled into the water from the shock it gave him. He turned quickly to confront Cynthia, a little way off, her eyes bulging over with merriment. After rubbing his eyes to make sure he was seeing aright, Horace smiled forth a greeting. Even the pest of his life was welcome in that solitude.

"Oh, Mr. Sangster, you look so funny there," she laughed. "If the girls could only see you in your bare feet!"

"Heavens!" Horace tried to hide his feet behind a log. He had forgotten that he had taken off his shoes and socks to wade a creek.

"Don't be alarmed," she smiled encouragingly, "I am going to take off my shoes, too. One can't fish well with shoes on. How do you like my costume?"

She was clad in khaki from head to foot, and her hair was hanging in curls over her shoulders. He had never realized how beautiful she was before.

"Jove! You look peachy," he murmured, admiringly, not realizing that he had used the word "peachy" for the first time since he had got his degree.

That encouraged Cynthia to take a seat beside him. Not that she needed encouragement, for she would have sat there sooner or later. It did not take Horace long to forget that he was a college professor and she was a mere student. Soon they were chatting gayly.

Her home was near by and she had spent every summer fishing in that stream for years. She led him to a place where he was "sure to catch something, no matter how poor an angler he was." When his luck remained poor and he still made vain attempts to land a trout, Cynthia did not fail to laugh at him and assure him that he was as funny as he could be.

Somehow it did not bother him to be laughed at out there. The air seemed to have got into his blood and given him a sense of humor that responded to her witty ridicule. He was not long in catching onto the right way to draw in the line, and before the afternoon was over he was catching as many trout as Cynthia. When they parted he had gained her promise to search him out the next day.

Camping agreed with him after that. Fishing was the most wonderful sport in the world when one had a companion like Cynthia, he decided after two weeks of glorious days. Nerves? Why, he had forgotten he had such things!

They would have still stayed out of his mind had it not been that a rainy day broke in on them. It made it necessary to stay in his tent and try and spend the day reading, wondering all the while what Cynthia was doing. Making fun of him, most likely—the thought came to him quickly and left him staggering. Perhaps she was. Perhaps she had spent all those days with him just to have something to tell the fourth-year girls when she went back to college. He would have to resign.

It would be just like Cynthia to do it—but would it? This new Cynthia was not a bit like the old Cynthia who had made his life miserable. But as the rain kept up his mind became more unsettled, and before the night was over he had made up his mind that Cynthia had been making a fool of him.

The next day he still thought it. When Cynthia appeared he hardly spoke. She saw at once her presence was not welcome. With a toss of her head she started up the bank and forded the stream some way up. After fishing alone for some time Horace realized that he had been a cad. Cynthia was too fine a girl to be insulted like that. He would find her and make amends. He started in the direction she had taken and attempted to ford the stream where he imagined she had crossed. The spot he chose appeared quite shallow from the bank, but as he reached the center, he stepped into a deep hole and sank out of sight.

Cynthia looked up just in time and with a cry jumped into the water and made for the spot. When he came up for the first time she was there to clutch him and a couple of strokes took them to safety. His body remained limp in her grasp, and as she dragged him over to the bank and placed him on the grass, the pallor of his cheeks alarmed her. He lay quite still. She placed her ears to his breast and then cried out with fright. "He's dead!" Madly she tried to shake him back to life, and then she seemed to lose her senses.

"Come back, Horace!" she cried. "Oh, Horace, don't die. There is so much I want to ask forgiveness for. I was just beginning to know you and like you, Horace—like you so much, Horace. Please open your eyes. I have been such a wretch to tease you. Oh, dearest Horace, open your eyes!"

And Horace did. He could not sham any longer after being called "dearest Horace."

Cynthia's hysteria vanished when she discovered he was alive. She was very angry at first when he confessed he had not been hurt at all and was conscious all the time, but her sense of humor came to the rescue and she joined in his laugh.

"Please call me dearest Horace again," he said as he reached out for her hand. But Cynthia would not until he had told her how much he loved her and how miserable he would be without her.

"Dear old pest," he said just before the kiss that sealed their engagement.

JULIA WARD HOWE'S SALON

As Hostess It Was Said of Her With Truth That She Delighted in Contrasts.

When I think of it I believe that I had a salon once upon a time. I did not call it so, nor even think of it as such; yet within it were gathered people who represented many and various aspects of life. They were genuine people, not lay figures distinguished by names and clothes. The earnest humanitarian interests of my husband brought to our home a number of persons interested in reform, education and progress. It was my part to mix in with this graver element as much of social grace and geniality as I was able to gather about me. I was never afraid to bring together persons who rarely met elsewhere than at my house, confronting Theodore Parker with some archpriest of the old orthodoxy, or William Lloyd Garrison with a decade, perhaps, of Beacon street dames. A friend said, on one of these occasions: "Our hostess delights in contrasts." I confess that I did; but I think that my greatest pleasure was in the lessons of human compatibility which I learned in this wise. I started, indeed, with the conviction that thought and character are the foremost values in society, and was not afraid or ashamed to offer these to my guests, with or without the stamp of fashion and position.—Julia Ward Howe.

Not Slaves to Precedent.

Were one to analyze the careers of 200 or 300 of our leading men of finance and industry it would probably develop that not half of them continued in the line of business in which they started, but struck boldly out in the direction where they saw the biggest opportunities and where their inclination lay.

One of the earliest and most notable instances of this was Commodore Vanderbilt, who was so old before he turned to railroading that his family and his advisers importuned him to let well enough alone and not to enter an entirely new field at his time of life.

This readiness of brainy giants to take up new things and to throw their whole selves into them is really one of the principal reasons why the United States has led the world in so many lines of endeavor. Wealthy Europeans, as a rule, avoid the new, avoid untried paths; they are inclined to worship precedent.

In the Cradle of the Deep.

A few men were put into the barracks of an older company at Great Lakes. One of these boys snored so loudly that the next day the boys planned to get even. That night when his snoring commenced one boy got at each end of the hammock and began to raise and lower it. The boy, waking up much dazed, screamed: "Oh, ma, I wish I'd taken your advice and gone into the army. I didn't know I'd get so seasick!"

Wedding Bells

REID—GEEN.

A very pretty wedding ceremony was conducted at the residence of Mr. J. Geen, Fuller, on Wednesday last, when his eldest daughter, Gladys May, was united in holy wedlock with Mr. Archibald Reid, lately returned from overseas. The ceremony was held under a decorated bower of evergreens, having a floral background. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her eldest brother, accompanied by her little sister, who was flower girl and carried the ring. As the strains of the Wedding March ceased Rev. A. L. Geen, P.D., began the ceremony the simple but beautiful and dignified service of the Church of England. The official witnesses were Mr. E. J. Geen and Miss Grace Geen. The father of the bride was unable to give her away, having recently been accidentally injured, but he witnessed the service from his couch. The beautiful gifts and number of friends present gave evidence of the esteem in which the young couple were held. After the ceremony and congratulations were over the company sat down to one of those sumptuous spreads which only a farm house can supply. After their honeymoon the happy couple will reside at Bloomfield.

For the first time since its organization the officials of the Chinese Students' club of New York city are all women.

Women chemists have come to the fore and taken their place on an equal footing with men as an outcome of the war.

PATENT
YOUR INVENTIONS

AN interesting and encouraging thing about these fortune producing inventions is that most of them are of ordinary or minor value in themselves. If you have a notion that you must invent a big thing to make money, get rid of it at once. Many of the Patents that have made their inventors millionaires are those which contained very few entirely new ideas.
The simplest ideas have earned fortunes for their patentees. The safety razor, the sanitary drinking cup, the hump hairpin, the demountable tire rim—any of these could have been invented by a man of average ability. In your every day life, at home, at your office, in your shop you handle any number of articles that are subject to improvement. If you can think of a way of improving some article or process already in use, or if you can invent a new useful device or process or article of manufacture, you are on the road to fortune. Dennison made a fortune from a single shipping-tag. Prepare now to meet the demands of Industry in All Fields for New Ideas and New Inventions. Before sending your invention to any attorney or manufacturer or disclosing your invention, write for our free blank form PROOF OF CONCEPTION in order to protect your invention and secure your rights.

WE ADVERTISE our Clients Inventions Free in INDUSTRIAL CANADA, which is the Official Magazine of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. It pays to have Shipman's Service. Ask for our new Booklet "Patent Protection"

Send Model, Sketch and description of any new inventions you have for Free Opinion as to Patentability. This Certificate of Patentability together with our blank form "Proof of Conception" will protect the inventor and serve as proof of the invention until the case can be filed in The Patent Office. Called By Death

MATTHEW WILCOX

The death occurred in Belleville on Friday, April 11th., of Mr. Matthew Wilcox after a lingering illness. Mr. Wilcox was born in England eighty-eight years ago but had lived for a number of years at Monteagle Valley, North Hastings, being a son of the late Matthew Wilcox. In religion Mr. Wilcox was an Agnlican. Besides his widow he leaves to mourn his loss five sons and two daughters. The body was taken to Tickell and Sons undertaking parlors where it was prepared for burial and was later shipped to Monteagle Valley for interment. His son, George, accompanied the body.

CLEAR UP CIVIL SERVICE?

OTTAWA, April 12—Legislation to be introduced at this session of Parliament will enable the Government to retire on pension a large number of civil servants who have outlired their usefulness.

The authority for this statement is Hon. Frank Carvell, who said it Civil Service had been unbusinesslike ever since Canada was a country, and was at this moment "overloaded, overmanned, glutted."

Many officials could be dismissed without deteriment to the public service, but he had not the heart to take them by the throat, throw them out and leave them at the merry of charity.

"GREAT DEEDS NEED GREAT PREPARATIONS"

Says the ancient writer. And Milady's toilet table also needs "great preparations" particularly at this season of the year, when one is so much out in the open air. The greatest of all toilet preparations are Dr. Partin's, the noled specialist. This is so by reason of the admirable manner in which each preparation, whether for the complexion, or for the hair or scalp, is designed for its special purpose. All Dr. Partin's preparations are composed of the finest and choicest ingredients only. They are absolutely free from all cheap and deleterious compounds whatever. They are put up under his personal supervision, and are the results of his unrivalled experience in his profession. In short, they are, one and all, the last word in excellence and efficacy. Following is a list of them:

FOR THE COMPLEXION.

"ANTISEPTIC CREAM." For soothing irritated skin conditions. Per jar, 75c. and $1.50.
"SKIN FOOD OF JACK ROSE". For toning sluggish skin conditions. Per jar, 75c. and $1.50.
"BALM OF PEACHES." For summer use in cases of sunburn, redness, etc. Per bottle, 75c.
"EMMAM CARUS FACE LOTION." For delicate skin and as a protection against the trying effects of sun and wind. Per bottle, 75c.
"ROUGE PAR EXCELLENCE." Perfect and harmless. Jar, $1.00.
"STRAWBERRY ROUGE". In liquid form for evening use. Per bottle, 50c.
"RASPBERRY ROUGE." In liquid form for daytime use. Per bottle, 50c.
"FACE AND HEALING POWDER." The perfect Face Powder in five shades. Per box, 50c., $1.00 and $3.50.
"CAMPHORATED CREAM." A perfect skin food. Per jar, 50c.
"CREAM DE LYS." For use before driving, motoring, etc. Per bottle, $1.
"MENTHOLATED CREAM." For use on returning from an outing. Per jar, 50c.
"FRECKLE LOTION." To remove freckles and tan. Per bottle, $1.50.
"BALM OF ROSES." For chapped hands. Per bottle, 75c.
"ANTISEPTIC LOTION." Use instead of washing the face with soap and water during the day. Per bottle, $1.
"CREAM DE LATIQUE." To be applied to oily skin. Per Jar, 75c. and $1.50.
"SPECIAL G. LOTION." Use only for flabby and sluggish skin. Per bottle, $2.00.
"SUEDE CREAM," for shiny nose. 50c. jar.
"PERMANENT EYEBROW DARKENER" for eyebrows. Bottle, $1.

FOR SCALP AND HAIR.

"SCALPENE". A scalp food and hair promoter, and a cure for dandruff and other scalp ailments. Per bottle, $2
"SULPHUS CREAM FOR THE SCALP." For the prevention of baldness and for remedying irritable conditions. Per jar, $1.
"ANTISEPTIC SHAMPOO." A cleansing, healthful, healing shampoo, which softens the hard city water and destroys the elements in it which are harmful to the hair. Per bottle, 50c.

SUSTAINED CONVICTION OF WINDSOR DOCTOR

TORONTO, April 11—Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge confirmed the conviction against Dr. Raymond Rheaume, of Windsor, and he must pay $300 or go to jail for four months. The conviction was under the Ontario Temperance Act, and the charge against the doctor was related to the fact that between January 1st and February 5th the doctor gave 1,450 prescriptions for liquor.

J. M. Ferguson sought to quash the conviction on the ground that the Crown has just presented the number of prescriptions and had not established that any one of them was unnecessary. J. R. Cartwright, Deputy Attorney-General, appeared for the Crown. The application was dismissed.

BANK ROBBER OF $100,000

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 11—The Baden Bank of St. Louis was held up by eight bandits and looted of an amount estimated at $100,000 shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning.

Keeping Canada's Records

THE handling of public records of any kind, the arranging, storing and tabulating of them either for permanent reference or eventual destruction, is something of a fine art, and it certainly isn't stretching the point very far to say that it is an art which is pursued probably less than any other art in existence.

In the case of governments in general, it has been conspicuous by its absence, and in the case of the Canadian Government in particular, its tenancy has been shouted from the housetops.

It isn't as though there were no oracles in existence which could be consulted or systems which could be used as models, though to be sure the good ones could probably be numbered on the fingers of one hand—and never mind the thumb. Great commercial institutions, such as the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Toronto, under positive pressure have produced record storage warehouses just as perfect and automatic in their operation upon the document in its descent from the file to the furnace—or to be more correct nowadays the repulper—as are the processes upon a 15-inch gun in its journey from the Elswick ingot to the Queen Elizabeth. But Governments laboring under the confusing searchlights of divided public opinion are slow to move, slower to be convinced and positively slothful to take action, especially when under the old regime, or lack of it, there is always room for just one file more, so long as the door will shut. Departments have to be brought together in conference with a legion of special wants, choked and bursting record rooms have to be allowed to prove their case, plans have to be considered and properties perhaps acquired, and when at last the ground may have been cleared, the Government may go out of power, and the whole business be thrown into the melting pot again—and all the while the records are piling up and up, and a respite never comes.

It has been like this in Ottawa ever since the beginning of things. No systematic attempt to deal with Government records and separate the departmental chaff from the wheat has ever been made. When an enthusiastic Dominion archivist has gained permission to search for certain invaluable documents, a wise friend has been known to ask, "Where are you going to do the sorting?" and the very recollection of his tiny Archives building, already filled to bursting, and of the mountains of material awaiting his flail, has been enough to make him clap metaphorical hands to his head and hurriedly think of something else. And so things have gone on until Canadian Government departments are one and all exuding records at every pore and vital state papers cheek by jowl with ancient pay sheets are hardly restrained from breaking down their prison doors and turning on their keepers with a clamor for better housing.

However, it is always the proverbial last straw which is too much for the camel's comfort and in the case of Canadian records the last straw has been the war, and action has become absolutely imperative to save the Government's reputation from the fate of the ship of the desert. From the war are coming, and the advanced guard is even now above the horizon, the personal and military and every other kind of records of half a million soldiers. Add to them the hospital, reconstruction, demobilization, pension, assigned pay and several other kinds of records. Add again the records of munitions, and all the other things from steamships to gas masks that supplied the half million soldiers, to say nothing of their allies, with the wherewithal to fight. On this pile several hundred thousand war trophies, from howitzers and airplanes to German proclamations and posters, and finally top up with the artistic war record of a hundred or more British and Canadian painters, and you may be able to get a faint grasp of the immensity of the material awaiting treatment and at present without premises or machinery of any kind.

So as coalition governments are in the habit of doing things that party ones set aside for others supposedly more necessary to their political stability, a Government commission was appointed the other day, to deal with the whole matter, a small commission of three with the possibility of additions later on. It consisted of Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and chairman of the National Gallery trustees and many other things besides, Dr. Doughty, Dominion archivist, and Gen. Cruikshanks from the headquarters' staff of the Militia Department.

Sir Edmund Walker represented not only the voice which had cried in the documentary wilderness for the last ten years or more, and in the meantime had built a record warehouse, so perfect that its plans had been borrowed by Washington and used by them in their wisdom.

There is an immense amount of work to be done. There are plain factory buildings to be erected, hidden away perhaps behind an imposing front but capable of being added to indefinitely. There is a large and imposing addition to the existing Archives Building needed to house the regular increase in Government records which have inconveniently been increasing while kaisers have raged and autocracies imagined a vain thing. There is at least the first section of a permanent National Art Gallery to build to house the national art treasures which since the Parliament Building fire made them homeless by taking their galleries for the House of Commons, have been touring the country, the friends of every city but the capital.

A SPRING TONIC GREATLY INCREASES YOUR EFFICIENCY

LAY THE FOUNDATION OF GOOD HEALTH NOW BY BUILDING UP YOUR BLOOD AND STRENGTHENING YOUR NERVES.

The good old fashion of taking a tonic in the springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common sense and good medical practice. No matter how mild the winter it is a trying time, even in the most favored climates, for those who are not in rugged physical health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny, summer months and and grow increasingly pale as the spring days approach. A tonic for the blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people, by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands at this season of the year.

You can not be energetic if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your efficiency now, as well as to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine there is no safer or better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills make new rich, red blood, which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and run-down organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak, easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

CURED BILIOUS HEADACHES

Mr. D. C. McClure, Heffley Creek, B.C., says: "As a spring tonic I know of nothing else that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Last spring I felt weak and run down, and suffered a great deal from bilious headaches. I got a half dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking them I felt like a new man. The lassitude from which I suffered had disappeared, I had a better appetite, and was in every way stronger and better than before I began the use of this medicine. Almost everyone needs a tonic in the spring, and for this purpose I can strongly advise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

NEVER FELT SO WELL.

Miss Beatrice Bishop, Fendale, N. B., says: "I have never felt so well as I do since taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began their use I was very much run down. I had no color, no appetite, could not go up stairs without stopping to rest on the way. I had frequent headaches and a feeling of despondency. I took Pink Pills regularly for about eight weeks and while I felt a benefit from them almost from the first, at the end of that time I was in better health than I had ever enjoyed before. I freely give you permission to publish this letter as my experience may be the means of pointing the way to new health to some other weak and run down girl."

GAINED WONDERFULLY.

Mrs. Herbert Hanson, Lower Hainesville, N.B., says: "I have the very highest regard for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I began their use I suffered greatly with sick headache, dizziness and a feeling of depression and tiredness. A short treatment with the pills fully restored my health. My daughter Blanche was suffering from anaemia, and through the use of six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills gained wonderfully in weight, strength and general health. We think so much of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that we are never without them in the house, and I consider them my best friend."

HAS A BETTER APPETITE.

Mrs. M. D. MacLeod, Caledonia, P.E.I., says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring medicine with satisfactory results. Before I began their use I was subject to weak spells, but these have now disappeared. I find that my appetite is better, and I have every confidence in your pills as a blood builder.

STRONG AND WELL AGAIN.

Mr. H. H. McKelvey, Orono, Ont., says: "My experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been of the most favorable kind. At the time I began their use I was so weak and run down that I could hardly go about. My stomach was also out of order and the food I took did not seem to do me a bit of good. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills came to my rescue, and under their use my stomach grew better, my general health improved, and I was soon as healthy and vigorous a man as I had ever been. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, with the use of Pinklets as a laxative when needed, is now our family medicine, and we would not be without them."

BUILD UP YOUR BLOOD.

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are, for this reason, an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, pains in the back or side and the after effects of influenza or fevers. If you are suffering from any troubles due to weak, watery blood, or shaky nerves, a fair use of these pills will restore you to full health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Weekly edition—One year by mail, $1.50; one year to U. S. A., $2.00; six months pro rata. All above subscriptions payable in advance or an additional amount of 25 per cent. will be added.

FAVORABLE FREIGHT RATES.

More important than a Government bonus on the iron ores of Hastings District is the question of freight rates which are so high and uncertain at present as to seriously handicap the mining industry here.

Favorable freight rates would do more to encourage mining development in this district than anything else, and it is to the interests of the railway companies as well as the mining operators to get together on this point as soon as possible.

CALAMITY TO SCRAP TRENTON PLANT.

Prominent mining men of Hastings County object to the proposed scrapping of the large and modern acid plants at Trenton, the property of the Imperial Munitions Board, and will draw the attention of the Government to the necessity of retaining this plant in the interest of the development of Canadian natural resources. The Trenton plant could be operated to advantage, experts say, in the production of fertilizer and acids and thousands of tons of waste material from the iron mines of this district could be utilized to advantage and this industry made profitable by reason of both iron and sulphur values being realized upon. The Belleville Board of Trade and the Hastings Development Council have taken up vigorously the question of the retention and operation of the Trenton plant and it would be a calamity if this splendid industrial possibility was sacrificed.

GERMAN DYE PATENTS FOR AMERICANS.

An important piece of work of a kind likely to enhance materially the future of the dye industry in the United States has been done by the Alien Property Custodian, as recounted in a supplementary report recently made public, says Bradstreet's. Acting under an amendment to the trading-with-the-enemy act, he has taken over about 4,500 dye and chemical patents through which the Germans formerly controlled in large part the manufacture and importation of dyes in the United States, and has sold them to a lately formed corporation known as the Chemical Foundation, Inc. This corporation, in which every important dye manufacturer in the United States will be a stockholder, will hold the patents as a trustee for American industry, will grant non-exclusive licenses on equal terms to all proper applicants, and must grant them to the United States free of cost. Through the utilization of the patents the American dye industry will be freed from the prohibition formerly enforced by them against the manufacture of the most valuable dyestuffs, after the declaration of peace. The first president of the corporation will be Mr. Francis P. Garvan of New York, who became Alien Property Custodian since the preparation of the supplementary report.

PEACE, PERFECT PEACE.

In the hours before the dawn of a League of Nations that is to ensure world peace there are wars and rumors of wars, risings and revolts over two continents, summarized by the Montreal Star as follows:

Actual fighting taking place:

1.—Along the Murmansk coast in North Russia. Sir Ernest Shackleton warns Britain that the Allied forces there are threatened with annihilation. Reinforcements are being rushed there.

2.—Allied and American troops are "holding on" along the Archangel front against a growing force of Bolshevist forces, who are attacking from the South. Yesterday the enemy claimed an advance of eleven miles.

3.—Russian Red troops have invaded East Prussia.

4.—German troops have clashed with the Poles in northern Poland.

5.—Red Russians are attacking the Poles on the boundary.

6.—Ukrainians are shelling Lemberg with long distance artillery.

7.—Ukrainians recently attacked French and Greek troops near Kherson.

8.—Czecho-Slovak troops are driving back the Bolshevist troops in Eastern Siberia where Allied contingents are lending aid to establish order.

10.—General Denekine has gained successes in southern Russia against Russian Reds.

11.—North and South China have been engaged in civil war for more than two years.

13.—Lithuanians have driven Red Russians back several miles and scored several successes.

14.—Ukrainians under General Petlura are on the outskirts of Kiev in South Russia which they hope to capture from the Reds.

15.—Rumanians and Russians have clashed in Bessarabia.

While in the meantime:

1.—There have been serious risings in Korea, which have been sternly suppressed by the Japanese.

2.—Revolts have broken out in Cairo and Upper Egypt and there is danger that these may spread to the Sudan.

3.—Serious disturbances have occurred in Delhi, the cradle of the Indian Mutiny in 1857.

4.—In Mexico Blanquet has joined Diaz revolutionaries against the established Government.

5.—In the Caucasus 60,000 British soldiers are preventing tribal outbreaks.

6.—Serious rioting has taken place in the Argentine, especially at Buenos Ayres, where the trouble was fomented by the Bolshevists.

7.—In Mesopotamia a British army is maintaining order.

8.—Rioting is taking place in Hamburg, Stuttgart, Essen, Munich and there are threats of renewed trouble in Berlin.

9.—Johannesburg, South Africa, is on the verge of anarchy from alien Bolshevists following serious strikes.

10. Brisbane, Australia, has seen fighting and bloodshed in the streets, started by avowed Bolshevists. The police were overpowered and a reign of terror established.

There is the germ of danger yet to come in the fact that:

1.—Irish delegates demand a hearing at the Peace Conference.

2.—South African Nationalists have sailed for Paris in defiance of the orders of the Union Government.

3.—Hindenburg is mobilizing an army in Silesia.

4.—The Jugo-Slavs and Italians are held back from clashing along the Dalmatian coast and came to blows at Spalato a few days ago.

The German Kaiser is still in Holland.

Lacks Import Element.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Borah's epigram that we shouldn't give up to George V. what we won from George III. just ignores the difference between Lloyd George and Lord North. Like most epigrams, it is more catchy than convincing.

Ireland's Color.

Westminster Gazette.

Most people now know that the wood-sorrel, not the trefoil clover, is the true shamrock of Ireland; but few seem to be aware that green is not really the national color of the Emerald Isle. The old national color of Ireland is what is called "royal blue," which continues to be the "college color" of Trinity College, Dublin; and the "wearing of the green" dates only from "'98."

What Does "Nationalization" Mean?

Westminster Gazette

If the Government says the word "nationalization" for railways and coal, there must immediately follow a careful and searching inquiry of what the thing means, of the terms on which it is to be carried out, and of its results to the public. There must also be a new rule found to govern the relations to the Government of miners and railwaymen, who will then be State servants, and will necessarily have to modify the attitude that they take up to the private employer.

Waste and Woeful Want.

London Daily Express.

Our national finance is not only deplorable; it is dangerous. It is a proper theme for all the metaphors that were ever mixed. Heading for destruction—steering for the rocks—clutching for a straw—fiddling while Rome burns—there is not one deadly occupation beloved by rhetorical sonority in which we are not engaged. But rhetoric does not mend matters. We have been overdosed with rhetoric, and yet, expenditure goes on without a serious check. We are not rich as the outcome of the war. We are poor. And if our poverty be not realized and our national outpouring of millions be not stopped, we shall all, great and small, come to that penury which is evident in little food, no amusement, no luxury, and stifling distress.

Superiority in the Air.

Halifax Chronicle.

At the close of the war Great Britain led all nations in the air, according to figures compiled by the Scientific American. The British air force fought on more fronts than any other nation, and its successes were therefore proportionately greater. In August, 1914, the British naval and military air service together mustered only 285 officers and 1,853 men of other ranks. In November, 1918, there were 30,000 officers and 264,000 men. At the outbreak of the war Great Britain had 166 airplanes, 45 seaplanes and seven airships, while at the close of hostilities she had 21,000 airplanes, 1,300 seaplanes, and 103 airships. Besides there were 25,000 airplanes and seaplanes being built and 55,000 airplane engines under contract.

The Alternative to The League.

London Chronicle

If anyone thinks that Mr. Wilson or Mr. Taft rate the moral claim of the cause too high, let him consider for a moment what is the only alternative in prospect. It is a renewed competition of armaments, with another war at the end of the vista. There is no third possibility. The present generation in Europe knows what a modern competition in armaments means, and what a modern war means, as no generation anywhere has ever known before. There may be people in the United States who realize it less vividly; before 1914 the United States seemed a long way from Europe, and Europe's fevered race of armaments barely reached it at all. Those days can never return. America is henceforth part of a single world community in which, if one of the continents suffer, all will suffer.

Great Britain's Aim.

Glasgow Herald.

The great ideal at the present moment is to promote harmonious relations between masters and men in order to assist British industry to recover from the effects of the war and put it once more into sound working order. The Government, therefore while it would prefer to stand aloof, if possible, feels bound to do what it can to help both sides, and it is willing, with the consent of the Conference, to consider legislation with that object in view. Among the questions to be decided are whether the Government should enact a statutory minimum wage for workers and a minimum working week, whether Whitley Councils should be established compulsorily in all industries and their decisions enforced by law, and what steps, if any, should be taken to strengthen the position of trade unions whose authority has been challenged by wreckers of the movement.

KIDNAPPING THE SOCKEYES.

In the settlement of the disputes arising between the United States and Canada over the taking of seals in northern waters, the United States secured the exclusive use of the Pribilof Islands, which are favorite breeding grounds for the seals. Not only that, but seals from the Pribilof Islands venturing far afield are still considered as belonging to the American reserve and contraband for Canadian sealers. The same principle should be extended to the sockeye salmon which frequent the Canadian breeding grounds along the Fraser river. It is charged that the Americans catch the Fraser river salmon returning from deep water to the river to deposit their spawn and take them to American breeding grounds, and this practice if continued threatens to destroy the Fraser river fisheries. The Government should go into this question very thoroughly now that it is proposed to appoint an international fisheries commission to protect sockeye salmon, according to the following despatch from Washington.

> Another Canadian-American commission, consisting of two members from Canada and two from the United States, will be appointed, in the event of the adoption by both countries of a treaty which has been drafted and presented to the respective Governments with the recommendation of the Canadian-American Fisheries Conference that it be ratified. The proposed commission would have to do with the regulation and protection of the sockeye salmon of the Fraser river system as well as the Fraser river itself in British Columbia and the State of Washington.
> One of the questions which was referred to the Canadian-American Fisheries Conference, which was appointed last year to consider a settlement of outstanding fishery questions between Canada and the United States, was the rehabilitation and protection of the sockeye salmon of the system. The commissioners have unanimously recommended to their respective Governments that a new treaty be entered into for this purpose, and to facilitate consideration of the matter they submitted a draft of a proposed treaty and regulations thereunder. A synopsis of each follows:
> The proposed treaty provides that it will apply only to the sockeye salmon fisheries of the Fraser River system, which embraces Juan de Fuca Strait, the southern portion of the Gulf of Georgia and the Fraser River; that the Federal Governments of both countries will be responsible for the enforcement of the regulations under it; that an international commission, consisting of four persons, two from each country, shall be appointed to conduct investigations into the life history of the sockeye salmon, hatchery methods, spawning grounds and other related conditions, which commission could also recommend, for the consideration of the two governments, modifications in the regulatins that experience may indicate as desirable; and that the treaty shall remain in force for fifteen years, and thereafter until either Government wishes to discontinue it.
> The regulations contemplate the licensing of the fisheries by Canada and the State of Washington, respectively, as heretofore; that no greater number of licenses for any class of fishing shall hereafter be issued in Washington State than was granted in 1918, and that no more than 1,800 gill-net licenses shall be granted on the Canadian side; that licenses shall be restricted in Canada to resident Canadians in British Columbia, or to companies licensed to do business in the province, and in Washington State to resident American citizens or to companies authorized to do business in the State; that fishing shall be restricted in the Fraser River to the portion thereof below the Mission Bridge and that only bona-fide resident land holders, living along the river between New Westminster and Mission Bridge, shall be allowed to fish in that portion of the river; that from 1919 to 1926, inclusive, there will be an annual close time for all salmon fishing from the 20th to the 31st of July inclusive; that the weekly close time on both sides shall be thirty-six hours, except above New Westminster bridge, where it shall be sixty hours; that traps shall not be more than 2,500 feet long, with end passageways of 600 feet, and lateral passageways of 2,400 feet, and in no instance block more than two-thirds of the channel; that purse-seines shall not exceed 1,900 feet in length, and their use shall be restricted to westward and southward of a line drawn from Trial Island Light, British Columbia, to the northwest point of Whidby Island, and that gill-nets shall not exceed 900 feet in length and sixty meshes deep.

"The Statesman," started by Lindsay Crawford to be the voice of Liberalism, pure and undefiled, says: "John Bull looks out for himself. Our Duty to France.

New York Tribune.

The apparent indifference of our delegation to the fate of France is necessarily irritating. No wonder an ancient ally feels surprise and regret. National friendships are like individual friendships in that they rest upon sentiment as much as upon advantage, and comparatively trivial matters may interrupt them. If France is making impossible demands their rejection calls for a tact which, it is to be feared, the President does not always display. No theories about the kind of a peace we ought to have with Germany should be allowed for a moment to supersede the claim of France upon our gratitude and love. France, more notably than any other nation, did defend civilization. It would be a tragedy if this war came to an end with the ties between France and America weakened instead of strengthened.

Temperance in England.

London Times.

Meanwhile in this country, where we have followed a more moderate policy, there has been wrought the greatest change in the habits of the people ever recorded and the greatest reduction of drunkenness ever accomplished in any country. It is not talk or something in the future; it is is fact, here and now. It has been accomplished by restricting facilities for drink on a systematic and rational plan; and the people have submitted to these restrictions with a good grace and wonderfully little grumbling because they thought it reasonable. And this is the only belligerent country that can show such a record. Others have been held up to admiration as patterns for us to follow, but when enquiry is made after results there are none worth showing. The Central Control Board has tried, with all the machinery of Government at its command, to obtain information about the war measures and their effects in other countries; but Lord D'Abernon confessed to failure in the lecture he recently gave at the Society of Arts. The results were so scanty and so partial that they were not worth giving. When any of our neighbors can show a positive record that will compare with ours it will be time enough to admire their achievements. It would be deplorable simply to abandon our reforms, but there is no reason to despair because they call for some modification now.

"YE ARE BOUGHT WITH A PRICE"

Westminster Gazette

The guns are silent now,
Silent the men that sleep;
But would ye silence the living word
That calls from deep to deep—
"At what price are ye bought?"

Back to the Forge again,
The Coalmine and the Mart;
Whether you work by hand or brain,
Give answer from your heart.
"At what price are ye bought?"

"Freely our Youth we gave,
Our Hopes, our Loves, our Life,
Freedom and lasting Peace to win,
To cleanse the world from strife.
At that price are ye bought.
"Though dimly seen the goal,
We bargained not for price;
Trusting, in faith we gladly made
The greater sacrifice,
At that price are ye bought.

"Though hard and rough your road,
A harder yet we trod;
Repay our trust, redeem the price,
Strive for one Brotherhood.
Else vainly are ye bought."

THE TESTING OF FATHER.

When faint the city whistles blow,
And milk carts rumble to and fro,
When the glad sunbeams newly fling
Abroad their promises of spring,
Then father to the garden goes
And rakes and digs and plants and hoes.

When he has placed beneath the loam
About his glad suburban home,
Lettuce and beans and trailing vine,
And proudly says "All this is mine,"
And joyous hears the breakfast bell
And feels his bosom proudly swell,

What sounds portentous on the breeze
Cause his slow-curdling blood to freeze?
There, cackling, single and together,
With feet steel-shod, and lungs of leather,
The neighbor's soul-destroying hens
Have flown their fragile make-shift pens.

The big white rooster proudly leads,
The air is full of garden seeds,
The old hen lifts with rapid scoops
Earth, stumps, sod, gravel and the roots
That Pa has planted with such care,
And left to grow in comfort there.

'Tis nothing but abounding grace
That holdeth father in his place;
Instead of clubbing every hen,
He plants the garden once again,
And Ma says, with expression sage,
"Yer father's mellerin' with age."

WHAT SHALL WE GIVE THEM?

Dear God, what shall we give them as they come?
Our blind, our crippled men with faces marred,
Or aged by anguish, their young spirit scarred,
Our soldier boys, come home.

How may we show our reverence, our pride,
For all they dared, for courage clean and whole,
Of mind and body and resistless soul,
These boys who have not died?

Yet who may feel, perchance, that Death so fleet,
Compared with lagging life thus twisted, drained
Of youth's bright eagerness, Life marred and strained;
That Death were passing sweet?

For they who die for Freedom still shall live,
In every heart that loved them, young and fair,
But these, the living, wounded over there—
To these, what may we give?

Not gifts—such gifts as men give to the weak—
But Work that lifts the spirit, flicks the will,
Awakes to vital thought, to hopes that thrill,—
Such work as whole men seek.

Not pity—never that,—nor coward tears,
But re-creating friendship, healing, gay,
And gratitude not only for today,
But through the coming years;

And down those years the balm of memory,
So when we meet some cripple, withered, gray,
Some poor old soldier who yet in his day
Did fight for liberty,

We see, not shabby garments, surly glance,
But through the veiling flesh the gallant boy
Who touched the Great Adventure—knew its joy,
And gave his Youth to France!
—Elizabeth Newport Hepburn.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY
SWOLLEN VEINS RELIEVED

That Absorbine, Jr., would relieve varicose veins was discovered by an old gentleman who had suffered with swollen veins for nearly fifty years. He had made unsuccessful efforts to get relief and finally tried Absorbine, Jr. knowing its value in reducing swellings, aches, pains and soreness.

Absorbine, Jr., relieved him and after he had applied it regularly for a few weeks he told us that his legs were as smooth as when he was a boy and all the pain and soreness had ceased.

Thousands have since used this antiseptic liniment for this purpose with remarkably good results.

Absorbine, Jr., is made of oils and extracts from pure herbs and when rubbed upon the skin is quickly taken up by the pores; the blood circulation in surrounding parts is thereby stimulated and healing helped. $1.25 a bottle at druggists or postpaid. A liberal Trial Bottle will be mailed your address for 10c in stamps. Booklet free. W. F. Young, P. D. F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

For Another's Sake

By WINIFRED BROOKS

With a great start Della Barth drew slightly back from the mirror she was facing, arranging her hair. She stood in a small dressing room just off the main sleeping apartment, and abruptly across the surface of the looking glass a shadow and then a form in substance had flitted. Now it was wavering, but fixed as to outline—the figure of a man, young and intelligent-looking, but unsteady of pose, preternaturally pale and whose eyes haunted with a gleam of anxiety or suspense.

He never imagined that his reflection was thus displayed. To Della it was like a part out of a movie scene. Her first impulse was to scream, but she had superb control over herself. She could not understand this strange intrusion. Nothing about her visitor, however, indicated the criminal, the burglar. The man suggested the refugee, his ear bent keenly, and then as heavy tramping footsteps sounded in the hallway below he glanced all about the room, made out the open doorway of a clothes' closet, staggered rather than darted toward it and closed its door after him.

Amazed, puzzled, to a certain degree alarmed, Della came out into the main room as two men reached the head of the stairs. The one in front advanced, thrust aside his coat and showed an official badge.

"You will excuse us, miss," he spoke, "but a man we are after disappeared somewhere in the vicinity of the house here. We thought he might have entered it."

"You will find my maid in the kitchen," said Della, and her calm dignity awed the men. They retreated down the stairs. Della stood listening. She gathered that the intruders were questioning the maid. Then they seemed to depart and Mary, fluttering and excited, came halfway up the stairs.

"Those men gave me quite a shock, miss!" she quavered. "They are officers of the law. I convinced them that no one had come into the house and they have gone on their way. They think the man they are after rounded the house and took to the woods beyond."

"Did they say who the man was, or what he had done?" inquired Della.

"No, miss, except that they had followed him a long ways and were bound to catch him. They said he was Alison Meservey—"

"What!" cried Della, and fairly reeled against the wall.

"What does it mean?" gasped Della, as she closed the door and sank into a chair, overcome. She tried to fathom a bewildering mystery. Alison Meservey! Why, this man was not he! Alison Meservey was her brother-in-law, the husband of her sister, Aline. They had lived three hundred miles away in a colliery town. Della had not heard from them for several weeks, but had not been worried at their silence. She was a woman of quick perceptions. Intuitively she discerned that the startling incident of the moment held a deep significance for her, could not comprehend why, but determined to explore the mystery at once.

"These men have gone," she called, going up to the closet door.

There was no response. Della quivered in the midst of uncertainty and suspense. She tapped on the door. No attention was paid to the summons. She turned the knob. The door came open with a rush. Della stifled a scream. Insensible, motionless, the man who had sought refuge in the closet fell prone across the threshold.

Della thrilled as she noticed that where the stranger's coat had fallen back his shirt was covered with blood. Then a realization of this possibly dangerous condition steeled her to rapidly decide what was best to do. She telephoned at once for the family physician. The latter looked grave. There was a bullet to extract from the man's breast and the doctor stated that the patient was in a critical condition. Della imparted all she knew or surmised. Her will was to harbor the strange visitor until he recovered, until she could explore the mystery of his seeming connection with the identity of Alison Meservey.

She wrote at once to her sister, but received no reply. The days went on, but her guest, nursed by the faithful Mary and herself, was too irrational and then too weak to question. The doctor had finally pronounced his patient out of danger when, from far-off Canada, there came a telegram to Della. It was from her sister

"Tell Mr. Davenal that I have rejoined Alison in safety."

"Our patient must be this mysterious Mr. Davenal," reflected Della, "but what does it mean—Aline and her husband in Canada!"

She sat down beside her convalescent guest and handed him the telegram. His face lit up with gladness.

"I am Richard Davenal," came the acknowledgment. "I do not wonder that you were mystified. I am a cousin of Alison Meservey, against whom an enemy worked up an infamous plot. It was necessary that Alison should flee the country. I assumed his identity, got him across the border and by false clews drew the officers after me. That is all."

"All!" repeated Della, her soul in the word, and at that moment there was born in her heart for this noble, self-sacrificing man, a love that responded to that which blossomed in his own as the sweet, happy days went by.

Her Husband Was No Beau Brummel

To Belleville Theatregoers;-

I am pleased to inform you that David W. Griffith's great photoplay, "A Romance of Happy Valley," will be displayed at Griffin's this Monday and Wednesday evening. Mr. Griffith is famous as a producer of great spectacles and his production of "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World," "The Great Love" and other photoplays have made his name celebrated in cinema history. He has revealed a powerful story of humble rural life in "A Romance of Happy Valley," one that will prove delightful to every spectator. It is filled with stirring action, suspense, thrills and surprises, the final scenes being of exceptional dramatic power. It is in every respect a photoplay that no lover of the best the cinema art affords, can afford to overlook.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. J. FORHAN,
Manager.

Music & Drama

SIMPLE LIFE

The characters in "A Romance of Happy Valley," are such persons as D. W. Griffith knew in his boyhood days when he rambled through the valleyed uplands along the Ohio River in Kentucky and Indiana and Ohio. Simple folks they are who lived and loved and had their weariness and woes in one small area. From the lives of the keeper of the country boarding house, his family and his neighbors, he took no less than ten years for his story. With their little schemes and their great sacrifices, with trivial events that drove them to far-reaching actions, with the urge of their lives and its penalties and rewards, he drew the details of the drama. It is so simple it seems a tale about one's neighbors; so forceful it seems all life in one white flame. It pounds home no propaganda, it thumps no pulpit; it is without sermon or moral, only such as life teaches in its quiet way. The Griffith mastery conceived it, the Griffith artistry produced it, which promises well for "A Romance of Happy Valley." It will be shown at Griffin's Monday and Wednesday night along with a 2 act Sennett comedy entitled, "The Summer Girls," and a new Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon.

THE LEE CHILDREN ARE AT IT AGAIN

Jane and Katherine Lee, the noted originators of "Two Little Imps," "We Should Worry," "Doing Their Bit," and other famous comedy productions have broken out afresh. The title of their latest creation is "Swat the Spy," and it is said to be the merriest, most mischievous vehicle in which America's best known juvenile stars have ever appeared. Grown-ups as well as children find a continual source of deep enjoyment in their inimitable productions. Pathe News, a beautiful hand colored scenic picture and a new Luke comedy will also be presented.

EVERYBODY GOES TO THE CIRCUS

The oldest and best known entertainment in the world is the circus. Everybody at some period of life has visited and enjoyed this always novel amusement, which from childhood lingers in the memory as the "Big event." The gay colors, the funny event." The gay colors, the funney clowns, the animal pets, the sensational and daring feats, the stirring music gives a thrill which no other event in the world can. This, combined with the comfort of the modern theatre, gives added zest to the big event coming to Griffin's next Tuesday, matinee and night. The wonderful educated ponies with the circus are twelve of the best trained ponies before the public today. They are presented in three distinct groups, each displaying a cleverness unusual to the animal mind, ponies, dogs, goats, mules and monkeys, all doing their speciality as presented by their trainers have always been a joy to the heart of old and young and with Berzacs indoor circus these delightful pets perform unusual feats with a celerity that is astounding.

DON'T CHANGE YOUR HUSBAND

"Don't Change Your Husband," at Griffin's tonight, is a photoplay of such deep psychological interest that it will repay all husbands and wives to see it. Elliott Dexter is the leading man and Gloria Swanson plays opposite him. The east and west joined hands to help Bryant Washburn make his latest picture, "Venus in the East," which is shown for the last time tonight. The result is one of the biggest and most expensive pictures this popular young star has appeared in. "Never too Old," a very funny 2-act Sennett comedy and The Birtish News are also being exhibited on the same program.

NORMA TALMADGE AT PALACE

Norma Talmadge is appearing at the Palace tonight in her latest picture, "De Lue Annie," adapted from the current stage success of the same name by Edward Clark, which was made from the popular story by Seamon Lockwood, in the Saturday evening Post. The 8th chapter of the "Bull's Eye" serial and "Somewhere in Turkey," a highly amusing Luke comedy are also being screened.

Newsprint Probe Again Postponed

Three Members of Booth Family Shown to Get $90,000 Salary.

OTTAWA, April 12.—After a night sessions held in the hope of expediting the conclusion of the long-drawn-out newsprint inquiry, another postponement was suddenly precipitated at 10.30 o'clock Thursday night, when Geo. F. Henderson, counsel for the Booth Mills, announced that he was not prepared to continue to a later hour. W. N. Tiley, publishers' counsel, had a Montreal engagement for to-day, and, in any event," Commissioner Pringle explained, there would have to be adjournment to give the Fort Frances mill a chance to send a representative to cross-examine Account W. D. Taylor of the Clarkson firm. When counsel tried to arrange a date for resuming the inquiry they found that May 5 was the earliest day on which all could be present, and that date was accordingly fixed. As the case has to go back to the Paper Control Tribunal after Mr. Pringle gets through with it, and as further cases are still pending relative to prices fixed since November 30 last, the end is evidently still far distant.

Three Booths Get $90,000 Salary

An interesting point brought out by Mr. Taylor is that the Booth family gets $90,000 in salaries, $40,000 to J. R. Booth, $25,00 to C. J. Booth and $25,000 to J. F. Booth, half these salaries being charged against the newsprint end of the business, an average of 92 cents per ton of paper.

Should Spread Improvements

The mill costs upon which prices for newsprint to Canadian publishers were fixed in 1918 included, in the case of Price Brothers, $226,000 for river and stream improvements, etc., although these improvements were made after the 1918 drive, and therefore did not facilitate and cheapen the company's drive until 1919. Publishers' counsel strongly contended that the improvements, like any other capitaly expenditure, should have been charged over a number of years instead of being put in the one year whose drive they did not affect. This attitude was combatted by Sir William Price, whose evidence was the interesting feature of the session of the newsprint inquiry.

Lord Beaverbrook has been troubled with his throat for a long time, but is now making satisfactory progress toward recovery. A recent despatch represents it as a distemper, which may have been caused originally "by putting a few blades of grass in the mouth when walking in the fields."

This reminds us that there was once a prize poem competition at Oxford, for which one of the aspirants chose "Nebuchadnezzar" as his subject, and he wrote that the monarch, when turned out to grass,

"Exclaimed as he ate the unwonted foods,
It may be wholesome, but it isn't good."

But Beaverbrook is neither Thames nor Cherwell, and so far as Oxford is concerned he can prove an alibi.

HUN CHILDREN DECEIVED.

What Their Geographies Taught About Canada.

Germany has captured all the United States and a part of Canada, startlingly announces the Rocky Mountain News. The conquest took place ten years ago, all on the quiet and unknown to the inhabitants. The Kaiser at the time admitted the occupation and subjection of this territory and issued maps for the edification of the little Huns in the public schools of the fatherland, whose gullibility left them believing that the select and rich parts of the world belonged "by divine right" to the German people, and all the rest was inhabited by swine and heathen.

But America has at last come to the full knowledge of its predicament by reference to page 55 map No. 1, of the Volksshul-Atlas von C. Diercke (public school atlas), used in the schools of Germany ten years ago.

As the youthful Hun struggled through his geography lesson he became "enlightened" about the world. He knew Germany, for he had seen the great pompous dignity of its emperor reviewing the imperial troops. Germany was a reality to the child. But about the rest of the world, Bah! They were heathen and "low brows."

And then the teacher came to page 5 of the lesson and then to map No. 1. It is titled "Verteilung der Menschenrassen," or the division of the human race. In great, stirring red ink the pupil was at once attracted to a vast area covering the whole of the United States and almost half of Canada.

And across the whole was written "Germanen," meaning Germans. To the north was a strip of green designating that there was the home of the "Noramericanische Indianer," meaning the North American Indians.

But the skillful art of lying, even in the face of an untruth, because they thought they could get away with it, led the authorities of Germany to step farther, and, behold, the race that gave to Germany the first knowledge of telephones and telegraphs, the submarine and airplane, through American inventions, was transformed into "heathen."

Map No. 2 on page 5 shows the western hemisphere in another light—that of the division of religions. Here the miracle of miracles is being worked, for in a heathen country German missionaries are battling the elements and savagery of a hideous race to plant the imperial and holy flag of Germany upon its soil and to bring "Christian" enlightenment to their unholy souls.

Across the face of the United States and Canada dark shaded places are shown, with a footnote reading Gebiet deutscher Heidenmissionen," meaning spheres of influence of German missionaries to the heathen.

The Sitka widow, when she has to put on mourning, paints the supper part of her face a deep black.

Anxious for Canadian Trade.

The economic commission has been holding a series of meetings with the Siberian Supply Company and the agents of the Canadian Government, and are endeavoring to reach an equitable basis for Siberian trade.

At a recent conference there were representatives present of co-operative organizations who expressed an eagerness to develop business relations with Canada owing to the similarity of climate and resources, and also because of successful co-operative movements among the farmers of the Dominion. Canada, furthermore, is without selfish aims. An unwillingness is expressed in the matter of trading through middlemen. Trade, if trade is to be had, is wanted direct. It is realized that it is impossible to develop trade right now owing to the transportation difficulties and the political instability of the country, but in the meantime people in Siberia are anxious to learn modern Canadian methods and are sending representatives to Canada shortly to study the methods.

"Bear" Proved Harmless.

A white bear had been seen in the Alps near Ofenburg, Switzerland, peasants reported. The alarm created some excitement in the mountains. The authorities were forced to arrange a great hunt to run down the "animal." The hunt was successful and the "animal" was cornered. He turned out to be a poor Russian deserter clad in a sheepskin coat who had been running around aimlessly.

HAD UNIQUE HONOR.

Toronto Officer Led Way Into Sea of Marmora.

The first unit of the British navy to pass up to ports on the Sea of Marmora after the declaration of the armistice was a motor patrol launch, which was in command of a Canadian officer—Lieut. Lawrence Goad, of the Royal Motor Boat Patrol, who comes from Toronto.

As the launch landed its crew, the Greek women of the district strewed the way with flowers, and an old Greek priest came and paid homage. Evidences of the Turkish abominations were to be seen on the passage through the Dardanelles, the bodies of Anzacs and Imperial troops, who had fallen in the glorious attempt at Gallipoli, having been dug up merely for the clothing which was upon them.

At the time the armistice was signed Lieut. Goad was patroling the Bulgarian coast. A great attack had been planned, and preliminary preparations were being made, but the cessation of hostilities frustrated this. For over three years Lieut. Goad had been on this patrol work in the Aegean Sea. At Mudros he frequently came in contact with the Canadian hospitals,—one of which came from Toronto. In addition to keeping a constant vigilance for mines and submarines, he carried British spies, landed them, and then picked them up again when they had spent a week or two on shore. He was busy on mine sweeping after peace was declared, and said there were probably about ten thousand mines strewn in these seas.

This record is more interesting when the circumstances surrounding his joining the navy are known. A Toronto friend in London, Mr. Lachlan Gibb — approached the Admiralty and enquired whether Mr. Goad could enter the Royal Motorboat Patrol. The latter had had considerable yachting experience. A verbal assurance was given, and Mr. Goad reached London, and went with confidence, to the Admiralty. But there was a rebuff; there was no room, it was said, and he could not be accepted.

The sympathy of the late Earl Grey was enlisted, and through the medium of his nephew, Capt. Rex Benson, Whitehall red tape was finally vanquished. Lieut. Goad was put in charge of a patrol. It was only a converted collier. At Malta they were told three U-boats were waiting. These "got" two of the colliers, but Lieut. Goad's was the lucky third, though he had that trying experience of seeing his companions hit while, acting under Admiralty orders, they were obliged to get themselves out of danger.

With him was also A. C. Turner, of Toronto, but although they were both accepted, their ways parted after the initial stages. After three years of such active service without a leave, Lieut. Goad has returned to be demobilized.

Tunes for Tanks.

Probably no more unique donation has ever been made for the amusement of soldiers than one of $50 recently given by a charitably disposed lady for gramophone records to equip a tank.

Other donations which have come to light from time to time have not lacked an element of the picturesque, as, for instance, the supplying of a hospital in Paris which was filled with African troops with 700 fans. They were so appreciated during the summer months that the hospital appealed for more. Not long ago a French officer issued an appeal for games for his men. In one regiment in which most of the soldiers were fathers of families the preference was for bowling. The trench does not make a bad alley.

M. Briand, ex-premier of France, in 1911 received an offer of $60,000 to deliver a series of lectures in the capitals of Europe upon any subjects he pleased.

A Hot Spot Chalmers Knows Neither Altitude Nor Weather

ANYONE who has motored much knows how a change of altitude—even of 600 feet—affects the average car. And when the weather changes, even if you never leave your home town, what a terrible affair it is to get your motor "running right."

A Hot Spot Chalmers knows neither altitude nor weather. For the Hot Spot device is proof against both.

No matter what the day, no matter where you are on the map, the Hot Spot carburizes the gas into a "dry" vapor from which all the power is wrung with amazing ease.

It is throbless, frictionless power, and on a cold day the engine runs warm in an instant or on a hot day runs cold consistently.

For "pulverizing" gas nothing yet has equalled the Chalmers Hot Spot and for racing it into the cylinders (a trick that is highly important), nothing has ever been made to approach the Ram's-Horn.

Either one of these two magnificent devices are worth an hour of any man's time. Both of them provide you a mental feast on modern engineering that you'll long remember.

Come see them. They've made the Chalmers one of the few great cars of the world.

Letters From California Written

By J.J.B. Flint

Los Angeles has two million-dollar theatres and about one hundred less costly. The owner of the "Grausman" has ararnged to build three others. The "California" is the most beautiful. It has retiring rooms for ladies with attendant maids. Smoking and rest rooms for gentlemen. The carpets, chairs and rugs are exquisite. The best theatres are not confining themselves to movies but introduce special acts, singing and dancing. The largest theatres have costly organs and orchestras of forty men. Jessie Crawford now of the "California," is the most wonderful organist I ever heard excepting the renowned French organist and composer of whom I wrote you recently. A verse of a pretty poem will be screened and Crawford will play the organ solos to interpret the verse in the most exquisite manner. Of course it is always the Pianoissimo and not the forte. I have heard him many times and never heard his equal in this respect.

ELABORATE ENTERTAINMENTS

In "Grausman's" a man and woman in Spanish costume danced the casconet dance. Each dancer has a instrument called a casconet in his or her hand and as they danced caused two edged hinges to meet each other making a loud noise. Some returned soldiers sang their company songs and two little boys about eight years of age dressed in mull military costumes with sword and accoutrements gave a splendid exhibition of drill. "Grausman" has an orchestra of thirty-two and besides this has seventy-two persons on the management staff. Good shows are put on at five cents admission. The highest price is thirty five cents.

I am about starting for home taking in on my route San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Oma-ha and Denver, possibly Detroit. All I desire to do is to obtain a glance at these cities. To see all of their features without a lengthy stay would be impossible.

CANNIBALS ON WAR PATH

A missionary of the South Sea Islands writes of a hundred towns laid waste and the inhabitant eaten by the victors. I saw seven pictures at "Grausman's" taken by a Mr. Johnson, who, with his wife and his own yacht visited the cannibal islands on the South Sea sailing over two thousand five hundred miles. He landed upon a number of islands and obtained these exhibited pictures. The men and women are naked. They do not attempt to work. The live upon coconauts and fish. Each man has a round stick thrust through the cartilage of the nose which is never removed and which affects their breathing. The head man is called the devil and is all powerful. He has a large piece of wood attached to his nose hanging down to his lips. As soon as a man becomes aged and of no use for fishing they bury him alive and for two days and two night they dance on his grave. The women have a dance which is very animated. Around their waist is a wreath of long painted leaves which stand out from the body as they rapidly whirl. They dance flat-footed. The foot is placed flat during the dance. There is an island which is not visited by other tribes and which never permitted a white man to land.

PILLS AND THE NATIVE

A guard is kept along the shore to prevent other tribes from landing. Johnson determined to visit the Island and land. The armed men on shore did not object and one of them complained in a graphic manner of a pain in his stomach. Johnson handed him a box of cathartic pills motioning to take one every night when the sun went down. The man imemdiately swallowed the entire boxful. Johnson beat a hasty retreat. The wretched houses have no chimneys the smoke proceeding through the roof. The terrible head man came down on them. He was enormous in size and very black and the most horrible face. It appeared that there was not any white in his eye, all dark color. The man fixed his gaze on Mrs. Johnson and when they attempted to return they were seized by the men who began to laugh with each other admiring Johnson who is a large fat man. He quite understood that they intended to kill and eat him. Just at this time a man shouted out "war boat" and an English war ship made her appearance. The cannibals ran into the woods and Johnson escaped.

ENGLISH WARSHIPS

The English Government have posts in these seas and a warship which patrols. Mr. King who has charge of certain islands for Great Britain wrote Johnson that it would be very dangerous for him to visit this island and finding that Johnson was determined to do it, no doubt, sent the ship to patrol the coast.

There are hundreds of islands in the South Seas many of them being inhabited by cannibals.

CATARACT FROM HEAT RAYS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—The great British Scientist, Sir Wm. Crooks has passed away in his 87th year; I notice the press in mentioning his discoveries have omitted the most important one, so far as ministering to the welfare and comfort of mankind is concerned. A number of years ago owing to the great increase in Cataract particularly in the eyes of those engaged in the vast British Iron Works, he was asked by the British Government to investigate and if possible discover the cause of so much cataract in these cases. After many experiments and much investigation, he demonstrated that the principal cause was from Heat Rays entering the eyes and producing opacity of the lens of the eye (which is cataract) He was then further requested by the Government to try and discover a preventive; after 4 years farther investigation he perfected a lens of Glass that eliminates or cuts out from 75 to 85 percent. of these Heat Rays, and also about the same percentage of the Irritating Ulta-Violet Rays of the Sun and Electric Light. All parties whose eyes are sensitive to the Sun and Electric Light, will find great relief and comfort from wearing these Glasses; they can be made up in plain glass, or in any combination of Sight Glasses.

We make a Speciality of "Crookes Lenses."

PLEA FOR WRESTLING

BY STRANGLER LEWIS

Ed. "Strangler" Lewis who lost a gruelling match to Zybszko for Eary Caddock's wrestling championship, objects to boxing as "the manly art of self-defense."

"Ridiculous!" says Lewis.

"Why, the fists are the least effective of nature's weapons! Wrestling is the true 'art of self-defense.' To prove it I hereby challenge Jess Willard to a contest with nature's own weapons in a ring or an empty room and will bet him $10,000 that he will not last ten minutes. I think that about two minutes will be long enough for me to prove the superior effectiveness of wrestling over boxing. Unless Willard knocked me out with a first punch, he would never have a chance and I have a way of drowning a man without approaching near enough to be hit."

As for Willard's accepting the husky wrestler's challenge? It is out of the question.

Dr. R. F. Roller, the famous physician-athlete and mat man, challenged Jess to a go in a gymnasium with a jury of newspapermen and city officials to settle once and for all the method of self-defense, boxing or wrestling. But Willard dared not.

"Farmer" Burns, another famous wrestler, issued a challenge to any prizefighter in the world to meet him in an empty room. This challenge stood for years without a taker.

Muldoon, one time champion wrestler, who trained Sullivan for his fight with Mitchell, could handle Sullivan at will. A mixed match was proposed between Muldoon and Mitchell, but Mitchell never accepted because he wisely listened to the experts, who told him that Muldoon would make him jump out of the ring.

Here are a few hints by Lewis:

"When you have your opponent down and are the aggressor, keep him there by means of your weight. This will serve the double purpose of preventing him from changing his position.

"Go through the motions quickly and with vim, whether on the defensive or offensive.

"When you are the under man, keep on moving constantly, thus not only preventing your opponent from securing a hold, but also enabling you in the change of position to secure a good hold on him.

"Feature the strangler holds, for an opponent may be made unconscious by one of them."

"You can break his arm, leg, neck or shoulder with the holds illustrated. It is a simple matter.

"You can kill a man with the strangle hold and the flying mare."

REV. MR. FOSTER CALLED

At a meting of the Official Board of Holloway street church last evening a cordial invitation was extended to the Rev. A. H. Foster of Whitby to become their pastor, which invitation has been accepted. Mr. Foster has had four prosperous years in Whitby Tabernacle church, all departments being in a flourishing condition. Mrs. Foster has also been much appreciated being very active in choir and Sunday-School and the young people's work. A pleasant year is anticipated at Holloway Street Methodist church.

THE HOME-COMING

It is desirable that the return to Belleville and district of all soldiers from overseas be chronicled in the public press so that friends and well-wishers far and near may be apprized of their safe return. As soldiers are returning on the many trains at all hours of the day and night it is impossible to accurately record their arrival and The Intelligencer will be pleased to receive notification from relatives and friends of the return of soldier boys with records of service, as the public is very much interested. Phone, write or call. dtf

WIDE OPEN RESTAURANTS

The civic finance committee on Thursday evening, on recommendation of the police commissioners, decided to present a bylaw to the city council next Monday evening doing away with curtains, doors and stalls in public restaurants. The police made an inspection of the local restaurants recently and reported upon the conditons that existed. The result was that the police commissioners thought it well to advise that these public places be "wide open" to view. It is known that a good deal of liquor drinking has occurred in some restaurant stalls.—Kingston Whig.

SPECIAL BALL TRAIN

The invitation committee for the ball to be given after Easter in Belleville by the publicity committee of the County of Hastings Development Association, is busy preparing a list of those to be invited and the citizens throughout the county are coming to the assistance of the Chairman, Wm. H. Nugent, County Clerk, splendidly by sending in names of persons to be invited. There is every indication that a very large number will be in attendance at the ball. Parties from the north of the county are proposing to run a special train to accommodate guests from that section.

NEARING THE CENTURY MARK

To attain the most unusual age of 97 years and still be in possesshion of all her faculties is the remarkable fortune of Mrs. Jemima Spencer of Trenton. In a little over two years more Mrs. Spencer will have passed the hundredth milestone of life's journey. This wonderful old lady is still young in everything but years. She is able to read without difficulty and her hearing is still almost as good as ever. She is the sole housekeeper for her grandson, Mr. Fred Beach, and her household is a model of thrift and cleanliness. She does her own sewing and cooking. Mrs. Spencer was born at Massassaga, in Prince Edward County and was the daughter of Edward McConnel and Abigal Reddick, both United Empire Loyalists.

CONVICTED AS DESERTER

After being remanded last week on the charge of being a defaulter under the M.S.A., Joseph Cooper, of Springbrook, Hastings County, was convicted as a deserter by Police Magistrate Bradshaw at Kingston, yesterday, and sentenced to a fine of $250 and costs, or six months in jail.

MRS. WOOLWORTH FROM PICTON

Frank W. Woolworth, founder of the five-and-ten-cent stores, who died last Tuesday at his home at Glen Cove Long Island, was married in 1876 to Miss Jennie Creighton, of Picton, who is now an invalid in a sanitarium. When Mr. Woolworth was married his salary was $3.50 per week.

RECEPTION TO 2ND BATT.

Arrangemnts are being made for the reception to the 2nd Battalion, which is expected to arrive in the city on May 1st, or soon after. The reception, under the chairmanship of Mayor Newman, will be along the same lines as the reception to the 45th Battery, and several minor changes will be made, although plans are practically similar to the reception tendered the 45th Battery.—Kingston Standard.

TRENTON ALCOHOL CASE

The Town Hall at Trenton Friday afternoon was packed with citizens listening to the preliminary investigation on a charge against Norman Chase, Roy Bovay, Roy Simmons and Alexander Craddock for stealing alcohol from a tank car in which it was being shipped from the British Chemical works, where there is a large quantity of alcohol stored. Chase, Bovay and Simons gave written confessions. The parties accused were all sent up for trial and elected to be tried before His Honor Judge Wills on April 26th. The evidence showed that a number of milk cans of alcohol had ben taken before discovery. Wm. Carnew for Crown. Alex. Craddock was represented by W. C. Mikel, K.C., Roy Simmons by E. D O'Flynn, James Coughlin by E. J. Butler and A. Abbott; Norman Chase and Roy Bovay were not represented.

Called By Death

THOMAS KERR

On Monday last one of the best known residents of Hungerford Township passed away in the person of Thomas Kerr. Deceased was 86 years of age. He was born in the Emerald Isle and came to this country with his parents when he was about 6 years of age. They settled on the farm on which he has lived ever since and now occupied by his son, William Kerr. Mr. Kerr was a pioneer of the district and saw his home settlement develop from a spot in the forest to a populous and thriving community. One son and three daughters survive.

Nampcel, a little town in the war-devastated region of France, has chosen Mme. d'Evry as lady mayoress, the first woman in France to be thus honored.

WASTING OUR WEALTH

FACTS ABOUT DISAPPEARANCE OF FORESTS.

People of Canada Are Blind to the Meaning of the Losses of Timber, and an Expert in Forestry Makes Some Plain Statements About the Situation—Food for Very Serious Thought.

A SEVERE indictment of the management of our forests, and especially of the attempts to safeguard them from fire, was made by Dr. C. D. Howe, Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, at the recent annual meeting of the Commission of Conservation. He showed that not only is the present supply of pine, spruce, and balsam diminishing rapidly, but that the methods of logging and the repeated ravages of fire are killing off the young trees. The result will be in a few years the end of an industry which is exceeded only by agriculture and manufacturing as a producer of wealth to the country.

People are aware in a general way of the enormous loss to timber caused annually by forest fires, but the most destructive effects of these fires are not generally recognized or appreciated even by those who have our forests in their keeping.. It is the repeated fire which is the most vicious agent of destruction, for it kills the young trees which are to make the future forest, and it also kills the mother or seed trees, which might if allowed to live replace the young that are destroyed. He examined 80,000 acres of cut-over and burned-over pine lands in the central portion of old Ontario and found 110 young pine trees on the average acre of area burned over once; 14 pine trees per acre on areas burned over three time, and only three pine trees on the average acre of areas burned over four or more times. It will take several hundred years for nature to restock these areas with pine.

"This is not an exceptional case. Repeated forest fires are producing similar results on thousands of square miles throughout the Dominion. One-half of our commercial timber lands have been burned. Even if there never were another forest fire, one-half of our future supply of timber should come from these burned areas. Every fire decreases that possibility by destroying the young commercial trees. We have not only killed the commercial, revenue-bearing trees on one-half the timber-producing area in Canada, but our forest policy has been such that we have virtually decreed their children shall not live."

The original forest in the St. Maurice River Valley was dominated by white pine from 3 to 6 feet in diameter and from 100 to 150 feet high, towering 50 to 75 feet above the associated birch, maple, spruce, and balsam. Judging from the stumps left, the trees ran from five to 30 per acre, but to-day there is only an odd pine standing on some inaccessible bluff. The original giants have disappeared from the forest, and, worse still, no young pines are rising to take their place. In order to prosper the pine requires plenty of light overhead, but the openings made in the forest by the removal of the original trees were allowed to fill up with hardwoods, which overshadowed and stifled the young pine shoots.

It was further shown by Dr. Howe that both spruce and balsam were also in danger of extinction. Taking 97 acres of severely culled areas from which 26 spruce trees per acre had been removed, he found that the present number of spruce trees per acre was: Seedings below half-inch, 422; half-inch to three inches, 28; four inches to seven inches, 19, and eight inches to eleven inches, 7. Although the total came to 477 new trees, it will be noted that the mortality increased very rapidly with the growth of these trees. The net result is that there will be only 7 spruce trees to take the place of the 26 per acre removed by logging operations. Taking the same severely-culled areas based on sample plots totaling 97 acres from which 32 balsam trees per acre had been removed, he found that the present number of balsam trees per acre was: seedlings below one-half inch, 2,477; half-inch to three inches inclusive, 58; four to seven inches, 27, and eight to eleven inches, 12. Apparently there would be over 2,500 balsam trees per acre to replace the 32 removed, but again the rate of mortality increases so rapidly with the growth of the trees that there will really be only 12 trees per acre where 32 had been taken away. Moreover, 7 out of the 12 will be so diseased as to be unfit for pulpwood, so that the net result will be only 5 pulpwood-bearing balsams where 32 were originally.

Dr. Howe states that the fundamental problem is how to guard the forests properly from fire; that in the last decade about $10,000,000 have been spent in protection, and yet that the forest has been so unsafe for trees through destruction by fire that there is apprehension of serious curtailment, perhaps exhaustion, of our timber supply. He declares that without adequate fire protection it is only a waste of time to discuss methods of forest conservation, and that when they are made reasonably safe from fire other measures are required to make them continually productive.

Tigers are extremely fond of bathing. In a zoo, if a tub be provided, they will eagerly make use of its facilities for ablution. They are first-rate swimmers, and in former days it was reckoned at Singapore that they ate a Chinaman a night," swimming across from the mainland to get him.

Winter Delights Sunny Florida

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman Will Return to Belleville Shortly After Pleasant Winter in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, who have been spending the winter months at Miami, Florida, expect to leave for the north on April 16, and arrive in Belleville about the 26th. A letter received from Mr. Ackerman today from Miami says:

"Mrs. A. and myself have just returned from a 1,200 mile motor trip through the state and from observations and what we could learn we made no mistake in choosing Miami to spend the winter. The weather here, this season, at least, has been better than at other places. This is a live city of about 30,000 and all the principal streets are paved. The bathing beach here, I believe, is the best in Florida. There is plenty of fishing here, although quite often they have "fishermen's luck." Pryor's band plays twice daily in the park during the tourist season. There are plenty of beautiful drives on good roads, and there is generally some entertainment provided so as to meet nearly everyone's requirments.

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots, How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckels with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

In Memoriam

ARTHURS—Fred Arthurs, in loving and constant memory of my dear husband and our loving father, who left this earth just one year ago to-day, April 12th, 1918.

Gently the stars are shining,
 Down on his silent grave,
Where lies our dear father sleeping,
 The one we loved but could not save.
Oh, father dear, we loved you so,
 How sad for us to part
One thought of your loving face
 Will cause the tears to start.

Thy hands are clasped upon thy breast
 We kissed the marble brow
And in our aching hearts, we know
 We have no father now.

Sleep on, edar husband, and take your rest,
 God took you home, He thought it best,
God's will be done, He doeth well,
 But how I miss you no tongue can tell.

Friends may think that we forget you
 When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
 That smile hides all the while.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
 Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near me
 Though you died one year ago.

Our Father in his wisdom called
 Teh bloom his life had given,
And though on earth his body lies
 His soul is safe in Heaven.
—Wife and family.

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

PRIEST'S HOUSEKEEPER MUST STAND HERT RIAL

TRASERE CITY, Mich., April 12—Mrs. Sanislawa Lypchinski was held for trial at the May term of the Circuit Court on a charge of murdering Sister Mary John, a Felician Nun, who disappeared from the convent at Isadore, near here, eleven years ago. Mrs. Lypchinski, now fifty years of age, was a priest's housekeeper at Isadore when the Nun disappeared. A body recently exhumed from the basement of the church there is held by the prosecutor to be that of Sister Mary.

The trial is set for May 13 at Leland.

Lack of Co-Operation Argyle House Fault

Major Ewing Says This Condition to be Found in all Departments.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 11.—Major F. J. Ewing, of Vancouver, for the past three years assistant director of supplies and chief inspector of the catering service in England criticized Argyle House on reaching here on board the Megantic. 'I know Argyle House from top to bottom," said Major Ewing. 'For I have been there for the past three years. I am through now and on my way home and I'm glad, for I certainly was fed up. I have heard a lot of criticisms leveled at Argyle House. Those critics who stated that all officers could not get courteous hearings there were wrong There never has been a time when officers could not get courteous and adequate treatment there. The chief cause for criticism has always been that there has been an absolute lack of co-operation not only between the various department of Argyle House, but also between the various agencies with which Argyle House has had to deal."

"Our very last experience, in England was a sampe of it. We were to sail at 4 o'clock. The ship was loaded with its complement of men and its papers were complete. At the very last minute 46 more men were sent on board by the Ministry of Shipping and no one knew the faintest thing about them. Their papers were not even included with those of the others and as a result our sailing was delayed several hours. Throughout the whole war there has been similar and very often much more serious lack of co-operation. The Rhyl rioting was further proof of this. Before the trouble started there it was said no more ships could be had, but immediately afterwards and ever since there has been lots of ships. It just proved what could have been done if there had been any desire to do it."

Charming Widow Dreaded The Jail

Woman Who Obtained Suitors' Money Carried Shrieking From the Court.

TORONTO, April 11—After being sentenced to a year at the Mercer on two charges of false pretences it required four officers to make Mrs. Ethel Vannoy release her hold of the dock rail and two to carry her shrieking and wailing by turn from the court. One result of the scene was that Judge Coatsworth changed the sentence to a year at the Women's Farm instead of the Mercer. Mrs. Vannoy, who is an artist, representing herself as a widow of an adopted son of the late Sir W. C. MacDonald, of tobacco fame, in response to her advertisement for a husband met George Shaw and John H. Russell. While engaged to both she induced Russell to give her $1,68 and Shaw $800 to enable her to legally fight her claim to a fortune of $800,000 which was mythical. I. C. Robinette, K.C., asked for suspended sentence, as it was the supposed fortune and not the woman her victims were after. When sentence was passed counsel intimated an appeal.

Frontsenac Stills Rival Kentucky

KINGSTON, April 11.—According to reports there is now no shortage of whiskey througnout Frontenac county as there is a large number of residents who are well supplied with the home-made variety.

A man, who knows the county well said there are dozens of stills now in operation. Reports have reached him that some of them are well made and their product will taste almost as good as that made at any distillery. There are a number of stills, however, which are more elaborate and the whiskey is made according to a carefully prepared formula and allowed to mature.

There does not seem to be much of it offered for sale, according to the best information, but those who have a quantity are not stingy, and to their friends, or people who are vouched for, will pass it around.

Inquiries bring only vague information, but there seems to be many realists who are beating the Government's prohibition laws. There are stories of stills in operation in the north, and of others very close to the city. The usual output is not spoken of very highly as to its quality as it is not carefully enough made. Coming from grain of various kinds, from potatoes or apples, it passes as a drink, but has a peculiar taste. It has the "kick," however, and that seems to be the main requirment.

Life-Saving Suits Tested by Trans-Atlantic Navigators.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. April 11.—Harry G. Hawker and Lieut.-Commander McKenzie Grieve, his navigator on the impending airplane flight across the Atlantic, tested the life-saving suits they will wear during the big hop. The suits are those developed by the American navy with air bags on the chest and on the back between the shoulder blades. The feet have leaden soles and the fabric is waterproofed in such a way that they are guaranteed to keep a man afloat for eight days. The only place they can admit water is at the neck and wrist when not adjusted snugly.

Labrado Natives Dying From "Flu"

Influenza Epidemic Cutting Great Swath in Coast Population.

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., April 11.—Mr. John McRae, of Messrs. R. D. McRae and Sons received the following telegram showing the terrible ravages influenza has made on the Labrador coast amongst the Esquimaux population. If at all possible (and is it not possible, by way of Quebec?) aid should be sent in the shape of doctors and medicine to save the remnant of these poor natives. The Government should also take measures to prevent our own people going down there in thousands next summer from meeting a like fate. Influenza is expected to revisit Europe and America next year in a more deadly form Amongst the things found to be safeguards to some extent elsewhere is inoculation with serum. If our Medical Society approve, the Government should procure a supply for our Newfoundland and Labrador population, and have enough doctors, nurses and other means of relief in readiness. No time is to be lost.

Battle Harbor, via Fogo, March 22—"Mr. Jack McRae: Many hundreds Esquimaux dead of Labrador Spanish influenza. Okak nearly cleaned out; Hebron, over 200 dead; Nain, over 100. Number of bodies eaten by dogs, and over 100 bodies buried in one pit. Believed that not over 400 Esquimaux left on coast. Weather mild. No ice any direction. Wind, south-west.—S. W. Brazil."

Farmers Object To Provincial Highway

TORONTO, April 11—A large deputation of farmers, bearing a petition representing ten thousand members of farmers' clubs, apeared before Hon. Finlay MacDiarmid, Minister of Public Works, opposing the Sarnia-Montreal highway. Beniah Bowman headed the deputation.

The speakers said the United Farmers are not opposed to good roads; they did not, however, want a few trunk roads, but good system of rural roads, well paved radiating from towns and cities and cheaper sidelines.

E. C. Drury, of the U.O.F., said the financial situation did not justify the proposed expenditure on provincial highways. He said the Hamilton, Toronto, Niagara Falls highway was defensible, but would oppose the Kingston road which paralleled three railway lines. The deputation pointed out that the Toronto-Hamilton highway would cost $30,000 a mile and 30 miles of market roads improved at a cost of $1,600 a mile would be more valuable to the former.

Mr. MacDiarmid pointed out the importance of a provincial highway to agriculture and asked the farmers to reconsider their position.

Newsprint Inquiry Is Opened At Ottawa

OTTAWA, April 10—The enquiry into the price of newsprint was resumed before Controller R. A. Pringle, having been referred back to him by the Paper Control Tribunal.

The point to be decided is whether $69 per ton for roll news and correspondingly higher prices for other forms of newsprint is a just price for the period beginning July 1, 1918. The publishers of Canada having objected to this advance from $35 per ton paid in 1916. The Control Tribunal heard lengthy arguments in January, and decided that Mr Pringle who fixed the $69 price last September, retractice to July, should take further evidence as to certain paper costs challenged by the publishers and also as to the accuracy of the $8 estimate increase in mill costs during the summer of last year.

Mr. G. T. Clarkson, Government auditor, has made an investigation of various mills to clear up these points and was present to give evidence today. H. A. Stewart, Government counsel, who did not attend the proceedings before the tribunal, also reappeared. The publishers were represented by W. N. Tilly, A. J. Thomson and John Imrie, secretary of the newspaper committee. George H. Montgomery, George F. Henderson, and other counsel appeared for the paper mills.

HOLSTEIN BULL BRINGS RECORD PRICE OF $3,350

TORONTO, April 11—At the first annual sale of the Canadian National Holstein Breeders' Club and the Department of Agriculture, held yesterday at the Exhibition grounds, King Segis Pontiac Poach, a bull owned by Gordon S. Gooderham of Clakson, brought the Canadian record price for a dairy animal at auction. He was purchased by G. E. Black of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Commission for $3,350.

One hundred and twenty-six head were contributed by twelve leading Holstein breeders, and 55 were sold yesterday. A former Canadian butter champion for nearly three years, Tortilla of Riverside, consigned by the O'Reilly Stock Farm, Peterboro,' was bought by A. J. Tamblyn, Orono for $900.

The sale continues today.

"What is This Nerve Food You See Advertised in all the Papers, Some Kind of Patent Medicine?"

"PERHAPS that is what you might call it."

"Well, do you know anything about it?"

"I certainly do, and have a box right here in my grip. Why, say, in my estimation, it is the greatest thing ever invented in the medicine line."

"You seem to be rather enthusiastic. You are not selling Nerve Food, are you?"

"No, I am not selling it, but I am recommending it. When I find a good thing I like to tell others about it."

"What did it ever do for you?"

"I was on my back with the 'flu' for two weeks, and when I got up was so weak that I did not get out of the house for ten days. I started out on my trip on the road, but did not have the energy to sell goods."

"What seemed to be the matter?"

"The doctor said my nerves were in bad condition. I could not sleep nights, and after talking to a customer I seemed to be all in. There was so little nerve force in my system that I went all to pieces with a little exertion.

"I did not get right until I had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two weeks. By that time my appetite was good and I began to feel like myself again.

"For a month I scarcely missed a dose of the Nerve Food, and am now feeling fine. I eat and sleep well, and take the same old pleasure in my work that I always did when in good health."

"You must be all right, then."

"Yes, and I certainly appreciate what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for me, for I thought I would have to quit the road entirely. You can call it a patent medicine if you like, but, anyway, I swear by it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Overcoming The World

The Story of Malcom Kirk

By Charles M. Sheldon

CHAPTER XX — Continued

"I want the boys to go to Phillips' Academy next fall," Faith said with an air of one possessed of untold riches. "That's where father graduated and it will be a fine thing for them to follow him there.'

"Splendid!" exclaimed Malcom. "I have always dreamed that it would be so."

"Art is long," continued Faith, "but I'm sure I can win some of the prizes for best photographic ideas offered by the eastern papers. If the boys had a hundred dollars apiece, they could enter the school and earn their own way for the most part, couldn't they father?"

"Of course they could," replied Malcom, and he told of some of his experiences as a boy in academy and college life.

"It seems to me, Mr. Kirk, that you have done a little of everything in your lifetime," said Malcom Stanley, who sat in the family circle, and, somehow, seemed quite one of them.

"Everything except looking out for himself," said Faith, quietly.

"The Lord has blessed us very much," said Malcom, looking at Faith tenderly. "I'm afraid your poor old father has had to fight a good many battles against selfishness that he has not told you about. Your mother might tell you how bad I am if she wanted to."

"I don't feel like it now," replied Dorothy, as her eyes rested on aMlcom's plain, loving face, and her love for him was stronger than ever.

"But, about my plan, father," said Faith, after they had all been silent before the fire. "What do you think of it? Can I do anything in that way?"

"It is worth trying," said Malcolm very thoughtfully.

"I don't know," Faith said, softly. "But just think of it. Here is the fact. Thousands of families all over the world are dependent for their physical and mental and moral support upon the kind of service they have in their kitchens and homes. Now, if this is the case, why isn't it possible to dignify and elevate such service to a point where a girl who goes out to work may feel that she is doing a really noble thing in helping to keep a whole family in the comfort of body and peace of mind that will make the family more happy and more useful in the world? That is 'the hired girl' problem in one sentence. My plan is to start with Christian families and with Christian girls and get each side to realize what household service can be made to do. I believe a circle of such people can be formed in such a way that gradually the homes and the girls will be organised into a mutual helpfulness, and it will be more honorable and better, financially and morally, for a girl to go out to service than to go into a store or an office, even At least for a time. For it really takes more brains to be an efficient cook and housekeeper than to stand behind a counter and sell notions."

Faith paused, as if she suddenly felt that Malcom Stanley was looking at her with greatest interest, as, indeed, he was. And if he really began to love Faith right then and there more truly than he yet had done, it was owing to the sudden glimpse he had caught of a young soul on fire to be and do for the good of others.

But Faith's plan led to a discussion that was long and continued through so many days, that we cannot follow it in detail here. It is enough to say that when Faith went back to Chicago she carried with her a definite plan, which she was able sooner than she expected to put into working practice.

Conrad will never forget the anniversary week held in honor of Malcom Kirk and his church. It was a week of surprises to him and Dorothy. The town waked up in sudden, hearty, western fashion, and before he knew it Malcom was the recipient of a whole town's honor.

Sunday the church had appropriate exercises to celebrate their twenty-five years' existence. There was a great sermon in the morning by Malcom, and by old settlers and charter members in the afternoon. In the evening the young people crowded the church with their meeting, and when they adjourned, they went out in front of the parsonage and sang a hymn that one of their own members had composed in praise of the church.

The only sad feature of the day to Malcom was the presence of Mrs. Barton at the morning service. It was a sadness relieved by a great burst of joy.

"Oh, Mr. Kirk," said the old woman, bowed now with years and sorrow. "If Phil had only been saved! Thank God I owe my other son to you. She went on to speak of Malcom's efforts which had made the saloon outlaw in Conrad these many years, and pointed with pride to her remaining son, who was a member of the church and one of Malcom's great friends. "He'd gone the way of Phil and his father if the saloon was here," she said, and wrung Malcom's hand and went out, but Malcom knew her heart was still hungry for her first born.

Next day the citizens held a meeting in the court house, at which the mayor presided. Malcom was present as the guest of honor.

He had tried to prevent any such expression towards himself. But when he found himself powerless, he seized the occasion to glorify the cause of God's kingdom. H's speech was a splendid tribute to the power of righteousness. Throughout it all his modesty and unselfishness had never been more forcibly or beautifully illustrated to his townspeople. The citizens of Conrad remembered that address long years after countless political speeches had faded out of their memories.

It was, perhaps, significant of the peculiar esteem in which Malcom Kirk and Dorothy were held in Conrad that no attempt was made that week to present them with a gold watch or a tea set, or any physical token. The church at a business session voted the increase Malcom's salary, and there were very many flowers sent to the parsonage; but the people seemed to know that what would be most acceptable to Malcom Kirk and his wife on that anniversary would be the love of the parish and they did not feel that, and never, in all their lives, had it meant so much to them.

One incident of that anniversary week illustrated Malcom's character better than any other.

The picture that Stanley had given to Kirk had been placed in the parsonage, but it was almost ridiculously large for the small rooms.

Dorothy and Malcom both felt it out of place, but the gift meant so much that they were in doubt what to do with it.

The day after Malcom's address in the court house, one of the managers of an Orphan's Home, that Malcom had been largely instrumental in organizing was calling on Dorothy.

She saw the picture, and instantly said:

"If we only had that in the hall of the Home!"

"Just the place for it, too," said Malcom, when Dorothy told him of it.

Without delay, and with Stanley's assistance, the picture was taken to the Home and hung up in a conspicuous place in a large hall-way. It had a remarkable effect on visitors. One ranchman, who was never known to give anything to any cause, visited the place shortly afterwards and at the sight of the picture moved him to give twenty-five dollars to the Home.

"The sight of that baby in Mr. Kirk's arms just hypnotized the money out of my pocket," he said afterwards.

"That is the sort of hypnotism we believe in," said the matron of the Home and Conrad echoed the sentiment.

When the eventful week was gone, Faith made her preparations to return Malcom Stanley announced his return to the New Mexico mines. The night before he departed, he went into Malcom's study and with some embarrassment told him what Malcom had seen already. For he and Dorothy had not been able to conceal the fact that the young Englishman had grown to have a great liking for Faith's company.

"It seems l'ke a short time, Mr. Kirk, but I love Faith, and I want your consent to be her suitor."

"I should think her consent would be worth more to you," said Malcom Kirk, with a flash of his old wit which had not the slightest approach to levity. But he had grown to love Malcom Stanley and felt sure from indications, that Faith was not far from the same feeling.

"Then I may write to her?" said Malcom Stanley. "I don't want to call her away from her plans or her profession. Indeed, if I win her heart, we will accomplish more together than separately.'

"I believe it," said Malcom gravely. And, he added with a smile, "My dear fellow, I hope you realize what it means to have a 'hired girl problem' to take care of."

"I will gladly assume that," Stanley said, and he went back to his solitary work in New Mexico with a great enthusiasm. It seems entirely possible that he even found courage to say something to Faith before he went, for Faith and Dorothy had a confidence talk that evening, and Dorothy had tears on her face when it ended and Faith'se face glows when a certain letter with a queer post mark comes into the studio at Kenwood, where she is making her mark as an artist, and brooding over her plans for the good of the world, into which she now includes a tall, manly figure out west.

When Stanley and Faith had gone, at the close of that week, Malcom went over to the church one evening to get his Bible, which he had left on the pulpit. The new church was lighted with electricity, and Malcom turned on the light near the desk, and, after finding the Bible, he stood there on the platform a moment.

While he was there, Dorothy came in to get a pot of flowers which had been taken into the church during the anniversary exercises.

She came up to the platform and stood there with her husband.

They were both reminded of that first night when they had gone into the little church and had made their promise.

"It is not like the old room, Malcom, is it?"

Dorothy said it with a feeling as if a Presence was in these years.

"No, my dear. God has been very good to us all."

Dorothy crept up nearer to him and Malcom put his arm about her and they looked out into the dimly-lighted church together. The battle in Conrad was still going on. There was still the rum power to meet in one form and another. There were still ugly forms of evil, selfishness in many shapes to face, but God had gloriously used these two disciples for the building of His kingdom on the earth. Their children, also, were going out to fight the same good fight of faith, to battle for the right, to relieve distress and overcome the world. It seemed almost certain that as they stood there the Angel of Light noted their lives, and breathed over the town a benediction of peace, and Malcom and Dorothy passed out of the church and into their home with God's blessing on their hearts. It was not by any chance that Malcom chose for his text as he took his Bible and went up into his study that night the words in the Book of Revelation:

"To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God."

Permanent Roads Cost Least In The Long Run

HEAVY DUTY, HIGH EFFICIENCY, ALL-YEAR ROADS OF CONCRETE BASE, OR OF CONCRETE THROUGHOUT, SOON SAVE IN MAINTENANCE, TO SAY NOTHING OF UNINTERRUPTED SERVICE, THE DIFFERENCE IN INITIAL COST AS COMPARED TO OTHER SO-CALLED PERMANENT FORMS OF CONSTRUCTION.

Since its organization in 1909 the National Highways Protective Society has devoted considerable attention to road conditions, and Colonel Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the society, says very truly that it is high time now to place the road building policy of the country on a sound economic basis.

"Past mistakes in roadbuilding," he adds, "have not altogether been due to poor judgment, because fifteen years ago no one could forsee the development which has been made in the motor vehicle. Cheap roads built at that time lasted many years, and until the motor truck arrived could be maintained at a resonable cost. Now that the motor truck has been developed it is nothing less than a crime for highway engineers to design and build and spend the state's money for anything other than a substantial road Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, and other progressive states are realizing this fact and are building more concrete roads or roads with a concrete base. New York and Massachusettes are still continuing to build impermanent roads and which would seem to be a waste of money.

"The cost of maintainance of water-bound and macadam roads averages in New York and Massachusettes $1000 per mile per year, as against $100 per mile per year for concrete roads. The bulk of maintainance in the macadam type is in the pavement itself. With concrete the bulk of the maintenance is on edges and ditches.

"Commissioner Duffey in his last report, states that bituminous macadam pavement under present conditions costs $23,000 per mile and concrete pavement costs $28,00 per mile or a difference of $500 per mile. This cost is insignificant when you consider the relative maintenance costs of the two types and the fact that after twenty years you will have a good road if a concrete one is built as it is a proved fact that after ten years bituminous macadam will be practically a loss, besides, it will not ever serve as a proper base for a good pavement.

"Practically every highway engineer today agrees that all roads should have a concrete base. If heavy traffic does not exist when the road is built it will soon develop and every highway should be designed for heavy traffic.

"Inasmuch as it is admitted both here and abroad that a concrete base is necessary, then the cheapest form of pavement is obtained when placing this base by using a little care in the selection of materials and by using a better concrete. In this way it has been shown that a good concrete base and surface are obtained in one operation and we have a permanent highway, cheaper than can be built in any other way and of longer life.

"The highways of to-day must be built as a commercial and business proposition, and so much be of the best type to insure reasonable permanency. Commercial highways are a necessity for the development of the country as well as for quick transportation of materials and for the lowering of the cost of living.

"The life of a good concrete road should be at least twenty years and it would seem that this country could afford to spend a large sum of money in the development of such highways if the money were put into roads which will last at least twenty years under motor truck traffic. Expects here and abroad believe that the concrete road is good for much longer than twenty years.

"The first fifty-million-dollar bond issue for the building of permanent roads in New York state was appropriated nine years ago and there is hardly a mile of the roadway built under that appropriation that is in existence at this time which has not been resurfaced or rebuilt. Connecticut has had the same experience, as well as New Jersey, and these states are now building roads that are meeting the requirements of present-day sevice."

WAVE OF CRIMINALITY CHARGED TO PARENTS

"If only the parents would send the children to school and watch them better when they start going out into the world, we should not have this wave of criminality that is causing anxiety to society and degradation to a class of "youngsters," said Judge Chas. Langelier, of Quebec City, when he sent William Mullins, a lad in his teens, to three years in the penitentiary for robbery. There has been an epidemic of crime lately in Quebec City and only last Saturday two young men from Montreal, Edouard Pilon and Louis Marcotte, were caught armed with revolvers, and breaking into a store, and sent up for seven years in the penitentiary. Judge Langelier said that he would show no leniency to anyone convicted of robbery and that he was on the war path against all thieves, yeggs and hold-up men.

Value of Decision

On October 21st we received two enquiries from small towns in the Middle West regarding Davidson Gold Mines, Ltd. The enquirers, for obvious reasons, we shall call "A" and "B".

As is our custom, these enquiries were answered promptly, with full details as to the latest developments on the property, etc., and a suggestion that a purchase at the price then prevailing (32c.) would be a wise move.

Five days had hardly elapsed when the mails brought a substantial order from "B" for this stock; whereas about a week later a second letter was received from "A" asking for further particulars. At every marked advance in the price of Davidson shares we were asked by enquirer "A" whether or not Davidson was still a "good buy."

Who is profiting by the appreciation in value of the Davidson stock? Who is benefiting by our suggestion?

When all particulars are in hand, it is time for decision. Further enquiry is useless and only decreases profits.

Davidson today, in view of recent developments is as good a buy at 70c. as it was months ago at 32c.

Are you interested? If so, mail in this coupon for particulars, or mail your order for Davidson stock.

Profit by the experience of enquirer "A."

Do you shave with a saw?

FOOLISH question No. 1199! Well, maybe it sounds like that. But compare for a moment the illustrations above. They show pretty well what we're driving at; that is, unless a blade is stropped regularly it develops an edge very like a saw and causes that "pulling" and after-smarting of which you complain.

Not so with the AutoStrop Razor. For the self-stropping feature, you see, reforms the saw-like edge that results from shaving: it keeps the blade free from rust, and it provides you with a sharp blade free for every shave. The beauty of it is you don't have to remove the blade from the razor to sharpen it, nor do you have to take the AutoStrop Razor apart to clean it. From first to last—stropping, shaving and cleaning—the blade remains in the razor.

Consider then the greater comfort, convenience, economy of the AutoStrop Razor. How small the price of $5.00 for razor, strop and 12 blades, looks in comparison!

Insurance for Salaried Men

Lloyd George says: —"The willingness to take risks is, in the great merchant or capitalist, a virtue. It is to him what courage is to a soldier, or imagination to a poet. But the willingness to take risks is in the wage earner or the salary earner, a weakness, yes, even a vice. The contrary of the vice of gambling is the virtue of thrift, and the system of life insurance has given the thrifty man his opportunity."

Life insurance is a supreme benefit to the capitalist, the manufacturer, and the man of fixed income; but it is absolutely essential to the salaried man. It is the only means that can be employed by which most salaried men can hope to leave an estate.

Many alluring investments tempt us to "get rich quick," but life insurance—especially Mutual Endowment Insurance, which combines savings, investments and protection—is sure and safe.

LALONDE AND GLEGHORN GET OFFERS ON COAST

Two members of the Canadien hockey team, "Newsy" Lalonde and Odie Gleghorn, are wanted for Cost sports this summer. Lalonde's services would be acceptable to Con. Jones, Vancouver lacrosse magnate, while Northwestern International Baseball League magnates are after Gleghorn.

While it is possible that both Lalonde and Gleghorn will be seen here in their favorite pastimes before next fall, neither intends to stay on the Coast for the present, and both will leave for MoMntreal. They had intended to leave earlier, but stayet over with Bert Conture and Berlanquette for the funeral of Joe Hall, which was held here.

A Forgotten Dream

By Mr. Thos. Rich.

The following address was recently given by Mr. Thomas Rich in Bethel Hall:

The book of Daniel, though one of the most interesting books of the Bible is, comparatively little read, and even in all probability less understood; that is as far as knowing the intent of the whole. Few have seen that therein lies the purposes of God regarding this present age.

Seeking the Divine wisdom and the opened understanding without which we shall have failed to grasp the true meaning of vision before us in chapter 2. Let us to-night meditate together on that remarkable dream that was given to Nebuchadnezzar, the ruler of Babylon.

We are all, perhaps, more or less familiar with the fact, that although the dream was of such a vivid nature, and so full of special import, that it had caused the monarch a sleepless night, when morning dawned it had as completely faded from his mind as does the dew before the rising sun. The magicians, and the astrologers failing to bring back to the mind of the kinfg, the prophet Daniel was called in and he it was that gave the king the description of the image that we find in this 2nd chapter.

We find therefore that the head of the image was of gold, the breast and arms of silver, his belly and the thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet of iron and part of clay, truly a terrifying apirition.

You will notice, that from the heard down, as the metals increased in strength, they decreased in quality or value. The image sets forth the outward appearance and splendour of the successive empires which in the purposes of God have been entrusted with world power, and whose course of rule is described in the gospel of Luke, chapter 21: 24, as the times of the Gentiles. That which the head of gold represented has long since passed off the scene, viz. the Babylonian empire.

The kingdom which followed, that of the Medes and Persians, set forth as the breasts of silver, has also ceased to have an existence. This is clear in Chapter 5.

In chapter 9 under the figure of a rough goat, trampling to pieces the ram with the two horns (the Medes and Persians) is seen that which in the image is described as the belly of brass, viz. the Grecian Empire under Alexander.

Turning to the seventh chapter we see in a vision of the four beasts, that which the iron of the image symbolizes the great Roman power that so long dominated this old world.

The vision of the beasts covers the same historic order as the monarchy vision of the image, only with this difference, that wherein the splendor and glory of all that merely outward, is that which is seen in the image. In the beasts we get the true character of the various world governments that go to make up the times of the Gentiles, as rapacious and warlike, established and maintained by force.

In passing, may I say, that it is remarkable the heraldic insignia of the Gentile nations are beasts or birds of prey. In point of time, where are we to-day? Not in the head of gold, neither in the breasts of silver or belly of brass, neither are we in the iron period, surely we find it easy to see that we are near that point of the purposes of God where the Toes of the iron and clay are seen.

There is, of course, no doubt that the fullest interpretations of the ten toes is yet of a time in the future, when ten rulers or powers will be the dominating factors of this world, but in the meanwhile we see the old adage verified as we read our news day by day, that coming events cast their shadows before them. Is it not interesting, with this thought in view to note that the controlling force in the proposed League of Nations is, numerically ten? And even as the toes of the image were composed of part iron and part clay, which might mingle, but never weld. So we see that the autocratic iron convenes an international conference. The democratic clay, instead of blending for the weal of mankind, mingles an international Convention to look after its own class interests.

Causes for or against, is not our province or intention, we merely point out in passing the two forces, not always friendly, that are clearly visible and which find their type in the iron and clay of the image.

The true child of God will in all this easily see that the signs of the times are clearly indicating that the hands of the Divine clock are passing rapidly towards the close of the present period of Grace. The stone cut out of the mountain is almost due to appear (The Lord Jesus Christ) and after taking away his own, smash the image or that which sets forth, to pieces, and to Himself set up a World Power, which shall know no end. The born again one crys: "Even so come Lord Jesus."

May I ask my hearers a question. When these things have their fulfilment will you be amongst those like Lot of old who was taken out of the cities ere the judgment fell, or among those who will be smashed to pieces when the stone cut out of the mountain falls upon the image? For the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure. Daniel 2; 45.

Kidnapped Bride On Wedding Night

A telephone message from Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, at four o'clock in the morning made Allen Rothstein, of No. 193 Eighty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, one of the happiest men in the world. Two minutes before had been one of the angriest men Bensonhurst had ever seen in the culmination of a rage which had been gathering force and intensity for five long hours.

The telephone message advised him that his bride of about six hours who had been "kidnapped" just as the happy couple were about to start on their honeymoon, was safe and would be given into his care—maybe—if he would come to the hotel with the least possible delay. The message was from one of the "kidnappers."

Two minutes later; in a swift automobile, Rothstein, and some of his friends who had remained with him during the horrors of the night, were burning up the roads between Bensonhurst and New York. So happy was Rothstein when his bride once more was in his possession that he readily forgave the friends who for a few frightful hours had been the objects of his most violent hatred and together they sat down to a wedding "breakfast" just as the dawn was breaking.

The wedding took place Monday evening in the People's Temple at Bensonhurst, when Rothstein took for his wife Miss Gretchen Muehenthal. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry K. Jacobs.

It was one of the events of the season in Bensonhurst, and several hundred friends of the bride and groom joined in the merriment which followed in the basement of the temple. About eleven o'clock Rothstein and his bride slipped away to where a large limousine was in waiting.

All unknown to them some of their friends had divined their plans, and when Mrs. Rothstein was about to enter the automobile several strong arms seized her, drew her inside and then slammed the door before her astonished and protesting husband could interfere. In the meantime a quick signal sent the automobile on its way at top speed and by the time Rothsteoin and Policeman Weiss, who had heard the shouts, could commandeer a passing automobile, the limousine was out of sight.

Rothstein was frantic. He swore to have the blood of the "kidnappers." As the night progressed and there came no word of the missing one, Rothstein's anger increased. But with the magic word over the wire at four o'clock, the future cleared for him and by the time the ride to the city was completed and his wife restored to him he was willing to forgive, though he probably never will forget that wedding.

England To Deport Dangerous Aliens

Government Will Adopt Policy Pursued in United States.

England is about to adopt the American attitude toward undesirable aliens. The recent action in America reports of which have spread widely over England, has received unqualified approval from members of every branch of the British Government. Bolshevists, I.W.W., anarchists and agitators of every description are not wanted in England any more than they are wanted in the nited States.

The British Government intends following a strong policy to clear the country of undesirable aliens, but the question depends largely on the means of transportation. At present there is no Russian port available, but as soon as conditions make it possible the undesirables will be returned to "country or origin."

A high authority in England has made af lat statement that there is not an undesirable alien in this country who will be here at the end of the year. The Government intends to fulfil in every way the pledges that have been made.

War Expenditure Resolution Passes House of Commons

OTTAWA, April 11—Sir Thomas White in the House of Commons this afternoon explained and defended the policy of the government in respect to establishing dollar credits in Canada for Great Britain, France, Belgium, Greece and Rumania. He said the times were abnormal and that we could not expect to sell our agricultural products and our manufacturers in Europe unless we were prepared to finance our customers. Credits are, therefore, being extended to the governments of the countries already named. This would assure our farmers, dairymen, lumbermen and manufacturers a good market abroad and prevent unemployment and stagnation. During the war we had established credits in Canada for the Imperial Government which brought to this country a record-breaking era of prosperity. For the fiscal year which closed on March 31, 1919, British purchases in Canada had aggregated four hundred and seventy-four million dollars.

The statement of the acting premier was made in support of his resolution appropriating three hundred and fifty million dollars for military, naval and other purposes and the bill to be founded upon this resolution will authorize the government at its discretion to establish credits in Canada for European countries desirious of purchasing Canadian products. One-fifth will be expended for agricultural products, one-fifth for raw materials and three-fifths for manufactured goods. The outlay will run into many millions and another Victory Loan may be floated in the near future.

This Car Warrants Its Price

GRAY DORT

There are many reasons for the price of a motor car. The car may be built down to a selling price. The price may be forced up to a profit mark. There may be weight, size, speed, that you do not need.

But the Gray Dort price is the lowest price at which a big, efficient organization can build a fine light car.

The Gray Dort is built right first. It is built with real big car quality and comfort and appearance. It is built to give you all the service you need, free from trouble. Then by factory efficiency the price is kept low.

So when you buy a Gray Dort you are putting every dollar into real motor car value. Ride in a Gray Dort—then you will see how greatly cheaper cars fall short of it—and how light cars higher-priced give you no more or not as much.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f. o. b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

BRANDRAM'S WARRANTED GENUINE BB WHITE LEAD IMPERIAL

The Outstanding Product of a Large Manufacturing House

FOUR large factories and five distributing warehouses stand back of Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead.

Every step in its manufacture is closely watched by chemical engineers—nothing is left undone which would help to maintain the quality of the world's finest white lead.

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead

is different from any other white lead. To begin with, it is corroded by several secret processes which are then merged into a pigment of marvellous smoothness. This pigment is ground no less than five times, first under huge stones, and finally between heavy steel rolls. In this grinding process, it is made into a pulp by being mixed with pure refined linseed oil made in our own linseed oil mills.

Whenever you paint, use Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead if you mix your own paint. If you want to save the labor of mixing you can ensure the use of this quality pigment only by getting B-H "English" Paint.

School Home Work To Be Kept Down

Speaking in the Legislature Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, said:

While relieving the course in the elementary schools there would be nothing to prevent advanced work being taken up in the advanced schools. Thus there would be more time for an adequate grounding in reading, writing, spelling, ciphering, geography, history and those optional subjects sometimes referred to as fads—household science and domestic science—which link up the theoretical education with later life. He hoped that the teachers would be provided with better manuals in spelling, as well as in the other courses.

Discussing the matter of home work, Dr. Cody said he didn't think it could be done away with throughout the whole system. Everybody should seek as far as possible to keep it down. By the changes referred to above he hoped the department would be able to relieve the situation to some extent.

Dr. Cody next turned his attention to examination. It was possible, he said, for a boy or girl to go right through the public and high schools without having to write upon a single examination prescribed by the department. The only examination prescribed in the high schools was that for those qualifying themselves to be teachers.

The department did not prescribe all the promotion examinations in the schools. "We don't even encourage them," he said. Examinations remained as a sort of necessary evil. As far as possible they would be removed. While he did not profess to know how far education could be taught in the schools, he knew it could be caught from a teacher. The department was not losing sight of the patriotic ideals that should be kept before the boys and girls. A book of the best war poems would be issued shortly that could be of practical use in the schools.

Must Revise Text-Books

Many contracts for text-books had run out. The time had come for the revision of many of the books, and the matter was being actively taken into consideration at the present time. He then turned his attention to some of the criticism voiced recently of the high cost of text books. Dr. Cody declared that in the high schools and collegiates in 1898 there were 22 books, the total cost of which was $15.60. In 1918 the number of books was 24 and the total cost $11.43. In the public schools in 1898 12 books were used at a cost of $3.27, and in 1918 15 books were used at a cost of $2.77. However, in view of the higher cost of production he would not promise the prices would not be higher in future. The reason for the discrepancies in figures which he presented and those presented by critics was that he dealt only with those authorized books, and not with those recommended for school libraries or for use by the teachers.

Referring to the subject of industrial and technical education the Minister said that plans must be made for specialized secondary and agricultural schools and specialized commercial and technical schools. Several cities had built schools after conferring with the department. The latter did not regulate these schools at all. In future it would be the Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Governments that would assist financially in the building of such institutions. The matter of the school age was also bound up with that subject.

Dr. Cody explained the proposal to increase rural teachers salaries. He did not claim that the consolidated schools would correct all the ills in the rural school system. It was the intention to introduce an amendment shortly to provide for peripatetic teachers for the sparsely settled rural districts.

British Old Maids Number 1,500,000

Lady Mackenzie Wants to Send Surplus to Overseas Dominions.

One and a half million British women will never have a chance of getting married. "What is the Government going to do about it?" demands Lady Muir Mackenie, the well known social worker of London, England. "What is going to happen to this great tragic army of unmarried women?"

"Instead of paying out of work donations would it not be better to give them a free passage overseas? I would add a dowry of $500 when they got married. Transport, no doubt, is a difficulty at the moment, but it will soon be overcome.

"The British overseas Dominions are hungry for women. Let them go—and get married. In any case, they would have more scope than at home. Seven thousand telegraph girls are to be demobilized within the next two years. They are between the ages of 15 and 18 years —quit young enough to be acclimatized in life and work overseas. An organization could very well look after them until they did marry.

"The Government might start industries to be run by women only. When I was in Canada they told me that if women would condescend to grow berries in British Columbia and make them into jam for the mining camps they would do well. No doubt they would marry the miners.

"To the Great unmarried I would say: Go where you are wanted. Marriage is the ideal for women. It may not be possible now for them all, but there is no getting away from the fact that unmarried women have only seen one side of life. They are likely to become abnormal and it is noticeable that they take extreme views. It was obvious in the suffrage movement.

TAX ON THE BACHELOR

"With unmarried men it is even more the case. I cannot think of anything more 'of the line' than an old bachelor. And if there are so many women without husbands it is time to rouse the bachelors. Their numbers in England are extraordinary.

"They must be taxed.

"The money derived should go to keeping unwanted children, and the unmarried 'mothers' should look after them.

"There are women who 'have the feeling' of a mother, although that joy has never been theirs. In order to satisfy this mother love women must be allowed to have children or they must be given the care of other people's children. To make the first possible the stigma must be removed from illegitimacy: the second is in the hands of the local authorities.

"In other localities are mothers who 'have so many children they do not know what to do? Why cannot the municipality provide deputy mothers?

"The right woman would be found among the great unmarried. They would delight in taking the mother's place while she had 'two hours off.' It would be a joy to them to take the baby out or teach the toddlers their letters. Incidentally the mother would learn new and better ways from her deputy.

"This might very well be a scheme for a Health Ministry. Neither mother nor children have a chance of proper health and care under present conditions. It would be good, of course, for the mother to pay a few pence to the municipality for the use of a deputy. An extension in the training of mothercrafts, already given at girls' public schools, would fit the deputy for her work.

O;U; Fickle Woman Opposes Matron Bill

And This Movie Provision is for the Benefit of Mothers.

When, Hon. T. W. McGarry last week introduced in the legislature his bill for the appointment of a matron in theatres, he was actuated by a desire to relieve the mothers of Ontario of the worries which assail them when their children attend "movie" shows unattended. And behold, the most strenuous opposition which has developed to the bill comes from mothers. "Women are all fickle," says the Provincial Treasurer, or if he doesn't say it, he thinks it.

Mr. McGarry's bill provides that a matron be appointed to supervise the conduct of children and of adults towards children, in theatres on Saturday's and legal holidays, which are the only occasions on which children are admitted unaccompanied. Anyone who has approached the lobby of a theatre and has been assailed by a half-dozen juveniles pleading "Please buy my ticket, Mister," will appreciate the benefits of such a bill. Children may now attend the theatres unaccompanied and their conduct will be supervised by a specially appointed matron. A theatre which still insists that children be accompanied by a parent or guardian is not obliged to appoint a matron.

Officials of the Treasury Department do not consider that the Act imposes any hardship on even the smallest theatres, whose audiences are often composed largely of children. It is pointed out that the services of the matron are required only once a week, on Saturdays, and on a few legal holidays of the year.

"Surely every theatre manager has a wife or sister who can discharge the duties, if he does not wish to employ a woman specially," J. T. White, solicitor of the treasurer, observed.

AS TO THE TOP HAT

WM. BANKS, JR., IN TORONTO GLOBE

In one of his delightful essays, written before the war was transferred to the Peace Conference, "Alpha of the Plough," notes with moderated rejoicing that the top hat has gone out of favor in England and hopes its disappearance is permanent, though as to this he has some misgivings. It is, he thinks, so ungainly and awkward a headpiece that the men who have learned, through the bitter experiences of campaigning to seek utility and comfort in dress, will never take kindly to it again. Perhaps.

So late as December last, cities in England were noticeably free of top hatters; at least one Canadian trought so. But in February there seemed to be signs of a distinct revival. It is possible that this impression was due to a spell of clear weather, with the result that one's vision was not impaired for more than twelve hours out of the twenty-four in the day, by steady rains or clammy fogs, thus enabling a closer study of the fashions in headgear.

Time was in England when the top hat was the ensigna of social position. A man who earned thirty shilling a week or more had a top hat, because he might happen to belong to fraternal society where the elonated shiner is part of the regalia on certain days, but because his status in life called for one, and required that it should be his personal property and not a family treasure, to be borrowed from Dad or Grand-dad on gala occasions. Of recent years there has been a change in respect to store than the "topper." The "which way are you going" hat, so dear to the heast of have flown the British Isles, where the men are generally well and sensibly hatted. One can see as many freak head coverings in Toronto in a week as he would in a similar period in London.

It was not until I had seen the lads of Eton College wending their way along the roads to Windsor, and had shamelessly followed groups of them into some of the tuck shops that nestle in the very shadow of the castle walls, that I began to realize the possibilities of the top hat. It was obviously as sacred an obligation as the wearing of the Eton collar, the deliciously absurd Eton jacket, and the wondrously-made rabbit skin gloves, which are large enough to come well over the sleeve cuffs if the wearer desires. It was a Saturday, and showry, but very few of the lads wore overcoats or carried umbrellas. No professional juggler could have handled hats more skillfully than the lads did when they removed them to greet their mothers or sisters, who had come to town in large contingents to spend the afternoon with their hopefuls. Flourishes, curves, salutes from every angle, featured the acts of courtesy. The return of the hats to the heads of their owners was carried out with careless abandon, but somehow the hats found the heads every time. The larboard knob at the back of the head was a favorite resting spot for their hats, the ear on the starboard running a close second, while the eyebrows seemed to be another popular place of support.

In the shops if one of the boys sat down to devour his purchases or the treat his relatives paid for, his hat came off. If he stood it stayed on. The amount of confections that an Eton boy can get away with in a few minutes, sitting or standing is enough to make the patrons of quick lunch counters on this side of the Atlantic envious. Moreover, as a carrier, the top hat seemed to be as useful to these lads as his cap is to the salior or soldier. A youth who might have been fourteen years of age furnished a striking illustration of this. He put a bag containing half a dozen sponge cakes in his hat and skillfully blocaded them against chance of casual disaster by the judicious use of a newspaper. He placed his hat on his head with more care than he had displayed in jabbing it on a hatrack some minutes prior to sitting, with another lad, at a table near me, from which they did not rise until they had disposed of two dozen assorted tarts and cakes, a small jar of marmalade each, and in addition had drained to the dregs two pots of tea. It was with difficulty that I refrained from asking the lad who put the cakes in his hat whether he was taking precautions against famine on the way back to college, or preparing for a treat on Sunday.

At the Canadian War Photographs Exhibition in London a few days later I was almost convinced that the top hat in all its silky glossiness was playing the role of a "well-known come-back." There entered a kindly-looking man with three children—two boys and a girl. All three males wore top hats, and the boys were so small that the stovepipes looked as though they might slip over their head and bury them. A stalwart Canadian Sergeant, who was picking out from some of the photograph scenes in which he had participated, stopped and stared at the little party and then appealed to me in a low tone. "What d'ye think of that?" I shook my head. "Well," said the Sergeant, "I've a couple of kiddies about that age at home, and if I ever thought I'd see them looking like that I'd—I'd start another war."

But best of all I like to think of the top hat I beheld one bright and therefore rare Sunday morning near the Old Kent road, to which neighborhood I had gone for no other reason than a desire to see a district named in a song Chevalier used to sing. I was looking at one of the smallest and by long odds the prettiest donkeys I had ever seen, when the hat was thrust upon my attention. It was of extraordinary circumference; its glossiness was beyond compare and it was worn by a coster of the type one reads about and so often fails to see. Velveteens, pearl buttons and a whimsical smile, they were all there, with a service badge to boot. He made his appearance from a nearby lane and greeted me affably, "A bit of all right that moke, ain't 'e?"

"A dandy," I answered.

"Yank," eh!"

"Canadian," I replied, somewhat stiffly.

"Beg pardon, guv'nor; no hoffense meant. Fought alongside some o' your lads in the grand finally and Hi arsks none better. 'Ow d'ye like me 'at?" That with an expansive grin.

"It's big enough, anyway," said I.

"Soovenir from the Rhino," said he. "Fact"—when I looked my surprise; "got it off'n a young blighter in one o' them clean Germ'n towns wot ought to 'ave been messed abaut a bit to make the 'Un 'umble. Give 'im some fags for it. Just when we closes the bargain a fat old man comes along and seys the 'eadpiece is 'ism, 'im and the young feller 'as a lively hargiment, wiv me wishin' there wos n't no harmistice and the three of us wos out in the open. At larst the old feller bursts into tears and near drowns 'isself to sye nothink 'o me, but Hi brings the 'at 'ome. Hi 'as to stuff the hinnards proper to myke it fit me, and abart the only time Hi wears it is when me and the missus 'as a tiff. Myebe it don't myke 'er mad: not 'arf it don't. One 'o these dyes, she'll plye she's a Germ'n and that 'at will get such a dose 'o kulchoor that even the old gaffer wot 'owled abart it wouldn't know it. S'long guv-nor. Get hup Fosh!"

I wonder it he was "having me," as the Englishman says.

YOUNG GIRL TWICE SENTENCED TO DIE

M. Clemenceau was anxious to recompense with his own hands the heroism of a young French girl, and in his Cabinet the other day, in the presence of his principal collaborators, he handed to Mlle. Louise Thuliez, who was surounded by the members of her family, the Cross of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with palms.

Twice Mlle. Thuliez during the occupation of Valenciennes was sentenced to death by German court-martials. On the first occasion, at the same time as Miss Edith Cavell met her fate, she was accused of having, while at Brussels, helped Entente soldiers to escape and of having acted as a spy for the benefit of France.

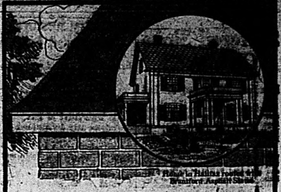
Intervention by the Spannish Embassy procured from the German Emperor the commutation of the sentence to one of penal servitude for life, but a fortnight later she was accused before another court-martial of having, after the capitulation of Maubeuge and the battle of Charlerai collected together French soldiers who had remained in the forest of Norval. The death penalty was again pronounced and was once more commuted. Mlle. Thuliez, for having shown too great a devotion for France, served nearly three years of hard labor.

This was the story that M. Clemenceau recalled when pinning the reward of the brave.

HONEYMOON IN AN AEROPLANE

A novel honeymoon has been planned by a young Toronto officer of the old Royal Flying Corps and his bride-to-be, who have arranged to take their wedding trip in an airplane. Following the marriage, the birdman and his bride will leave Leaside aviation field in a three-seater plane of the sort used by the R.A.F., suitably decorated and carrying a banner announcing that the occupants are on their honeymoon from Toronto.

A camping outfit will be carried. The exact route has not yet been determined, but it is expected that the trip will extend through the Unitd States and Canada, going west to Vancouver, and then south touching at Los Angeles, and afterwards across the continent to Florida, stopping at New Orleans.



House in Halifax roofed with Brantford Asphalt Slates.

A handsome roof that defies the weather

An added touch of beauty to any house is a roof of Brantford Asphalt Slates, which are in soft, harmonious shades of reddish brown and dark green. The colors are permanent and unfadeable, being the natural shades of the slate just as it is taken out of the quarries.

It will also prove a very economical roof, because Brantford Asphalt Slates do not split, get loose, absorb water or rot. They are strongly fire-resistant and are classified as non-combustible by the fire insurance companies, and allowed to be used in cities where the most rigid fire-prevention By-laws are in force.

Brantford Asphalt Slates are very moderate in cost. The regular size of the slates and their pliability make them easily and quickly laid, thus saving time and cost of labor. Being made of high grade felt saturated and coated with asphalt, and with a surface of crushed slate, they make a roof that defies the elements and is a permanent part of the building, just like the walls and the foundation.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are being used more extensively every year for city, country and summer homes, churches, golf clubs, stores, garages, and wherever an artistic effect is desired on a pitch roof.

If you are going to do any building this year or have an old roof that needs replacing, it will be to your advantage to investigate Brantford Asphalt Slates.

Suffered Since Childhood

Kidneys at the Root of the Evil

"Think of it! The joys of youth marred by agonizing pains, and all hopes of a bright future blotted out by thoughts of a life burdened with Backache and other sufferings.

Such was the case of Mr. A. Cail until a good friend advised him that there was a remedy for his trouble and he would find it if he used Gin Pills. Read what Mr. Cail says:

"I was troubled with my Kidneys since childhood and spent a large amount of money on doctors trying to get cured. Instead of getting better I kept getting worse until a friend of mine advised me to try Gin Pills. I did so, and after taking one box I was able to get out of bed and walk around. Two more boxes relieved me completely and since then I have had no return of the trouble."

This remarkable testimonial was written by a man whose statement cannot be doubted. Mr. Cail's reason for writing this history of his case was—gratitude for the relief that Gin Pills brought him. Wouldn't you do the same if your case was similar? If you suffer now—don't suffer any longer. Use Gin Pills and obtain relief from Kidney or Bladder Trouble, and the pain, suffering and inconvenience that they cause.

Dentistry Restores Shattered Features

Eyes, Noses, Ears, Larynxes, Lost in War, Replaced by Science.

The wonderful strides made by dental surgeons during the war in the are of replacement of shattered facial features were demonstrated to the members of the profession by Dr. George Vallain of the College of Dentistry of Paris, France, who is making a flying tour of the dental colleges of America under the auspices of the American Institute of Dental Teachers.

The replacements and configuration of distorted facial features so as to rerive proper functioning where last, resolves itself into a branch of surgery that comes peculiarly within the scope of dental surgery by reason of the high development of mechanical tecnique that it requires. It thus fell to the lot of the dental corps of the allied armies to handle such cases, and in the four years of their experience hundreds of mechanical inventions coupled with rare surgical feats have resulted.

NEW EYES, NOSE, LARNYX

A singular instance of the extent of the work was seen in the model of an artificial larnyx. The wounded soldier for whom it was made had been so badly lacerated about the face that he lost his voice. He was "fixed up" with another larnyx and now talks as freely as he used to.

In the development of the work artificial noses have been so perfected that it moves like a real one, even when the wearer smiles. Artificial eyes have been improved remarkably. When only the eye is to be replaced a muscle connection is made so that the eye moves like a real one with every movement of the eye muscles, thus liminating the stare that formerly characterized artificial eyes.

EVEN EARS, TONGUES EYELASH

In making artificial ears and noses great strides have been made in the matter of coloring. Ears that can scarcely be distinguished from real ones are now being put out with comparative simplicity. They are made of a substance like cartilage, but are rather soft and easily soiled. Thus it becomes necessary to change them often, and to meet this condition the wearer of an artificial ear is provided with mould and material with which he can readily make a new and clean ear every day if he desires it. They are easily cast and kept in place by means of an adhesive paste.

Among the exhibits shown by Dr. Villain was an artificial tongue attached to a lower plate of artificial teeth. "It's about as good as the real thing and helps mastication just the same," explained the French professor.

Illustrating the minute details into which the work had been carried, the construction of artificial eyelashes was expxlained. They are made to taper off at the ends like real ones, and are placed into position one by one, and made to match the other side, if it is in its natural state, hair for hair.

Most of the surgical operations and replacements are made around broken jaws, and hundreds of soldiers have been supplied with steel hinges to enable them to chew.

"As the soldiers return to this country," said Dr. Webster, dean of the Dental College, "they will be taken care of here, when necessary by local members of the profession." Major W. E. Cummer of the faculty staff of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Col. Guy Hume, formerly in command of the dental clinic in Orpington Hospital and Lieut.-Col. Geo. Gow, who returned from Basingstoke about two weeks ago, are outsanding among the Toronto men who have had considerable experience in this novel and important work.

OLD BOOTS GIVEN AWAY CONTAINED SMALL FORTUNE

There is a lucky beggar and fortunate collector of old boots in Montreal, and an unfortunate commercial collector who earns his living by his occupation. The lucky beggar not only got food enough to eat when he called at a house on Rachel St., east, at 4.30 one afternoon recently but got a Cinderella slipper in the shape of a pair of old shoes which a woman brought from a cupboard and passed over to the beggar. Alladin and his wonderful lamp never brought forth more mystical happenings than one of the shoes. It contained $1,800 in checks and $200 in cash, and had been collected by the husband of the woman as a safe place to put it all.

Asking for something to eat a tramp who spoke to Mrs. L. P. Carigan at her home 1012 Rachel Street, east was served with food. His request for an old pair of shoes seemed reasonable as his footwear bore evidence of long service. In a cupboard she found a discarded pair which she had often thought of throwing away. She pick- them up, gave them to the beggar and thought no more of the affair until her husband prepared to clean up the back yard. He went for the castoffs and during his search the wife told him what she had done with them.

Of the $2,000 gone there are $200 in bills and silver, according to the report made to detective headquarters by Mr. Carigan, whose wife had given a description of her caller.

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night For A Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means clogged bowels, fermentation, putrefaction and the formation of poisonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body.

The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, bilious attacks, loss of energy, nervousness, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious illness.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—salts, oils, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs.

Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. Relief will follow the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the fullest benefit. When you get straightened out and feel just right again you need not take medicine every day—an occasional NR Tablet will then keep your system in good condition and you will always feel your best. Remember, keeping well is easier and cheaper than getting well.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) are sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

CONTRIBUTED

Considering the W.C.T.U. as a factor in re-construction we conclude that our plan of work has ever been reconstructive and the thing now definitely needed by our organization is not so much a new ideal or a greatly reconstructed plan as a re-conseration to original principles and aims.

Womans greatest kingdom is the home. Our boys are coming home after passing tests and strain unthinkable. They may come home shattered and broken in body, spirit and nerve. Naturally our girls will have to help them back to normal life. They will need patience, sympathy, love, discernment and they deserve the best. These men have left the impetuosity of youth. They have faced the verities. They need a sure foundation, and our girls must help them find it.

Have the mothers done their part in teaching the girls that their bodies are the Temples of God— a sacred trust—a beautiful gift from Him. If they are going to share with our young men the building up of a Canada worthy of the blood shed to preserve it, they must build their homes on a sure foundation.

Are the girls thinking of the higher things of life? A returned soldier who sacrificed his health at the front said: "You see, most of the girls only talk of dancing and the movies and when a man has faced death and seen what I have seen he wants something better than that." Are the mothers helping the girls to give it?

Our W. C. T. U. aims and principles have always been the elevating and the protection of the home. What can be more patriotic to build high ideals, strong constitutions and the conservation of the life of our children?

Why Wine Is Excluded From Referendum

O. T. A. Does Not Prevent Purchase of Native Wines From the Manufacturers.

The ommission of wine in the referendum has caused some comment. The question of light wines and beers went together in the public mind. The reason that wine is not included in the questions to be submitted to public is that under the Ontario Temperance Act native wines can be sold by the manufacturers direct to the consumers without the intervention of a middle man and without the necessity of obtaining a doctor's prescrip- the enemy countries to e fguyllAmkt tion.

It is the Dominion order-in-council which after April 30th will prevent the sale and manufacture of native wines. Originally this order set the date for the cessation of manufacture as December 31st and subsequently extended it to the later date. It is plain therefore that if the time is extended by the Federal Government, which in some quarters is said to be likely, there will be no necessity to include this question in the referendum as under the O.T.A as it stands the public can obtain native wines at will.

Portland Robber Returned Goods

Thief Sent Back Suitcase of Valueless Papers Taken from Bank.

The robbery of the East Side Bank of Portland, Oregon, by Arthur C. Davis, a twenty-year-old bank clerk, about November 1, broke into the limelight again recently when H. H. Newhall, president of the bank, announced that Davis had returned all the negotiable papers he had taken when he stole $18,700 in Liberty bonds and cash.

The suitcase was shipped by express from Salt Lake City, Utah, affording the police the first clew to the whereabout of young Davis since he made his escape after looting the bank in broad daylight.

Newhall received a letter from Davis about ten days ago telling of the clerk's intention to send back all the papers which were of no value to him.

The letter was written on note paper of good quality and was encased in a dainty little envelope such as women use for personal correspondence.

Dear Mr. Newhall," the note read, "I am returning to you by express all the papers taken from your bank excepting such as are negotiable. A. Davis."

The suitcase arrived in due time, billed to R. Usher, another clerk at the bank. Usher and two private detectives went to the express office for it. The suitcase contained about 20 pounds of mortgages, notes and deeds all recorded in the county records and of no use to anyone but the proper owners. The package was taken to the bank and opened. The shipping receipt purported to have been written by Willis Ireland, cashier of the bank. Ireland has been in Portland ever since the robbery so the writing was a plain forgery.

Pinkerton detectives took up the new clew immediately.

The Davis theft is one of the most sensational in Portland police annals. He visited the bank after daylight in the morning, filled an automobile with liberty bonds, sacks of gold and silver and currency and drove to his home where he left $1,500 with his wife and then disapppeared. He is a son of the Rev. C. Howard Davis, of Portland.

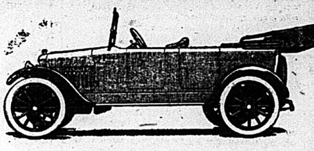
ATE SAME MEALS AS THE PEASANTS

The circumstances under which the former King Ludwig of Bavaria came to take up his residence with the Prince of Liechtenstein, in the little principality of that name on the Swiss Tyrolean border, have recently come to light. It appears that after the second Bavarian revolution at the end of February the aged King, with only two attendants, went to a health resort at Kufstein, in the Austrian Tyrol, but that he was recognied there and became the object of Spartacan demonstrations, so that he retired to the remote Otz Valley in the Alps, where he lived in a simple village inn taking the same meals as the peasants, with no luxuries whatever.

The Prince of Liechtstein later invited the former Bavarian ruler to come to live in Vaduz Castle, in the principality, and the invitation was accepted.

Those who have seen the ex-King in recent months say that he has often remarked: "In my old age I have no place to lay my head."



Maxwell
—a car of rare charm and—able

YOUR first impression of this present day Maxwell as it passes you on the street is one of decided beauty.

Your first ride in it, whether at the wheel or in the tonneau, tells you of its rare charm.

But after six months you find a new admiration for the Maxwell. You find it shuns the repair shop, that it runs and runs and runs and never stops running.

Then after a year is past you develop an enthusiasm for it that dictionary words don't seem to fully describe.

And then after you have had it for more than the average life of a motor car and you find it far better than even the Maxwell salesman said it was you search for the reason.

This is what you find:

For 5 years Maxwell cars have been built on the single chassis plan. To date 300,000 have been turned out on this plan. Each car better than the other. Each one better looking than the other.

There have been more than 1000 refinements in the Maxwell, but never once have the Maxwell executives swerved from the original program.

You conclude that reliability was designed "into" the car and built "into" it, and that a policy of 300,000-all-alike is the soundest kind of reason for writing your check for a present day Maxwell.

Inferior Whiskey Sold By Vendor

"Cheap" Seized Stuff Was Re-Bottled and Retailed for Medicinal Purposes.

TORONTO, April 14—Inferior whiskey of local bottling, seized by license officers of the Government and sold to T. Ambrose Woods, the Government vendor, at a reduced rate because of the poor quality has been gettink back to the general public for medicinal use. Just what happened to it between the time it went into stack in the Woods establishment and the time it went over the counter again is not yet clear, but the inference drawn by Hartley Dewart, K.C., during the examination of Frederick Woods, manager of the firm, in the Public Accounts enquiry yesterday indicate that interesting evidence upon the point is to come out.

Three-Year Term For Constable

Pilfered the Cars He was Employed to Protect at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA, FALLS, April 14—Freman C. Evans, special constable for the Grand Trunk here for the past two years, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary on a charge of pilfering cars. It was his duty to see that they were not pilfered by other thieves. A cache of about $1,500 worth of goods stolen by Evans was found hidden in the railway cattle sheds. Evidence developed the fact that Evans was foun 9ewt taoinn n that Evans engaged an auto at Thorold to come and get the goods he had piled up at a convenient spot. On the night of Sunday, March 30, the car ran out of gasoline, and the driver could not get anywhere at that hour, so could not get were the goods were and the plans were spoiled. In desperation, Evans had the driver go to Henry's garage here, and when told by a youth in charge of the gasoline that the tank was locked and he had no key, Evans flashed his constable's badge and searched him for it. Then to try and save himself, Evans at five o'clock Monday morning woke up the youth employed as manifest clerk in the G.T.R. freight office and got him to help carry the goods to the cattle pens. It took the two of them two hours, and G. T. R. men going to work at seven saw them.

Evans told the manifest clerk not to mention it, as it might spoil his chances of catching the thieves who did the job.

BOLSHIES AIMING AT THE CRIMEA

LONDON, April 14.—The Bolshevik armies which captured Odessa are now trying to penetrate the Crimea. They have already come into contact with the Franco-Greek troops, who, according to Bolshevik reports, were driven back. The Bolsheviki captured Porekop, one hundred miles north of Sebastopol. It is officially announced from Omsk that two Bolshevik regiments were completely defeated at Sarapul, nine hundred being killed.

"RAFFLES" LEFT A NOTE OF THANKS

LONDON, Ont., April 14—Among the gang of skilled burglars who made a daring clean-out of three down-town stores was evidently a humorist. At the establishment of the Western Electric the procedure of breaking open the cash register had been duly performed, but it contained merely three dollars and fifty cents in small change.

The cracksman evidently recognized that the risk he ran was scarcely worth the booty here obtained. Accordingly he must have carefully counted out the small change, and decided to leave a memento of his disappointment. The empty cash registed, when examined after the discovery of the burglaries, was found to contain a carefully-wordered receipt for the $3.50 with the satirical postscript, "With Thanks."

At least he was a gentlemanly burglar.

COPENHAGEN, April 14—Ukrainian forces heavily bombarded Lemberg on Thursday and Friday, many persons being killed and wounded.

An unexpected meeting of Council of Four was called last evening at Paris.

Great Britain Has Old Age Pensions Is Greatest Political Democracy

Dr. Theodore Marbury, author, economist, man of public affairs, and a personal friend of President Wilson's in addressing the Toronto Empire Club said:

"Great Britain is the greatest political Demoncracy in the world today.

"Some of our illustrious statesmen,' he said, "among them Wm. Jennings Bryan, have objected to this League of Nations, because, they say, it will bring us into intimate personal relations with the monarchical countries of the old world, including Great Britain, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries. I've had occasion to live in England for many years of my life—pleasant years I may say—and I feel this to be the case: In social democracy, the power of the people to express their opinon in law, then Britain is the greatest country in the world today. Britain has old age and disability pensions. We have not. I know that the American people want them. That's one of the great reasons why I say that Great Britain is the first political democracy in the world today."

"This League of the Nations is not Magna Charta, but the magnisaima Charta of human liberties. I remember my talking to Viscount Grey in the summer of 1914 of this plan. Lord Bryce had asked me to sound the Foreign Secretary to see what his opinions were. "If you had such a plan in operation when this war broke out," he said to me, 'Germany would have been forced to have talked things over, and could never have plunged the world into the abyss." The great principle of the league is that there shall be inquiry before the nations are allowed to fight. That is the liberty which we say must be taken away from the nations ,the license to go to war at will."

"We entered the war. We were inevitably drawn into it—too late, too late for our own good and the good of the world. Whether we were free men or slaves of circumstances is not the question now. Having once entered it, are we not justified in taking a part in the settlement of the affair. I fail to see how you can deny the logic of that conclusion.

'We are going to keep Germany disarmed, but we must allow her to enter into the league. I hope we are going to deal with her in the spirit that animates the civil law; it is the spirit of prevention, and not of revenge."

New Enterprises In The Yukon

Dredging to be Started Along Famous Forty-Mile River.

DAWSON, Y-T., April 14—Confidence in Yukon resources is exemplified by two new post-war enterprises announced this week just consummated. One is the Forty Miles Power and Dredging Company, backed by New York capitalists. The company has acquired ninety-six miles of river claims and hydraulic benches along the famous Forty Mile River, near Dawson. This company is capitalized at $5,000,000. An expert left here on Monday to examine the properties and determine the best equipment.

The second enterprise is headed by Lewis Titus, pioneer Yukon dregeman, and Archie McVicar, of Seattle, who have secured a dredge which he will take from the McQueston River this season to dredge the Highet Creek placers. All old-time dredge and hydraulic companies in the Klondike are preparing to start the season's operations next month. However, there is plenty of labor now available here.

TO RAISE SUNKEN STEAMER

KINGSTON, April 14—Capt. Wm. Leslie is ready to proceed with the salvage of the steamer Keysten, which was sunk off Scow Island, eight miles below Alexandria Bay, N.Y. His operations failed last season because of inability to obtain the required equipment at the time it was needed. He has now everything required to carry out his plans. By using steel cables instead of chains he expects to raise the vessel. He will leave for the scene within a few days. The Keystone contains $10,000 worth of soft coal.

OTTAWA WOMEN APPEAL FOR OLEO

OTTAWA, April 13—At a largely attended and representative meeting, held yesterday in the Council Chamber of the City Hall, of the women of Ottawa, it was unanimously decided to forward a resolution to the Dominion Government asking that the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine be permitted to continue in Canada. Mrs. Adam Shortt related the circumstances under which oleomargarine was first permitted to be sold and manufactured, and the great difficulties the people had in having the measure adopted.

NEUTRALS MAY MAKE A LOAN TO GERMANY

AMSTERDAM, April 14—The visit to Paris of the Dutch financiers Van Den Hoven and Ter Meulen, a local news agency says, has reference to the conclusion of a loan by neutral States to Germany of 200,000,000 pounds. The loan is to be made onder the supervision of the allies and is for the purpose of restoring the economic situation in continental Europe. Swiss and Scandinavian bankers, it is added, are participating in the negotiations.

Federal Prohibition May Be Relaxed

OTTAWA, April 14—Federal legislation on prohibition will be brought down in the House shortly after Easter. In the meantime the Government is considering the situation which has arisen in view of the heavy majority given in Quebec in favor of light beer and wines. How the legislation will meet the situation remains yet to be determined, but little doubt is generally felt that there will be some relaxation on the strict prohibition of manufacture and importation now in effect under Dominion order in Council. It is considered likely that the Federal will be made supplementary to the Provincial legislation. Where a Province may determine to permit the sale of light beer and wines within its own jurisdiction, importation and manufacture will, it is thought, be so far recognized. But where a Province wishes to remain absolutely "dry," the Federal bill will so supplement Provincial legislation in this regard as to make it fully effective.

CONSTITUTIONAL DIFFICULTY

As the case now stands, a curious constitutional difficulty arises. The Province of Quebec is permitting the sale of light beer and wines. But Dominion legislation by order in Council is in force which prohibits their importation and manufacture. Therefore, in spite of Provincial enactments sale in Quebec can continue only so far as existing stocks are concerned. Importation of liquors containing more than two and a half per cent. proof spirits has been prohibited since December 24, 1917. Manufacture has been prohibited in every Province since the end of the year. The provision of the order in council in this respect, reads:

"No person shall make or manufacture intoxicating liquor or cause intoxicating liquor to be made or manufactured within the Dominion of Canada after April 1; 1918; provided that in case the sale of intoxicating liquor of any class for beverage purposes is permitted in any Province, this regulation shall not apply to the manufacture of such intoxicating liquor in such Province until December 1, 1918." Permission to manufacture up to the end of last year applied in only two cases, manufacture of beer in Quebec and manufacture of native wine in Ontario. Since December 31 manufacture in both instances has been prohibited.

PROVIDE FOR NEW SITUATION

When the order in Council was passed prohibitory legislation had been enacted by every Provincial Legislature although in Quebec it was not to came into effect until May 1, 1919. And the order in Council expressly stipulates that its purpose is to make this legislation more effective by supplementing the Provincial laws. Hence there is little question that the Federal bill will make full provision for the new situation which has arisen.

The order in Council prohibiting importation and manufacture was passed under the War Measures Act, and, under its own provisions, is to remain in force till twelve months after the conclusion of the war. Expert legal opinion, however, holds that the order wil expire on the expiry of the War Measures Act, namely, on the proclamation of peace.

PRIVILEGE TO SOLDIERS

WINNIPEG, April 12—Disabled soldiers will now be able to enter the railway engineering shops as apprentices for a three year term at a special rate of pay—48 cents an hour on the basis of a 47-hour week—according to a decision reached by the Canadian division of the nternational Railwaymen's Union. A vote has been in progress for weeks on this question. Votes to the number of 35,000 were unanimously in favor of granting this privilege to the men disabled in the war. Officers in local unions will judge as to the ability of the soldier applicant to become a mechanic, the men to be recommended by the vocational authorities at Ottawa.

FOOD BOARD GONE CAN'T PROB BUTTER

TORONTO, April 14—Mayor Church has received the following reply from Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture, in answer to his query as to the reason for the high cost of butter.

"As announced in the newspapers some time ago, the Canada Food Board is practically disbanded, and, consequently, is no longer exercising any supervision or control over dealers.

"I am, however, transferring your letter to the Department of Labor, for the consideration of their Cost of Living Branch, and I am asking Senator Robertson to communicate with you upon the matter."

Fifty Billion Dollars Indemnity Payable In Fifty Years

GERMANY WILL HAVE FIFTY YEARS TO PAY FIFTY BILLION DOLLARS INDEMNITY SAID TO BE FIXED UPON BY COUNCIL OF FOUR — ENGLISH BY-ELECTION CAUSED CHANGE TO BE MADE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

PARIS, April 14.—As the result of the by-election at Hull Premier Lloyd George, according to the Echo de Paris, has persuaded the Council of Four to completely revamp the financial plan to be incorporated in the treaty of peace. Instead of the payment of five billion dollars on account and annual payments to be fixed by a commission, it has been decided to fix at once the amount which Germany will have to pay within fifty years. It is indicated by the newspaper that the figure of fifty billion dollars has been agreed upon, which includes all war damages as well as cost of pensions. The first installment of five billion dollars must be paid within eighteen months, the newspaper declares.

Trotsky Admits Defeat Calls For Stronger Efforts

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

LONDON, April 14.—Leon Trotzky admits defeat on the Eastern front, in a wireless message from Moscow picked up here. The message reads:

"All our efforts must now be directed to the Eastern front, which is the only front upon which we have suffered defeats. We must now send old and inexperienced troops to that quarter. It is absolutely necessary for us to capture Ekaterintburg and Ufa."

ATTEMPTS TO TAMPER WITH RAILWAY AND CUT TELEGRAPH COMMUNICATIONS LEADS TO PROMPT REPRISALS—GEN. ALLENBY, IN CHARGE, HAS SITUATION WELL IN HAND.

CAIRO, April 14.—In an official statement issued today General Allenby says that quiet has prevailed throughout Egypt since Friday. An attempt on Thursday to tamper with a railway resulted in five arrests, while attempts to interfere with telegraph communications resulted in the surrounding of the village of Beni Sembit, three days being allowed for the production of the guilty persons. On Friday two rioters were killed and wounded. Four officers and fifteen men have been killed through attacks on individuals.

High Cost Of War For Germany

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PARIS, April 14—Germany under the peace treaty must pay five billion dollars in cash or equivalent in commodities before May 1, 1921. She must also issue immediately to allied and associated governments twenty billion dollars of interest bearing bonds. Interest on bonds until 1926 will be either two or three per cent after that date five per cent, according to present plan. Bonds will be payable in instalments during a period of fifteen years. They will probably be kept in control of a central commission of allied and associated governments so that they shall not be marketed in quantities sufficient to break the price.

Play the Game and Play It Squarely

Christian Foundation Needed Big and Broad Enough For all to Stand On, Says Principal Dyde.

In the John Street Presbyterian Church yesterday services in connection with "The Forward Movement" were inaugurated and will be continued nightly this week with the exception of Wednesday night. The speaker yesterday was Rev. Principal Dyde of Queen's Thelogical College, Kingston, and his discourses were of a high order. Large congregations were present and thoroughly appreciated the sermons. In the evening Principal Dyde's text was from St. Luke's gospel, 9th chapter, 51st verse:

"And it came to pass when the time was come that He should be received up He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem."

The divine during his discourse stated that a few short months ago our army was looking down on Jerusalem preparing to wrest it from the Turks, as Jesus looked down upon that city centuries ago to wrest it from evil. In the world to-day a christian foundation big and broad enough for all mankind to stand upon should be constructed. There should be no distinctions and no Germanized ideas of world conquering. All should play the game and play it squarely. Jesus the great army leader, went over the tops as the Canadian boys did and conquered and His call to-day is follow Me. Special hymns were sung and the choir rendered an appropriate anthem.

Begin Campaign For Permanent Militia

Men to Be Enlisted for Two Years at C. E. F. Rates.

TORONTO, April 14.—An active recruiting campaign for the Canadian permanent military force is expected to be inaugurated here almost immediately. Lieut.-Col. W. P. Butcher is in charge of recruiting for Military District No. 2, with plans for opening this campaign throughout the district.

A central office will likely be established either in the Armories or in some prominent spot in the downtown district, where a man can make his enlistment. The city will probably have an extensive campaign of prominent posters throughout the streets, and it would not be surprising if the streets again see the familiar recruiting sergeant and his men.

Capt. Blake-Foster, who is at present in charge in the absence of Col. Butcher, has had various inquiries as to the prospects of enlistment. The applications have come chiefly from men who have served overseas in the Canadian Expeditionary Force and are anxious to take up soldiering again.

The regiments to be recruited for are the Royal Canadian Regiment, Princess Patricia's, Canadian Light Infantry, Royal Can. Horse Artillery, Royal Can. Garrison Artillery, Royal Canadian Dragoons, Lord Strathcona's Horse and the various revices. The period of enlistment will be for two years, the applicants must be 18 and under 45 years of age. The pay and allowance will be at C. E. F. rates.

"Sword of Britain" Tripped Col. Maclem

TORONTO, April 12—Colonel Omar L. Macklem, who gained much notoriety through his arrest in the United States some time ago on the ground that he was not an officer, was arrested in Toronto recently by Detectives McConnell and Stewart. The former officer is charged with a breach of the War Charities Act which was passed in 1917. He was arrested in his office in the Confederation Life Building and is alleged to have been selling engravings of an appreciation which he wrote entitled "The Sword of Britain." Each copy is said to have had attached to it a printed slip which states that all funds contributed would be used for the benefit of war widows and orphans, and was signed "The War Widows and Orphan's Committee." The police so far as they can find out are of the opinion that the arrested officer comprises the whole committee.

According to the War Charities Act, before funds can be collected for patriotic purposes a charter must be secured from the Government by responsible parties. It is for a breach of this act that he was arrested, the police stating that he never secured a charter and that he has not turned over any money collected for patriotic purposes.

RIVAL PLANE TAKES THE FIELD

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., April 14—The contest to be the first across the Atlantic in an airplane assumed the character of a real race this morning when the Martinsyde biplane, with its pilot and navigator, arrived from Liverpool. Hitherto Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant Commander Grieve with their Sopwith biplane have had a clear field, but from now on they must fight for the time, hour by hour, with the newly-arrived competitors.

Though the Sopwith pilot and navigator have been on the ground two weeks that F. P. Raynham, the veteran pilot who will be at the helm of the Martinsyde with Captain C. W. F. Morgan, one of Canada's pioneer war fliers, as his navigator, will not get away first.

SIBERIAN INVALIDS LEAVE

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 12—The first military hospital train to leave Vancouver pulled out from the C. P. R. station for the east.

It bore 61 convalescent soldiers and one cot case, members of the Siberian Expeditionary Force, who reached Vancouver earlier in the day from Vladivostok, on board the steamer Empress of Japan. The party was in charge of Captain Mignault.

NAPANEE M.S.A. CASES

KINGSTON, April 14—Inspector J. J. Graham, of the Dominion Police, was in Napanee and conducted the prosecution in six cases of men charged with being defaulters under the M.S.A. Four fines were imposed aggregating $1,000 and in the other two cases were enlarged.

'A ROMANCE OF HAPPY VALLEY'

To maks simple folk do simple things dramatically, is the most difficult test of cinema art, according to David Wark Griffith, the eminent photoplay producer. In commenting on his production, "A Romance of Happy Valley," which will bes howp at Griffin's tonight and Wednesday night said: "It is refreshing to return to good, honest, plain American neighbors again. Everyone knows about a 'Happy Valley' very like the one in which the characters of 'A Romance of Happy Valley' live. Without much difficulty they can identify the Logans and the Timberlakes as just good people, shaken out of the peaceful progress of their lives for a little while. The drama of 'A Romance of Happy Valley' can be heard in variations at every fireside in the country. The people telling it will call it so-and-so's' and yet they are the most delightful dramas, frankly lived, the players a little bewildered, very earnest and magnificently human," said David Wark Griffith, the producer. "It was like a holiday to me to produce it. In nly hope the public will enjoy the finished work as much as I did the production. I have tried to make the characters human, just such persons as you and I. I hope what they do may hold the public interest, for it certainly held mine."

THE LEE KIDS ARE HERE

Today is the day that all lovers of clean, wholesome comedy have been looking forward to for some time. Jane and Katherine Lee, the 'Baby Grands' of motion pictures, are to be presented at the Palace tonight to Wednesday, in uproarious, side-splitting farce called "Swat the Spy." The Lees' surpassing ability as funmakers has been so thoroughly established that it has only become necessary to announce their appearance to bring the crowds. This new feature by the Lee children is described as a merry melange of mischievous pranks and mirth-provoking situations, placed in a setting of exquisite pathos and practical patriotism. The comical kids not only prick the inflated bubble of a monstrous alien plot, but they perform the operation in such an exquisitely humorous fashion that it becomes a continuous source of delight and a joy forever. Clumty Kary and lumbering Lena are as much match for the keen-witted kids as a hungry fly would be for a sheet of tanglefoot. Pathe News, and a good Luke comedy will also be screened.

Real Economy in Boys' Suits

We sell

Wearbetter Clothes for Boys'

and when we say these high-styled suits are the most economy to boys, and parents, we mean that in our estimation they represent the most that can be procured anywhere for the money. We mean that to pay the fair prices asked for these excellent clothes is far less costly in the end than to pay a little less for apparel that is far inferior in styling and very disappointing in wear.

Our "Wear-Better" Clothes are thoroughbred and look the part.

Priced at—$8.50, $9.00, $9.50, $10.00, $12.00, $13.50, $15.00, $16.50 and $18.50.

BROADER THAN THE MEASURE OF MAN'S MIND.

Some controversy has arisen, unfortunately, over the question of the soldiers' passport to Heaven when he dies on the field of battle fighting in the most holy cause of civil and religious liberty and the freedom of the world. In no uncertain tones upon this subject speaks Rev. T. A. Patterson (Hon.-Capt.) Chaplain C. E.F. 1915-1917, in a letter to a Toronto paper. Says this Padre:

> I have knelt many times in hospitals over the couches of dying gassed or wounded victims of Hun perfidy, butchered to make a German holiday. Outside the thundrous music of the big and little guns in the lines played a noisy Requiem, while these souls were passing to God, while the concussion caused by the loud symphony seemed to rock the buildings and stretchers with invisible hands, lulling the dying to their eternal sleep.
> The cause was the contemptible cur of a Kaiser, his prurient brood of sons and his henchmen, whom we hear are to be simply slapped on the wrist, scolded lightly, and "O, you naughty boys!" whispered effeminately to them! while millions of their victims, in every way superior, trod the Via Golgotha of suffering of every description, degradation and death. These, the fiends, by spoken or written word, have emphasized that force, and the haughty usurpation of the rights of free peoples were the legitimate possessions of Germany and her only. Might was right and it became their fetish. That idol has been smashed, and let us hope forever cast into the shades of oblivion. The same autocratic, tyrannous spirt, denying any rights to weak mankind, is (according to some interpreters of Scripture), attributed to God, Who to me, while perfect justice, is in His highest and noblest attributes supreme in loving kindness and mercy. It is utterly impossible for me to believe that He can be anything less. Logical, metaphysical, theological or other definitons of Our Father can never reduce Him in my estimate to the microscopic size, the harsh teachings of some schools of theology would make Him. Probably more unutterably horrible bitterness and sadness has arisen in the hearts of millions of relatives of the heroic lads who topped the Great Divide on their way West to Last Roll Call by the misinterpretations of Scripture, than from any other cause. They were proudly given, these bravest, best, dearest ones for freedom's sake, yet we are told, and hearts are hopelessly saddened by the news, that never again will loved ones meet, unless these ascended heroes, who trod the Path of Death, had shown evidence of repentance before passing. No hope of Heaven for men who were "going up" to their Calvaries? Yet these happy warriors had "gone up" fighting against spirtual wickedness in high places. I saw thousands of them in Belgium and France go to their Gethsemanes and Golgothas, head up, chest out, eyes flashing, while whistle, joke or song came unhindered, and feet were winged with elation. Behind the smile, the joke, the song, or whistle the soul "uplifted" was saying "if it be Thy will —Thy will, loving Father—let this cup pass from me." But you didn't hear it. Each soul held its own communion in silence, amidst the clash and thunder all about the place.
> I am warned against humanitarianism (too much), controlling my sense of what is right in this case. Was Jesus not Very Man as well as Very God? Was He not also Son of Man? He knows. Should one's views be discredited because one refuses to accept a doctrine which is neither human nor Divine; but devilish in its harsh unfairness to a loving God.
> Oh, let us hope that to our praise,
> Good God not only reckons,
> The moments when we tread His ways,
> But when the spirit beckons—
> That some slight good is also wrought,
> Beyond self-satisfaction,
> When we are simply good in thought,
> Howe'er we fail in action.

Let loved ones ever remember that the way of duty is one of the ways to God, and that nothing can separate those of us or ours who love Him from the love He is.

A recent writer has shown how the increase in suicides is correlated with religious belief and disbelief. This points to the dark and hopeless principle of predestination, a term in theology, propagated by the Lutheran and Calvinistic schools of Biblical interpretation. Many lives have been blighted forever by doubt, sorrow or fear for which predestination offers no remedy. The love of God, is broader than the measure of man's mind, and the heart of the Eternal is most wonderfully kind. They who have had their Gethsemanes, and have trod or are treading or who will tread the Via Golgotha, will see some day that not blind belief in an iron-hearted hopeless creed, but a simple trusting faith in a loving Heavenly Father, mercifully kind, will bring them with all their ascended beloved home to the Father's house, where is endless peace and rest evermore.

Called By Death

MRS. (REV. DR.) BRIGGS

At Toronto on Sunday, Mrs. Rosalie Marian Clarke, wife of Rev. Dr. William Briggs, passed away. Deceased was known to a number in this city, as Dr. Briggs was at one time pastor of Bridge street Methodist church. She was 74 years of age. The late Mrs. Briggs was born at Melbourne, Australia, 73 years ago, and was the daughter of the late William Clarke of that city. It was while visiting relatives in Montreal in company with her mother, over fifty years ago that Mrs. Briggs first met her husband. Mrs. Briggs lived an active life and was an earnest and diligent worker in connection with the Women's Missionary Society, of which she was Secretary for over a quarter of a century. Her work as secretary of the Supply Committee of the Society was one of constant solicitude for missionaries. Home missionaries and their families in outlying fields were especially under her sympathetic care.

MRS. (REV.) A. W. BUDD

The many friends in this city of Mrs. (Rev.) A. W. Budd, nee Miss Agnes Biscomb, will regret to learn of her demise which occurred on Saturday afternoon at Derby, Conn., as the result of an attack of pneumonia following the flu. Deceased was about 36 years of age and was a daughter of the late Mr. Benjamin Biscombe. Mrs. Budd was a devoted member of the Methodist Church and a lady highly esteemed by all who knew her. In addition to the husband four children of tender years survive. In addition the mother is living and two sister, Mrs. J. A. Goodsell of this city and Mrs. Church of Norwich, England. The body will be brought here for interment.

WM. A. CHAPMAN

At an early hour this morning Mr. William A. Chapman, an aged and highly respected resident of Roslin, passed away. Deceased was 80 years of age and all his life was spent in farming at Roslin. Mr. Chapman was a widower. One son, Charles, at home survives.

NOBBY TREAD

The King of the Road

A DOMINION TIRE

"NOBBY TREAD" is a universal favorite. It is equally popular with owners of limousines and big touring cars and those who drive the less expensive cars.

"NOBBY TREAD" TIRES are practically puncture-proof. But the big nobs do not account for all of this popularity.

It is the marvellous workmanship—the superb materials—the creative genius of construction—that make "NOBBY TREADS" almost immune from blow-outs and road-cutting.

When you consider their greater mileage, their wonderful durability and their freedom from ordinary tire troubles, their greater ease and comfort in driving, 'NOBBY TREADS' are the most economical tires you can put on your car.

IT'S the richness of Carnation Milk that makes it such a wonderful food.

The fresh milk is received daily at our condenseries located in the better dairy sections.

And the Carnation method—evaporating this good milk to the consistency of cream, taking away nothing but water, adding nothing—assures you of fresh, rich milk.

Give the children lots of Carnation Milk. Give it to them as cream on cereals and as whipped cream on desserts (chill it first of course). Add water and give it to them to drink. Get "The Story of Carnation Milk" with its 100 splendid recipes and see what Carnation Milk will do for your cooking. See page 31 for suggested baby food formula. Write to Aylmer and we'll send a copy.

Of course you buy Carnation Milk the convenient way, too—from your grocer. Order several cans to-day. Directions on every can.

MANITOBA'S GRAND CHAMPION STEER

A profit of $431.30, not counting the cost of labour, was the recompense secured by Jos. Donaldson's Limited, Brandon, for feeding a steer for one year. The steer in question is the grade blue steer Ruby Boy, Grand Champion at the Manitoba Winter Fair and Fat Stock Show, held in Brandon the first week in March. Dan Coughlan, Winnipeg, was the buyer, and it appears as if he obtained good value for his money as Prof. W. H. Pew, of the Agricultural College at Ravenna, Ohio, a noted judge of stock, said the steer was good enough to win the Grand Championship at the International Stock Show in Chicago. This is the premier event on this continent. The steer sold for $1,050, live weight, or 70c a pound.

The calf, a wonderful animal, was the winner at the 1918 Boys' Fat Calf Competition, in Brandon, and at the subsequent sale brought 48c a pound. Ruby Boy is a Manitoba product, sired by Glencarnock Rupie 8693, calved Feb. 27th, 1917. He was raised and fed by Alex. H. Walker, Carnegie, Man., who was twelve years of age when he exhibited this steer at the Manitoba Winter Fair, March, 1918, the late Joseph Donaldson, President of Jos. Donaldson's Limited, Brandon, was the buyer, and the price was 48c a pound, totalling $446.40.

So satisfied with his purchase was he that the late Joseph Donaldson, who handled many thousands of steers in his thirty years' stock feeding in Manitoba, placed the animal under the special care of J. Parkinson, foreman of the Donaldson stock yards with instruction to take care of him and also to keep strict account of the feed. And Parkinson, recognizing the quality of the animal, gave him his best attention. The results were astounding. The average feed per day was as follows:

	Lbs.	Cost.
Hay	2	$0.02
Boiled Barley	6	0.11
Crushed Barley	8	0.14
Crushed Oats	6	0.12
Flax	1	0.03
Turnips	8	0.04
Total	31	$0.52
Total cost of feed for 12 months		$189.80

A glance at the ration shows that there is no need to go off the farm to buy the foods that produce the highest quality steers. What the Donaldson people have done with this steer can be done by others, equally careful in feeding and with equally good animals to feed.

On this ration the steer that at twelve months weighed 930 pounds made an average gain of fifty pounds a month, nearly two pounds a day, weighing 1,500 pounds at two years of age. The highest gain made in any single month was one hundred pounds and the lowest was twenty.

Then when it came to the sale there was not only the increased weight to dispose of but at the increased price. The 930 pound steer sold for 48c a pound, but the fifteen hundred pound steer brought 70c, on the hoof, and left Brandon for its new Winnipeg home by the C. P. R.

HOW WEAK WOMEN ARE MADE STRONG

Mrs. Westmoreland Tells in the Following Letter.

Harrison, N. Y.—"When my first child was born I did not know about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had a very hard time. I read in the newspaper about the Vegetable Compound and when my second child came I took it and was well during the whole time, and childbirth was a hundred times easier. Ever since then I have used it for any weakness and would not be without it for the world. I do all my work and am strong and healthy. I am nursing my baby, and I still take the Vegetable Compound as it keeps a woman in good health. You may publish my testimonial for the good of other women, if you choose to do so."—Mrs. C. WESTMORELAND, Harrison, N.Y.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, headaches and nervousness should lose no time in giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

ATTRACTIVE SERVICE

AN APPRECIATIVE ADDRESS

Sergt. T. C. Lapp of Brighton, formerly of this city, who was two years overseas and was dangerously wounded, yesterday afternoon at Bridge street church gave an address to the members of the Men's Bible Class. A large number were present and appreciated much the address which was in connection with war events. Previous to the talk a number of appropriate hymns were sung, the singing being led by Prof. Staples of Albert College.

ACT OF MADMAN

The fire which destroyed the outbuildings of H. A. Acton near Gananoque last Wednesday night, was the work of a madman, W. Welsh or W. Acton, as he was called by people who knew him. He had been taken by Mr. Acton when quite young and brought up by the family. For some time he has been acting strangely, which culminated in the unfortunate burning of Mr. Acton's buildings, together with four head of cattle and over fifty fowl and all the fodder such as hay, straw, etc., on the place. The young man is now in custody and will be sent to an insane asylum.

LEFT SHELTER WITHOUT LEAVE

On Saturday a lad 12 years of age named Anthony Neizbyzeki, f Polish parents, was taken in charge here, having been found riding on a railway train without the necessary ticket. He claimed Montreal as his home. The boy was given in charge of the Children Shelter until his parents could be communicated with. Saturday evening the boy evidently disliked his surrounding and left in an unceremonious manner. No trace of him has been discovered, but it is surmised that he went to Toronto, where he claimed he had relatives.

HER 92ND BIRTHDAY

A very pleasant time was spent by a number of the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Caroline Lawrence when they met on Friday afternoon, April 11th, at her home to assist in celebrating her 92nd birthday. Mrs. Lawrence, whose hearing and eyesight are remarkable, was in fine health and spirits. The afternoon was spent in social chat and music. Mrs. Lawrence joined in singing a number of old hymns. "What a Friend we have in Jesus," "Sweet Bye and Bye," etc. She also delighted those present by reciting several selections which she learned years ago. A most delicious lunch was served at the close of the afternoon. The guests departed leaving all good wishes behind and feeling that they had celebrated a most unique event. Mrs. Lawrence was the remembrance of a number of small remembrances.

"HOME WELCOME"

Yesterday morning a "Home Welcome" Solemn Thanksgiving Service was held in St. Thomas Church which was very largely attended nothwithstanding the unpropitious weather conditions. Out of the number of returned men of St. Thomas Church a good percentage were in attendance. Special Psalms, Te Deum and General Thanksgiving were the chief features of the service, with an address of welcome by the Rector, Ven. Archdeacon Beamish. At the evening service Maunder's Sacred Cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace" was feelingly rendered by the large choir under the direction of Prof. Wheatley, the solo parts being taken by Mrs. Wheatley, Mrs. Farrow, Mr. Robbins, Mr. Rowland and Mr. Wickson. The Rector gave a short address on the subject, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace."

ETHEL MAUD CHRISTY

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ethel Maud Christy, wife of Walter Christy took place from the home of her sister. Mrs. Ed. A. Spencer, Saturday afternoon at 3.30 p.m. The Rev. S. C. Moore officiated at the house and grave.

The bearers were Messrs. W. Asselstine, H. Dougherty, C. Hanna, H. Hall, Wm. Bleecker and M. Bateman.

The floral offerings were beautiful in design and were contributed as follows:

Pillow—Husband and family.

Gates a jar—Father and brothers.

Broken Wheel—Sisters.

Wreath—Marshall Brummell and family.

Sheaths—Niece and nephew, Don Bleecker, Mrs. Wm. Bleecker, Mr and Mrs. F. Creeper, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. F. Oram and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harvery, Eddie Pope and Mrs. Wardraugh, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Worrel and Mr. and Mrs. M. Bateman.

ANNIE MAY LLOYD

The body of Annie May Lloyd was on Saturday afternoon consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. At the family residence, 81 Mill Street, Rev. S. C. Moore conducted an impressive service. Many were in attendance and a number of floral tributes were contributed by relatives and friends. The bearers were R., H., and A. Lloyd and D. McKinnon.

Perfected Silos

You can't have ensilage without a good silo.

Toronto Silos are made of selected spruce staves. Double tongued and grooved. Each stave is saturated with creosote. An added advantage is the Toronto Hip Roof. This means greater capacity, and allows tramping of ensilage to the top of the staves. These perfected silos cost no more than ordinary silos.

To cut your corn at the right time you must have an ensilage cutter of your own.

The Toronto Ensilage Cutter is designed to give efficient, light-running service. There is no choking or jamming—it takes corn, alfalfa or clover with the same smooth-running, rapid action.

Write for the free Silo and Ensilage Cutter booklets. They give the complete story of these two splendid Toronto Products.

LOOKING FOR SITE

A representative of an automobile company wishing to locate in Ontario was in Prescott last week and was shown available sites by a committee of the Prescott town council acting with a committee of the Board of Trade.

WANT HYDRO-ELECTRIC

A petition signed by 93 residents of the township has been presented to the council of Front of Leeds and Lansdowne asking that the council get in touch with the Hydro-Electric Commission with a view to securing cheap power for the township. The council has forwarded the petition to the commission with a request that the latter body take it into consideration.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Armand Gagner, who has an apartment in premises on Front street, was on Saturday evening arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. As the case was not ready to be proceeded with this morning an adjournment for a week was granted. Mr. Carnew for Crown and Col. O'Flynn for the accused.

HORSE RUNNING AT LARGE

A lady complained to the police that she had been annoyed by a horse running at large, and tramping about her premises. The owner of the animal was ascertained and he will possibly be summoned to appear before the magistrate for an infraction of a City Bylaw.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

Tenders are being asked for the erection of the main building for the Kemptville Agricultural School. The building will be of brick, 129x61 and three stories high. On the first floor will be the four main laboratories; on the second floor will be the offices for the staff, the library and class rooms; on the third floor will be the class room and the whole front will be for Household Science laboratories and class rooms. It is expected the building will be completed by October.

CAN DRIVE STOCK

At the banquet of the Holstein Breeders Club in Kemptville, Hon G. Howard Ferguson denied the statement made by R. H. Halbert, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, that farmers would not be permitted to drive their cattle on the new Prescott-Ottawa highway. At Mr. Halbert's meeting in Kemptville there was an attendance of only 40, about two-thirds of whom were from the village.

SMALL MAKE OF CHEESE

John B. Wilson, of Gananoque, salesman for the well-known Wilson combination of Western Leeds cheese factories is representing an even larger combination than in previous years. Mr. Wilson reports that the make so far this season has been exceedingly small on account of the poor condition of cows brought about by the high price of hay and grains last fall. At this time last year cheese was selling at 22 3-8 cents, whereas at the present time the ruling figure is in the vicinity of 26 cents. The increase is attributed to the smallness of the make to date.

AGED FARMER DEAD

A life long resident of Ernestown passed away on Tuesday of last week in the person of Mr. William Amey in his eighty-eighth year. He was the youngest son of the late Peter Amey and Mary Baker, and was born in the house in which he died. About three years ago he suffered a paralytic stroke, which left him in an enfeebled state, confining him to his bed until death released him. He was tenderly cared for by his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Amey. His wife predeceased him a few months ago. Two sons, Oscar, of Millhaven, and Elmore, on the homestead, also two grandsons, mourn his loss.

BOYS ARRIVING HOME

Among the arrivals of boys from overseas since Saturday are the following Bombardier Harry Elliott of 51 Murney street. He signed up with the 33rd Battery and has been serving with the 2nd Canadian Heavy Artillery. He has been six months in a hospital from the effects of a heavy gas attack, but in spite of this looks hale and hearty. Gunner Jack Clarke of 113 College street, who has been serving with the R. R. Construction Battalion. Private Weaver, who went over with the 59th Battalion. Previous to going overseas he was in the employ of the G. T. R. as engine driver, running out of Belleville. Gunner G. H. Gulliver of 410 Bleecker Avenue, who signed up with the 52nd Battery, and has been over three years in the service.

THE HOME-COMING

It is desirable that the return to Belleville and district of all soldiers from overseas be chronicled in the public press so that friends and well-wishers far and near may be apprized of their safe return. As soldiers are returning on the many trains at all hours of the day and night it is impossible to accurately record their arrival and The Intelligencer will be pleased to receive notification from relatives and friends of the return of soldier boys with records of service, as the public is very much interested. Phone, write or call. d'f

ENJOYABLE CONCERT

All who attended the Baptist Church Friday evening were much pleased with the programme presented by the B. Y. P. U. to raise funds for their native missionary pastor in India. Special features of the evening were the two dialogues and those who took part are commended on their excellent delivery. The programme was as follows:

Piano solo—Arnold Orr.
Reading—Miss Eileen Cook.
Piano solo—Alex. Gordon.
Vocal solo—Miss Gastrell.
Reading—Miss Mildred Lloyd.
Duet—Arnold Orr and Alex. Gordon
Dialogue—"Miss Lecty's Views"—Characters:—Misses L. Lancaster, H. Turner, E. Barlow and I. Clarke.
Offering.
Chairman's address—Rev. W. H. Wallace.
Closing Hymn and Benediction.

COAL OIL STOVE CAUSES BLAZE

The exploding of a coal oil stove in the tobacco and candy store of Mr. Walter Lambert's place of business, west side of Front street, caused a blaze this afternoon, which fortunately was not of a very serious nature. The contents were damaged to some extent by smoke and water. Mr. Lambert in endeavoring to carry out the blazing stove had his hair singed and hands somewhat burned. The loss was not heavy.

AUTOS ARE NEEDEDD

The Soldiers' Reception Committee are making special preparation for the return of men from the 2nd and 21st Battalions and a great number of cars are required to make this reception a success. If you have a car to spare for these receptions please phone 481 or hand in your name to Ald. Chas. Hanna.

APPLES FOR SOLDIERS

Patriotic societies in Belleville district have a wonderful record of effective work for the soldiers since the war began, and are not yet weary in well-doing. A gentleman in close touch with the returning soldiers on troops trains passing through Belleville suggests to The Intelligencer that it would be a noble act upon the part of one or more of the local patriotic organizations to appoint committees to meet these trains and distribute apples or other refreshment to soldiers. There are only two places along the whole line where this done, Moncton, N. B., and Cobourg, Ontario. The soldiers appreciate this kindly attention very much and are loud in their praises of the ladies and the municipalities mentioned. Soldiers passing through here have been seen buying apples at five cents each which is rather a shock to come back to. There are about four hundred men on a troop train, says the informant of The Intelligencer and one apple for each soldier would not cost a great deal. All troop trains over the Grand Trunk stop at Belleville about twenty minutes and surely arrangements can be made to have the C. P. R. trains stop here for ten or fifteen minutes. Then there is the question of a banquet to all returned soldiers which could be carried out very nicely on June 3 in connection with the G.W.V.A. field day. Other places are holding a series of banquets and getting acquainted with the returned soldiers. How about Belleville, don't we want to get acquainted with the boys who saved us and all we have and hold from the beastly Hun?

"Worth Its Weight In Gold," He Says

John Anderson Tells Of His Recovery Through Taking Tanlac

"From the way Tanlac has fixed me up I consider it is worth its weight in gold," said Jno. Anderson, of 103 Stuart St., West, Hamilton, Ont., recently.

I had suffered terribly for several months from indigestion and kidney trouble," he continued, "and during the past few months my condition was so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work. My stomach felt as if it had lumps in it, and I had terrible pains in my chest and back. My kidneys worried me constantly and I was so dizzy at times that I would stagger and almost fall.

"One of these dizzy spells came on me when I was in the shop one day, and when a friend gave me a dose of Tanlac I got over it right away. I bought a bottle and haven't had the slightest touch of indigestion in some time, and I have felt different ever since my first dose. My kidneys don't trouble me any more and all the pain is gone from my back and chest. My appetite is just great. I eat anything I want and never have any trouble afterward. I am working every day and feel fine all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakely.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is—
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year-round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you can see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

AFTER INFLUENZA—
WINTER COLDS—
BAD BLOOD

You are pale, thin, weak—with little vitality. Your liver is sluggish and the bad blood causes your stomach muscles to lose their elasticity and become flabby and weak—then indigestion.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made from wild roots and barks, and free from alcohol or narcotics, is the great and powerful blood purifier of to-day. Ingredients printed on wrapper. This tonic, in liquid or tablet form, is just what you need to give you vim, vigor and vitality.

Take it as directed and it will search out impure and poisonous matter throughout the system and eliminate it through the natural channels.

You can procure a trial package by sending 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

SINTALUTA, SASK.—"I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for liver trouble, and found it excellent, and would not be without it. I suffered from congestion of the liver about six years ago and I always say that this medicine cured me. I have also given it to my family for colds and it cured them in a very short time. We must have had about a dozen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"—MRS. ENOCH MITCHELL, Box 180.

KITCHENER, ONT.—"I had become all run-down, was weak and nervous. My blood was bad also. I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and was completely restored to good health. I am always recommending this medicine to my friends, many of whom have had equally as good results."—MRS. EPH. KETTYLE, 64 Breithaupt Street

Mob Kills War Minister Of Saxony Had Refused To Receive Deputation

STORMED THE BUILDING, DRAGGED HERR NEURING OUT, AND THREW HIM INTO THE ELBE—GOVERNMENT TROOPS REFUSED TO OBEY ORDERS.

COPENHAGEN, April 14—Herr Neurin,, War Minister in the Government of Saxony was killed at Dresden Saturday by disgruntled soldiers to whom the Minister had refused a hearing. The War Ministry was stormed by demonstrations who dragged out Herr Neuring and threw him into the Elbe, where he was shot and killed as he tried to swim to the bank.

An order had been issued by Herr Neuring to the effect that the wounded in future should receive only peace time pay. Five or six hundred men then formed a procession to the War Minister who refused, however, to receive them.

Upon this, the crowd, incited by Communistic speakers, stormed the entrance to the building. The sentries used their weapons, but were overpowered. Government troops were summoned, but they declared they would not attack the crowd, and they marched off after surrendering their arms.

An excited crowd meanwhile had thronged the square in front of the building, and machine guns posted at various points were firing on the Ministry. At four o'clock in the afternoon the demonstrators had forced their way into the main building, followed the War Minister to the upper story, where he had fled, and dragged him out into the street.

After the Minister had been severely maltreated by the crowd he was hurled from the bridge into the river. When he tried to swim to the bank the demonstrators fired at him and within a few moments disappeared under the water.

Willing To Halt The Executioner

But Bolshevik Russia Will Not Consent to an Election.

PARIS, April 15.—Bolshevik Russia is ready, according to reports reaching here, to agree to a suspension of executions and punishments in the case of its opponents in return for goods and recognition. It is also willing, according to the same reports to agree to the suspension of the campaign to extend Bolshevism and overthrow the existing order in the countries of the Associated Powers.

It will, however, refuse to call democratic elections or consent to the convocation of a Constituent Assembly in Russia, and insists on the recognition of the "defacto and dejure Government of Russia," and acceptance of the principle of Soviet rule and its part of any programme of negotiation.

MEN MUST PAY TO DRESS IN STYLE

CHICAGO, April 15.—No decrease in the prices of medium and better grade clothing, and possibly a moderate reduction in lower grades containing reworked wool (shoddy) and cotton, that is the prospect for the fall and winter of 1919.

This statement was given out officially as representing the opinion of members of National Association of Retail Clothiers and the National Association of Clothing Manufacturers, who met here to consider the situation.

The basis of the situation lies in continued high prices for raw material and labor, it was said by the delegates through their spokesman, L. C. King of Chicago.

INFERNO'S HEART WEIGHED 17 POUNDS

Inferno, the former Seagram turf crack, was dissected at the Ontario Veterinary College on Friday and the heart and skeleton of the great racer will be preserved by the college.

Inferno's heart weighed 17 pounds, and it will give an idea of where he got his gameness. The average horse on the farm has a heart weighing about seven pounds, while the average racer's tips the scales between 12 and 13 pounds.

The great Inferno also had great muscles in his legs.

Bolsheviki Are Planning Great Spring Offensive

LONDON, April 15—From the highest official source your correspondent received a depressing account of Bolsheviki military progress in Russia.

It is now certain that the Bolsheviki intend a great spring offensive. Military opinion here tends to place a higher value on their warlike capacity than formerly.

For instance, while preparing the drive against Murmansk and Archangel they have been busily employed in fomenting disturbances among populations in the rear of the allies. These efforts are rousing considerable anxiety.

In the south there is a prospect of the Bolsheviki shortly overrunning Crimea. They have already occupied the Isthmus connecting the island with the mainland.

It is hoped that the Allies will hold Sebastapol and other naval bases but after the Odessa experience there is little ground for optimism.

The only hopeful sign of success is General Beioff's army which threatens the possible capture of Orenburg, effectually cutting off the Bolsheviki from the resources of Turkestan which they are now using freely.

"Major" Campbell Pleads Guilty To Posing As Hero

OTTAWA, April 15—"Major" Campbel, admitted yesterday that he was not a major and the nine decorations which he so impressively wore while visiting several Canadian cities, including Montreal, were not won on the field of battle.

The "Major" yesterday pleaded guilty before a military tribunal to wearing an officer's uniform and claiming an official rank without any right to do so. It is said that Campbell's real name is Robert William Gunter, and that he enlisted in Panama, and was actually at the front, but the balance of his remarkable tales of valor and of being wounded on four occasions were strictly romances. He was remanded for sentence.

Armenians Were Avenged Brutal Kemal Bey Hanged

ONE OF THE AUTHORS OF MASSACRES PUBLICLY EXECUTED AT STAMBOUL—WAS FORMERLY GOVERNOR OF DIARBEKR—ANOTHER SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS IN FORTRESS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 15—Kemal Bey, governor of Diarbekr, has been publicly hanged in Bayazid Square in Stamboul in the presence of the military governor of Constantinople and other high officials. Kemal Bey was sentenced to death as one of those responsible for the Armenian deportations and massacres in the Yezghad district. The former commander of the gendarmerie in Yozghad was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment in the fortress.

These sentences were confirmed by an imperial trade.

The trial of those responsible for the Armenian massacres by the Turks began early in February in Constantinople. The prosecutor declared it was necessary to punish the authors of the massacres, which had filled the whole world with a feeling of horror.

Kemal Bey was former Turkish minister of food.

Big Purchase Of Canadian Meats

40,000,000 Pounds of Frozen Meat Disposed of to Britain.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Arrangements have been made whereby forty million pounds of frozen beef, now in Canada, will be exported to and purchased by Great Britain The meat was ordered before the close of the war. When peace came suddenly the orders were cancelled, owing to the great quantities which the British Government had on its hands. At the same time a measure of moral obligation was conceded.

Since then the situation has cleared up, and the sale of the supply is now provided for.

During the past few days, Sir Thomas White has been in conference with packers, and also with millers of flour and exporters of wheat; credits are being arranged for the financing of these exports. All are included in the vote recently brought down in Parliament and explained in the House by the Finance Minister yesterday.

THEY FEAR THE ALLIES

BERNE, April 15.—The conference of Soldiers' Councils of German-Austria which met in Vienna Monday decided against the establishment of a Soviet republic in Austria and in favor of a Socialist Government.

Herr Deutsche, Secretary of State for Military Affairs, at the opening of the conference pointed out that German-Austria was absolutely in the power of the allied and associated nations and that the conference should do its utmost to avoid a new blockade or the resumption of hostilities.

MIGHT HAVE BOMBED BERLIN

LONDON, April 15.—The Handley-Page Company have entered one of its airplanes which had been built for a bombing expedition to Berlin in the trans-Atalntic flight. The machine has four 350 horsepower engines and a capacity of two thousand gallons of gasoline for a 25-hour flight. It will also carry two long distances wireless installations capable of reaching either shore. There is one small air-tank in front of the airplane and one in the rear so that the machine will keep afloat if it falls into the sea. The crew will consist of three pilots and a wireless operator.

The Handley-Page machine will be taken to Newfoundland and will fly form there to the British Isles.

City Of Limerick Is Paralyzed By General Strike

LIMERICK, Ireland, April 15—This city awoke yesterday to find itself in the throes of a general strike called by the trades unions as a protest against martial law which has gone into effect in the Limerick military area. The gas and electric supplies were cut off at two o'clock yesterday morning, and no factories or stores open, even the drug stores having their blinds down. Food supplies have ceased coming into the city, as the farmers refuse to take out military permits to enter Limerick.

MORE MAY GO OUT

There have been no disorders, but several processions were cheered loudly when they marched through the streets. The military area has been extended to include the district north of the River Shannon.

It was reported that the railway men had given notice that they would strike in forty-eight hours unless the order for martial law was rescinded. A railway strike would isolate the city completely, as public automobiles are not operating because of the strike. The only transport would be by jaunting car, the hiring price of which already has begun to advance.

Budapest Communists Execute Notables

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, April 15—A Copenhagen despatch to The Exchange Telegraph Company says that Berlin papers print reports received from travellers to the affect that Communists at Budapest have executed the Archduke Joseph, Dr. Alexander Wekerle, former premier, and Baron Joseph Sztepreny, Minister of Commerce. The report, the despatch says, has not been confirmed.

Prohibition Vote Is Close In N. Z.

"Drys" Have Small Majority But This May be Changed by Soldiers' Vote.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., April 15—The vote on the question of prohibition for New Zealand stands on the returns so far received as follows:

For continuance of the present license system, 220,602; for prohibition 233,538. There are still a few home returns and the votes of 40,000 soldiers to be received.

SOLDIERS VOTE "WET"

LONDON, April 12—The New Zealand soldiers in Great Britain have voted on the question of prohibition in New Zealand as follows: For prohibition, 3,950; against prohibition, 15,890.

The above totals are: Prohibition, 237,508; against 236,482. It is possible that when the soldiers' vote is all in the "wets" will be in the majority.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

PARIS, April 15—President Wilson intends to sail for the United States on April 27 or 28 after attending the opening meeting of the Peace Conference at Versailles, says Echo De Paris. After his departure Col. House will act for him.

CANADIANS IN SIBERIA

LONDON, April 15—Six hundred Canadian troops, mostly artillery, are serving with the allied forces in northern Russia on Archangel and Murmansk fronts, it has been learned here. Sixteenth brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, is principal unit, but there are drafts from infantry and various services, including many men from the Klondike, accustomed to Arctic regions. Canadians have at all time borne their full share of the fighting and General Ironside has frequently emphasized their efficiency.

BOLSHEVIK RETREAT

LONDON, April 15—Retreat of ten miles in Murmansk region is admitted by the Russian Soviet Government in a wireless message received here today. The message says: "In the direction of Murmansk our troops have retreated ten miles to the south of Uros station and Uraslake."

MAY FLY TODAY

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 15—Sopwith airmen may attempt to cross the Atlantic this afternoon. Weather has improved and they claim they have located section of ground sufficiently firm to justify them taking the chance in view of the vigorous competition of the Martinsyde machine.

Vickers To Start Trans-Atlantic Air Service Very Soon

LONDON, April 15—Trans-Atlantic Vickers Limited, are about to start a trans-Atlantic air service with airships which the company was building for the British Navy when the armistice was signed and which are no longer needed, the Pall Mall Gazette says.

The passenger rate will be £48 and mail will be carried at the rate of £405 a ton.

The pioneer ship will have a gas capacity of 1,200,000 cubic feet and engines of 1,000 horse power. Larger ships are being edsigned to carry 200 pasengers.

Labor Man To Join Ontario Cabinet

TORONTO, April 15—Recognizing the importance of the labor forces in the Province, and the problems associated with labor, Sir William Hearst, in the House, last night stated that it had been decided to take into the Cabinet a Labor man who has the full confidence of the workingmen of Ontario. The necessary legislation for this addition to the Cabinet personnel was introduced into the House just before adjournment.

PENSIONS IN CANADA

LONDON, April 15—The authorities of the famous Greenwich Hospital in their annual statement report having received $95,000 for the British Sailors' Relief Fund, which was raised in Canada. Fifty thousand dollars of the amount will be applied to the provision of pensions in Canada to about seventy sailors while the balance will be used to provide in Canada educational grants for officers' sons.

Soldiers Do Not Want "Hard Stuff"

Some Express Preference For Beer and Wine—Think Women Will Vote the Same Way.

(Special Cable to The Toronto Telegram fom D. M. Goody.)

LONDON, April 15—Beer and wine licenses are what many Canadian soldiers in England declare themselves in favor of at home. I returned recently from a trip to Bramshott and Witley, where I questioned both officers and men of the First and Second Divisions on the subject. "We certainly want the privilege of drinking but we are not strong for spirits," was the general declaration. "We hear from home that Canada is quiet, and after our experiences we cannot stand dullness," said one Canadian. Every khaki man admitted the evil of drink, but maintained in the words of one regimental sergeant-major, that absolute prohibition is not a step towards reform.

A strange feature in connection with the whole question is that confirmed drinkers favor total prohibition. Total abstainers are somewhat indifferent, while moderate drinkers are the most violent opposers of intemperance with their personal liberty. As the latter compose probably seventy-five per cent of the forces, it is reasonable to predict that so far as overseas men's votes are concerned beer and wine will be brought in again.

Soldiers don't seem to believe that women will oppose them.

Late Telegraph Briefs

Canadian Press, Limited.

President Wilson, in an official statement for Council of Four questions of peace now nearly complete will be quickly and finally drafted. Disorders Renewed In Egypt Several Score People Killed

ARMENIANS CHIEFLY THE OBJECTS OF THE MOB'S ATTACK BOTH IN CAIRO AND ALEXANDRIA—FIVE BRITISH SOLDIERS MURDERED—THIRTEEN NATIONALIST LEADERS SAIL FOR FRANCE.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 15—In two days of rioting here, ended at noon Thursday, thirty-eight persons were killed and one hundred wounded, it is announced in the official communique. Armenians were chiefly the objects of the mob's attacks, and seven of those killed were of that nationality. In rioting in Alexandria three persons were killed and six seriously injured Saturday morning, while a continuation of attacks on the troops resulted in the killing of seventeen other persons during the afternoon. The text of the statement read:

"There was further rioting in Cairo yesterday. The mob, armed with knives and hatchets, made attacks largely directed at Armenians. The police report thirty-eight killed and one hundred wounded during the forty-eight hours ended at noon on Thursday. The killed include seven Armenians and four Greeks. Military measures were enforced and the night passed off quietly.

"Disturbances occurred in Alexandria. There was a collision in the morning between troops and rioters in the Karmus quarter, which three were killed and six wounded seriously. In the Armenian disturbance in the afternoon the mob persistently attacked the troops, who were obliged to fire killing seventeen, including a number of the ringleaders, and wounding a number of others. The public are warned to be in their houses by eigth o'clock in the evening.

"Five British soldiers, including two unarmed Indians, were murdered on Wednesday. The troops were greatly affected but showed admirable patience. On Wednesday night the Kasr-El-Ain Hospital (Cairo) reported receiving 22 killed and 47 wounded civilians. A large proportion of these casualties was due to mob outrages.

Nearly Two Million Pounds Of Butter In Cold Storage

YET GOVERNMENT LABOR DEPARTMENT REPORT SAYS "REDUCED STOCKS OF BUTTER IN STORAGE" RESPONSIBLE FOR INCREASED PRICES, "PARTIALLY DUE TO AN INCREASED INTERNATIONAL PRICE."

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

OTTAWA, April 15.—Reduced stocks of butter in storage April 1 are shown in the report of the Cost of Living Branch of the Department of Labor.

The total amount of creamery butter in storage was 1,773,290 pounds, 69 per cent. less than last month and 17½ per cent. less than last year. Dairy butter also shows a shortage of approximately 75 per cent.

Increase in prices are partially due to an increased international price rising to higher levels than the present Canadian price and to shortage of supply in Canada.

Still Waiting For Better Weather

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

IT HAPPENED IN BELLEVILLE

SAD SUNDAYS AND BILL.

My friend Bill is rather plain-spoken—well, RATHER!

Sometimes Bill speaks so plain that he actually shocks me, although I must confess that there is a good deal of horse-sense about what Bill usually says, if he just wouldn't say it so baldly.

However, Bill is a good sort, if he is explosive. He was reading a Toronto paper last night when suddenly his eyes rested on something which caused his indignation to boil over and he turned to me with—

"Well, whatjaknow about that—here these sad Sunday spellbinders have come to life again with A REGRET TO REPORT that the war busted some of the Sunday laws wide open; why they actually viewed with sorrow the making of munitions on Sunday, also recruiting meetings with moving pictures,, newspaper war specials and other things of a similar nature as camouflaging "ulterior purposes.". It is just such extreme holier-than-thou fog pushing which disgusts normal people with the Pecksniffian public attitude of a few pickled prunes who would mould the world into their own narrowness and make Sunday a day of horror instead of a day of rest and recreation and real worship," said Bill all in one breath, but you know what Bill is, so don't mind.

"If the sad Sunday simps ever get wise to the fact that most of the war was fought on Sunday they will enter a protest and ask to have the game played over again with an eight-hour day, half day off Saturday and all day Sunday at church—with Foch ruled off for the match and Hindenburg given a free kick, while Kaiser Bill is allowed ten points and a place kick on goal for his Dutch touchdown—no pushing, mind ye, and please, don't get rough with Heinie. Ja-got-me!" said Bill.

We got him, all right. Do you know, sometimes I think Bill is real horrid but he is such a cheerful creature that it is impossible to get real angry with him.

If Germany Refuses to Sign

Washington Star.

A London newspaper states that it is reliably informed that in case the German delegates refuse to sign the peace treaty Marshal Foch has authority to order a general advance of the Allied armies along the Rhine. This is entirely credible. It is the logical development. If Germany refuses to sign the peace terms the war is automatically renewed. The armistice is ended. Not only will there be a general advance of the armies along the Rhine but an attack upon Germany from the sea. The approaches are cleared of mines and a naval attack could not be resisted. It would be possible in such a case to land a large force of troops on the northern coast of Germany, and to envelop the country with an attack on two fronts, the northern and the western. In such circumstances Germany could not resist for the six weeks which the high command at Berlin granted for the conquest of France in 1914.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Beauty Notes)

Merely applying an inexpensive paste to a hairy surface, say beauty specialists, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered delatone; after about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment be careful to get real delatone.

MRS. BROWN TRIES IT

We were talking about the War Savings and Thrift Stamps, and Mrs. Brown said she had noticed the posters in the stores, post offices, and banks, and that in one store she had visited recently she had seen the card reading: "Will you take your change in Thrift Stamps?" But she said she hadn't done so, being under the impression that they were more especially for children.

I ventured to enquire if she had a preference for any particular store. "Oh, ye," she replied, "I always go to ——'s Why?" I asked. "I think I get better prices there and good value."

"Do you know how much you save by your careful buying in that manner?" I enquired. "No," she answered, "but I feel sure I do save something, otherwise I'd not take the trouble to compare prices in making out my shopping list."

"Well," I said, "Mrs. Brown let me suggest an easy plan so that you may know how much you save. Every time you effect a saving by your careful shopping buy Thrift Stamps with the amount so saved. Or if the saving is large enough, buy a War Savings Stamp. You won't miss the money, and, in a short time, you will accumulate quite a number of these Stamps. You will find it very interesting. And it will give you the satisfaction of knowing what your saving really is."

"I'll do it," she eagerly exclaimed. "I'd never thought of it in that way before."

Have you? Follow Mrs. Brown's example and you will find it worth while.

OPOSE "BRANDING" BILL

The bill submitted in the House by Hon George S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture, providing for the branding of cattle in the method used in the West, is opposed by the Toronto Humane Society as being an unnecessary infliction of pain on dumb animals.

"While branding only submits the animals to a temporary burn, we will oppose it unless it is shown to be necessary," declared Manager C. M. Baldwin, of the Humane Society. "I don't see any necessity for subjecting animals to such suffering under present conditions. In the olden days the cattle used to get mixed up in the great open prairies, and they used to brand them for the purpose of identification, but with the modern way of handling animals, and the limited amount of open prairie, I don't see any necessity for the practice. Until some good reason for the bill is shown us we will oppose it; we will do our best to have the bill thrown out."

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable—never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

Brantford Asphalt Slates make an artistic, durable and economical roof. Booklet describing them mailed on request.

New Arrivals At Children's Shelter

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society of the City of Belleville and County of Hastings, was held in the Y.M.C.A. Lecture Hall yesterday afternoon when a splendid atendance of the members of the Society and Board was present which showed the great interest which is being taken in the welfare of the children who need care and protection.

Inspector Ruston presented the report of the Monthly Finance and Audit Committee they having previous to the Board met and audited and passed the accounts for the month. A total expenditure of $780.50 and in the absence of the Treasurer, Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, who was out of the city, he heard the treasurer's report which was very favorable. Inspector Ruston gave his report in regard to his work showing that six children had been made wards of the Shelter during the month, one had been lost through death, one had been removed to the Victoria Industrial School, one removed to Orillia Hospital for Feeble Minded and that he had placed six wards out during the month and also he satisfactorily explained fully the case of one family which had caused some little comment.

Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Holmes presented their reports respectfully for the clothing and maintenance which showed a great deal of labor and thought which had been spent cheerfully by them to help on the work of the Shelter.

Mrs. Gribble, Convenor of the Sewing Committee, presented her report. The Sewing Committee under her splendid direction had made 13 pinafores, 1 gowns, 3 boys shirts, 4 pairs of pants, 8 under garments, feed9—of pants, 8 under garments, 9 feeders and 8 sheets. There was 30 garments out that were not finished and there was also out ready for making 8 pairs of pants, 8 boys shirts, and 22 gowns. This Committee meets every Thursday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Hall and they are doing a grand work. The Sewing Committee has never, for some considerable time, been so well attended and interest manifested in this particular branch of the work of the Shelter. Mrs. Gribble gave a hearty invitation on behalf of the Children's Shelter to any lady, who can possibly arrange to meet at the Y.M.C.A. this Thursday 2.30 to 5 or any otehr Thursday afternoon when convenient and if unable to stay and sew she would be delighted to give them goods to take home and make up for the little ones.

Mr. Nugent presented the report of the Executive Committee which had met twice during the month and had transacted a great deal of business, carrying out changes which was found necessary for the well being of the work of the Society in the recommendation of the Provincial Inspector's Report. Seeing that the Matron, Mrs. Cattell, was leaving at the end of the present month they had decided to engage Mrs. Price, a graduate nurse of St. Lawrence Hospital and also a post graduate in Obstotries and Pediatries of the Hospital of the Good Shepherd and who was coming to the services of the Board very highly recommended and that they felt they were obtaining a thorough, practical and efficient Matron, and that the children of the society would be greatly benefitted thereby and they also engaged a married couple to take on the work of Janitor, Cook and Laundress. The several reports were received and adopted unanimously.

It was also desired to be known that the offices of the Children Aid Society was at 232 Church Street, and that anl inquiries in regard to children in the Shelter or any complaints in regard to treatment or neglect of children by parents or guardians be made to Inspector, Mr. Ruston, at the Society's Office or phone 514.

Arrange To Sell Big Beef Stock

OTTAWA, April 15.—H. B. Thomson, former chairman of the Canada Food Board and now a member of the Canadian Trade Commission, has left for Europe to co-operate with Lloyd Harris in arrangements for the sale of Canadian food products abroad.

The two most pressing questions are the disposal of some forty million pounds of frozen beef, which is in cold storage in Canada, and the sale of this year's wheat crop at a high figure as possible.

The beef was contracted for before the close of the war. When the armistice was signed Great Britain found herself with large accumulation on hand, and had no market for it, particularly as much of it was of an inferior type. Arrangements are being made for the sale of this surplus in Italy and Greece.

The wheat situation is serious and a difficult one and has been complicated by the fact that the United States has guaranteed the price of $2.26 a bushel. The loss to the American treasury may run to a billion dollars. Naturally Canadian farmers want the same price as the United States and yet the Cabinet feel that it would be impossible to fix a price in Canada and run the risk of a loss of hundreds of millions.

The Government has been endeavoring to arrange for the sale of the crop at a guaranteed price, and Sir Robert Borden has been taking a personal interest in the matter.

War Savings Stamps pay well.

MANY PEOPLE SLAIN IN BERLIN

Berlin, April 15.—Many persons were killed or wounded in the centre of Berlin at noon yesterday during a collision between troops and street vendors. The troops fired a fusilade against the vendors.

This district was strongly cordoned by the Alexander Regiment with a view to suppressing traffic in stolen goods, and the vendors forcibly opposed their removal. The district is still strictly cordoned and tram cars are deflected from it.

ZAM-BUK

This illustrates but one of the many uses to which Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, is daily put. Accidents will happen, especially where there are children. Mothers should never be without Zam-Buk. [illegible] is the best "First Aid." Its strong antiseptic properties kill all germs, preventing blood-poisoning and inflammation. [illegible] herbal essences quickly ease pain and build up new, healthy tissue. Zam-Buk is entirely different from all other [illegible]. It is purely herbal and contains no poisonous coloring [illegible]. Take no substitute. See the name on every box before [illegible].

ZAM-BUK HEALED SEVERE CUT

Mrs. J. E. Bierwirth of Carnduff, Sask., writes: "My little [illegible] cut the end off his finger. As it was such a severe cut, I was going to take him to a doctor, but in the meantime to ease the pain, I applied some Zam-Buk. This stopped the bleeding and gave him such relief that he ceased crying and seemed quite at ease. I therefore decided to see if Zam-Buk would heal the wound. Next day I replaced the dressing, and continued to do so each day, using nothing but Zam-Buk. Complete cure resulted."

Zam-Buk sold by all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c box.

"I Shall Have to Quit, Principal, I Cannot Manage This Class"

"HOW is that?"

"Well, I have tried hard enough, but the worry is too much for me and has got on my nerves."

"You should not worry!"

"That is just what everybody tells me, but I cannot sleep nights, and can only think of the troubles I will have with the class next day. I have stood it as long as ever I can. The doctor says I must quit before it is too late."

"Did you ever try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"No, I never have."

"I have never used it myself, but I have heard so many of the teachers telling about how it helped them when they were on the verge of a nervous breakdown that I have come to think there must be something in it."

"Yes, I have often heard about it, too, but did not just think that it would help me. Perhaps I had better try it."

"I would if I were you. We do not want to lose you, for you are just getting this class into good shape. Three teachers failed in this room, and the boys got rather unruly. That is why it has been so difficult for you, but if you can get your nerves built up you will get along all right."

"Well, I will make another try, and in the meantime I shall begin using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

In your nerves lie your greatest strength and greatest weakness. When the nerves are weakened and exhausted by worry, disease or overwork every muscle loses its strength and endurance. Every organ is partially paralyzed and the mind befogged.

By strengthening and building up the nervous system Dr. Chase's Nerve Food brings new energy and strength to mind and body. With new nerve force comes the power to achieve and the joy of health and vigor. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

TIRESOME TALK-FESTS.

Members of Parliament seem to think that their whole mission in life from a public standpoint is to talk standing up, and the science of Government has apparently degenerated into an endless series of words which begin nowhere and end most anywhere but avoid the more perplexing questions of the day in favor of the complex possibilities of tomorrow. This amazing lunacy of endless speech-making is a costly extravagance which hinders rather than helps good government, for while the talk-fest continues effective work is practically at a standstill. Much has been said in favor of shorter sermons, but much more might be said in favor of shorter speeches in the Parliament, and fewer of them.

MACKENZIE KING, LEADER?

Mackenzie King, who is being boomed in some quarters as the successor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as Liberal leader, has made his boom bow in Quebec. Some people seem to think he was trying to bow-wow his way into the good graces of the "solid Quebec." Strange that all the prospective Liberal leaders should feel obliged to make their first one-night stand in Quebec. However, Mackenzie King told the Quebeckers that he firmly believed that the French language should be taught in all the schools of Canada on a parity with English. (Loud applause and encore). He was also against constription. (More applause).

No doubt the Germans would have been glad to cease hostilities while a vote was being taken in Canada to ascertain whether Quebec was willing to win the war by conscription.

In any event Mackenzie King was careful not to strike a single jarring note and his tune pleased the Quebec people immensely.

It is an old political game to sing one song in Quebec and another one in Ontario and the rest of Canada, but the people demand something better than opportunism in its leaders nowadays, and Mackenzie King's curtain-raiser in Quebec will not recommend him as a national leader worthy of confidence.

Canadian boys were dying for the freedom of Canada and the world and their call for reinforcements was answered promptly by the Government of Canada with a conscription law despite the protests of Quebec. The voice of the people was heard at the election which followed and with the exception of Quebec all Canada heartily endorsed the action of the Government in placing patriotism before politics.

Just what Mackenzie King did to help win the war we do not know, but we are convinced that his pronouncement in Quebec will not win him any admirers outside of that province and it will take more than a "solid Quebec" to make him Premier of Canada.

MORMON MISSIONARY EFFORTS.

Utah is not the exclusive home of Mormonism. The Congregationalist (Boston) estimates that there are three hundred and thirty-five preaching-places of the Latter-day Saints scattered all over the country, each of which, this paper declares, is "intended to be a centre of propaganda." Thus:

> The Mormons are gaining headway in many sections through their quiet, penetrative, house-to-house work. Their activity makes it all the more important that counteracting forces should be at work to neutralize their teachings. On of the agencies which has had this purpose in view is the Utah Gospel Mission, carried on by Rev. J. D. Nutting, who emulates the Mormon elders in that he receives no stated salary and is deeply devoted to his itinerant work. Mr. Nutting proceeds on the theory that only a travelling mission can reach the people of the outlying districts and the work is therefore carried on by field missionaries, who cover the country in wagons not unlike the old-time "prairie-schooners." Evangelistic meetings are held in every settlement, which are supplemented by personal visits to each home, where the aim is to stimulate the daily use of the Bible, a copy of which is supplied by the missionary. Through personal interviews of this sort and by means of the dissemination of anti-Mormon literature, the mission combats the Mormon propaganda in its own territory. In a single recent year no fewer than 14,000 calls were made in 157 settlements, 194 meetings held, and 4,000 Bibles distributed.

Canada is a favorite recruitng ground for the Mormons and Toronto has many congregations of Latter Day Saints with a sermon from a Mormon Bishop every Sunday in one of the largest theatres in the city.

Everybody who had anything to do with the war can now get a hearing of their views as to how the war should have been conducted. They were wise to wait until the close of hostilities, for sometimes hindsight is clearer than foresight. In any event they will have an advantage over some of the arm-chair critics whose cocksureness went off so often at half-cock while the war was in progress, especially those who mapped out in such vivid detail the correct procedure of the 1919 campaign.

BRITAIN SAID TO BE DEALING WITH THE SINN FEINERS

LONDON, April 15—"It is reported," says the Morning Post, "that negotiations have taken place, or are in progress, between the Ministers and Sinn Feiners in reference to the Government of Ireland. The statement is that a deputation came from Paris to De Valera. One version has it that the Sinn Fein leader was asked what he wanted. Another is that De Valera was promised dominion Home Rule on condition of his promising to abandon the present Sinn Fein republican policy."

What an Easter this will be!

PEACE!—Joyous homecoming and reunion—Spring in the air—and renewed evidence of prosperity and plenty about us—

Happy parents—healthy children—freed from the worry of the years of conflict and the restrictions that have helped to attain the victory that is now ours—

Little wonder that the aim in thousands of Canadian homes will be to celebrate this joyous occasion by a return to old-time festivity. Let your home be one! Let your household, this Easter of 1919, once again freely enjoy its old-time Easter Breakfast—

Swift's Premium Ham

Gone are the reasons that for four long years have restricted the enjoyment of this delicately-tender, sweetly-flavored, amply-satisfying food product. Once more you need only 'phone your grocer or butcher in order to be promptly supplied. When you buy, make sure you see the Swift's Premium wrapper and brand. You can seek no better Easter breakfast dish than ham—you can find no better ham than Swift's Premium!

This Maxwell Truck has 25,000,000 miles behind it

ONE thousand times around the equator is about the mileage of all Maxwell trucks now in use.

What this tremendous mileage has taught may be found in the Maxwell truck you buy today.

For the keen engineering done in this remarkable carrier of freight has not been laboratory engineering but road engineering.

That is why the Maxwell is so practical, why it is so hardy, why it seldom needs mechanical attention, why it is always a delight for engineers to look over.

It is every man's truck. It is not a road rolling monster. Neither is it light and flimsy. It will carry 80% of the different kinds of loads conveyed by horse or motor.

Surprising, of course, is the chassis price—$1550 f.o.b. Windsor; several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity. Quantity production is the reason for this.

Pays for itself as it runs. See it and save.

BERLIN HOUSEWIVES GET AMERICAN FLOUR

BERLIN, April 15.—The Housewives of Berlin have been supplied with the first instalments of American flour which recently arrived, the allotment being at the rate of one-half pound per person. The price fixed by the authorities is two marks, twenty pfennings the pound, which is seven times the amount that was paid in peace times.

The food commissioner declares the high price set is necessary, as the native supplies are rapidly diminishing and conservation of the imported flour is sought to prevent a later rise in the price of bread, for the production of which the new supplies will be needed.

RESOLUTION IS FILED AGAINST PROFITEERING

Lieut-Col W H Price, Conservative member of the Legislature for Parkdale, has filed his resolution against profiteering, which reads as follows:

"That this House memoralize the Government af Canada to institute and have tabulated the profits made during the war by all public contractors on munitions and war supplies, with a view to having paid into the Treasury of the Dominion of Canada, all profits in excess of a fair percentage on invested capital."

First Nights At The Movies

GOOD PROGRAMS AT GRIFFIN'S AND THE PALACE

"A Romance of Happy Valley" charming Story of Real Folks and Country Life, Toll Gates, Cornfields And Wayside Inns

Ever hear of Happy Valley? A quiet place, a cradle in the hills down along the Ohio River, where the Logan's ran the boarding house, and the Timberlakes lived down the road a bit. Quite a romance happened there, and it was dramatic too. Nothing much was said about it in the papers, and the whole story never was told until now. It's about the Timberlakes and Old Auntie Smiles and some others. D. W. Griffith found out all about it and he called it "A Romance of Happy Valley." It was told at Griffin's last night with charming effect. Sounds like a sort of a matter-of-fact story to start off with, but it isn't. Just one thing after another seemed to happen from that time on. The Logans and the Timbelakes are just plain people anyway, a little slow, and they go on getting into one trouble after another. Sometimes one has to laugh at them, and then it makes the throat get tight to see how they take things and what they do and again it gets so exciting it makes one want to interrupt and shout: "Here, how are you people going to get out of this anyway?" But when the end does come, it's the last thing one would ever expect. A person wouldn't thing old John Logan had it in him. It bears out that old saying about people never knowing their neighbors. It makes one gasp in all so startling and surprising. David Wark Griffith was the only one who knew the story, and he has told it in a way that makes it the classic of plain humanity, a vivid, dramatic bubbling story, with a master's charm and a wizard's insight. Lillian Gish proved delightful as Jennie Timberlake while Robert Harron was artistic as John Logan, Jr. George Fawcett, as the boarding house keeper, presented a splendid portrayal.

A new and amusing Mack Sennett comedy entitled, "The Summer Girls" a Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy and a beautiful hand colored Travelogue complete a splendid program all of which will be shown again for the last time tomorrow night.

SMALLEST STARS SCORE THEIR BIGGEST SUCCESS

Those popular little queens of mirth, Jane and Katherine Lee, were shown in their latest picture, "Swat the Spy" at the Palace yesterday. In their new creation, the 'Baby Grands' have eclipsed all their previous successes, and have set a new high mark for clean and clever comedy upon the screen. Through five big reels of fun and mischief they kept their audience in continual state of screams and of laughter. Among the victims of their numerous pranks are a couple of cross old tyrannical servants, a group of pro-German fanatics, and a pair of bashful lovers. To the last named they prove a veritable blessing in disguise, and literally push them into each others arms.

The British News and Harry Meyers and Rosemary Theby in a new comedy entitled "Jumping Jealousy" were well received. The entire programme is being repeated tonight, and Wednesday matinee and night.

EGYPT THREATENED WITH A HOLY WAR

LONDON, April 15—Reuter's learns that some apprehension is felt that the trouble in Egypt, which was fomented at the beginning entirely by Nationalist sentiment, may take a religious turn, and that the native tribes may declare a holy war against the British Empire.

There is reason to believe that the natives may have been affected by Turkish propagandists, who are in no way friendly toward Britain.

Steps are being taken to deal with this possibility.

SOLDIER VOTE ON TRANSPORT ALLEGED ALMOST WET

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 15.—Before sailing for Auckland, N.Z., the 1,366 New Zealand soldiers who arrived here from England on the transport Northumberland for coal, participated in the Homelands prohibition election, by casting their votes aboard the ship. Consensus of opinion among those who came ashore was that the soldier vote was overwhelmingly "wet." The ballot boxes were sealed after the voting. They will be opened the day the Northumberland arrives in Auckland one month hence.

FUR SALES AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 15—Approximately 114,000 pounds of rabbit pelts from the Antipodes brought good prices at the fur auction here, prices ranging from 20 cents to $1.66 a pound. Mink and oppossum were also in demand at prices ranging from $3.60 to $13.20 each for the former, the latter going at 60c. to $2.30. Total sales amounted to $750,000, bringing the grand total to date to $3,250,000.

BERZAC'S INDOOR CIRCUS

Critics everywhere have proclaimed Berzac's European Indoor Circus to be the fastest and funniest production they have ever witnessed. Speed is the predominating feature. There is positively not a dull moment in the entire show and one leaves the theatre feeling that they have seen as much on the stage as is usual with the 3-ring circus under canvas. Berzac's mammoth indoor circus with his prize stallions, monkeys, dogs, ponies, goats, acrobats and daring aerlists, and the Boston Ladies Concert Band will be seen at Griffin's tonight, a special band concert will be given in front of Griffin's tonight at 7 p.m.

Pleasure Sunday A Public Menace

TORONTO, April 14—That the pleasure Sunday is the greatest menace to the life of the individual, both from the standpoint of individual pursuit and the intrusion of business, is contained in the annual report of the Lord's Day Alliance just issued. The report reviews the problems confronting the alliance with respect to the preservation of the Lord's Day during the last four years and states that the ink upon the proclamation of war had scarcely been dry when the Sunday newspaper thrust itself upon our Sunday life. This was followed by the opening of the moving picture shows on Sunday for recruiting purposes under government direction. Of this, opening of the theatres, all classes were not slow to take advantage," the report continues, "and it was not a case merely of patriotic and benevolent associations making use of the theatres employing these benevolent agencies to accomplish their ulterior designs.

"Next came the formal appeal of the Manufacturers' Association to the government at Ottawa for the suspension of the Lord's Day Act in the interest of the manufacture of munitions, the suggested by the pulp and paper men of a like governmental action in their interests and the propaganda inaugurated by an official of the Federal Government for suspension of the Lord's Day Act in the interest of greater production. In short, the most serious menace to the act in war times arises from the covetous regard for the Sabbath of those, who, to accomplish their selfish aims, plead every circumstance of necessity and ply every philantrophic and patriotic appeal that the times lay to their hands."

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

"You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

BANKER GUILTY OF THEFT

MONTREAL, April 15.—J. A. Guilmette, president of the J. A. Guilmette Company, Limited, bankers and financiers, was found guilty by Judge Bazin in the Court of Special Sessions, of the theft of $47,000, being money and securities of the company.

Guilmette was given the money to invest. He swore in evidence that he lost the money while on a train journey in Florida. The defence claimed Guilmette had squandered the money in pleasure, and a rogatory commission was appointed which investigated his movements in the Southern States. The court accepted the commission's finding that Guilmette had not been robbed of the money.

Guilmette, who is out on bail, was not present in court when found guilty. His lawyer announced that he had been unavoidably detained at St. Scholastique.

HEREAFTER Ford One-Ton Trucks may be bought complete with bodies and cabs, ready for the road.

The chassis may still be purchased separately.

But, in most cases, the Ford Truck will be sold as a complete Ford job. The body as well as the chassis will be planned to give Ford service.

This radical step in the production of Trucks is being taken to insure the utmost efficiency from the Ford Truck; to give the purchaser Ford value in every part of his truck; to produce better bodies at lower prices.

Two Standard Bodies

The two types of Truck bodies most widely used are the Stake and the Express.

These types will be kept in stock, set up, painted (or in the lead) and ready for prompt delivery.

They have oak floors, sills of seasoned hickory and specially designed forgings and castings.

The construction at every point provides for rough usage such as every truck is bound to get.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

At the fifth line of Sidney on Tuesday April 8th, about forty friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. S. A. Badgley to spend one more evening 'ere they took their departure for their new home in Frankford.

After a pleasant time spent in conversation, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley were called forward and Mrs. Jas. Beatty read the following address and Mr. G. Frost and Mr. J. Beatty presented them with two beautiful chairs, one a moris chair and the other a beautiful rocker upholstered in leather.

A very pleasant time was spent in addresses by a number present, after which the ladies served lunch.

To Mr. and Mrs. Badgley,

We have met as friends and neighbors partly to renew old associations, but chiefly out of honor and respect for you who have spent your lives among us, but who now find it necessary because of circumstances over which we have no control, to take your departure from our midst.

You have been honorable neighbors and true friends, and always willing to give a helping hand whenever needed and also liberal givers to the support of the church and every good cause. Though the time has come when we can no longer mingle in old time associations, we trust that though you may be absent from us your sympathy and your interest may occasionally revert to the old home and community and you may rest assured that the warmest sympathy and kindly feelings of your long associated acquaintances will go with you to your new home.

It is with deepest regret that the hour has nearly come when you remove from our midst, but we are living in a day of separation, which means even greater sacrifice.

Our loss will be but another's gain and your future home is not so remote but our personal associations may remain unbroken.

As a token of our deepest regard in which you are held among all those who know you best, we ask you to accept these chairs as a slight remembrance of the friendly feelings which have existed and we trust ever will exist between you and us.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends.

Geo. Frost,

EMINENT COIFFURE SPECIALIST COMING

DORENWEND'S OF TORONTO, the eminent hair-Specialists will be at The Hotel Quinte on Thursday, April 17 with a grand display of the latest creations in hair-goods including ladies' transformations, switches, pompadours, waves, etc., and toupees and wigs for men who are bald. All those afflicted with loss of hair are invited to this display when a free demonstration will be given.

Burn Shack Over Murderer's Head

He Took Refuge in a Tunnel Under it and was Suffocated.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 15—It is believed that a murder resembling in somer respects the Steep Creek tragedies of last autumn has been perpetrated near Bagley, as mall village north of Melfort. John Custafson is dead and the assumption is that he was shot by Otto Olsen Friday morning. The provincial police who went to Olsen's shack, found it barricaded. They tried to get in but, failing set the place on fire. There is a cellar under the shack and a tunnel leading from this. Olsen's body was found in the tunnel. He had been suffocated.

ILLICIT STILL IS FOUND IN TOWNSHIP OF RALEIGH

CHATHAM, April 15—Following a complaint made to the county police to the effect that moonshine whisky was being made in Raleigh township, Louis Wilson, a Belgian, residing in that township, was arrested and faced charges of illegally manufacturing and keeping for sale intoxicating liquor. The defendant pleaded not guilty to both charges, stating to the court that the equipment had been installed by the owner of the property, who was, he alleges, responsible for the illicit traffic. The police visited the premises and found damaging evidence in the form of a huge kettle which, it is alleged was used in making the mash, and the worm and condenser. Sample of the liquor in various stages of manufacture were taken by the police.

NURSE WHO CARED FOR THE KING

PORTLOND, Me., April 15—Among those on board the hospital ship Essequibo, which arrived late Thursday from Liverpool with the Canadian wounded soldiers, wast Matron Tremaine of Quebec, who was in charge of the nursing staff of the ship. She is a member of the Victorian Order as well as having the 1915 Star, the Mons medal awarded to Canadians in service in France that year. Matron Tremaine was decorated with the Victorian Order, given only to those who serve the Royal Family, for nursing King George when he fell from his horse in France.

EXPLORERS IN PLANES ARE OFF FOR UNGAVA

The main expedition of the Ungava Produces Company, has left Quebec City with aeroplanes and aviators on S.S. Amherst bound for Clarke City, the explorers will proceed into the interior via the Moisie River, to Lake Ashuanipi, where they will establish their first main base.

The exploring party which plans to penetrate this summer into the unknown regions of New Quebec entirely by aeroplane, is commanded by W. T. Kissick, of Orilla, Ont.

HIRAM'S EXPERIENCES

"Hiram," in Bruce Herald

For some time I have been trying an experiment. Every strange place I go I sally out in the evening, lean against a building and wait and see what will happen.

In Montreal my pocket was picked.

In Toronto a girl stopped and spoke to me.

In Stratford my hat blew off.

In Eden Grove I fell asleep and couldn't find my way home in the dark.

BELLEVILLE NAPANEE, SMITH'S FALLS.

It is an old and true saying that you never can depend on the ladies. Three out of every five women in Chicago voted against prohibition. As the Hamilton Spectator remarks: It merely exemplifies the delightful uncertainty attached to the sex.—Kingston Whig.

CITY AND COUNTRY

BELLEVILLE-BROCKVILLE LOCAL

The Board of Railway Commissioners will hear the Brockville, Kingston, Gananoque and Belleville request that the G.T.R. local trains be re-established between Belleville and Brockville, at a sitting in Ottawa to-day.

BACK DOOR UNFASTENED

During their rounds of inspection last night the police found the back door of a business place on Front street unfastened. A search of the premises was made but it was evident that no person had entered the place.

CALL FOR POLICE

Last evening the police answered a call to a residence in West Belleville where it was alleged trouble was ensuing between members of the family. Peace was restored when the officer arrived upon the scene.

EARLY SOWING OF WHEAT

Mr. W. L. Macklin, Hamilton township, is the first to get in spring wheat. Mr. Macklin sowed a field of wheat on Monday, April 7th, which is the earliest record that he has ever sowed this crop. The field was last year's planting ground, which he harrowed and put into wheat.

RELIGIOUS CENSUS

Last evening at the Y.M.C.A. a joint meeting of the Sunday School and Ministerial Associations was held. The object of the meeting was to form plans for the taking of a religious census of the city. A committee of seven was appointed to formulate plans and to place the matter before the different religious societies of the city for consideration.

CHURCH AND SOLDIER

Lieut. A. G. SANFORD, who was twice overseas and was several times wounded, spoke in Chalmers Church in Kingston, at the fifth of a series of special services. He took as his subject, "The Church and the Returned Soldier," and in a frank way told where the church had fallen down and where it had helped the soldier during the war. Lieut. Sandford first explained the work of the chaplains with overseas units and the fact that they were the only representatives of the church who were constantly in touch with the soldier on active service. Their work was most difficult as it required great tact and understanding of the human nature. It was necessary that the chaplain overlook many faults and mistakes of the soldiers so that they might become popular and be in a position to do good. He criticized the work of the church and explained how in his opinion it was not filling the place that it should. From the standpoint of returned soldiers its work was not practical enough to meet present needs.

NEW SUNDAY TRAINS

It is understood that when the summer time bill of the Grand Trunk Railway goes into effect within next few weeks the changes which will be made will include the establishment of a new Sunday train to provide accommodation for points between Brockville and Montreal which are not served by the present Sunday trains, No. 1 (The International Limited) and No. 14 express. According to the information now available it appears likely that the train will leave Montreal on the time of No. 7, which runs daily except Sunday, and will leave Brockville on its return to Montreal at about 4.20 o'clock. This will provide a suitable Sunday service between Brockville and Montreal for residents of intervening points which they do not now secure because of the fact that No. 1 and No. 14 trains stop only at the larger centres. A similar service, it is understood, will be instituted between Tornto and Belleville where conditions prevail. Between Brockville and Belleville it is claimed that the traffic is not sufficiently heavy to warrant any change. Other changes are said to be contemplated by the railway.

BROCKVILLE LOCAL

Effective May 4 the Belleville-Brockville local on the G. T. R. will resume, leaving Belleville at 7 a.m., returning leave Brockville at 6 p.m.

CANADIAN EXPRESS STRIKE

Mr Elroy Robson, National Organizer of the Brotherhood of Railroad Employees with which organization the striking expressmen are affiliated, was in the city today in connection with the strike. Mr. Robson claims that the business of the company is at a standstill from coast to coast and no effort is being made to handle business which is going to the other companies. He claims that practically the only question at issue is that of an eight-hour-day.

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED

The following building permits have recently been taken out at the city engineer's office:

Miss M. Herbert, one and a half storey brick bungalow, Isabel street. Cost $2,500.

Lester Little, one storey frame cottage, Canifton Road. Cost $400.

D. J. Diamond, two storey brick veneer house, on Commercial street. Cost $4,000.

W. H. Luman, two storey brick building, on east side of Foster Ave. Cost $3,000.

W. H. Panter, two storey frame and brick bungalow on West Bridge street. Cost $1,400.

"CURLING" STONES CONTAINED GOOD SCOTCH WHISKEY

KINGSTON, April 15.—Recently some local parties attempted to import liquor in receptacles resembling curling stones but their ingenuous scheme came to naught for a few curious passers by got the precious liquor. Lifting the stone with the intention of finding how heavy it was, one of them was surprised to have the handle come out. Making an investigation he was surprised to find that the "stone" was filled with good Scotch whiskey. He filled his dinner pail and several other workmen did the same as there were eight stones in all.

KIDDIES ENJOYED CIRCUS

Bernae's Indoor Circus arrived here this morning per special car and the Ladies Band gave a concert program at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets during the noon hour. A children's matinee was given this afternoon at Griffin's and the kiddies were greatly pleased with the acrobatic performances and the acting ponies and dogs, while the clowns were a never-failing source of delight. The Belleville engagement closes with tonight's performance. This is not a [illegible] [illegible] ture, but the real flesh and [illegible] ood circus stuff condensed for the stage.

Sectionmen Fought With Shovels

EXCITING BATTLE NEAR GRAND TRUNK STATION—TWO CASUALTIES

The ambulance speeding towards the G.T.R. station between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock this morning caused a flutter of excitement for some minutes, especially when it became rumored that two men had been seriously injured in a free-for-all-fight. It appears that a man named O'Connor and an Italian, who goes by the name of Louis Campbell, engaged on the section gang became involved in an altercation which ended up in shovels being used as instruments to inflict punishment. Before the men were separated O'Connor was wounded on the head and Campbell was cut over the right eye and also on the forehead. Both were taken to the hospital where it was ascertained that O'Connor was the victim of a severe scalp wound inflicted on the back of the head. Campbell's injuries were less serious and after receiving medical aid he was placed under arrest and taken to the police station. Later he was remanded to the County Jail to await developments in the case of the more injured man. Both men had been working together for some time and there was apparently no trouble between them until this morning. Previous to being removed to the hospital both men received first aid at the station. The fracas occurred near the round house just outside the city limits.

THE HOME-COMING.

It is desirable that the return to Belleville and district of all soldiers from overseas be chronicled in the public press so that friends and well-wishers far and near may be apprised of their safe return. As soldiers are returning on the many trains at all hours of the day and night it is impossible to accurately record their arrival and The Intelligencer will be pleased to receive notification from relatives and friends of the return of soldier boys with records of service, as the public is very much interested. Phone, write or call.

Buy Your Home NOW

All You Need to do is
PHONE 869 — DOYLE DOES THE REST.

The rent you pay will buy it. He will show you forty homes he has built in the city and every buyer well pleased. Some of these buyers have been offered from $200 to $500 more than they paid. By buying off Doyle you see the homes he has built. Then choose and your home will be just like the one you pick. You see just what you are buying. As to price, he can give you a better home for less money than you can get anywhere else. For instead of building 2 or 3 houses a year, he makes a business of building from 10 to 15 and by buying his supplies in large quantities, he receives the best grade of goods at the lowest price, and also employs his workmen at building the year round. He will save you ten per cent. on all building which when you figure up amounts to enough to buy your lot. A home is the largest purchase you may ever make, and why take any chances, when you cen see and talk to buyers who have bought their homes from Doyle. By making a small payment down, and then so much a month you will soon own your home. We have the choicest building lots in all parts of the city for your use. Phone 869. We will have a car call, take you about the city and show you these homes and how easy it is to own one, built after your own idea.

Letters to the Editor

BOARD OF TRADE AND G. T. R. TRAIN SERVICE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—It is with great satisfaction that the Board of Trade are enabled to announce that, effective May 4th, the Grand Trunk Railway will restore the Belleville-Brockville local train service with their new timetable connecting ovanj .N Udition s table commencing on that day, leaving Belleville 7 a.m., returning leaving Brockville 6 p.m. This is to be tried as an experiment on the urgent recommendation of the Board, and the G.T.R. are to be congratulated upon doing this voluntarily on request without waiting for any order of the Railway Commission.

Allow me to suggest through your columns that if any citizens intends to build at any time during the coming season, if they will notify the Board of Trade it will all be added to the prestige of Belleville as prosperous, progressive City as we publish all construction work in the Trade Journals and each city should seek to get all the credit to which they are entitled. Hitherto Belleville has largely reported forward building movements after they are half done or wholly completed. The Board of Trade is an organization that can keep our activities in touch with the outside world. These members of the Board who attended the meetings realize the possibilities as well as the extent of this correspondence. The members who do not attend and the citizens who do not belong, perhaps, do not credit us with the amount of work done.

W. N. PONTON,
Secretary.

DROWNED IN OLD CISTERN

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14—A sad accident occurred here on Saturday morning when a little lad about three years of age named Douglas Jarvis, was drowned in an old cistern. The little fellow had dropped a book from an upstairs window and had gone down to get it. eH stepped on some soft ground and was simply swallowed up. Years ago the cistern had been boarded up, but the boards had rotted away, leaving only a few inches of earth. Great sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents, the father being a soldier and expected home shortly.

VOL. 94 BELLEVILLE ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16, 1919. NO. 252

Five Millions Being Spent On Ontario Roads

TORONTO, April 15.—The Legislature spent a very busy day yesterday advancing many Government bills to the final stages, considering others in committee, giving the third reading to some twenty-five or thirty private and public bills, and passing the main estimates totalling over $13,000,0000. Further explanations were made by Ministers of some of the more important Government bills, notably the County Judges Act, the Loan and Trust Corporations' Act and the amendments to the O.T.A. which are contained in a new bill presented by the Provincial Secretary, Hon. W. D. McPherson. On the discussion of a notice of motion under the name of the Minister of Public Works, Hon. Finlay Macdiarmid gave a somewhat detailed statement of the work under contemplation in connection with the construction of the Provincial Highway and its probable route. The motion was for a vote of some $5,000,009 to continue with the work of provincial highways and the improvement of the county roads which have been taken over by the Government as Provincial highways. Estimates of the various kinds of roads to be used were given by the Minister. With regard to the maintenance of county roads, members of the Opposition urged upon Mr. Macdiarmid to increase the percentage paid by the Government to the county for maintenance. Consideration to this suggestion was promised.

Information on Highways

The House went into committee of a Government notice of motion by Hon. Finlay Macdiarmid that the sum of $5,000,000 be set apart to aid in the improvement of public highways and for the payment of grants or expenditures for that purpose. On the request of the members for West Middlesex, Mr. J. C. Elliott, who stated that members of the House wanted to this money was for and where the provincial highway would pass, the Minister of Public Works informed the House of several matters with regard to the provincial highway. He stated that the route west of London to Windsor had not yet been decided upon. What he was asking was that the Legislature set aside $5,000,000 for the provincial highway and for country roads. All counties with the exception of Peterboro, were under the Provincial Highways Act. The total expenditure from 1901 to the present time was $4,032,548 in helping the counties to build up their market and county roads. They had not reached the period when it was desirable to carry on the work on a proper business basis, not to construct the entire highway in one year but to get started on it. It was a hard matter to furnish members with a detailed statement with regard to the cost of the provincial highway in the different sections of the province. The department knew in a general way that a concrete road 18 feet wide would cost about $10,000 per mile. The next mile would cost more because of the longer haulage. Bridges and grading had considerable bearing on the cost. Macadam would cost about $9,000 per mile; and gravel, according to the quality and length of haulage, about $5,000 a mile.

Regarding the route, the Minister of Public Works stated that the fixing of it was not left to himself, but to the Government as a whole. In connection with the provincial highway it was probable that there would be about 200 miles of concrete or road of a permanent construction, 175 miles of macadam and the balance a gravel which, he believerd, would serve the purpose for years to come. The programme of building would probably extend over a period of five years from Windsor to Ottawa. If the Dominion Government made a grant of forty per cent. of the cost, that would materially reduce the amount which would have to be contributed by the individual counties; probably they would not have to pay more than fifteen per cent. of the cost.

So far as the cost of the county roads system was concerned, the Minister said it would average about $100,000 per county, which meant $3,7000,000 for the 37 counties. The proportion to be paid by the Government was fifty per cent. or about $1,800,000

The motion was passed.

Fair Hat Smugglers Given Great Surprise

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., April 16—Feminine flutterings, culminating in consternation, swept the plumage-bedecked Pullman and passenger coaches of trains crossing the International bridge at Bridgeburg. A bright, busy and vivacious little lady stepped aboard. She was Mrs. White of the Customs Department, and she manifested keen interest in the many alluring milinery novelties on display.

Mrs. White, however, had a mercenary way of appraising these picturesque "creations." The lady passengers, resplendent in new Easter hats, were called upon to pay duty on them—or forfeit them. But the worst was still to come. The unabashed feminine official required the women to stand while she daintly lifted their skirts and inspected their feet to see that no new footwear walked in without being declared. Seventeen of the giddiest pairs of number threes, or fours, or fives, or even sixes, are reported to have been taxed.

Mrs. White was cordially voted to be a "horrid thing."

HOMER LIQUOR HAD NO CONNECTION WITH ELECTION

TORONTO, April 16.—Commissioner Sir William Meredith warned Patrick Cronin, a "World" reporter, when his examination before the Royal Commission of Inquiry was concluded to-day, that any future attempts to show political relationship between a shipment of liquor into Homer and the coincident bye-election, would be severely dealt with.

The commissioner declared, after reviewing the efforts made to convince Cronin that his suspicions were unfounded, that he hoped the province possessed few journalists such as the "World man." The witness, ven at the conclusion of the testimony, insisted that the evidence had not convinced him of his error.
